Church Notes

MASONS AT ST. ANDREW'S

Faithful Brethren Lodge, A. F. & A. M., attended divine service at St. Andrew's church on Sunday morning in a body, and the members presented quite an imposing appearance, as upward of a hundred of them marched with stately step to the place of worship.

Rev. James Wallace occupied the pulpit and after welcoming the Order to the church on behalf of the managers and congregation, took his text from the third chapter of Corinthians, the tenth and eleventh verses. "But let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon, For other foundation can no man lay, than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ."

Paul said, referring to strife, there is no war that has such evil effects as civil war, and warned the Corinthians against striving and fighting against each other. There is too great a work to be done. The great problem of building up the christian church had to be accomplished, and Paul warned the people to husband their strength and energy, if they expected to succeed. To build this church, a good sound foundation was required. If the foundation was not planted deeply in the soil, the church would fall. The rock of this church is Jesus, who is the corner stone. Paul was thinking of the principles on which Christ took his stand, and it is for us to appropriate these principles. They are eternal. God has taught us that we must be just and of a strict moral character, if we wish to accomplish anything. The foundation is insecure if Christ is not the corner stone. But we must have more than foundation. The superstructure must likewise be solid, to withstand the wind and storm. Life has many opportunities and the man who can look out into the future will succeed. It is not necessary to have a lot of tools to be a good workman, but if we use what tools we have to good advantage, we shall reap a good reward.

The building of life must have pillars of wisdom, and strength and knowledge, if the building is to last forever. The temple is not to be closed, but is to be left open, and each man has his contribution to give, no matter how small. Our purpose is to aid others onward and upward each day. Time is fleeting, and soon that dust shall come, and every person shall be driven into those narrow passages of life, and there they shall be judged. After the judgment comes the reward, and those who have not repented will be stained by vice and tainted with sin.

In the evening Rev. Mr. Galbraith, a representative of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance, occupied the pulpit, delivering a strong appeal for financial aid for the work of the Alliance.

ST. MARY'S

At both masses in St. Mary's church on Sunday Ven. Archdeacon Casey, who was present at the remarkable three days' ceremony in Quebec commemorative of the establishment of the diocese of Quebec and more particularly with the life and labors of that distinguished son of the church—Bishop Laval, gave a decidedly interesting account of the ceremonies in connection with the great event.

Bishop Laval was born in France in 1623, belonging to one of the proudest houses in France, that of Montmorency. He relinquished all things to give his splendid services to the infant church and to be the model of a bishop in his absolute detachment, his boundless charity, his learning, his statesmanlike power of governing in those difficult times. No more impressive figure appears upon the romantic and chivalrous canvas of Early Canada than the first bishop of Quebec. Previous to being first bishop of the ancient capital, he acted in the capacity of vicar apostolic. He was a man of exemplary character, of a lovable disposition, and intensely character and his life work will live forever in the history of the church for which he labored so zealously. He was a staunch exponent of education, and his establishment of the great Laval university is an evidence of his wonderful genius and his deep concern for the children of his church. His bringing to new Canada of that noble band of christian women — the Ursuline nuns — to labor among the Indians of the forest, was another evidence of his wonderful foresight. Besides he was the great harbinger of peace and harmony among the Indians and new settlers and his establishment of the Hotel Dieu showed how deeply he felt for the sick and suffering. His subsequent establishment of the great Quebec seminary was also referred to, and this institution, together with the great Laval university, have turned out graduates who are prominent in church and state. His intense loyalty to the British flag, and the inculcating of that principle in the hearts of his people was also pointed out by Ven. Archbishop Casey and that loyalty has been put to the test on several occasions.

The celebration at Quebec lasted three days and was participated in by His Excellency the Governor General, the Lieutenant Governor, eighteen bishops and many distinguished Canadians, and was celebrated with all the pomp and splendor of the church.

FAREWELL AT QUEEN-ST. METHODIST.

The short address given by Rev. Mr. Phelps before delivering his sermon bore some expressions of sorrow and regret. The time had arrived when he had to face that ever unwelcome ordeal of saying good-bye to friends. For four years a growing affection had welded them together but now he was leaving them, not without hope of seeing their faces again, for he looked forward to being with them at the opening of the new church in about eighteen months time, but with the uncertainty of one's lot upon earth the future had many doubts and to some it would be doubtless good-bye for the last time. He had passed through similar experiences before and had nerved himself up; had met it bravely but with each recurring change the accompanying regret had its pain.

There was also that apprehensiveness in approaching a new congregation. He had faith in the church of Christ, but it was ever difficult to substitute new friends for old, and as he hoped to recieve a very sympathetic reception from his new church, he urged upon his congregation to open their hearts widely to his successor and make him feel at home immediately he arrived.

The text was taken from 1 Peter, 4-17. "What shall the end be?" The preacher wished all to remember that the eye of God was ever upon them as his workers, there was a perfect standard given but was it just to judge this imperfect race by that perfect standard? He viewed the works of the pulpit and that of the church and concluded he could do no less than turn on the searchlight of God upon the result of four years spent together; for every sermon that he had preached had been carefully analyzed and the midnight oil was often consumed for the good of the church and the glory of God. The congregation had done their part by paying off nearly $900 of the church debt and and laboring with him in the conversion of souls. This latter work was a joy to see, but had the church stopped there? What was there to say about the spiritual growth of them as a body. There was no mathematical gauge to estimate the spiritual state of a christian, but there was a social and moral condition that the church should come up to if the end was to receive God's smile. There were numbers too of which they could boast but they wanted quality not quantity... What effect had they as a church had upon the social and industrial condition of the world, had both pulpit and people done what God could justly expect of them in that department; he especially appealed to christians to ask themselves, what had been the outcome of their conversion to God where their souls like that of Christ's was daily pining for the good of the world, whose love was as broad as the universe and bright as the sun. He asked them to look at what the end of their united work was.

Rev. L. Phelps, who for the past four years has been pastor of Queen st. church, preached his farewell sermon Sunday evening. He goes from here to Stirling, and is succeeded by Rev. J. R. Real, of Napanee West.

The sermon was a masterly effort, dealing with the pulpit from the preacher's standpoint, showing its responsibilities and its purpose.

Many people thought that preachers were generally at that kind of work just "for what they could get out of it." Rev. Mr. Phelps proceeded to deny the accusation. In the first place, he said in effect, there wasn't enough money in it to make it worth while; other professions and many businesses gave far better returns financially. To be successful, a preacher must lose self interest. He must think first, last and all the time of others. Above all he must live so that he may co-operate with God in the saving of men from the consequences of their own wrong doing.

Then again the preacher must be well acquainted with his bible. He must know its power. Many men get along well enough when all they have to do is to read a prayer and dress well, was substantially what Mr. Phelps said. To be successful in the saving of souls, which is the preacher's particular work, he must have first been converted himself. In preaching the speaker must be able to unfold new things; must bring new light on the bible; must, in short, know it thoroughly. Incidentally he eulogized the work of the Salvation Army as an organization that was doing a remarkably good work in a field where others, seemingly, dared not tread, because of alleged possible contamination.

Mr. Phelps refered in most friendly terms to his successor, Rev. J. R. Real, as a man who had the ability to carry on the work of that important field known as Queen-st. Methodist. The speaker knew something of the need and could say of Mr. Real, "there is none better." Mr. Real was married, he reminded the smiling congregation.

A reception will be given to their new pastor and his wife by the people of Queen-st. church on Friday evening next.

CAMBRIDGE-ST. METHODIST.

The morning services at Cambridge-st. Methodist church were conducted by Rev. Dr. Galbraith, of Toronto, who, being connected with the Dominion Alliance, rendered a most interesting discourse on the subject of the license act. At the same time he pointed out the duties of the Canadian citizenship in connection with the cause. He also spoke to the school for a short time.

Rev Jas. Wallace of St. Andrew's, preached in the evening, referring to "the cloud of witnesses." He brought out the fact that we should be witnesses of Christ, and that "as we lived, so do our lives bear fruit after we are gone.

His Choice

He read the Bible. He preferred
Its tales to any other word.

Being a married man, he chose
To read of other mortals' woes.

He read the story, and believed,
How father Adam was deceived.

He read of Jacob, how for years
He labored for those lovely dears.

He read of Lot—his life a wreck.
The true original rubberneck.

He read of Samson, how loved ruled him,
And how the base Delilah fooled.

He learned of David and the strife
Kicked up about Uriah's wife.

He learned of Job, that sorry wight,
Whose sad experience was a fright.

He learned of Solomon, who had
A thousand wives (They drove him

It is Carnegie Or McDiarmid

Race Between the Two for the Portfolio of Minister of Agriculture.

Whether J. H. Carnegie, of East Victoria, or Finlay George Macdiarmid, of West Elgin, will fill the shoes of Hon. Nelson Monteith, as Minister of Agriculture, will likely be decided perhaps this week.

The retirement of Hon. Nelson Monteith, as foreshadowed in these columns a few days ago, is now generally admitted.

Discussion in political circles hinges on the successor, and the choice has been narrowed down to two.

Both Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Macdiarmid have such influential support that it will probably be impossible to say which has been chosen until the Prime Minister says the final word. It is understood that Mr. Whitney himself favors Mr. Carnegie, and for that reason the chances of the Victoria member are considered to be the better. But, on the other hand, several other members of the cabinet including, it is said, Hon. W. J. Hanna, favor Mr. Macdiarmid very strongly. But, whatever choice is made, will, of course, have the unanimous endorsation of the Cabinet.

On behalf of Mr. Carnegie it is pointed out that he has been in the Legislature since 1894, owns a large stock farm in Victoria, is a graduate of the O. A. C. and is well-to-do. In the Legislature he has been chairman of Committee on Public Accounts.

Finlay McDiarmid is a younger man and made a reputation as a fighter in the famous Elgin disclosures which have resulted in making West Elgin a safe Tory seat by a big majority. He served on the Prison Labor Committee selected by Hon. W. J. Hanna. He is a good speaker, but is not a graduate of the O.A.C. He is 39 years of age.

Escaped from the House of Refuge

Mrs. Jackson Takes French Leave from the Institution

Old Mrs. Jackson, well known in the east ward and for a couple of years a resident in the House of Refuge escaped from that institution late Saturday night and was only recovered by the House of Refuge authorities this morning and taken back.

She ran away late in the evening and was first seen by Mrs. S. Reilly east ward, early yesterday morning at the rear of her house. Mrs. Reilly received somewhat of a scare as she became suddenly aware of the presence of the aged woman in her bright red shawl. She was taken into the house and cared for.

Mrs. Jackson has a house in the east ward but in view of her age and infirmity was committed to the Home some time ago. Some how or other she had obtained possession of the key to her domicile and her intention was no doubt, to visit it.

She is feeble minded.

This is not the first, nor is it the second time she has contrived to escape from the Refuge, making much trouble for Mr. Robertson, the steward.

Three More Nominations

In Post's Great Free Trip Contest—A Brief Sketch of Quebec.

Three more nominations have come in in connection with the Post's Great Free Trip since yesterday morning. They are, Miss Jessie Gould, of Goodwood; Miss Edith Welstood, of Kinmount; and Miss Sabina Martin, of Fenelon Falls.

Each of these young ladies are very popularly known in their districts their friends in every case being hopful of their success in the contest. Miss Martin is in No. 3 district and the others in No. 4. The addition of the two last names to this district makes a warm contest out there an assured fact, mas much as only two can possibly go. The chances of everybody are good yet however. Don't let anybody think for a minute that they are beaten yet. There is a month and a half or more and a great deal may be accomplished in that time.

ABOUT QUEBEC.

One can spend many days in Quebec and find something to interest him at every turn he makes in the streets—and he makes a good many if he goes out at all. Every pleasant evening finds all Quebec on Dufferin Terrace. A more beautiful view than the view to be had from that point no one can imaine.

In Montreal, as in Quebec, the visitor whose stay is limited is tempted to "do" churches to the neglect of other objects of interest.

This is said not because the churches are not worthy of close study but because they are so worthy of it as to become fastinating and to make the tourist forget almost everything else in Quebec the visitor who is interested in art could with profit spend days in the Basilica and the Chapel of Laval Seminary and in the quaint little church of Notre Dames des Victoires, the place of worship most frequented by marines he will find votive offerings in the shape of queer old paintings that will greatly interest him. The churches of Montreal though not so rich in art treasures as those of Quebec are equally interesting. The immense church of Notre Dame is simply fascinating. The chapel of this church, the chapel of the Sacred Heart, is in itself a big church These churches and St. James' Cathedral, the church of the Jesuits and that of Notre Dame de Bonsecours claim much of the visitor's attention. On market day, when Jacques Cartier Square is filled with farmers' waggons it is interesting to sit in the last named place and watch the farmers and the market men and women come to pay there devotions. But the visitor should not let his interest in these churches prevent him from doing justice to the Chateau de Ramezay. The museum in this old gubernatorial mansion is exceedingly interesting. By no means the least interesting part of the Chateau are its vaults. The visitor should not fail to explore them for only thus can he get an adequate idea of this famous old headquarters of so many regimes, French, British, and American, for in 1775-6 it was the head quarters of the Continental army of the army of Montgomery.

Montreal is a fascinating city. Of course it is not so picturesque as Quebec and more of the glamor of historical interest hangs over the latter but the former is full of interest for the student of history and the lover of the picturesque will go far before finding a more delightful drive than that up the winding way that leads to the magnificent park on top of Mount Royal. From that park the visitor looks down upon a city that is already one of the greatest centres of population of this marvellous contenent and is destined to become a marvellous metropolis.

Foresters at Reaboro

Attend Divine Church and Hear Sermon on "Am I My Brother's Keeper?"

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Canadian Order of Foresters of Reaboro, headed by Bro. Allen, C. R. about 50 strong attended church there where an excellent sermon along fraternal lines, based on the text, "Am I My Brother's Keeper," was preached to them by Rev. Mr. Buckley, of Omemee. A number of visiting brethren joined in the service and were afterwards entertained in the hall. Among those present from Lindsay were Bros. M. B. Annis. R. Naylor, J. Hall, D. Porter, A. Davies, B. Laidley, W. Kelcher, H. Williams and A. Riley.

Summer Pruning of Shrubs.

If a shrub has developed poorly, with the result, for instance, of having leaves only at the top, prune it back more thoroughly in order to relieve the leaf system and the roots of as much work as possible. Remove especially the crowding branches, and such branches as look sick. Cut back branches that have grown too long, making spindly, thin end shoots without much vitality. Take away all the tiny "suckers," as twigs are called when they start out from the main trunk or the big branches. They merely sap the plants.

Summer pruning of healthy plants is a delicate process. It is better to cut too little than too much. But it is always perfectly safe and proper at any time of the year to cut away dead wood. Such wood should always be taken away as close to the healthy stems as possible so that it will not leave a little "nub" sticking out. Such "nubs" will rot inwardly and the rot will eat into the stem.

Success with Pansies.

During hot dry weather the pansy bed should be watered twice a day—at night and at noon. Watering the garden in the middle of the day may seem a reckless innovation to many, especially to the professional gardeners, but years of experience have taught me the value of giving a plant water when it most needs it—when that is when it is parched with heat. Of course all plants will not stand water under a hot sun, but pansies are not injured by it in any way. A good soaking of the soil at night will last until ten or eleven the next day, according to exposure, and if another good wetting is then given with water fresh from the hydrant or well it will remain cool and moist throughout the twenty-four hours. The rapid evaporation caused by the hot sun will create a moist atmosphere around the plants producing much finer flowers than would be possible in the dry air resulting from withholding water until night.

St, Andrew's Sunday School

A Most Enjoyable Excursion to Beaverton Saturday

The annual excursion of St. Andrew's Sunday school to Beaverton on Saturday was well patronized by both young and old. The day was an ideal one for an outing on the lake shore, and as Beaverton has a fine park, situated on the shore of Lake Simcoe, those who attended enjoyed themselves to the utmost. The excursion arrived at Beaverton about 10.30, and after making their way to the park, dinner was served to the waiting crowd. The afternoon was spent in all kinds of games and races, which are so prominent in a Sunday school excursion. After having tea the excursionists boarded for home, about 6.30, arriving in town about 7.30, all tired, but with the verdict, "The best yet."

Victoria County House of Refuge Interesting Description of Institution

How it is Managed--Chatty Article on Matters and Things at the County Poor House.

Not a day has passed since the first inmate was received on Sept. 30, 1905, that the efficiency and usefulness of the Victoria County House of Refuge has not increased.

The institution, under the careful and thrifty management of Mr. R. G. Robertson, the steward and Mrs. Robertson, matron has come to be regarded as one of the best conducted establishments of the kind in the province. It is only recently that things have been running smoothly but in view of the fact that the House of Refuge is not as yet three years old, the very favorable conditions which obtain are surely a credit to the management.

The House of Refuge as shown in the accompanying cut, is a large three storey structure, with cellar and attic in addition, making it practically a five storey building. It is of red brick, with stone foundation. So far as modern conveniences are concerned it has them all except probably in luxurious furnishings.

The furnishings are extremely plain though not by any means such as might prove uncomfortable. They are as elaborate as the Provincial Government inspector allows. The first year the men and women were allowed to keep various things in their rooms, so Mr. Robertson told The Post, and when the inspector, who is under the Provincial Secretary's department, came along he asked that everything except the clothing they wore at the time be removed from the sleeping apartments. This for prudential motives, he explained. So that at present there is nothing in the bedrooms but the beds. The rooms are large, light and airy. The ventilation seems to be excellent in every case. There is no crowding, though on the men's side of the house there is at present no beds that are not occupied, and Mr. Robertson said he didn't know where they could put another male inmate were one committed.

THE HIGHEST NUMBER.

At present there are fifty-eight in residence including thirty-four men, twenty-two women, and two children held for adoption. Recently a child was adopted from the refuge, making the total number previous to that fifty-nine, which is the largest number ever in residence at one time.

HEALTH GOOD

Considering their age and circumstances, the health of the inmates is remarkably good. At present there is one man ill, though not dangerously so. The thirty-three others are as active as they can possibly be, enjoying the freedom of their side of the house and the outdoors to the fullest extent. Apparently they are content with their lot, though there are one or two exceptions to this, notably, an Irishman, not so very long from the Ould Sod, who naturally pessimistic, declares bestimes, "Shure an I wud be bether in jail in Oirlan than sittin' here, begobs." So far as the men are concerned, Mr. Robertson, who has entire charge of them, says they have now become accustomed to the daily routine of life and make scarcely any protests whatever. At first, as might be expected, he had his own troubles, on one or more occasions, having recourse to strenuous means to compel the unruly one to do as he was required. While the inmates are not under subjection, they must necessarily live up to the rules of the house.

NEARING CENTURY MARK

By no means one of the most feeble of the old men is Archy McEachern, who, in seven months more, should he live, will be a hundred years old. When The Post reporter called he was resting on a chair in the men's "drawing room," and seemed bright and active. His hearing is somewhat defective, but his sight is still good. A very old woman, Mary Cunningham in her 93rd year, is able to dress herself every morning, and looks after her own wants entirely. She is among the oldest of the women.

A RESTORATION

A rather interesting story was unfolded by Mr. Robertson in conversation in relation to one who was formerly an inmate. William May, the man in question, was committed last year, from the Ross Memorial Hospital, into which he had been admitted in consequence of an illness which had befallen him, under the head of "charity."

He had no money, so the county paid for his treatment. In view of his age and feebleness he was committed to the House of Refuge and there remained for some months. He would tell nothing of himself. Recently his wife and daughter, both of Toronto, in some way heard of his whereabouts and took immediate steps to have him restored to his and their home.

HARD ON THE BLANKET

Listen to the story which Tom Kelly, from Emily, tells; "Once when I was a young fellow going home from work with a plow and set of harrows on the wagon, the horses ran away. The front wheel of the wagon ran over the root of a stump, tipping the plow and harrows on top of me. My right side was crushed in and every single rib was broken off my backbone. I was able to load up the wagon again when I got the team quiet and put away the horses as usual. I went in and had my supper. After tea I went to bed."

"And I suppose you slept like a top," somebody interrupted.

"No, I can't say I rested very well for every time I turned over thirty-two of them ribs stuck into the blanket."

LONG TIME BED-RIDDEN

One of the inmates has been continuously in bed for thirty-two years. He is now seventy-six years old. When he was forty-four he was badly smashed up in a wreck at sea and never got over it. Rheumatism has done the rest. He can only move his shoulders a little bit, the joints connecting the lower part of the body with the spinal column being practically all gone. From disuse he has no muscles to speak of, and were power restored to him he could not help himself. This is, perhaps, the one individual case deserving of the most sympathy of any at the refuge. There is one dumb man out there, too.

OF ALL AGES

People of all ages are out there. The youngest woman in just twenty-nine. She is feeble-minded, and the mother of two little boys, bright little chaps, both of them, who were admitted along with her, last fall. One has since been adopted and the other is now awaiting the arrival of some kind-hearted family to take him out of his present associations. The most of the women are over sixty, and many over seventy-five. In this connection, Mrs. Robertson, who has two servants to help her look after the women and do the other housework, told the newspaperman that quite a number of the twenty-two women were feeble-minded or otherwise incapable of taking care of themselves. They do nothing to help themselves and sit quiet all day long sometimes with nothing but their thoughts to console, or, as the case may be, to trouble them. Perhaps a quarter of the number are able to take care of themselves. Taken as a whole they are in poorer health generally than the men. The youngest man is 48 years old, and he is a fit subject for an asylum in the opinion of everybody except the powers that be.

MEN CAN WORK

Mr. Robertson is of the opinion that an old man is about twice as easy to manage as an old woman. At all events, he can say that much for the old men out at the refuge. In addition to taking care of themselves and each other they do all the work around the barn and a good deal on the farm of seventy acres which is run in connection with the House of Refuge. One runs the furnaces in the house, others help in the laundry, two more milk the cows, another looks after the horses, one more has the pigs and hens under his watchful eye, and so on. But in spite of all that Mr. Roberpson has his hands full and has a steady job seeing that all these things are done properly. Lately the strain on him has decreased to an appreciable extent, inasmuch as the men, of the majority of those who work, take an interest in their work and do it properly because that is the only way it should be done.

ENJOYED THE PROGRAMME

If anybody is in a position to enjoy a programme of music, surely it is those old men and women in the House of Refuge, who, outside of their own efforts in that direction, have no amusements whatever. Last Monday when the young people of the Go Forth Mission of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church went out in order to sing for the inmates their time was well spent, according to the opinion of those who formed the audience on that occasion. Many expressions of gratitude and of blessing were given utterance.

MANY CONVENIENCES

Before taking The Post representative outside to show him the garden and farm, Mr. Robertson took him into the basement, where the dining rooms, kitchen, pantries, furnaces and laundry are. These are all scrupulously clean, always being kept in perfect order. As noted before, the house is divided into two parts, the women to the south and the men to the north half, no association of any kind being allowed. They have separate living and dining rooms. Downstairs also is the mens cloak room where there surplus wearing apparel is kept This is also the cobblers' head-quarters—one old cobbler superannuated, —doing all that is necessary in that line. He is now nearly through with his third half side of sole leather in the two years or so he has been on the job. Across the hall is the tobacco room, where those who are addicted to the weed get what solace is coming to them from this means of amusement. A great many as in common in all such places, smoke.

"A couple of bed-rooms might be fitted up here if necessary," said Mr. Robertson, as he unlocked the door leading into the private jail of the Refuge. Inside the room are two separate cells each having a strong door of iron bars hung on solid looking stone walls. These substances just mentioned do not make either a cage or a jail very often and but twice has the "coop" been used. This was at first when the old fellows got unruly, not being used to the rules of the house. The building is lighted by electricity and heated by steam. There is ample fire protection both from the hydrant nearby and five tanks of large size always well filled with water. The halls are numerous and wide with high ceilings the stairways broad and easily overcame. Only this spring was the place kalsomined and it presents a very nice appearance.

SOME FIGURES.

Since the institution was opened on Sept. 30, 1905 there have been ninety-three entered the home as inmates Thirteen have died and others have others have been removed by friends or relatives. The number in at one time has never reached sixty, but a month ago was forty-nine. As stated previously in this article, it is now forty-eight.

A FINE GARDEN.

East of the house and south of the barn is the garden. It is about two acres in extent and to say the least compares very favorably with any garden in the neighborhood. It was all planted by the men and is just like any other garden in appearance save that the stuff growing in it is rather farther advanced than most of them at this time of year. All the more common garden vegetables are there, including potatoes, onions, parsnips, carrots, beets, tomatoes, beans corn, lettuce, radish, cucumbers, and citrons.

ABOUT THE FARM.

The farm consists of seventy acres purchased from Mr. John Curtin, and is conducted by Mr. Robertson much the same as any other farm except that his "hired men" are old, and not young. Mr. Robertson is a practical farmer and knows the game of farming as well as most men. This year's crop is looking well at present. South east of the house is four acres of beans which are being grown for sale. Altogether he has thirteen acres of hoe crop. There is one little patch of ground which Mr. Robertson calls his "experimental farm." Here is some spelt and a little barley, being grown by Mr. Reed of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, for experimental purposes. It is on ground which had been used for garden stuff for years and which is too rich and too full of weeds to be much of a success however. There is a field of fall wheat, six acres in extent which looks pretty nice. Five of the six acres is seeded down with alfalfa. Twelve acres of peas and oats, and seven of barley are also in good condition; between the barn and the road there is a good field of oats and a little buckwheat.

A FINE BARN.

An up-to-date barn finishes things off in good style around the place. In connection there is a big driving shed, ice house pig pen, hen house, etc Under the barn are the horse and cow stables. These latter are the last word in the matter of the convenience Mr. Robertson has at least fifty bushels of potatoes here, some of which he wants to sell. They have kept extremely well. Two old men do all the work around the stable, and in the winter, when all the stock is kept in keep the place as clean as a house. Cement floors everywhere allow for cleanliness to a degree, the men evidently taking a real interest in their work. Upstairs in the barn Mr. Robertson has a good deal of feed left over. A wind-mill on the barn drives the straw cutter and chopper Below it drives the turnip pulper. The barn is a commodious structure holding all the farm produce. The outside is painted a dark red.

THE STOCK.

Mr. Robertson has three horses, two general purpose horses and a driver. He has six good Durham cows. A baker's dozen of pigs also find a good living on the premises.

"Don't forget my chickens" was what Mrs. Robertson had told her husband as he was going out, and so, not forgetful of his wife's desire, Mr. Robertson didn't forget to show the reporter the chickens. Mrs. Robertson looks after them herself and she has had good luck this summer. There will be over a hundred in all allowing for probable loss. They are big for the time of year and promise to be a paying investment.

IN PROSPECT

Mr. Robertson feels that he is only getting things nicely going as yet and hopes for greater things for the future. One old man is a carpenter and together he and Mr. Robertson keep everything in good repair while later he will make a gate or two that are needed. There is already a large lawn in front of the house which Mr. Robertson hopes to improve Another year or two will see further improvements.

MARRIAGES.

MILLER—COUGHLIN

A wedding was solemnized at St. Mary's church Wednesday when Miss Nellie Coughlin, daughter of Mr. Dennis Couglin, of town, was joined in matrimony to Mr. Geo. Miller, son of Mr. Thos. Miller, of West Ops. The ceremony was conducted at 7.30 this morning, by Rev. Father Collins, after which the young couple left on a short honeymoon.

RICHARDSON—GUNN.

St. Mary's church, Lindsay, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday June 17, when Miss Minnie Gunn, daughter of Mr. Hugh Gunn, of West Ops, was united in marriage to Mr. Richardson, of the east ward. Ven. Archdeacon Casey performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. Miss Nellie Gunn, sister of the bride, attended her as bridesmaid, whilst Mr. Patrick Hickey supported the groom. Following the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's parents where a wedding breakfast was served. Later they took the eleven o'clock train for Peterborough. Their many friends extend most sincere congratulations.

SCHWARDFAGER—HOLLINGSWORTH.

A quiet home wedding was celebrated at three o'clock on Wednesday, at the residence of the bride's parents, Durham street, when Miss Lottie May Hollingsworth, daugnter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hollingsworth, was united in marriage to Mr. Neil Schwardfager, of Lindsay. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Wallace, of St. Andrew's church, in the presence of only immediate friends and relatives owing to recent bereavment. The bride, who was given away by her father, was attended by Miss Grace Schwadfager sister of the groom. Both were becomingly attired in cream voile. Mr. Will Wilson was best man. Following the ceremony luncheon was served and later Mr. and Mrs. Schwardfager took the evening Grand Trunk train for Toronto. They will spend a week or ten days with friends in the Queen City and at Niagara Flls. The bride's going away dress was of pretty blue ladies cloth with hat to match.

The happy couple were the recepients of many costly and well chosen presents. The groom's present to the bride was a gold watch and chain to the bridesmaid a gold bracelet, and to the best man a handsome tie pin. Mr. and Mrs. Schwadfager are both popularly known in town and are extended the sincere congratulations from a wide circle of friends.

BIRCHARD — FOWLER

A pretty June wedding took place Wednesday afternoon, June 17, when Miss Ada Fowler and Mr. Reuben M. Borchard were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fowler, Linden Valley. The drawing room was decorated with roses and orange blossoms. In one window of the room a beautiful bower of ferns and marguerites attracted the eye, forming a background for the bride and groom during the ceremony.

The dining room was decorated with white peonsa. At two p. m. the groom advanced to the wedding bower. Shortly after the bride came in with her father. She wore her travelling suit and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Her niece, little Mamie Fowler, acted as flower girl. The wedding service was impressively read by the Rev. A. C. Collier, curate of St. Paul's church, Lindsay.

After congratulations, the supper, which was beautifully arranged in the dining room, was partaken of.

The gifts were beautiful and costly, testifying to the high esteem in which the bride is held. The gift of the groom to the bride was fifty dollars in gold, and to the flower girl a purse with money.

The bridal party left on the 6.30 train for Toronto, Hamilton and other points. On their return they will reside at Spruce Grove Farm, the old Birchard homestead.

Those from a distance who were present were; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Birchard, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Birchard, Coboconk; Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Birchard, of Horn Bros., Lindsay; C. C. Birchard, of the Trent Valley Navigation Co., Bobcaygeon; Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Fowler, Woodville; Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Webster, Oakwood, and Miss B. Fowler, Lindsay.

RICH—WEBSTER.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Webster East Oakwood, was the scene of a very interesting nuptial event Wednesday when their daughter Miss Blanche Aletha became the bride of Dr. Wesley Rich, of Horning's Mills, Ont., formerly of Oakwood. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Brown, pastor of Oakwood Methodist church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Waugh, of Horning's Mills, in the presence of a large number of guests.

The bride who was given away by her father never looked more beautiful. She was exquisitely attired in a gown of white silk trimmed with real lace and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and ferns. She was attended by Miss Shields, of Kirkfield, and Miss Addie Jeffers, of Lindsay Russel Jordan, of Lindsay was page, while Mr. Wilson Webster, and Dr. Kirkpatrick, of Horning's Mill supported the groom.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served in a large marquee on the lawn to which over one hundred guests sat down. Later Dr. and Mrs. Rich took the eight o'clock train for Montreal and New York. They will spend some time in travel. On their return they will reside in Hornings Mills where Dr. Rich has a large practice. The bride travelled in a handsome dress of gun-metal silk, with hat to match. The house was elaborately decorated for the occasion, roses carnations lilies of the valley and ferns all combined completely transforming its appearance. Among those from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Harris, Port Perry, Dr. and Mrs. Landy, and Miss Landy, of Omemee Mrs. Walker, of Cannington. The list of those from Lindsay included Reeve Jordon, Ald. Wm. Jordan, Miss Jordan, and the Misses Lily and Mabel Jordan, Dr. J. W. Wood and Miss Mabel Graham.

MOFFAT—MOYNES

On Wednesday, June 17th, a quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moynes, Pleasant Valley, when his eldest daughter, Miss Celestia E., was united in marriage to Mr. Thos. Moffat, of Fenelon.

The ceremony took place at seven o'clock in the drawing room, which was tastefully decorated, the color scheme being green and white. The bride, who was given away by her father, was attired in cream silk, eolienne, and carried a large bouquet of white carnations and ferns. Her sister, Miss Florrie S. Moynes, who acted as bridesmaid, wore cream silk delaine and carried pink carnations and ferns. The groom was supported by Mr. Jno. C. Murchison.

The bride's going away gown was navy blue taffeta, with picture hat to match.

The happy couple left for their new home amid showers of rice and good wishes.

Fine Musical Entertainment

Many Citizens and Citizenesses Enjoyed the Performances of Lindsay's Band.

The favor in which the Sylvester band is held was amply evidenced Friday evening, when a large throng of sic loving citizens, large and small, were assembled at the town park prepared to take full advantage of the many privileges afforded by the evening.

Long before the band commenced to send forth its strains all seats were utilized by the early comers, and as the band struck up the first tune the park gradually filled with ready listeners. The band rendered some excellently chosen selections of the most pleasnig, up-to-date music and it seems but fair to compliment their popular leader, Mr. W. H. Roenigk, on his ability as manager of the band. Needless to state, the proceedings were immensely appreciated by the company.

And the older folk were not the only listeners by any means, as there was a goodly crowd of romping boys and girls who enjoyed their innocent gaiety to its utmost. Among the delightful numbers rendered was an exceedingly beautiful solo by Mr. George Bell entitled, "The Sun Sets in the Golden West."

On every hand were heard expressions of good will towards the splendid musical organization and the hope was universally held that the Council would deal more liberally with the band at its next meeting.

A tablespoonful of black pepper stirred into the first suds in which cottons are washed, will prevent colors from running.

Troubles of a Lockmaster

Boys' Actions Greatly Endanger Lift and Property.

Lockmaster Meekins has his own trouble these days with the boys swimming in the locks, undressing on the roof of the storehouse and causing a nuisance generally. During the past two weeks the storehouse has been broken into three times, and as it contains dynamite, gasoline and coal oil, the danger from fire caused by careless boys with matches and cigarettes is very great, and the property endangered in that neighborhood is very large. The town by-law takes the matter out of the lockmaster's hands, but it is a question that should be looked after at once before any serious fir occurs in that locality.

Pocket Picked At the Station

Ops Young Lady Relieved of Her Purse at C.P.R. Station.

A South Ops young lady was on Wednesday last relieved of her purse at the C. P. R. station by one of the "light-fingered gentry." She was assisting a relative in her preparations to board the train, when she suddenly missed her pocketbook, which she had in her possession a few seconds before. A thorough investigation was made, but the search proved fruitless.

A number of suspicious characters have been noticed hovering around the railway stations the past week, supposed to be discharged employees of Cole Bros. circus, and in all probability one of them relieved the young lady of her purse.

A Watering Hint

A most effective and easy way to water a garden patch of any size in drouth, where no hose can be used, and lots of water is needed urgently, is to draw furrows between the plants with a long-pointed stick, beginning with a very shallow impression and making the furrow deeper and deeper toward the end. When a sufficient number of these furrows has been made, pour water in the shallow ends as fast as the furrow will take it. It will run down the inclines and soak away in its course, thus reaching the roots of the plants.

OUR COMPETITION

The interest in our competition as a result of which The Post will send the ten successful young ladies to Toronto, Kingston, the Thousand Islands, Montreal and Quebec entirely free of a cent of expense to any of them, is increasing in interest each hour, and every mail brings hundreds of votes to be recorded to the credit of the contestants.

We are also offering prizes for the young ladies sending in the greatest number of new names within the next two weeks, in which all have a chance of winning.

Every person can help the contestants and we trust all our subscribers and The Post's old friends will render the contestants all the help they possibly can.

The Mail and Empire ask "Why this long session?" It is to laugh.!

A German savant is trying to learn how long a dream lasts. If he were to go to Ottawa and consult Mr. Borden he would learn that it lasts forever.

Toronto did a good thing Saturday when it voted for the by-law to construct a water filter and a trunk sewer. The public health should be the first consideration in any municipality.

Again the will of the people has been thwarted upon a mere technicality, the local option law at Orillia having being quashed because some officials neglected to observe the strict letter of the law. No matter what the technicality may benefit, the will of the people should prevail.

Hon. Mr. Fisher, the able Minister of Agriculture in the Dominion Cabinet, will shortly leave on a trip to Geneva, Paris, and Rome. His holiday will be filled with work, in connection with his Department. Nevertheless, The Post wishes him an enjoyable trip and hopes he may return fully recuperated from the exhausting wear and tear of his work.

Another of those awful railroad wrecks is recorded to-day. It would seem to be due for somebody to do something to put an end to such terrible occurrences.

Some of the labor men in the old country have decided to boycott the King because he didn't invite their members to his garden party. Well, it isn't likely they'll have a chance to blackball him for a while anyway.

A SORRY SPECTACLE

The spectacle viewed at the special meeting of the council held Monday evening by those who had been drawn either by curiosity or by self interest was not an edifying one, nor is it one a repetition of which is to be desired.

It was nothing more nor less than an outcropping of ill-feeling and lack of harmony which it was all too evident had been smouldering for many months past and which was bound sooner or later to break out.

It is most earnestly to be hoped that the members of the brigade on whatever side of the controversy they may be arrayed, will look beyond their mere personal likes and dislikes and realize to the full the great responsibilities which rest upon each and every one of them.

There is no room for bickerings and back-bitings and strife on the fire brigade. The interests that are at stake are much too great for petty quarrels to be allowed to intervene between them and their entire safety.

When we think of the vast property interest which this handful of quarreling men have in their protecting care —of the industries whose existence depend upon their safe preservation, of the homes at stake, and the many precious lives that may be endangered by lack of harmony—we are face to face with a peril which is too serious to be allowed to continue.

It is hoped that the town property committee will find some satisfactory solution to the difficulty, and that hereafter a recurrence of such occasions may be obviated.

THE BUZZARDS ARE HUNGRY.

The humiliating position into which Major Hodgins, of Transcontinental Railway fame has got himself into would be at least pitiable were it not so contemptible.

The whole trouble seems to be —if we may be permitted to use an untranslatable slang term—that the Major got somewhat swelled up on himself. He was chief engineer on the construction of a portion of the new road, and had an acute attack of megalocephalia — which, as all our readers are aware, is a combination Latin and Greek word for swelled head, — and he wasn't satisfied with running his own section of the road, but he must needs interfere with other people's. You have often seen people afflicted that way. The Major began poking his nose into the work of other engineers, and because he wasn't in control of them he imagined that everything wasn't right. He began talking, as such people will and of course the buzzard politicians got around him and they greedily picked up the sweet morsels of scandal that the major threw around him so freely.

Finally, encouraged by the cheerful croaking of the aforesaid buzzards, he threw a whole bag of muck at them, and oh, how they flapped their wings and shouted in the chaste language of the Mail and Empire and George Foster, "See, see what we've got ! The richest scandal ever seen ! Let us all gather around and examine the muck ! My, how it will smell !"

And they gathered around the bag and drew out the contents and — oh, how disappointed they were ! In the words of the late John Henry Pope, "There ain't nothin' to it."

It seems that Major Hodgins had to admit when put upon his oath that he really knew of no facts to warrant his preposterous allegations and the whole thing has been unwarranted and without foundatoin.

But the buzzards ? Well —they're still hungry.

WON'T BE THE BELL COW

When it comes to condemning the expenditures concerning which he has made investigation, Sam Hughes absolutely refuses to be the bell cow. In fact, he not only refuses to lead the others, but side steps and unhesitatingly declares that he won't play the game because he has made an examination into the affairs of the Militia Department and he knows that they are all right.

According to Col. Hughes, his leader, Mr. Borden, in divvying up the work of government criticism among his followers, requested him to take charge of the work in connection with the Militia Department. He had diligently looked into the expenditures of that department and was unable to discover anything to find fault with, and as an honest man he could not join in a crusade against it.

This of course, is as it should be, and Col. Hughes is to be commended for the steadfastness with which he has adhered to his determination in this regard. But what puzzles an ordinary mind like ours is, why, when he stands by the honesty of a Department he has looked into, he should join in a sustained attack upon other departments of which he has no personal knowledge. One would naturally think that when he had investigated one department himself and found it honestly administered, he would at least give the others the benefit of the doubt. To the average mind it would seem that this was only to manifestly the fair course to pursue, and we are quite satisfied that if the Colonel would only give the same assiduous attention to the remaining expenditures of the government he would not only be a partial but a whole-hearted supporter. It takes time, however, to convince a rugged character like Sam Hughes that he ought to come out boldly in support of the Laurier government and that half measures only leave him on slippery ground.

There is an old adage that it is dangerous to try to balance one's self upon two stools at the same time.

—Heat prostrates the nerves. In the summer one needs a tonic to offset the customary hot weahter. Nerve and strength depression. You will feel better within 48 hours after beginning to take such a remedy as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Its prompt action in restoring the weakened nerves is surprising. Of course, you won't get entirely strong in a few days, but each day you can actually feel the improvement. That tired, lifeless, spiritless, feeling will quickly depart when using the Restorative. Dr. Shoop's Restorative will shapen a failing appetite; it aids digestion; it will strengthen the weakened kidneys and heart by simply rebuilding the worn-out nerves that these organs depend upon. Test it a few days and be convinced. Sold by all dealers.

Cow Testing Associations

Cold Storage Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture

Eden Bank, B. C., association for May had the record for 241 cows of an average production of 917 lbs. milk 3.7 test, 34.1 lbs. fat. In each of the 20 herds some individual cows gave over 1000 lbs. milk, while the 3 best single yields were 1630 lbs. testing 3.2, 1750 lbs. testing 3.5 and 1780 lbs. lbs. milk in the 30 days. The best herd average was from a lot of 20 cows yielding 1284 lbs. milk, 3.4 test, 44 lbs. fat. Such animals must be a pleasure to handle, a source of pride and satisfaction, as well as of good cash profit.

A good Ontario record for the same period is at the Central Smith association where a herd of 20 cows averaged 1096 lbs. milk, 3.2 test, 35 lbs. fat. The best cow in that herd gave 1465 lbs. milk, testing 4.0, and the lowest yield in the same herd was 400 lbs., testing 3.2.

A contrast to the above is at St. Antoine, Que., for the same period where there are still some poor cows milk, 3.3 test, 21.9 lbs. fat. The 60 cows gave a total yield of 39,244 lbs. milk, 1,317 lb. fat. If they had milked as well as the cows at Eden Bank, B. C., they would have given an additional weight of actually sixteen thousand pounds of milk and over seven hundred pounds of butter fat during the one month.

Are there not some more places where there are still some poor cows left ? The poor cows are quickest detected by systematic weighing and testing.

Merry Excursion Party Yesterday

St. Paul's Sunday School has a Thoroughly Enjoyable Day

Over one hundred and fifty adults represented the number on board the train for Peterboro on the annual excursion of St. Paul's Sunday school yesterday, and a merrier crowd could hardly be imagined. The train was composed of five coaches to say nothing of the extra baggage car which contained that which was held in the greatest anticipation by all, viz; the luncheon baskets. On arrival at Peterboro with the exception of a few, nearly everyone stayed off at Jacksons park and at once proceeded to enjoy every advantage offered by so ideal a day. The program of sports however was called off, owing to many of the children going off on the street cars on the "around the city in an hour for five cents" ride. It is expected however, that the same races will be run in town here some evening most probably on the churo or thbe Central school grounds. The baseball enthusiasts though, did play baseball having an excellent game on the park grounds. Many also went over to the lift lock, taking the shorter plan of travelling up by water instead of by foot. About one o'clock luncheon was partaken of and, needless to say, duly appreciated. The return journey commenced about seven and Lindsay was reached at about eight o'clock, after having a most enjoyable day, and many of the younger children were tired and well prepared to drop into dreamland any minute.

PILES

Mr. Alfred Brown, of Merriton, Ont. says:—"For six years I have not known what it was to be free from pain. No one ever suffered more from itching bleeding Piles than I did and I tried everything to get cured but failed. One day a friend of mine who had been cured with Zam-Buk gave me a part of a box to try, and the relief I got was marvellous. I then bought a supply and before I had used it all was completely cured."

He Used to Make It in 6 Hours

Mr. Fred Edmunds Tells of Walking from Lindsay to Peterboro 25 Years Ago

Mr. Fred Edmunds, the proprietor of Wonderland, Lindsay, who was in Peterboro on Monday says he used to do the walk from Lindsay to Peterboro in six hours. That was about 25 years ago and at that time Mr. Edmunds was employed in a mill at Lindsay and walked home every Sunday morning accompanied by his dogs and leaving for Peterboro early in the morning. He returned in the afternoon. Mr. Edmunds thinks that Steven's time for the walk from Peterbor to Lindsay on Saturday was very fast.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

Are Writing to Other Places

Many Candidates are Getting Assistance from Former Residents of Lindsay

The battle of ballots in on. Are you working for your favorite yet? If not get busy. There is no time to lose. Cut ballots from the paper or pay up your subscriptions in advance—anything to help the young lady you deem the most popular. Many of the candidates are beginning to find out that their friends are legion. Some people offer their assistance, while others are just waiting to be asked. No one will refuse to assist a popular young woman. Make a start and the rest is easy.

Young ladies may rest assured that the trip offered is an opportunity well worth striving for and drawing on the loyalty of their friends. It is one of the finest trips on the continent that annually attracts thousands of American tourists.

A few candidates have adopted the plan of writing to former citizens, now residents in other parts of Canada and the United States, soliciting their support. This is a good plan. Your friends will be glad to get either the Daily or the Weekly Post and while doing so can assist the candidate.

JULY SALE OF ODD LINES

Our Semi-Annual Clearance of odd lots, broken assortments, remnants, lines of which to great a quantity remains--in fact it is a general clearing throughout the store in preparation for the incoming of our fall purchases.

Following our usual custom of a General Clearance Sale during the entire month of July we have now put it in full swing. For many reasons we desire that this 1908 sale shall far outreach those of any former years. Every department in the entire store will contribute largely to the special offerings each week and summoning it up all around the buying opportunities will be many and the savings large.

This week we will not attempt to tell you of any one particular line but will call your attention to the important fact that the sale is in full swing and right in the store is where you can best see the special offerings and judge the merits of each one. Remember it is not out of season merchandise that's on sale—no, its strictly seasonable which adds value and interest to it.

Quite a Costly Mongrel

Hodges Falsified, Fought and Paid a eavy Fine.

It turned out in the course of the trial on Tuesday afternoon before County Magistrate Moore that Charles German had told Thos. E. Hodges, the complainant in the case, an untruth when he said he (Germain) had inserted an advertisement in the columns of a local paper. To the court he said he had never advertised his loss at all.

The case arose out of a dispute over the ownership of a dog. Hodges had been rather roughly handled when they met and bore marks of the encounter. In view of the fact that Germain had told a deliberate falsehood and had used undue force in his treatment of Hodges, he was fined $5 and $5.55 costs, with the option of two weeks in jail. He paid.

Case Dismissed At Oakwood

Result of Trial by Magistrate Moore—Insufficient Evidence to Convict.

Dismissal in every instance was given by County Magistrate Moore at Oakwood on Friday in the case of the Oakwood men charged with using profance and insulting language.

There was no evidence to convict any of the six men charged, namely; J. Channon, Frank Bolton, G. Savanac, William Ferguson S. Ferguson and Mark Hicks. Against the last three not a word was said. According to the evidence, Frank Bolton and Channon were doing most of the loud talking, but there was nothing adduced as evidence to warrant Magistrate Moore in imposing either fine or other sentence. A number of witnesses were examined, but nothing could be gleaned from them. Chief of Police Vincent, of Lindsay acted in the matter, Village Constable Hill taking no part whatever. Mr. Geo. A. Jordan was the lawyer for the prosecution; and Mr. G. H. Hopkins, K. C., for the defence.

Lecture on Socialism

Mr. Kingsley, of Vancouver, Discusses Origin of Present State of Society.

There were not as many at the Academy of Music last Fridal to hear E. F. Kingsley, editor of the Western Clarion, of Vancouver, tell the story of socialism as the merits of the lecture deserved.

Mr R. M. Beall officiated as chairman and about 8.30 called the meeting to order. He said that before introducing the speaker of the evening he would like to make clear to those present what the word "socialism," meant. This word, he said, was becoming better known every day. He then read a clipping from the Mail & Empire and an editorial from the Toronto Globe, in regard the Pan Anglican conference held in London last week showing that this conference endorsed Socialism as their policy. He used to think that the Methodist church would be the first to take this stand but he now saw that he was mistaken. He then introduced the speaker of the evening in a few well chosen remarks.

Mr. Kingsley, on rising, was greeted with an outburst of applause. He said he was sorry to see that the hall was not filled, not because he was such a great speaker but because he was about to speak on one of the most important questions of the day. He said that in order to throw the right light on the subject he would have us turn back to the ages when the working class were uneducated the age of hand work. Education is needed to keep a man prepared to fight the battle of life and an uneducated man has many dangers to face. The only friends that these ancients had were the memebers of the human society which sprang up around the different cities of the world at that time, and the men gathered in those communities and were taught how to make pottery weave and fashion ore This was the foundation of modern industry. But at last the people began to encroach on each other's property, killing each other and taking them as slaves. This was called tribual slavery. The next stage was when the leaders of each tribe kepe and paid a number of slaves for his use. This was what was called chattel slavery. At last these matters became so corrupt that the northern countries came down and overthrew the Roman republic and held the lords as serfs. Out of these ruins came the feudal system. The people soon saw that the lords got more than their share and fought for their freedom, which they gained. At this time Columbus discovered America and the steam was invented. This put new energy into the people and the hand work was changed into firms and the firms to trust companies. Mr. Kingsley said that there was no reason for all this lack of work at present. There is, at present one quarter of the working force unemployed. These large corporations have the people all over the world at their emercy and workingman of to-day have not even the feudal serf of old. Even the chattel salve had lots to eat but some workmen of to-day have not got that. Mr. Kingsley said in closing that socialism is not an institution but a movement which bears forth above all others the breaking of capital rule.

Cleaning Out The Waterway

Mr. McFadden is Making Good Progress on the River.

The Trent Valley Being Pushed

Hundreds of Men Employed in the Construction.

Messrs. Dennon and Rogers, who have the contract for section two are still hiring men, and state they will engage all suitable men that apply. They will also employ a large number of teams. The section for which they have the contract consists of about four and a half miles, and it is intended to rush operations with all expediency. The machinery to be used in connection with the work has arrived from Montreal, ten freight cars being necessary to convey it. It is being unloaded at Frankford.

Larkin and Sangster have over three hundred men and a large number of teams at work on section one, just north of Trenton. They have two steam shovels at work and rapid progress is being made. Larkin & Sangster have their headquarters at Glen Ross.

A Warning to the Public re Prince Rupert.

A notice with the above heading has appeared in the "Vancouver World" signed by the Prince Rupert Townsite Company, 43 Fairfield Building, Vancouver. A statement is therein made that their property is the original and only legal Prince Rupert, and the Railway Company own 4,000 to 5,000 acres of arable land immediately surrounding the same.

The above statement is misleading and incorrect, as the only townsites registered are; South Prince Rupert, owned, it is understood, by the Company who signed the above warning, and the Townsite of Prince Rupert at the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway situated at the northwest portion of Kaien Island. The distance between these two townsites is over eleven miles, and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company is not in any way interested in South Prince Rupert, nor is it the intention to have a station at that place.

East Prince Rupert so-called in various reports which have appeared in th epress, is not rgeistered; the sub-division referred to is situated over 16 miles from the terminus of the Grand Trunk Railway, and is not on the line of that Railway.

The Prince Rupert at the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is now being surveyed, and it is expected the lots will be placed on the market in September or October next, due notice of which will appear in the public press.

Any further information the public may require can be obtained by addressing the Land Commissioner of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway at Winnipeg.

The New Auto-Thresher

Likely to be Shipped Next Thursday to Winnipeg Fair.

The auto-thrasher manufactured by the Sylvester Mfg. Co. is likely to be shipped this week. The machine however will be given a trial on Monday, and if this trial proves that the machine is a success it will be shipped to Winnipeg at once where it will be shown at the fair in that city.

This machine runs at the rate of four or five miles an hour and has a forty horse power engine installed in it. The Sylvester Co. has already began to build more and hope by this time next year to trun out 5 or 6 They are also shipping along with this thresher two other inventions. The first is a combined pumping engine used for thrasing and the other a twenty horse power thrashing engine. These machines are the only two of their kind and the Sylvester are the only makers. These will also be given a trial on Monday.

Successful Lecturers

Messrs. Totten and Soper Have Met With Much Success in Their Work.

—Rev. Mr. Totten and Rev. Mr. Soper, who, it will be remembered rendered such interesting lectures at the Cambridge-st. Methodist church, passed through town last Saturday from Haliburton. They report that over 75 per cent. of those taking their sytsom of study proved successful.

They continued on their journey down to Bobcaygeon, after which they contemplate leaving this vicinity for Georgian Bay.

A Great Time is Expected

Y.M.C.A. Campers are Looking Forward to Annual Summer Outing

Already the Y. M. C. A. memers—boys and men — are talking of little else than going to camp. The outing the last two weeks in July and the first two in August appeals to the boys and young men as just about the most delightful way of spending their holidays. There will be only two or three little rules to remember. Fifteen minutes' bible study in the morning and family worship every night. All the rest of the time will be spent in doing pretty much as each boy jolly well pleases. There is pretty nearly everything in the way of camp requirements at Clear Lake (or will be) where the Lindsay, Port Hope and Peterborough boys will go this year, and the biggest time ever is expected.

Mr. Cook, of the local Y.M.C.A., has already a good many names on his list of prospective campers. What he wants now is all entries in early so he will know just who are going.

Forget It.

Don't go kicking at the heat,
Forget it,
Don't go cussing down the street,
Forget it,
Mop your brow a bit and smile,
Say, "This weather's just my style."
You'll be cooler in a while;
Forget it,
Is your collar soaking wet,
Forget it;
It's no cooler if you fret,
Forget it;
Bear the weather like a man,
Throw away the palm-leaf fan,
Take life easy while you can.
Forget it.

Enquiries Come From California

From Many Other Points Come Letters Asking for Information Concerning Lindsay.

The secretary of the Board of Trade is a very busy man these days He is receiving letters from far and near asking for information about the town of Lindsay. Among many other letters received was one from a gentleman in California who was desirous of settling in Ontario. He wished to know all about our town, its school, water, weather and cost of living, etc., This surely shows our town is well known as a town of growth and prosperity.

A Midsummer Visitor.

Thrifty, industrious and progressive are members of the German nationality. They make excellent setlers and have won a foremost place in many enterprises, particularly in the manufacturing line. An exceedingly instructive contribution on "The German in Canada" will be found in the July number of the Busy Man's Magazine. It is from the pen of Mr. H. H. Miller, M. P., South Grey, and is generously illustrated. There are several original articles as well as the cream of those appearing in the world's periodical press, in the July issue. Among the most interesting and edifying are, "Training Boys for Colonial Life," "The Biggest News Scoop is Canada" "The Girl That is Down," "Courtesy as an Element in Business," "Some Settlers Canada can do Without," "The Advantages of Branch Banks," "As the Working Girl Sees it," "Irrigation in the World's Pantry," "Why Some Men Become Bosses," "The Message of the Flour Barrel," and "What Profit Sharing Has Done." A liberal colection of bright racy stories also appear in the July Busy Man's.

Peterboro Cheese Board

Very Little Doing in Sales, it being Shipping Day.

The Peterboro Examiner says: There was a little activity at the market Tuesday morning owing to a number of cheese factories shipping their cheese, which was weighed on the scales. The factories represented were Otonabee Union, Maple Leaf, Keene, East Emily, Missing Link, Cedardale and Central Smith.

Killing Lawn Weeds

Dandelions in a lawn may be kept down and finally killed off, by constant mowing; but the really effective way to get rid of them in to run a long bladed implement (an old screw driver is the best that can be imagined) downward alongside of the root to loosen the soil so that it can be pulled out whole. Never content yourself with pulling out part of a dandelion root. Every root that is broken in the ground immediately forks and sends up two plants.

Most other weeds will succumb to constant cutting with the mower. Plaintain, however, is hard to cut, because it grows so close to the ground. It will have to be dug out — not a difficult matter, as the roots are not deep, though they are tenacious and spreading. Whenever a weed is pulled out, sprinkle grass seed immediately.

STALLION ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Pure Bred Clynesdale Stallion
SIR BEN,
(5408) (12739) Imp.,

the property of E. G. COSTELLO, White House Farm Downeyville, will make the season of 1908 at his own stable with the exception of Friday afternoon and Saturday, when he will stand at the Little King Edward Hotel, Lindsay, stopping at Salem Friday morning.

This young horse has developed into a sire of the most desirable type. His breeding is gilt-edged, coming as he does from two of the most popular families of Clydesdales in Scotland. The Sire Everard or Baron's Pride breed on the sire, and Darley on the dam side gives him an infusion of blood that is bound to produce the best. SIR BEN is a half brother to the Canadian Champion Stallion Sir Marcus.

Parties interested are invited to inspect this horse. For pedigree and terms see posters.

THE IMPORTED THOROUGHBRED STALLION

"SALZBURG"

the Imported Stallion From Austria,

of the celebrated Pingan breed, which is somewhat similar to the Belgium breed, but considered by all good horsemen in the country where he was bred, to be an improvement on that famous breed. Will stand for mares in Lindsay during the season of 1908.

As the season is well advanced and the horse has been a long time on the voyage to Canada—six weeks—he will serve only a limited number of mares. The price this year will be very cheap as he is new in this district. To insure $12. He can be seen at any time in my barns, No. 8 Melbourne-st, south ward. He weighed on his arrival at Montreal, 1,570. "Salzburg" is a handsome bay, with black points, stands 16 1-2 hands high; very muscular; heavy, hard flat bone, with clean bone not hairy legged, the best of feet, and bone. He is a straight mover, with good action, and in no way resembles the Clydesdale horse. He has a very handsome head and neck full bright eyes, and very intelligent countenance. He has the very best of disposition, perfectly kind and free from all vicious habits, absolutely sound and in perfect health. "Salzburg" is the only horse of this breed in Ontario to-day. There is no doubt he will prove a very beneficial sire for the farmers of this district.

This horse has come a long distance and has cost me a lot of money. I invite the farmers of this section to call and see him. If they approve of him, I will be pleased with any business they may see fit to give me.

This horse was imported by Mr. Boswell, of Quebec city, who is a thorough horseman, not a dealer. He a much travelled and very wealthy man, and while in Australia bought this horse, beliving the Austrian breeds to be one of the best breeds of horses in the world.

Hadn't a License Inspector on Deck

Nine Americans Excite Inquiry in Inspector Bradshaw's Mind

A party of nine Americans arrived in town last Thursday and continued their journey by canoe up to the upper waters, presumably for the purpose of angling. According to the fishing notice, non-residents of the province of Ontario who angle without a special permit, which they did not have, are liable to have their fish and rods confiscated. Inspector Bradshaw, as usual, had his weather eye open for such an irregularity, and although the party assured him they were merely out for a good time, the inspector wired to Fenelon Falls to be on the lookout for any suspicious occurrence on the part of the young men in question.

Has Handed His Resignation to the Secretary of the Board of Education

Mr. A. W. Dunkley, classical master of the Collegiate has placed his resignation in the hands of the secretary of the Board of Education. He has accepted the appointment to a similar position on the Hamilton Collegiate staff.

Mr. Dunkley came to Lindsay from Orangeville at Christmas having been on the staff for seven years. While in Lindsay he has proved himself an excellent teacher and has been very popular with the students who will regret to hear of his decision to leave Lindsay.

An enthusiastic sportsman he did much for the cause of atheletes among the L.C.I. boys playing hockey, foot ball and other games with a great deal of skill.

Socially Mr. Dunkley was very popular.

A CONVALESCENT'S SAD CONDITION

Attack of Inflammatory Rheumatism Left Sufferer With No Appetite—Skin Peeled and Hair Came Out in Bunches—Bed Sores Developed—All Treatment Failed Until

A TRIAL OF CUTICURA PROVED SUCCESSFUL

"About four years ago I had a very severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism. I was taken very ill and was soon in a high fever. I did not leave my bed for four months, and during three of those months I could not move voluntarily, the pain was so intense. My skin peeled, and the high fever played havoc with the lustre of my hair, which came out in bunches. I also had three large bed sores on my back, — two on the shoulders and one at the waist. I could have cried the first time I saw myself in a mirror. I had lost fully thirty-six pounds, and looked like a consumptive. I did not gain very rapidly, and my appetite was very poor. When I was able to get around, I had all my friends advising remedies, and all guaranteed 'sure cures.' I tried many, but they were of little help, and until I tried Cuticura Resolvent I had had no real relief. That gave me such an appetite that I felt half starved about all the time, and I immediately began to gain in weight, my complexion cleared, and I felt better. The bed sores went very soon after a few applications of Cuticura Ointment, and when I used Cuticura Soap as a shampoo and Cuticura Ointment as a massage, my hair began to regain its former glossy appearance. I am really all made over, and cannot say enough for the Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. Lavina J. Henderson, 138 Broad St., Stamford, Conn., March 6 and 12, 1907."

ITCHING DEVILS

Are little patches of eczema on the skin, scalp, or hands, which are instantly relieved and speedily cured, in the majority of cases, by gentle anointings of Cuticura Ointment, the great Skin Cure, preceded by warm baths with Cuticura Soap. This treatment succeeds when all else fails, and is pure, sweet, permanent, and economical.

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, in vials of 60) to Purify the Blood. Meat Will Go Down When Spring Cattle Come on

Local Butcher Says When Grass Cattle Come on Prices Will Drop

In view of the advance in meat prices in Toronto and other places, local butchers were questioned by The Post as to the prospects here.

Mr. D. Adams said, "There is little prospect of higher prices in meat here. In fact there will be a drop in price before it goes up any more. Lamb is cheaper and pork is no dearer. Beef has been the same for some time, the better cuts especially, and when the grass cattle come in the price will go down. So far we have handled nothing but stall-fed stuff." Practically the same story was told at O'Halloran's, Primeau's and the other places / which inquiry was made.

Householders will be glad to know that any change is likely to be a reduction and not an elevation in price.

There Is Ice For Everybody

Crop Harvested Last Winter Quite Enough to go Around

Housekeepers who have been wondering whether the ice crop would last out or not may rest assured that there will be enough to go around, according to what Mr. J. Reynolds ice dealer, told The Post to-day. The price as everybody knows is a little stiffer than last year but he said there was no doubt but what there would be lots to go around. More people use ice every year and that is one problem ice men have to face.

Suicide Occurs at Port Hope Was Formerly Employed There

W. Wallace of Toronto Drinks Carbolic Acid and Crosses the River

W. Wallace committed suicide at Port Hope Wednesday morning by taking a quantity of carbolic acid.

Wallace was employed at the Standard Ideal a year ago as a moulder and came down from Toronto a few days ago in search of work. Unable to find any employment, he spent most of his time about the hotels, and it is said that he had been drinking quite heavily. He was given one night's lodging at the jail and during his stay here has had no particular place of abode.

Tuesday evening he visited one of the local drug stores and purchased an ounce and a half of carbolic acid, stating that he wished to use it for killing bugs. He took up his quarters for the night in an old sleigh in the driving shed of the Queen's hotel, and soon afterwards swallowed the poison. He was found by the hostler at the Queen's next morning at five o'clock and he had been dead several hours. Coroner Aldrich was called and decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The remains were taken in charge by Mr. Alf. George and arrangements for the interment were made by local members of the union.

Deceased was about forty-five years of age, five foot six inches in height, dark moustache and partially bald. He wore a dark tweed suit, black sateen shirt and christy. It is thought he has a wife and family living in Toronto, and an effort is being made to locate them.

Friday Night's Excursion

Ladies' Aid of Cambridge st. Methodist Church Score a Success

The members of the Cambridge-st. Methodist Ladies' Aid felt amply satisfied with the moonlight excursion held Wednesday in Fenelon Falls. Over 225 "kids, paters and maters" and other folks were on board the Esturion when she pulled out, ready to take full advantage of the enjoyment of the evening. Although the moon was discernable, it failed to shine to any degree of excess, but the "twinkle, twinkle, little star," did the very best it could. Some delightful music was rendered by the Sylvester band on board the boat and at the "quaint Cataract Village," and it was certainly much appreciated by every-one. On returning to town, it was easy to judge from the remarks of the passengers, that it was an assured fact that a most enjoyable evening had been spent.

Story of the Lindsay Jail The Provincial Inspector's Report

Details of Business Transacted at the County's House of Entertainment

The fortieth annual report of the Inspector of Prisons and Public Charities, Dr. Bruce Smith, of Toronto, just to hand, shows some figures in connection with the Lindsay jail. It says, among other things, that there were 40 male and 28 female prisoners admitted during the year, against 34 and 7 respectively in the previous year. The number of those admitted for drunkenness was 6, an increase of four. For the last twenty years the average yearly has been about five. During the year there had been one insane or feeble minded prisoner. For the year ending Sept. 30 1907 the number committed was 31 two of whom were under sixteen years of age. In each case it was their first experience, so they said. One got his for felonious assault, four for counterfeiting and passing counterfeit money, two for destroying or injuring property, and six for being drunk and disorderly. Ten of those committed to the Lindsay jail were married men of family and twenty-one were not. Four of them could neither read nor write, seventeen said they were temperate and fourteen intemperate. It cost $516.52 to look after the appetites of these thirty-one $1350. in official salaries, while the total expenditure in this connection was $1866.52. Up at the Court House the jailer gets $550 the turnkey $500, the matron $100 and the jail surgeon $200 a year. For the thirty-one enforced temporary guests at Castle Jackson it cost the county forty-one cents a day on an average.

Bridge Will Lay Down in its Tracks

Bridgetender Mills Has His Doubts as to the Present Structure

Bridgetender George Mills thinks it is about time that a new bridge was built to replace the old one on Wellington-st. He fully expects that the present one will lay down in its tracks some of these days and quit working. He thinks that the town council should waite upon the Government at Ottawa and ask for a new bridge as it requires constant repair to keep the present one in working order.

Lightning Destroyed All the Household Furniture

Peterboro Man Suffers Severe Loss Through Electrical Storm

Tuesday afternoon about 3.20, o'clock, lightning struck the residence of J. Pierce, who is employed by the Brenton Carpet Co., Peterboro, and resides on Wescott street. At the time Mrs. Pierce and child were in the house, but were not injured.

The lightning struck the rear of the house and set the interior on fire. A large amount of upholstered parlor and other furniture and most of the other contents were completely destroyed and much damage was done to the interior of the house.

The fire brigade was called and had to be summoned by 'phone as the call box nearby, No. 14, was put out of working order by the same stroke that hit the house. The brigade did good work, managing by their efforts to save the outside of the house. The house is the property of Mr. Evans, whose loss is covered by insurance, but Mr. Pierce will suffer a total loss as none of the contents of the house were insured.

Lightning Melts a Pipe at Peterboro

Woodwork and Much Damage is Done to Interior of Shop

Still another freak of the lightning is reported. During the storm on Tuesday last its costly playfulness was made evident at the premises of Mr. H. T. Millard, who conducts the bicycle repair and sales business, Peterborough.

At about 11.30 o'clock the lightning ran down an electric wire to the interior of the shop and melted a section of gas pipe over which the wire crossed. The piece melted was about six or eight inches in length and the drops of molten matter that fell from it alighted on the top of the silent salesman in the store, leaving innumerable blotches on the glass.

Although the gas was turned off at the meter there was some left on in the pipe and when the lightning melted the pipe combustion resulted and some of the woodwork was burned. A man who was passing at the time received such a shock that he was thrown from the pavement into the road. Thinking the place was on fire he went into the hotel next door for help, but no sign of any blaze could be seen when he had summoned assistance.

Only the night previous lightning burned out the motor in Mr. Millard's shop and he had to have the motor removed.

Very Enjoyable Excursion

Masonic Fraternity Out on a Pleasure Hunt on Board the Esturion

The excursion on the Esturion last Thursday under the auspices of Faithful Brethren Lodge, A. F. & A. M., was a grand success from every standpoint.

There were about 130 ladies and gentlemen on board, and they thoroughly enjoyed themselves. The evening was a delightful one and the pleasure of the occasion was very materially enhanced by a number of excellent selections from the Sylvester band.

The boat left the town wharf at half-past six, and after a pleasant sail of about two and a half hours, McConnell's Island was reached.

The island was lit up with torches and roman candles for the occasion. A pleasant stay of three hours was made, during which lunch was served and the tim ewas enlivened by the band.

Returning the party left the island ta eleven o'clock, reaching home at about half-past one.

Settlement Was Reached

The Suit of the Port Hope Brewing and Malting Company Withdrawn

The case of the Port Hope Brewing and Malting Co. against George Hudson Burton which was to have come up in the non-jury sittings before Mr. Justice Britton was called off, the parties having settled the dispute between themselves.

The plaintiffs claimed the sum of $282.45 together with interest and the costs of the litigation. This case was transferred to Lindsay by Mr. Justice Anglin, with the consent of the parties concerned.

It seems that in 1904 the defendent had bought several shares of stock from this company and had paid part of the money for these shares. He when he bought the shares that 20 per cent interest would be paid annually and the company would not combine with any other companies in the same business. These conditions he alleges, were not fulfilled, and thus he reasons he is not legally bound to pay the balance due the company. The sum of $232.45 is the balance claimed by the company.

The case is a very interesting one O'Connell & Gordon, of Peterborough are for the plaintiffs; T. E. Gordon of Bracebridge, for the defendant.

Boosy Fish Is Captured

Bruce Griffis Gets Maskinonge Near the Brewery.

Mr. Bruce Griffis hooked a tempting, looking lunge Thursday near the Lindsay-st. bridge. The near proximity of the brewery probably accounts for the lunge being snipped with such ease. Whatever the reason, a number of ardent fishermen could be seen dangling their legs over various positions of advantage waiting patiently for that "which never comes."

If boiled water is poured several times from one jug to another after it has cooled it will not have that flat taste that it usually possesses.

Child Scalded . . To Death

Port Perry Infant Meets Awful Death at Its Parents' Home

A tragically sad event took place at the hom eof Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, who live about three miles north of Port Perry, one day last week. Their infant child placed a little box beside a tub of scalding water, and in attempting to climb upon the box turned over the tub and was severely scalded. Everything was done to relieve the suffering of the child, and, if possible, save its life. All efforts were fruitless. The little one died in a short time and was buried last Sunday. The sympathy of the whole neighborhood goes out to the bereaved parents in their sorrow.

Interesting Figure from Peterboro

An Octogenarian Attends the Funeral of the Late Mrs. Flavelle

An interesting figure at the funeral of the late Mrs. John Flavelle Thursday was that of Mr. James Stevenson, ex-M.P. of Peterboro. Mr. Stevenson was in the hardware business in Peterboro sixty-two years ago when Mrs. Flavelle came out from Ireland with her husband and he was one of the first friends of the newly arrived family—a relationship which was maintained throughout all the intervening years and only terminated on Tuesday last when Mrs. Flavelle passed away. Mr. Stevenson was one of the first mayors of Peterboro and his business like grasp of affairs won for him the hearty good will and support of many a political opponent. After that for many years he represented West Peterboro in the House of Commons, though of recent years he has ceased to take any active part in politics, his years, now reaching 86, rendering him less active than formerly.

If the pipe from the sink in the scullery becomes clogged with grease pour down strong boiling soda water the last thing at night, and in the morning flush the sink well with cold water.

Not Merely a Better Roof — but the ONE Roof that's Right

BEFORE you make up your mind that a cheap-for-price-sake roof is all that you can afford just now—

Get a good look into the roofing question as it concerns your pocket-book a year from now—or twenty-five years.

I know you can put on a roof that will cost a few dollars less than an "Oshawa"-shingled roof. Wood shingles cost about the same. Most of the tar-paper roofs cost less—if you want a roof that will melt away in a season or so.

Last year half-a-million dollars wouldn't cover the damage lightning did to Canadian barns. Not one cent of that loss would have occurred if the buildings struck—barns, mostly,—had been safeguarded by "Oshawa" Galvanized Steel Shingles.

And, besides making buildings lightning-proof and absolutely weather-proof, warmer in winter (because these shingles are wind-proof) and cooler in summer (because they keep out the sun's heat), they go a long way to make buildings fireproof.

"OSHAWA"
GALVANIZED STEEL
SHINGLES

A new roof for nothing if they leak by 1933

But this roof of mine will be a good roof for a HUNDRED years—and that's no mere trade talk. We GUARANTEE it for twenty-five years—which means that if it leaks in that time you get a NEW roof for NOTHING.

If there was nothing else that made an "Oshawa"-shingled roof better worth buying than any other roof, this one fact of their being LIGHTNING-proof ought to make you put them on your barn or residence.

The saving in reduced insurance rates alone will pay their cost in a very few years.

With all this, an "Oshawa"-shingled roof costs only as much as a cedar-shingled roof,—and outlasts it ten to one.

Suppose you read the free book about "Roofing Right." Sample shingle goes with the book. Sent as soon as we get your request,—a postcard will do to ask on.

Itinerary of Post Free Trip

How Eight Pleasant Days Will be Spent--About the St. Lawrence.

Just by way of explanation the itinerary of the Post's Toronto to Quebec Free Trip is published to-day. It will be seen that eight days of real sight seeing are provided for, including at least four days on the water at a time of year when everything in nature is at its best.

The party leaves Lindsay on Aug. 27, taking the boat at Toronto, arriving at Charlotte (the port of Rochester) at 9.15 that night. Kingston will be called on at five o'clock a. m., and Prescott will have been reached by about ten o'clock next morning. Montreal is reached at 6.30 p. m. The trip is resumed at 7 o'clock and Quebec is reached early on the morning of Aug. 29.

The return trip is commenced at 5 p. m. that night, arriving at Montreal at 7 o'clock Sunday, Aug. 30. A stop of a day and a half is made in Montreal coming back, the party taking the noon boat for Prescott, arriving there at 7 o'clock next morning, the 1st of September. After a four hours' stay the trip through the Thousand Islands in daylight begins. The American side of the river will be followed, making a call at Ogdensburg, N. Y., one of the features. Charlotte will be reached at half-past ten on the night of September first. Rochester will be visited during that evening and the next day, the boat being boarded for Toronto at 11.45 p.m. on the evening of Sept. 3rd: Toronto will be reached early next morning, and the day spent in seeing the Queen City and the Canadian National Exhibition.

THE ROMANTIC ST. LAWRENCE

It might be said that all the romance in the history of the American continent from the time of its discovery to the present day is crowded into that section which forms the Watershed of the St. Lawrence river. From our school days up to the present time we have been absorbed in the literature both historical and of fiction of which the scene is laid in the section above referred to. Every point from the Niagara frontier down Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence river to where that grand stream debouches into the gulf, is provocative of something of the romantic in history, coupled with scenery at once grand and beautiful, magnificent and charming. There is no better way to spend a vacation or to enrich one's mind than to take, say a steamer of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company from Toronto, passing down Lake Ontario thence through the charming scenery of the Thousand Islands and the rapids of the St Lawrence to Montreal, thence to Quebec, such as the successful Post Free Trip candidates will do. The steamers of this line are well equipped and the catering is of the best.

The Collegiate Fire Escape

Mr. J. W. Anderson and Committed Will Erect a Perfectly Safe One

The management committee of the board of education, of which Mr. J. W. Anderson is chairman, met in his office Wednesday and talked over fire escape matters in connection with the collegiate institute. As a result Mr. Anderson, who proposes to erect a substantial escape, is hopeful that his wishes in the matter will be carried out. It is also said that the proposal of Mr. Thos. Stewart, chairman of the board, may be arranged, that is to say, the escape to cost approximately $600, with only half the cost to be borne this year. The fire-escape people with whom the board are dealing are willing to allow of such an arrangement.

Mr. Anderson hoped to erect such a perfectly safe escape that when the assembly hall is used people may reach the ground by the escape, as a means of ordinary exit as well as by the stairway. He wants one that people will have confidence in.

Local Gun Club Is Progressing

Organization Off to Good Start---Practice Match Yesterday

The Lindsay gun club has now got a fairly good working basis, when it is considered that a month ago there was no club at all. The traps are situated just east of the Lindsay-st. bridge over the Scugog, and so far as location is concerned could hardly be surpassed. The men fire towards the river. Thursday it was hoped to hold a handicap match, but for various reasons some of the best shots could not be on hand. A little match on the side took place between R. Porter, R. Fortt, and R. Hopkins. The match was for 25 birds, the score standing Fortt 14, Porter 10 and Hopkins 4.

I cannot express too strongly my great gratitude to this medicine as I am as well now in every way as ever I was, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives". I can strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives", it is easy to take and the effect is always mild like fruit.

Will Inspect Health Conditions

Of Stoney Lake--Dr. Bell, Provincial Inspector, is in Town

Dr. R. W. Bell, of Toronto, medical inspector for the provincial board of health, is on his way to Stoney Lake on a tou rof inspection. He will spend a day there and hopes to ascertain what was the cause of the typhoid outbreak there last summer.

Dr. Bell states that the health of the province is exceedingly good at the present time. Smallpox has practically been stamped out, there being only two or three cases now. One of these is at Niagara Falls, Ont. Dr. Bell was there one day last week. He was at Gananoque on Tuesday and at Warkworth on Wednesday.

Health Hints.

If you are hungry immediately after rising, if you enjoy breakfast eat it. If you are not hungry don't. Cold water before breakfast might injure some one whose vitality si very low, but as a rule it would be a tonic to the stomach. It is very quickly absorbed and cannot eb harmful in its effects by diluting the gastric juice provided there is an actual thirst for the water. This desire indicates that it is needed.

As to working before breakfast some of the best work of my life for the last twenty-five years has been done before breakfast. Those who eat no breakfast usually find that the head is clearer and that they are more energetic and more capable because of this habit. But that does not necessarily mean that every one can be better without breakfast. If you go without breakfast and are more capable because of it continue the habit. If you feel better after eating the breakfast continue to eat breakfast. In other words use your own judgment and then adhere to that rule, whatever it may be—Bernarr Macfadden, in "Physical Culture."

Business is Increasing Fast

Revival of Trade Brings Increased Traffic to the Grand Trunk Railway

"Business has picked up wonderfully the last six or eight days," was what Mr. E. J. Kingsley, superintendent of the local division of the Grand Trunk Railway told a Post reporter this morning.

Not so very long ago they had any amount of freight cars lying idle; now they have none. Generally considered things were looking much brighter, he said, the prospects being that the fall would see them as busy as ever. Passenger traffic for some reason or other had picked up very satisfactorily too. They expected a big day on July, 1st, provided the weather was favorable; On the 24th May it will be rememberd both railways had tremendous crowds.

Lists Fairly Satisfactory

The finance committee of the Y. M. C. A. met Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of going over the membership lists of the association. In view of the big task, an adjournment was made until Saturday, when it is expected the work will be completed. So far as they have investigated they found things in a fairly satisfactory condition. Mr. A. D. Kitchener is chairman of the committee.

Holidays Have Come

The School Boy's Mind is in a Glorious State of Ecstacy.

On Tuesday to the school boy and girl mind was a day looked forward to with happy anticipation, a red-letter day that came only once annually for it was the "last day of school" and that was no small thing to their minds. Many have already chosen their summer haunts, whilst probably others will participate in the numerous enjoyments to be found abounding at Sturgeon Point. But there are a chosen few who look on the last day with an increasing awe, tending almost to nervousness, in other words, contrary to the well-known adage, it is a "storm before the calm" that is to those who began writing on their exams this morning.

Cobourg Annual Horse Show

A High Class Exhibition of High Class Horses.

The Cobourg summer horse show will be held on the 18th, 19th, 20th and 21st of August this year. They do not claim that Cobourg Horse Show this year will be the greatest, best and most fashionable, but they are trying their very best to make it the most enjoyable event of its kind in Canada, and from a horse breeder's standpoint a worthy show in every respect, and one that will do great good to this highly important industry in this section of Canada.

While last year's show was such a grand exhibition of high steppers, jumpers, tandems, etc., every indication points to the fact that there will be double the number of entries this year in these very attractive events. However interesting these events are to the public, the Horse Show directors believe that the utmost attention must be given to the horse industry of the Midland counties of Ontario.

Woman's Institute At Fenelon Falls

Instructive Lectures by Miss McMurchy and Miss Grey

On Wednesday the regular summer meeting of the Women's Institute was held in Dickson's hall. Though the attendance was not as large as usual owing to several church meetings taking place the same afternoon the audience was very appreciative. The meeting was opened by the president Mrs. Dr. Gould, who introduced Miss Grey, of Toronto, and Miss McMurchy, of Harriston, the delegates for this year. The subject of Miss Grey's address was "Art in Home Decoration." She handled her subject in an admirable manner illustrating by means of samples the correct treatment of walls and ceilings with reference to situation as regards light, also as to height of walls etc. Many valuable suggestions were given particular emphasis being laid on harmony in the color scheme not only in the treatment of each room separately but also with reference to halls and other rooms adjoining striking contrasts to be avoided. Too little decoration rather than a bazaar-like effect was in much better taste and much more restful.

Miss McMurchy then gave a demonstration on the cooking of egg, milk, and cheese dishes, explaining the relative food value of each showing that cheese is one of the most valuable and economical of foods, and when properly ripened, which is not inside of six months, and prepared by being grated and cooked is also one of the most digestible. Two dishes cooked by Miss McMurchy were handed around and sampled by the ladies who pronounced them delicious. Leaflets issued by the Department of Agriculture were distributed containing directions for the cooking of cereals and dishes made from eggs, cheese milk, compiled under the direction of Miss M. Watson of McDonald institute, Guelph. The aim of the McDonald Institute and the Women's Institute is to encourage dainty simplicity and economy of time, rather than fussy elaboration and waste time.

After a vote of thanks being tendered the speakers the meeting was closed by singing the National Anthem.

The Ladies' Aid of the Cambridge-st Methodist church, Lindsay, brought a large crowd to the Falls on Wednesday night on the Esturion. The excursion was advertised for Tuesday evening but was postponed on account of the rain. The open air concert given by the band on Colborne-st. was much enjoyed by both the excursionists and the residents of this burg who know how to appreciate good music.

Mr. Fred Cullon, of Toronto, a former resident of this town, is here this week.

Miss Hamshaw, of Weston, is visiting friends here in town.

Mr. Chas. Hand, of Dundas, came home last week.

The Messrs. Campbell, of Texas are visiting their grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Clarke.

Mr. T. Begley, of The Post, Lindsay spent Tuesday and Wednesday in town going north on business on Wednesday.

Mr. W. H. Robson spent Wednesday in Toronto on business.

Tooting One's Own Horn

You Must Do It Nowadays If You Wish to Succeed

To be a success in these times we must own a horn and toot it continually. To get a front seat we must walk in, push our way past slower men and take the seat, and we must look as if we not only owned it, but had a mortgage on all private boxes and could occupy any of them if we so desired.

The man who wants to succeed must struggle for a front seat even if he has to jostle the real owner, and put his umbrella down on his soft corn. Once in a while he may be set back where he belongs but he will get in front oftener than if he should wait to be invited forward.

The world has not time to analyze character, weigh ability and to decide as to the relative ability of men. This is a fast hurrying, rushing world of ours and it is very much influenced by the value that a man sets on himself. If he says; "I am a great orator or a noted scientist," the world is apt to take it for granted that he is rather than go to the trouble of holding a civil service examination of his merits If he says; "I am but a poor weak worm of the dust," the world will say "You look like it; get out of the way"

We have taken a practical worldly view of the matter and the amount of moral ethics in this article may seem to you limited but there is truth enough in it to bulge out at the edges and split up the seams.

School Children Honor the Memory of Miss Laura Secord

Ninety-fifth Anniversary of Battle of Beaver Dams Wednesday.

The children in Miss Ray's form of the Francis-st school Wednesday celebrated the 95th anniversary of the battle of Beaver Dams, the occasion on which the Canadian heroine, Miss Laura Secord, so distinguished herself. The children are wearing little badges commemorative of the event. The story of the battle and of the campaign of 1813 was retold and discussed in class, while in other ways the day will be a memorable one.

The story of the fight as taken from the High School history is as follows;

"At Beaver Dams (near the present town of Thorold,) Lieutenant Fitzgibbon, with a small force was stationed. General Dearborn hoped to surprise this post, and for that purpose sent 500 men from Fort George, under Major Boerstler. A Canadian heroine, Miss Laura Secord, becoming aware of the plan, set out on foot to warn the British of the intended attack. To avoid the American sentries she had to walk twenty miles, a journey that took all day, from early morning till sunset. Fitzgibbon, warned, made such a skilful arrangement of his few men in the woods, that the Americans thought they were surrounded by a large force, and after a brief resistance, surendered to only one-half their own number of men."

Fenelon Orangemen are Making Preparations for a Big Time

A big celebration of the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne will be held at Fenelon on the twelfth and a committee is hard at work making all the necessary preparations.

A rumor has got out somehow that there will be no demonstration at the Falls, but the committee deny it and say that no stone will be left unturned to make the demonstration a grand success.

Lindsay and Adjacent Waters Inspected by Prominent G.T.R. Official

District Passenger Agent McDonald Shown Around.

Tuesday Mr. J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent of the G. T. R., was in town on business of his road, and in the afternoon Mr. Wilson, of The Post, took the opportunity of placing before him the many advantages offered by the Scugog and Sturgeon Lake waters. Mr. A. B. Terry kindly placed his very handsome fast yacht at the disposal of the party and at the wharf they were joined by His Honor Judge Harding, and Mr. Morson, manager of the Bank of Commerce. The run down the river was made in the heavy shower, and Pleasant Point and Sturgeon Point were visited, but on account of the rain a hurried view was only given, but sufficient to convince Mr. McDonald that Lindsay had one of the finest resorts east of Toronto, and so conveniently situated to Toronto. The trip was continued to Fenelon Falls, where the Kawartha hotel was visited and its accommodation inspected. The hotel is just being opened with a new manager and every indication points to having a successful season.

Mr. McDonald was very much pleased with his afternoon's outing, and remarked his road was prepared to offer every encouragement to any enterprise offering accommodation to summer visitors, and, in fact, the evening train to Fenelon Falls had been put on chiefly to assist the hotel at Fenelon Falls to secure some of the summer business. Mr. McDonald was very much impressed with the evident progress being made by Lindsay.

The Cause of Many Fires

The Result of Carelessness of Campers in the Timber Limits

"Campers and tourists" is an answer that comes readily to the lips of many lumbermen and timber-limit owners when asked as to how forest fires originate. Unfortunately the answer is often only too true.

The camper would certainly be decidedly averse to burning over the woodland which affords him recreation, rest and pleasure. But he fails to realize what a small cause may give rise to a serious fire in the forest, and hence does not exercise the necessary caution with regard to his camp fires and even his matches and cigar-ends, for these latter, small as they are, may be just as much to blame for starting a serious conflagration as a fire of far larger proportions. Constant care, eternal vigilance must be exercised in the forest by everyone who has cause to use fires (and who has not?) lest the fire should escape from him and get into the forest soil and even into the tree tops.

Campers themselves may greatly assist in this matter by observing a few general cautions. Camp fires should not be any larger than necessary, and no one should leave a fire, even for a short time, without making sure that it is thoroughly put out. A lighted match, or cigar-end, or other burning object should never be thrown down in the woods; it should be thoroughly extinguished before being thrown away. Fires should not be built among leaves, rotten wood or in places where they are likely to spread on account of the inflammable nature of the surroundings; build the fire on a rock, if possible, or, if there is no rock convenient, at least, clear away the leaves, humus, etc., down to the mineral soil if at all possible. Nor should fires be built against large or hollow logs, as in such cases it is hard to be sure when they are entirely extinguished. If the weather is windy, it is well to confine the fire in a hole, dug right down in the mineral soil.

Only a few days ago, newspaper despatches told of very serious fires in the Lake St. John region in Quebec, destroying one village; these are supposed to have been started by careless fishermen who neglected to extinguish their camp fires.

Entertainment at House of Refuge

Go Forth Mission Band Entertain the Old Folks to a Pleasant Program

The Go Forth Mission Band of St. Andrew's church in charge of Mrs. Alex. Horn entertained the old people at the House of Refuge on Monday evening to a musical program. Among those who took part were Misses Mitchell, Smith, Seaton, White and McLean. The evening's entertainment was thoroughly enjoyed by the inmates and the kindly spirit which animated the proceedings was much appreciated.

Who Named it St. Lawrence?

Do you know how the St. Lawrence river was named?

When Jacques Cartier first entered the gulf of this mighty river upon the tenth of August, 1535, he was at a loss for a name which might be given to his discovery.

Consulting his saint's calendar, in his perplexity, he found that the day was the anniversary of the birth of Saint Laurent, A.D. 258.

The river was accordingly named after this pious saint and martyr.

The English occupation of Canada has resulted in a change of the name from Saint Laurent to St. Lawrence, but this slight variation can deprive neither Cartier nor Saint Laurent of the honor of naming it.

The ten young women whom The Post will send upon a trip down this river next August are to be selected by the readers of the paper. Over two dozen candidates are now in the contest and each desires your vote. The value of special ballots is given upon another page together with the standing of the candidates.

At the regular meeting of Court Lindsay, No. 181, I. O. F., feeling reference was made to the death of the late Mr. Harry Collins, supreme treasurer of the order and the following resolution was unanimously adopted by a standing vote.—

A Recherche Pupils' Recital

Miss Mabel Winters' Pupils Display Much Talent and Good Training

Somewhat remarkable for the excellence of programme from a musical point of view was the recital given Tuesday evening by the piano and vocal pupils of Miss Mabel B. Winters in the lecture room of Cambridge-st. Methodist church. Miss Winters was assisted by Miss Elsie Richardson, reader, and Miss Margaret Cairns, violinist. To attempt an individual criticism would obviously be somewhat superfluous in view of the really excellent performance of every one who assisted. A good deal of what was to be expected could be seen when one had read the program which was as follows; Piano duett, "March from Tannhauser," Wagner, by Misses Lunny and Mercer; vocal solo, "Life's Lullaby" Lane, Miss Ruby Hartley,; piano solo, "Hedge's Roses," Spindler, Miss Rose Terry; vocal, "Down the Vale" Lohr, Miss Florence Graham; reading, "The Dude," Bengough, Miss Elsie Richardson; piano, (a) Valse Chronatize" Godard, (b) "Seranata", Mezskawsai, Miss V. Lunney; vocal, "Sunshine and Rain," Bluenthal, Miss Annie Seaton; violin, "Annie Laurie" Harris, Miss Margaret Cairns, vocal, "Loves Echo" Newton, Master Percy Mulheron, piano, (a) "Nuit Etoile," Concone, (b) "Spring Song" Mend, Miss Lottie Post vocal "The Swallows" Cowan, Miss Mary Killen; piano, "Playfulness." Miss Vivian Nugent, vocal, "Bonnie Sweet Bessie" Mrs. V. D. MacPherson; piano, "La Fountaine" Bohun, Miss Gladys Stinson, vocal "Sing On." Denze, Miss V. Lunny; violin, "Berceuse," Needham, Miss Jean Post; reading, 'The Late Mr. Columbus," Bengough, Miss Elsie Richardson; vocal "With Verdure Clad," from "The Creation," by Master Percy Mulheron; piano, (a) "Die Jagel," Rheinberger, (b) Nocyutine, Op. 9, No. 2, Chopan Miss Lottie Post.

Miss Richardson's reading's were much enjoyed as were Miss Cairn's violin solo. The selection from Hodges's Creation, by Master Percy Mulheron, Lindsay's well known boy soprano, was also a source of much pleasur. Miss Seaton's rendition of her solo was such as to admit of no criticism, while as a matter of fact none of those taking part need fear anything from their critics.

"A week ago," he persisted, "you called me Fitzroy. Once in an outburst of confidence you called me Fitz."

"You hadn't asked me to marry you then," she laughed mockingly. Then, edging away toward the door, she waved her hand at him playfully and said teasingly: "Good by, Mr. Bagley. I am going upstairs to Mrs. Ryder. I will await my father's return in her room. I think I shall be safer."

He ran forward to intercept her, but she was too quick for him. The door slammed in his face, and she was gone.

Meantime Jefferson had proceeded upstairs, passing through long and luxuriously carpeted corridors with paneled frescoed walls and hung with grand old tapestries and splendid paintings, until he came to his mother's room. He knocked.

"Come in!" called out the familiar voice.

He entered. Mrs. Ryder was busy at her escritoire looking over a mass of household accounts.

"Hello, mother! How's father?" he cried, running up and hugging her in his boyish, impulsive way. Jefferson had always been devoted to his mother, and, while he deplored her weakness in permitting herself to be so completely under the domination of his father, she had always found him an affectionate and loving son.

Mrs. Ryder sighed while she looked her son over proudly. In her heart she was glad Jefferson had turned out as he had. Her boy certainly would never be a financier to be attacked in magazines and books. Answering his question, she said:

"Your father is as well as those busybodies in the newspapers will let him be. He's considerably worried just now over that new book, 'The American Octopus.' How dare they make him out such a monster? He's no worse than other successful men. He's richer, that's all, and it makes them jealous. He's out driving now with Senator Roberts. Kate is somewhere in the house—in the library, I think."

"Yes, I found her there," replied Jefferson dryly. "She was with that cad, Bagley. When is father going to find that fellow out?"

"Oh, Jefferson," protested his mother, "how can you talk like that of Mr. Bagley? He is such a perfect gentleman. His family connections alone should entitle him to respect. He is certainly the best secretary your father ever had. I'm sure I don't know what we should do without him. He knows everything that a gentleman should."

"And a good deal more, I wager," growled Jefferson. "He wasn't groom of the backstairs to England's queen for nothing." Then changing the topic, he said suddenly: "Talking about Kate, mother, we have got to reach some definite understanding. This talk about my marrying her must stop. I intend to take the matter up with father today."

"Oh, of course, more trouble!" replied his mother in a resigned tone. She was so accustomed to having her wishes thwarted that she was never surprised at anything. "We heard of your goings on in Paris. That Miss Rossmore was there, was she not?"

"That has got nothing to do with it," replied Jefferson warmly. He resented Shirley's name being dragged into the discussion. Then more calmly he went on: "Now, mother, be reasonable. Listen. I purpose to live my own life. I have already shown my father that I will not be dictated to and that I can earn my own living. He has no right to force this marriage on me. There has never been any misunderstanding on Kate's part. She and I understand each other thoroughly."

"Well, Jefferson, you may be right from your point of view," replied his mother weakly. She invariably ended by agreeing with the last one who argued with her. "You are of age, of course. Your parents have only a moral right over you. Only remember this: It would be foolish of you to do anything now to anger your father. His interests are your interests. Don't do anything to jeopardize them. Of course you can't be forced to marry a girl you don't care for, but your father will be bitterly disappointed. He had set his heart on this match. He knows all about your infatuation for Miss Rossmore, and it has made him furious. I suppose you've heard about her father."

"Yes, and it's a dastardly outrage!" blurted out Jefferson. "It's a conspiracy against one of the most honorable men that ever lived, and I mean to ferret out and expose the authors. I came here today to ask father to help me."

"You came to ask your father to help you?" echoed his mother incredulously.

"Why not?" demanded Jefferson. "Is it true, then, that he is selfishness incarnate? Wouldn't he do that much to help a friend?"

"You've come to the wrong house, Jeff. You ought to know that. Your father is far from being Judge Rossmore's friend. Surely you have sense enough to realize that there are two reasons why he would not raise a finger to help him. One is that he has always been his opponent in public life, and the other is that you want to marry his daughter."

"Yes, I see now, mother. You are right." Then he added bitterly: "That has always been the trouble at home. No matter where I turn, I am up against a stone wall—the money interests. One never hears a glimmer of fellow feeling, never a word of human sympathy, only cold calculation, heartless reasoning, money, money, money! Oh, I am sick of it! I don't want any of it. I am going away where I'll hear no more of it."

His mother laid her hand gently on his shoulder.

"Don't talk that way, Jefferson. Your father is not a bad man at heart. You know that. His life has been devoted to money making, and he has made a greater fortune than any man living or dead. He is only what his life has made him. He has a good heart, and he loves you, his only son. But his business enemies—ah, those he never forgives!"

Jefferson was about to reply when suddenly a dozen electric bells sounded all over the house.

"What's that?" exclaimed Jefferson, alarmed and starting toward the door.

"Oh, that's nothing," smiled his mother. "We have had that put in since you went away. Your father must have just come in. Those bells announce the fact. It was done so that if there happened to be any strangers in the house they could be kept out of the way until he reached the library safely."

"Oh," laughed Jefferson, "he's afraid some one will kidnap him? Certainly he would be a rich prize. I wouldn't care for the job myself, though. They'd be catching a tartar."

His speech was interrupted by a timid knock at the door.

"May I come in to say goodby?" asked a voice which they recognized as Kate's. She had successfully escaped from Mr. Bagley's importunities and was now going home with the senator. She smiled amiably at Jefferson, and they chatted pleasantly of his trip abroad. He was sincerely sorry for this girl whom they were trying to foist on him. Not that he thought she really cared for him—he was well aware that hers was a nature that made it impossible to feel very deeply on any subject—but the idea of this ready made marriage was so foreign, so revolting to the American mind! He thought it would be a kindness to warn her against Bagley.

"Don't be foolish, Kate," he said. "I was not blind just now in the library. That man is no good."

As is usual when one's motives are suspected, the girl resented his interference. She knew he hated Mr. Bagley, and she thought it mean of him to try and get even in this way. She stiffened up and replied coldly:

"I think I am able to look after myself, Jefferson. Thanks, all the same."

He shrugged his shoulders and made no reply. She said goodby to Mrs. Ryder, who was again immersed in her tradespeople bills, and left the room, escorted by Jefferson, who accompanied her downstairs and on to the street, where Senator Roberts was waiting for her in the open victoria. The senator greeted with unusual cordiality the young man whom he still hoped to make his son-in-law.

"Come and see us, Jefferson," he said. "Come to dinner any evening. We are always alone, and Kate and I will be glad to see you."

"Jefferson has so little time now, father. His work and—his friends keep him pretty busy."

Jefferson had noted both the pause and the sarcasm, but he said nothing. He smiled, and the senator raised his hat. As the carriage drove off the young man noticed that Kate glanced at one of the upper windows where Mr. Bagley stood behind a curtain watching. Jefferson returned to the house. The psychological moment had arrived. He must go now and confront his father in the library.

CHAPTER IX.

THE library was the most important room in the Ryder mansion, for it was there that the Colossus carried through his most important business deals, and its busiest hours were those which most men devote to rest. But John Burkett Ryder never rested. There could be no rest for any man who had a thousand millions of dollars to take care of.

Here the money Moloch held court like any king, with as much ceremony and more secrecy, and having for his courtiers some of the most prominent men in the political and industrial life of the nation. Corrupt senators, grafting congressmen, ambitious railroad presidents, insolent coal barons who impudently claimed they administered the coal lands in trust for the Almighty, unscrupulous princes of finance and commerce, all visited this room to receive orders or pay from the head of the "system." Here were made and unmade governors of states, mayors of cities, judges, heads of police, cabinet ministers, even presidents. Here were turned over to confidential agents millions of dollars to overturn the people's vote in the national elections. Here were distributed yearly hundreds of thousands of dollars to grafters, large and small, who had earned it in the service of the "interests."

Here secretly and unlawfully the heads of railroads met to agree on rates which by discriminating against one locality in favor of another crushed out competition, raised the cost to the consumer and put millions in the pockets of the trust. Here were planned tricky financial operations with deliberate intent to mislead and deceive the investing public, operations which would send stocks soaring one day, only a week later to put Wall street on the verge of panic. Half a dozen suicides might result from the coup, but twice as many millions of profits had gone into the coffers of the "system." Here, too, was perpetrated the most heinous crime that can be committed against a free people—the conspiring of the trusts, abetted by the railroads, to arbitrarily raise the prices of the necessaries of life—meat, coal, oil, ice, gas—wholly without other justification than that of greed, which with these men was the unconquerable, all absorbing passion. In short, everything that unscrupulous leaders of organized capital could devise to squeeze the life blood out of the patient, defenseless toiler was done within these four walls.

When Jefferson entered, his father was seated at his desk, a long black cigar between his lips, giving instructions to Mr. Bagley. Mr. Ryder looked up quickly as the door opened, and the secretary made a movement forward as if to eject the intruder, no matter who he might be. They were not accustomed to having people enter the sanctum of the Colossus so unceremoniously. But when he saw who it was Mr. Ryder's stern, set face relaxed, and he greeted his son amiably.

"Why, Jeff, my boy, is that you? Just a moment until I get rid of Bagley, and I'll be with you."

Jefferson turned to the bookshelves and ran over the titles while the financier continued his business with the secretary.

"Now, Bagley, come, quick! What is it?"

He spoke in a rapid, explosive manner, like a man who has only a few moments to spare before he must rush to catch a train. John Ryder had been catching trains all his life, and he had seldom missed one.

"Governor Rice called. He wants an appointment," said Mr. Bagley, holding out a card.

"I can't see him. Tell him so," came the answer quick as a flash. "Who else?" he demanded. "Where's your list?"

Mr. Bagley took from the desk a list of names and read them over.

"General Abbey telephoned. He says you promised"—

"Yes, yes," interrupted Ryder impatiently, "but not here. Down town, tomorrow, any time. Next?"

The secretary jotted down a note against each name and then said:

"There are some people downstairs in the reception room. They are here by appointment."

"The national committee and Sergeant Ellison of the secret service from Washington," replied Mr. Bagley.

"Who was here first?" demanded the financier.

"Sergeant Ellison, sir."

"Then I'll see him first and the committee afterward, but let them all wait until I ring. I wish to speak with my son."

He waved his hand, and the secretary, knowing well from experience that this was a sign that there must be no further discussion, bowed respectfully and left the room. Jefferson turned and advanced toward his father, who held out his hand.

"Well, Jefferson," he said kindly, "did you have a good time abroad?"

"Yes, sir, thank you. Such a trip is a liberal education in itself."

"Ready for work again, eh? I'm glad you're back, Jefferson. I'm busy now, but one of these days I want to have a serious talk with you in regard to your future. This artist business is all very well for a pastime, but it's not a career—surely you can appreciate that—for a young man with such prospects as yours. Have you ever stopped to think of that?"

Jefferson was silent. He did not want to displease his father. On the other hand, it was impossible to let things drift as they had been doing. There must be an understanding sooner or later. Why not now?

"The truth is, sir," he began timidly, "I'd like a little talk with you now if you can spare the time."

Ryder senior looked first at his watch and then at his son, who, ill at ease, sat nervously on the extreme edge of a chair. Then he said, with a smile:

"Well, my boy, to be perfectly frank, I can't—but—I will. Come, what is it?" Then, as if to apologize for his previous abruptness, he added: "I've had a very busy day, Jeff. What with Transcontinental and Transatlantic and Southern Pacific and Wall street and rate bills and Washington I feel like Atlas shouldering the world."

"The world wasn't intended for one pair of shoulders to carry, sir," rejoined Jefferson calmly.

His father looked at him in amazement. It was something new to hear any one venturing to question or comment upon anything he said.

"Why not?" he demanded when he had recovered from his surprise. "Julius Caesar carried it. Napoleon carried it—to a certain extent. However, that's neither here nor there. What is it, boy?"

Unable to remain a moment inactive, he commenced to pick among the mass of papers on his desk while Jefferson was thinking what to say. The last word his father uttered gave him a cue, and he blurted out protestingly:

"That's just it, sir. You forget that I'm no longer a boy. It's time to treat me as if I were a man."

Ryder senior leaned back in his chair and laughed heartily.

"A man at twenty-eight? That's an excellent joke. Do you know that a man doesn't get his horse sense till he's forty?"

"I want you to take me seriously," persisted Jefferson.

Ryder senior was not a patient man. His moments of good humor were of brief duration. Anything that savored of questioning his authority always angered him. The smile went out of his face, and he retorted explosively:

"Go on! Be serious if you want, only don't take so long about it. But understand one thing—I want no preaching, no philosophical or socialistic twaddle, no Tolstoi; he's a great thinker, and you're not; no Bernard Shaw; he's funny, and you're not. Now go ahead."

"Well, Jefferson, did you have a good time abroad?"

This beginning was not very encouraging, and Jefferson felt somewhat intimidated, but he realized that he might not have another such opportunity, so he plunged right in.

"Father, I am devoted to my work. I even intend to go away and travel a few years and see the world. It will help me considerably."

Ryder senior eyed his son in silence for a few moments; then he said gently:

"Don't be obstinate, Jeff. Listen to me. I know the world better than you do. You mustn't go away. You are the only flesh and blood I have. You see that I want you with me, and now you take advantage—you take advantage"—

"No, father, I don't," protested Jefferson, "but I want to go away. Although I have my studio and am practically independent, I want to go where I shall be perfectly free—where my every move will not be watched—where I can meet my fellow man heart to heart on an equal basis, where I shall not be pointed out as the son of Ready Money Ryder. I want to make a reputation of my own as an artist."

"Why not study theology and become a preacher?" sneered Ryder. Then more amiably he said: "No, my lad, you stay here. Study my interests—study the interests that will be yours some day."

"No," said Jefferson doggedly, "I'd rather go. My work and my self respect demand it."

"Then go, go!" cried his father in a burst of anger. "I'm a fool for wasting my time with an ungrateful son!" He rose from his seat and began to pace the room.

"Father," exclaimed Jefferson, starting forward, "you do me an injustice."

Ryder laughed cynically. He went back to his desk, and, sitting facing his son, he said:

"Jefferson, you are young. It is one of the symptoms of youth to worry about public opinion. When you are as old as I am, you will understand that there is only one thing which counts in this world—money. The man who has it possesses power over the man who has it not, and power is what the ambitious man loves most."

He stopped to pick up a book. It was "The American Octopus." Turning again to his son, he went on:

"Do you see this book? It is the literary sensation of the year. Why? Because it attacks me, the richest man in the world. It holds me up as a monster, a tyrant, a man without soul, honor or conscience, caring only for one thing—money; having but one passion—the love of power and halting at nothing, not even at crime, to secure it. That is the portrait they draw of your father."

Jefferson said nothing. He was wondering if his sire had a suspicion who wrote it and was leading up to that. But Ryder senior continued:

"Do I care? The more they attack me the more I like it. Their pony pen pricks have about the same effect as mosquito bites on the pachyderm. What I am, the conditions of my time made me. When I started in business a humble clerk, forty years ago, I had but one goal—success; I had but one aim—to get rich. I was lucky. I made a little money, and I soon discovered that I could make more money by outwitting my competitors in the oil fields. Railroad conditions helped me. The whole country was money mad. A wave of commercial prosperity swept over the land, and I was carried along on its crest. I grew enormously rich, my millions increasing by leaps and bounds. I branched out into other interests, successful always, until my holdings grew to what they are today—the wonder of the twentieth century. What do I care for the world's respect when my money makes the world my slave? What respect can I have for a people that cringe before money and let it rule them? Are you aware that not a factory wheel turns, not a vote is counted, not a judge is appointed, not a legislator seated, not a president elected without my consent? I ar[illegible] ruler of the United States—not the so called government at Washington. They are my puppets and this is my executive chamber. This power will be yours one day, boy, but you must know how to use it when it comes."

"I never want it, father," said Jefferson firmly. "To me your words savor of treason. I couldn't imagine that American talking that way." He pointed to the mantel, at a picture of George Washington.

Ryder senior laughed. He could not help it if his son was an idealist. There was no use getting angry, so he merely shrugged his shoulders and said:

"All right, Jeff. We'll discuss the matter later when you've cut your wisdom teeth. Just at present you're in the clouds. But you spoke of my doing you an injustice. How can my love of power do you an injustice?"

"Because," replied Jefferson, "you exert that power over your family as well as over your business associates. You think and will for everybody in the house, for everyone who comes in contact with you. Yours is an influence no one seems able to resist. You robbed me of my right to think. Ever since I was old enough to think you have thought for me; ever since I was old enough to choose you have chosen for me. You have chosen that I should marry Kate Roberts. That is the one thing I wished to speak to you about. The marriage is impossible."

Ryder senior half sprang from his seat.

"So," he said sternly, "this is your latest act of rebellion, is it? You are going to welsh on your word? You are going to jilt the girl?"

"I never gave my word," answered Jefferson hotly. "Nor did Kate understand that an engagement existed. You can't expect me to marry a girl I don't care a straw about. It would not be fair to her."

"Don't be a fool, Jeff. I don't want to think for you or to choose for you or to marry for you. I did not interfere when you threw up the position I made for you in the Trading company and took that studio. I realized that you were restless under the harness, so I gave you plenty of rein. But I know so much better than you what is best for you. Believe me I do. Don't—don't be obstinate. This marriage means a great deal to my interests—to your interests. Kate's father is all powerful in the senate. He'll never forgive this disappointment. Hang it all, you liked the girl once, and I made sure that"—

He stopped suddenly, and the expression on his face changed as a new light dawned upon him.

"It isn't that Rossmore girl, is it?" he demanded. His face grew dark, and his jaw clicked as he said between his teeth: "I told you some time ago how I felt about her. If I thought that it was Rossmore's daughter! You know what's going to happen to him, don't you?"

Thus appealed to, Jefferson thought this was the most favorable opportunity he would have to redeem his promise to Shirley. So, little anticipating the tempest he was about to unchain, he answered:

"I am familiar with the charges that they have trumped up against him. Needless to say, I consider him entirely innocent. What's more, I firmly believe he is the victim of a contemptible conspiracy. And I'm going to make it my business to find out who the plotters are. I came to ask you to help me. Will you?"

"I will see him hanged first! He has always opposed me. He has always defied my power, and now his daughter has entrapped my son. So it's her you want to go to, eh? Well, I can't make you marry a girl you don't want, but I can prevent you throwing yourself away on the daughter of a man who is about to be publicly disgraced, and I will."

"Poor old Rossmore!" said Jefferson bitterly. "If the history of every financial transaction were made known, how many of us would escape public disgrace? Would you?" he cried.

Ryder senior rose, his hands working dangerously. He made a movement as if about to advance on his son, but by a supreme effort he controlled himself.

"No, upon my word, it's no use disinheriting you. You wouldn't care. I think you'd be glad—on my soul, I do!" Then, calming down once more, he added: "Jefferson, give me your word of honor that your object in r[illegible]

Drowning Fatality Narrowly Averted

Little Jack Noftall had a Close call at Peterboro

The Otonabee river came near to claiming another victim last Friday afternoon, when Carl Noftall, the nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Noftall, corner of Aylmer and Murray-sts had a very narrow escape from drowning while in bathing in the river at the foot of Dublin street. A large number of boys were, as usual, swimming there and the little fellow went in with the rest. He was splashing around in the shallow water near shore when he suddenly found himself out of his depth. His predicament was not noticed by the other boys in the water and he was going down for the third time when Newton Thompson, son of sanitary inspector Thompson, who was on the pier nearby saw that he was drowning. Throwing off his coat the plucky youngster, plunged from the pier and seizing the drowning boy by the hair as he was disappearing for the third time, he succeeded in making shore with Noftall and the latter soon revived.

Only the prompt action of his rescuer saved his life as the boys who were swimming with him did not notice his danger or else were not eager to come to the rescue.

Stealing from Boat Houses

Sneak Thieves are at Work and Many Articles Have Already been Stolen

Reports are coming in from the owners of boat houses along the river banks to the effect that some person or persons were evidently devoting a goodly share of their time in "sneak thieving." Various persons have missed articles of value from their boat houses during the last two weeks and anyone captured in the act of such a dirty mean trick should certainly be well looked after by the law.

Man Crushed at Midland

Frank King Meets with Terrible Accident while at Work Saturday

A horrible accident occurred in the Grand Trunk yards at Midland on Saturday in which a brakeman named Frank King, of Lindsay-st, town was the victim.

The unfortunate man was engaged in shunting cars and while hanging on to one of the box cars happened to get his legs under the wheels. King however, gamely held on and after the first trucks had passed over he raised himself enough to get his limbs out of reach of the hind wheels

There were a number of people who witnessed the accident and as soon as possible the train was stopped. The young fellow was carried to the nearest house where a doctor attended to his injuries. He was afterwards removed to the hospital.

The doctors think that although they are badly mutilated they will be able to save his legs. In all probability Mr. King will be brought home tomorrow.

Value of Cultivation.

Five minutes, (five minutes watch time, not the "five minutes" of commerce that may mean half an hour) is quite enough to stir up the energy of a good-sized geranium bed so that your neighbors will marvel at its richness and size of bloom.

Actively Helping Favorite Candidate

Many Subscribers Paying Ahead to Help Candidates in the Battle of the Ballots.

Mr. John McDonald of Dunsford, was one of the many callers on The Post last Saturday to renew his subscription. Like many others Mr. McDonald paid two years ahead and cast his 800 votes for the lady of his choice. And so the battle goes merrily on.

Bordeaux Mixture

Always have a little can of bordeaux mixture handy. Well diluted, according to the directions that come with it, it will do wonders in a large proportion of the mysterious ills and blights that come to plants, both flowers and vegetables. When leaves turn yellow or get rustspotted, or when they wrinkle up and droop, and you cannot find any insect at work, give the plant a spraying with the mixture. Be sure to wash all vegetables carefully before using them for the table if they have been sprayed, as the stuff is poisonous.

A Busy Place of Business

Mr. McCrae's Foundry is not Feeling any Indication of Hard Times

Mr. John McCrae's foundry is a very busy place these days. The men are unusually busy and are rushing out the orders as fast as possible. The foundry shipped a large machine to Mr. John Burns, of Janetville, this morning to be used in his new shingle mill which he has erected. Mr. McCrae also supplied all the other machines that are needed in an establishment of this kind.

Just this morning an order was brought in for repairs for the Bobcaygeon Lumber Co's mill at Bobcaygeon. This order will be rushed through, as Mr. Carow is waiting to start cutting logs at that place.

Mr. McCrae says that business is picking up wonderfully and that they are busier than they have been for some time.

A New Teacher Is Appointed

Mr. Freeman of Port Hope will Succeed Mr. Dunkley at the Collegiate

Mr. J. A. Freeman, late of Port Hope and formerly of the Fergus high school is the new classical master on the staff of the Lindsay Collegiate Institute. His appointment dates from last night.

At the regular meeting of the board of education yesterday, the chairman Mr. Thos. Stewart, told the board that he was in receipt of a letter from Mr. Kirkconnel, who comes here to take the position formerly occupied by Mr. J. C. Harstone. The communication refferred to the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. A. W. Dunkley and mentioned Mr. Freeman as the best man for the position in the opinion of Mr. Kirkconnel. Mr. Stewart had also spoken over the long distance phone to Mr. Kirkconnel about Mr. Freeman, the result of which was that the latter came to Lindsay on last evening's train. He was met by the board and engaged.

At a former meeting when a classical master was being engaged Mr. Freeman's name was very favorably considered. He is not a young man and it is hoped that he will like the position well enough to remain here. Apparently the recommendation of Mr. Kirkconnel, who comes from the same school as Mr. Freeman had much weight with the members of the board.

Loops the Loop on Kent St.

Harold Coad Entertains a Kent-st. Audience and Does a Few Fancy Stunts

A curious accident occurred on Kent-st. Monday which left one of our younger citizens in a very sore plight. As Mr. Harold Coad was trying to do some fancy stunts on his wheel in the middle of Kent-st. he happened to run into a hound that was taking in the performance. Instead of jumping over the dog as he intended to do he struck the beast with the front wheel and then looped the loop. When he picked himself up he found a crowd of much amused onlookers.

Gypsies Pass Through the Town

A caravan load of gypsies passed through town last Tuesday on their way to find a good camping ground for the summer. There were no less than eight persons all told, crowded in the small wagon besides trunks and other baggage.

Bert Cooper Was Fined $5

Last Act in the Dog Comedy which has had Several Hearings

Bert Cooper, the man who, according to the evidence given in the Germain-Hodges trial a week ago was the one who in point of fact assaulted Mr. Hodges, was fined five dollars and costs, $22.20 in all, by Magistrate Moore in police court Tuesday.

The evidence which convicted him was the same as that which led the county magistrate to impose a fine of five dollars and costs on Germain the defendent in the other action.

Cooper had gone off to Toronto, probably thinking his name would not come up at all and that he would be perfectly safe there. At the trial his name figured so prominently that the Magistrate was heard to say that Germain was not the man he wanted but that Cooper was. Chief of Police Vincent at once instituted proceedings which resulted in Cooper's arrest and his consequent fine.

WEDDING BELLS

BLACKWELL—BROWN.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm Brown, Omemee, on Wednesday June 24th, when their youngest daughter, Charlotte Eva, was united in marriage to Herbert Edward Blackwell.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was beautifully gowned in white silk trimmed with silk lace and chiffon, and wore a veil and orange blossoms and carried a large bouquet of bridal roses. She was attended by Miss Lulu Taber, of Toronto, who was gowned in a champagne silk eolienne and carried a large bouquet of pink roses.

The groom was supported by Mr. Wm. M. Brown, brother of the bride.

The ceremony took place on the large lawn and was performed by Rev Mr. McCulloch, of Omemee. The near relatives of the bride and groom numbering about sixty, were present. A very enjoyable evening was spent in speeches, good wishes and music and solos.

The happy couple left amid showers of rice for Toronto and Niagara Falls

McDONALD — CHECKLEY

A quiet wedding was solemnized last Wednesday evening at 7.30 at the home of the Rev. W. H. Hincks, 225 Dunn avenue, Toronto. Parkdale, when Emma Jeane Checkley, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Checkley, of Toronto, became the bride of George Malcolm McDonald, third son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. McDonald, of Lindsay.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a pretty costume of elaborately embroidered swiss silk of copenhagen blue and carried a bouquet of pink and white roses with a spray of lily of the valley in her hair. The bride's cousin, Mrs. A. Harrison, 192 Strachan avenue, afterwards held a reception to a few of the most intimate friends, after which the happy couple left for the east on the midnight train, the bride travelling in a suit of cream panama trimmed with black velvet and hat to match. The young couple visited Kingston and Brockville friends, and after a trip to the Thousand Islands returned to Lindsay for over Sunday with the groom's parents. On their return to the city Mr. and Mrs. McDonald will reside on Wellesley street.

Special Meeting of Pointers

Cottagers Meet and Discuss Esturion's New Time Table

A special meeting of the Sturgeon cottagers was called Tuesday morning in Mr. Hopkins' office to consider the new time table of the Esturion which comes in force to-morrow, July 1st. There were present Messrs. J. D. Flavelle, A. McIntyre, W. Goodwin, Milne, Taylor, Bowes, Needler, Blackwell, Fisher, Geo. Jordan and F. Hopkins.

A general discussion took place on the new time table of the Esturion which gives a boat leaving Lindsay at 10 a. m., 2 p. m., and 5.45 p. m. for Sturgeon Point.

It was brought out in the discussion that it was not always possible to hold the boat for the train, which is often late, while the new service at 2.30 would accommodate both the G. T. R. and C. P. R. trains.

A vote was taken of those present, and the new time table was unanimously endorsed.

OAKWOOD.

(Special to The Post.)

The Presbyterian strawberry festival and afternoon of sports held here on Dominion Day was a great success A large crowd was present and saw a game of baseball between Cambray and Oakwood resulting in a win for Oakwood by the narrow margin of one run. It was a fine game throughout the absence of the usual kicking and disputing adding much to the enjoyment for the spectators. The Cameron team are a bunch of sports and will be welcomed back to Oakwood on any further occasion. The foot ball game between Linden Valley and Oakwood was fiercely contested all the way and at the end of time neither side had scored a goal. The game although much faster, than the last one between these two teams was clean throughout. It was pronounced by all to be the swiftest and most stubbornly contested game of football seen here in years. The teams should meet again to see which is the better. The proceeds of the day amounted to $100.

Crops are looking fairly well in this locality though rain would be gladly welcomed. Hay cutting has commenced and the crop on the average is a good one. Grain crops are rather thin and light owing to the long spell of dry weather after seeding.

Miss Morris school teacher for No. 5, Verulam finished her year's duties on Tuesday June 30th. and held a very successful picnic and entertainment for the children and their parents. The pupils acquitted themselves well and showed confidence in themselves and their teacher.

At the close of the programme the children presented their teacher with a beautiful gold bracelet and a well worded address. It is to be regretted that more of the parents did not turn out as parents should remember that they not only show disrespect for the teacher but also for the children as well by not taking more interest in school matters.

LITTLE BRITAIN.

(Special to The Post.)

An unusually large congregation met at the Little Britain church on Sunday morning last to listen to a sermon by the pastor, Rev. C. H. Rainer on the text "What must I do to inherit Eternal life." Luke 18, 18. The pastor's leading thought was, "We must become heirs of Christ and joint heirs with Him before we can inherit the Heavenly possessions, and we are made heirs of God in the new birth." Jesus said unto Nicodemus, "Verily, verily, I say unto thee except a man be born again he cannot see the Kingdom of God." This subject was very ably presented and those who were privileged to hear it will no doubt prove a great blessing. In the evening the pastor preached the annual sermon for the Independent Order of Odd fellows. His text was taken from Romans, 8, 28 "All things work together for good to them that love God."

About the strongest wind of the season, a strong sou-wester was blowing on Tuesday afternoon and evening. Capt. Burgoyne, of the Kawartha, which came down from Coboconk on her regular trip, arriving about 9 p. m., said that the waves were so high that they came over the wheelhouse, and the high wind lifted a trunk and a heavy yawl off the deck of the vessel.

At last the burning question, that of the boat houses below the railroad bridge, has been settled though not quite as amicably as it might have been. Monday was the last day allowed by the Council for the said buildings to be left standing, and as Tuesday morning dawned without any steps being taken by their respective owners to remove them, our city fathers, without further delay, had them removed under the supervision of Mr. J. Jones. Some of the owners had them removed at their own expense, others made the surroundings warm while the work of demolition was going on; but their protests were of no avail. Down they came, and the end is not yet.

Bathing the eyes with rosewater or a weak soultion of boric acid is a safe practice and will strengthen them.

Hotel Barn is Destroyed

Fire Resulting from Lightning Ignites Grand Union Hotel Barn

As a result of the electrical storm Saturday night, the Grand Union hotel is minus a barn to-day. The structure had evidently been struck by lightning for about half past one o'clock one of the Messrs. Manning the leasees of the hotel, was awakened by the reflection of flames arising from the barn, but in the meantime Constable Short had given the alarm, and in a very short time the brigade arrived.

The fire had secured a good hold before it was detected and by the time the firemen arrived its condition was quite hopeless, but nevertheless splendid work was done by the brigade in saving the adjoining property, so much so indeed that the frame building not ten feet from the barn was preserved from the devouring element.

The loss of Messrs. Manning, who are the lessees of the hotel, was slight, not exceeding $150.

Terrific Storm Trees Injured

Rain Fell in Torrents for a Time and the Wind Played Merry Pranks

A terrific rain and windstorm broke over the town about midnight Saturday night. The rain fell in sheets and the force of the wind as it drove the water violently against windows had the effect of awakening most of those who were not already aroused from their slumbers.

Much damage was done around town to trees, the high wind broke off many branches from the trees while others were completely uprooted. The Telephone Co's and Electric Light Co. report considerable damage but it is in most cases small, trivial matters. Some of the older residents of town say that they have not seen such a fierce wind for a long time.

The Sylvester Co. expects to turn out many of these machines during the next year.

WOMEN AND GIRLS HELD BY ANAEMIA

Unless the Blood is Made Rich and Red Health Cannot be Restored

Throughout Canada there are thousands of growing girls and women held in the deadly clutches of Anaemia. Slowly but surely a death-like pallor settles on their cheeks; their eyes grow dull; their appetite fickle; their steps languid. Daily they are being of all vitality and brightness. Their sufferings grow more acute if neglected until the signs of early consumption become apparent. If your wife or daughter, or sister complains of weakness pains in the side headaches or backaches; if her appetite and temper are uncertain and she is often low spirited anaemia has her in its deadly hold. What she needs is new rich, red blood. Give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People without loss of time, for they actually make new red blood. They make girls and women well and happy, impart an appetite, and steadily bring back the charm and brightness of perfect regular health.

Miss Carrie McGrath, 26 Fenwick st Halifax, N. S., says;—"I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life. Three years ago I suffered from anaemia in a severe form. I was all run down and as pale as a sheet. I could scarcely eat anything and what I did take did not seem to nourish me. My hands and feet were much swollen and the least exertion would leave me breathless and my heart beating violently. I seemed to have pains and aches all over. I was so week I could not even sweep a floor. At different times I was under the care of three doctors but I did not get any better. One doctor said I had dropsy and that my blood had all turned to water. My friends thought I was in a decline and that I had a short time to live. I was completely discouaged myself, when one day a lady friend called to see me and told me Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had cured her daughter of anaemia and urged me to try them. I decided to try them and in the course of a few weeks felt somewhat better. met the doctor one day and he told me how much better I was looking. I told him it was not his medicine but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that were helping me and he told me to keep on taking them. I continued to do so until I had taken another half dozen ly restored. I am more than grateful for what these pills have done for me and strongly recommend them for all weak girls.

Thousands of men and women, now well and strong, praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for having cured anaemia, general weakness, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous disorders, paralysis, and the ailments of girlhood and womanhood. These pills do this by making new, red blood, which feeds the starved nerves, drives out disease and strengthens every organ of the body. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

Accident at Haliburton

Party has Narrow Escape from Burning Launch on Lake

A party consisting of Percy Boland, r. J. Potts and Messrs. Agnew and Malloy had a thrilling experience on the lake at Haliburton on Friday morning which will likely hold them for a while.

It seems they were out trying a new launch in which is a gasoline engine located near the stern. In some way the feed pipe broke and the gasoline caught fire, imperilling the party and causing them considerable fear as to the result. Fortunately the burning launch and the dangerous position of the party was observed from the shore, and their rescue was speedily effected.

The Soldiers are Anxious

To Know Who are to be the Lucky Ones in the Quebec Contingent

Already the men in the 45th Regiment are beginning to wonder who among them will be chosen to go to Quebec to attend the great celebration that is to be held there this month. It is already known that only one company is to be taken, besides the band, and therefore a number will be left behind. There will be five men taken from each company, making a total of forty. The men that will form the company that goes to Quebec will be chosen as soon as possible, and it is needless to say that only the largest and straightest men will go. The men are all looking forward to this trip, and whoever are the lucky ones will have a good time.

The annual camp of the 45th will not be held until the last of August or early in September. This camp was postponed on account of there being no water there in the earlier part of the year.

Customs Receipts for Month of June

These Show a Decrease of Nearly Fifty Per Cent— Increase in Internal Revenue

The inland revenue receipts for the month of June as shown by the books of Mr. Lawnsborough amounts to the sum of $316.00. For the corresponding month of last year the sum realized was $270.00 showing that the revenue was rather on the increase.

In the customs, duties however, there is a decided decrease. the receipts being nearly 50 per cent lower than those of last year. The duties for June, 1908, were $1151.56 and for June 1907, $2052.93. As the above figures indicate there is a surprising difference, probably due to the financial stringency of the past few months.

THE IMPORTED THOROUGHBRED STALLION

"SALZBURG"

the Imported Stallion From Austria,

of the celebrated Pingan breed, which is somewhat similar to the Belgium breed, but considered by all good horsemen in the country where he was bred, to be an improvement on that famous breed. Will stand for mares in Lindsay, during the season of 1908.

As the season is well advanced, and the horse has been a long time on the voyage to Canada—six weeks—he will serve only a limited number of mares. The price this year will be very cheap as he is new in this district. To insure $12. He can be seen at any time in my barns, No. 8 Melbourne-st, south ward. He weighed on his arrival at Montreal, 1,570. "Salzburg" is a handsome bay, with black points, stands 16 1-2 hands high; very muscular; heavy, hard flat bone, with clean bone not hairy legged, the best of feet and bone. He is a straight mover, with good action, and in no way resembles the Clydesdale horse. He has a very handsome head and neck full bright eyes, and very intelligent countenance. He has the very best of disposition, perfectly kind and free from all vicious habits, absolutely sound and in perfect health. "Salzburg" is the only horse of this breed in Ontario to-day. There is no doubt he will prove a very beneficial sire for the farmers of this district.

This horse has come a long distance and has cost me a lot of money. I invite the farmers of this section to call and see him. If they approve of him, I will be pleased with any business they may see fit to give me.

This horse was imported by Mr. Boswell, of Quebec city, who is a thorough horseman and a dealer. He a much travelled and very wealthy man, and while in Australia bought this horse, believing the Austrian breeds to be one of the best breeds of horses in the world.

Sutcliffe People at Pleasant Point

Employees Enjoy a Delightful Sail and Pleasant Evening

Last Friday about a quarter to six all the employees of Messrs. J. Sutcliffe & Sons' establishment, went down the river in Mr. A. B. Terry's launch to Pleasant Point.

During the evening the picnicers enjoyed themselves with boating and other amusements. Of course lunch was not forgotten, and taking into consideration that they had failed to eat any supper well — they enjoyed those viands immensely, and as one of the boys remarked, "We soon stood all the lemon pies on edge."

The party returned to town about half past ten, apparently with the feeling that they had derived no end of fun and amusement from the evening's outing.

THE STRENUOUS LIFE

Pulls so Hard on the Stomach it Must Have Help

The stress and strain of the strenuous life in both city and country makes stomach troubles. Five people suffer to-day where one did ten years ago with sick headache, dizziness flatulence, distress after eating specks before the eyes, bloating nervousness, sleeplessness and the many other symptoms of indigestion.

All who are suffering with stomach troubles, and that means at least two out of three in Alexandria and other towns, should use Mi-o-na stomach tablets. Nothing else is as safe, yet effective; nothing else can be so thoroughly relied upon to relieve all troubles, from indigestion as Mi-o-na.

So reliable is Mi-o-na that Jury & Gregory, with every 50 cent box they sell, give a guarantee to refund the money unless the remedy cures.—3

A Fish Story from the Point

A Couple of Indians Capture a Twenty Pound Lunge

Although a few of the many fish stories talked of and wondered at are both varied and can sometimes hardly be credited, the following story, contrary to the general rule, is the "genuine stuff," and can be vouched for. Messrs Henry Assqueb and Jim York, two Indians at present camping near the mouth of the river, while out hooking the finny things, succeeded in capturing a lunge, which being brought across the lake to Mrs. Walkey's store, tipped th escales at no less than twenty pounds minus one ounce. An excessive weight, like this, however, is not always the most pleasant to the palate. As Mr. Assqueb aptly expressed it "no like twenty pound, but much like cat 'bout eight pound fish."

Port Hope's Great Celebration

The Lakeside City has a Great Home-Coming and Outshines Itself

The annual celebration of Dominion Day, which for forty years has been the pride and glory of Port Hope, was held again yesterday and was again a great success, thousands of forme rresidents of the town visiting the old scenes and renewing old acquaintances.

A feature of the day was a fraternal visit to the town by a military company from Rochester, N. Y., accompanied by the regimental band. They were received with due honors and cordially entertained.

Other features of the day were some very good horse racing and an excellent drubbing administered to Peterboro by the local team.

Among those who went down from Lindsay and vicinity were Ralph Clark, D. C. True, Willard Courtice, S. Oliver, M. Fanning, E. Billingsley, C. Britton. The Post was also represented.

Dominion Day How 'Twas Spent

Many of the People Left for Other Places---Others Enjoyed Boating and Other Amusements

"The best Dominion Day in years" is how the majority of people apparently view the pleasures of Wednesday. The almost ideal weather contributed largely to the pleasure of everyone all that possibly could do so going out of town.

Boats of every description, from the tinkiest canoe to the "Esturion, were busy. There wasn't a boat to be fund for love or money yesterday. Everything that could float had been bargained for beforehand The liveries tell practically the same story and all were busy all day long.

The railways report a heavy day, even better than the 24th May, when it was said 2000 tickets were sold. The town was practically deserted, the only features being the garden party and walking match in the roller rink

To fry tenderloin, cut across the grain of the loin, beat an egg, place the meat on the chopping board endwise; mash it, then dip in the beaten egg that has been salted, have ready cracker crumbs and dip alternately; fry in hot butter.

A Few Wet None Drowned

Experiences of Some of the More Adventurous Ones

The list of boating upsets in Sturgeon Lake is gradually increasing in number. It is a somewhat surprising fact that some of the accidents have not yet resulted in any serious disaster.

Saturday morning Mr. Bob Spratt was fishing just off Pleasant Point when he perhaps became a little too enthusiastic over a whale and—well, Bob swam to shore and came up to town on the early morning boat, with his wearing apparel in no particularly dry condition.

Mr. Reg Rennie also succeeded in procuring an unintentional dip in the "briny deep" at Pleasant Point. Beyond a few mouthfuls, however, Reg managed to climb to shore.

Ops Swing Bridge Is Completed

Men Have Finished Their Work and Contract for Gravelling to be Let

The staff of men engaged by the county during the past few weeks levelling the approach to the Ops swing bridge completed their labors on Saturday.

The roadway leading to the southern approach has been cut down and levelled as has also the sidewalk leading to the bridge and a railing placed in position.

Tuesday evening at five o'clock the Bridge Commissioners will give the contract by public bidding for the gravelling of the thoroughfare at this point, the material to be secured a Wood's pit.

John Grasped the Idea

From far Shanghai comes a storyette which would seem to point to the fact that John Chinaman, heathen as he is, has assimilated some western ideas on the virtues of the art of medicine.

"John," this particular specimen was asked, "do you have good doctors in China?"

"Good doctors!" he exclaimed. China have best doctors in wo'ld."

"Hang Chang, over there, for instance. Do you call him a good doctor?"

"Hang Chang good doctor!" he exclaimed. "He glate. He save my life once."

"You don't say so! How was that?"

"Me velly bad," he said confidentially. "Me callee Doctor Han Kou. Givee some medicine. Get velly, velly ill. Me callee Doctor San Sing. Givee more medicine. Me grow worse—going to die. Blimeby callee Doctor Hang Chang. He no got time; no come. He saved my life!"

All this, of course, on the Q. T.—to make you Y'se.

A few months ago Mr. Whitney told us that "Pull is dead." If that were true he had made a wonderful resurrection, for we notice that the charges against the Port Arthur License Commissioners have been dropped and the men allowed to resign. This cannot be said to be a satisfactory ending to the matter, for some punishment was surely coming to officials who violated their oath of office and deliberately sold decisions as to the location of liquor licenses.

SCANDALMONGERING

The Conservative opposition at Ottawa have been making a great fuss over what they call scandals, which they claim to have unearthed in connection with the business transactions of the government and they are endeavoring to create a prejudice in the minds of the people because of these alleged scandals.

One of these accusations is in connection with the government's dealings with Geo. T. Merwin and A. E. Wallberg of Montreal, in which it is claimed that there is graft behind them, and it is argued that only graft can account for the alleged highcharges of Merwin and the success of Wallberg. The members of the opposition have not proved that there has been graft, which is of course very difficult to do, because it is not easily susceptible of proof. These matters you can only smell out, after the manner of the Kaffir witch doctor; and although the opposition may be wrong in the cases mentioned, their general charge that party friends have been favored, in many instances, is probably true. But there has been no favoritism at public expense. What favors have been shown have been merely a legitimate preference for liberals, where the prices and conditions are equal; just as a householder prefers a trader who has helped him at some time in his career, or who he thinks is most honorable and honest because he goes to the same church and holds the same ethical and religious opinions. This system of patronage is an element of Canadian political life; and if the government were to change hands to-morrow, the conservatives would extend similar favors to party friends. It is done by every provincial conservative administration in Canada today, and until Premiers McBride, Roblin, and Whitney act otherwise, there is no guarantee that Messrs. Borden and Foster, if at the head of the federal government would do away with patronage.

The elimination of partisan consideration from administrative and executive transactions is, of course, an ideal devoutly to be wished; and it is what the government is slowly working towards. Its proposal to make the civil service independent and under the control of a commission is an important steps towards accomplishing that ideal, which can only be fully realized when the public has been educated to see that a government when in office should be impartial as a judge and be blind in its dealings as to whether a man is a supporter or an opponent. But public opinion has not gone thus far yet and it would be fatal to a ministry to force on the country what it is not prepared to accept.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM

Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his able colleagues are to be highly congratulated upon the movement which they have inaugurated to secure official public servants and to make it practically impossible to appoint men to positions who are not possessed of the qualifications necessary to a proper fulfillment of the duties attaching to the offices to which they may be assigned.

The new bill, which has almost reached its final stage in the House of Commons, affects in the neighborhood of 2,300 positions and is most thorough in its requirements. It provides for first appointment to the service on the merit system, as the result of open competition examinations under the control of the Civil Service Commissioners. A reservation, which seems necessary, is made in the case of certain officers who need special qualifications.

Promotion is left in the hands of the Minister and Deputy Minister of the department concerned, and is subject to a check by way of certificate from the Civil Service Commissioners.

There are to be two Commissioners—one English and the other French speaking, and they cannot be removed from office by the government, but to secure their removal they must be impeached as is the case of the Auditor-General and the Judges. Sundry provisions have also been taken to prevent influence from being brought to bear upon the Commissioners in favor of particular applicants and thus subverting the underlying principle of the bill. The patronage evil is a very virulent one at present, but under the provisions of the new Act, future appointments being by open competitive examinations and results being obtained by study rather than by favor, it is unlikely that candidates for appointment will have the pull which occasionally has the desired effect under existing conditions.

An important characteristic of the bill is the institution of a third division which might be called the Routine Division. It is not intended that the people in this shall be anything but routine workers — copyists, typewriters, and so forth. As a rule these people are not to be promoted to the second division, and when they do so rise it must be in competition with outside applicants. Provision has now been made that persons, already in the service, who on reorganization shall be assigned to this Routine Division, shall not be deprived of their present right to promotion if they show themselves worthy. It is a vested right, which must in justice be preserved to them. Future entrants to this division will know what they are doing and need not expect to rise.

There will be two examinations into the service; the lower for mere routine clerks; the higher, for persons who on succeeding will be trained to executive work and expected to rise to high and responsible posts.

An important provision is the matter of an inspection of the departments by the commissioner, which is now provided for. The Government can also give it the powers of a Departmental Commissioner to attain this end. Another very important requirement of the bill is that civil servants are absolutely prohibited from taking any part in elections.

Taken as a whole the bill is a highly meritorious one and it will assuredly receive commendation throughout the country.

KILLING TIME AT OTTAWA

The Conservatives at Ottawa have systematically killed time at Ottawa and prolonged the session until its duration now extends over seven months, and when the reason for this prolongation of work which might have been finished up months ago is looked for, it is not surprised that the Toronto Telegram chafes at such leadership as now obtains in that party.

We are told that they are developing scandals, but they are paltry in the extreme, and do not justify such enormous expense to the country as these long extended sessions involve.

For an instance of the pusillanimity of the Opposition in their scandal search, it may be said that every one of them, if we except the charges which Major Hodgins himself withdrew, have been threshed out years ago, and for a sample let us look at the sale of 250,000 acres to the Saskatchewan Valley Land Company. This sale took place on May 24, 1902 and was up before the house in 1903. There was a return made on May 4th. It was considered by the Agricultural Committee in the following month; and, on June 20 debated in the House. It was, moreover, a topic for platform oratory at the last general elections. The explanation of the sale is very simple. The government was anxious to get the country settled up; and it thought that, if it were justified in giving away lands to homesteaders, it was equally justified in selling lands to this company, on the condition that they would bring in people to occupy them. Many Americans were brought in and settled in Western Canada, as a consequence. The 250,000 acres mentioned are situated in the area included in the land grant made by the late Conservative government in aid of the building of the Qu'Appellee, Long Lake and Saskatchewan Railway. The Company bought, from the railway the alternating odd numbered sections at $1.65 per acre, without settlement conditions, and from the government the even numbered sections, at $1.00 per acre with settlement conditions. The company would have been equally willing to have paid the government $1.65, without settlement conditions, but the government's object was to get the land beneficially occupied by farmers, and this object has been achieved.

Yet the opposition still discuss this subject, disposed of five years ago.

Presentation at Mt. Horeb

The Teacher is Kindly Remembered When Vacation Comes

(Special to The Post.)

On Saturday evening June 27th, an enjoyable entertainment was held in the school house at Mt. Horeb. The parents and pupils of that section assembled to bid good-bye to their teacher, who has resigned his position.

The address was read by Master Ernest Sluggett and the presentation made by Miss Mona Coulter. The address was as follows:

Mr. M. J. O'Neill:

Dear teacher,—I have been requested by the people of this section to ask you a slight token of our affection and regard. I cannot tell you how delighted I am to be the means of conveying to you expression of our regard and love.

What we offer you is a poor sample of our feelings but we know you will receive it kindly as a simple evidence of the attachment which each one cherishes for you.

We have made our lessons pleasant, so pleasant that it would be unpleasant to call them tasks. We hope that we have often cried your patience but you have dealt gently with us in our waywardness (leading us by example as well as precept, the advantages of kindness and self control.

We shall never forget you; we shall look back to this school as a little Paradise, as a place of pensiveness but as a scene of mental enjoyment where they pass the morning years strewn with flowers, and whenever memory recalls our school days our hearts will warm towards you as they do today.

I have been requested by my school mates now to address you formally and in a tolered and measured manner in that light dear teacher, we offer hard you.

We can accept with our little pres ent our earnest good wishes. May success in life be as happy as you have endeavored to make your pupils and may they be always as faithful in the application to others as you have been in your duties to us.

Signed in behalf of the pupils of S. S. No. 2, Ops.

Mr. O'Neill then in a few words tried to express his hearty thanks for the valuable gift and also the kindness and good will shown toward him during his two years in this school.

After this several gentlemen made brief addresses and ice cream and oranges were served to about 100 present. About 10.30 o'clock everyone said good bye and the lights went out.

KINMOUNT

A somewhat scattered epidemic of a mild type of smallpox has been discovered in the townships of Somerville and Galway, about five miles from Burnt river. The disease was introduced by a teacher returning from her easter holidays, and being regarded as chicken-pox no doctor was called until the disease had made some headway. —Heat prostrates the nerves. In the summer one needs a tonic to offset the customary hot weahter. Nerve and strength depression. You will feel better within 48 hours after beginning to take such a remedy as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Its prompt action in restoring the weakened nerves is surprisign. Of course, you won't get entirely strong in a few days, but each day you can actually feel the improvement. That tired, lifeless, spiritless, feeling will quickly depart when using the Restorative. Dr. Shoop's Restorative will shapen a failing appetite; it aids digestion; it will strengthen the weakened kidneys and heart by simply rebuilding the worn-out nerves that these organs depend upon. Test it a few days and be convinced. Sold by all dealers.

GLENARM

The Glenarm picnic is now a thing of the past and the grounds present a solitary appearance. This event together with Lindsay's exhibition are the two "big days" for our youth. The old people also enjoy meeting their friends. The picnic this year did not fall below the picnics of the preceding years and the ability of the waiters was taxed to the utmost in catering for the large crowd. Hartley baseball team were the proud winners of the medals which were kindly presented by Col. Sam. Hughes.

Mrs. R. McElroy of Linden Valley visited her parents recently, and attended the picnic. Mr. and Mrs. Reid and daughter of Toronto, are the guests of Mrs. U. Murchison.

Miss. Mary McEachern of Toronto, is visiting in our midst.

Rev. R. McEachern, wife and son, spent a few days days with her parents at Hillview farm.

Sturgeon Point, Lindsay's beautiful breathing spot, never looked better than it did Sunday. Every tree and shrub looked their greenest while the air seemed to be ladened with that quality of ozone which makes one feel life is worth living.

There are now many families occupying their cottages and the present week will see all the regular residents domiciled in their cottages.

Mrs. Ryerson and two sons, with Miss Ryerson and some friends, are occupying their cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin were guests at Mrs. Walkey's over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson gave a fine exhibition of fireworks and a monster bonfire to celebrate July 4th. Uncle Sam's great national holiday. The night being particularly dark the fire and the fire works presented a very pretty spectacle from the water. The young people of the Point were there in full force and enjoyed a very happy time.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Brights or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

He Caught a 10 lb. Lunge

Mr. Workman Takes a Trip in the Jap and Lands a Good One

Mr. W. Workman and family were down the river in the Jap Saturday, and succeeded in fishing up a ten pounder from out of "the deep and dark blue waters" of Sturgeon Lake. Mr. Workman was unfortunate enough, however, to allow a tempting looking lunge which was just being taken on board to escape.

Rather contrary to the expectations of the fishermen thereabouts, the fish were caught out in the middle of the lake instead of in the usual fishing grounds near the out.

Has Recovered from Illness

Bridgetender Mills is Again Able to Attend to his Duties

The friends of Mr. Geo. Mills, bridgetender, will be glad to hear that he has recovered from his illness and is again attending to his regular duties. Mr. Mills says he does not remember anything from the time he started to swing the bridge until he found himself lying on the couch in his house. He attributes his sudden illness to the continual turning around over at the bridge.

Mr. Mills is very weak as yet, but The Post hopes he will be all right in a day or two.

Barn Burned at Powles' Corners

Log Building of Mr. Andrew Gillis Destroyed by Fire

(Special to The Post)

Powles Corners, July 4. — What might have proved a very serious and disastrous conflagration was narrowly averted on the evening of July 2nd:

Elmer, youngest son of Mr. Andrew Gillis was amusing himself in some pea straw around a log pig pen some hunured feet away from the barn, and in his enjoyment he proceeded to make a bonfire of the pea straw.

The youth tramped out the fire, as he thought, and went to milk a cow. When he returned from milking the building was wrapped in flames and too far gone to be rescued.

Fortunately the wind was blowing favorably for the saving of the other buildings, and this coupled with the strenuous efforts of Mr. Gillis and his neighbors prevented the fire from spreading.

At the time there was nothing in the building so the loss will not be great as the building was insured.

TORTURED WITH SKIN RASH

Zam-Buk Brought Relief

At this time of the year children are liable to all kinds of torturing rashes and eruptions, and the advice of Mrs. F. Rowe, of 1 Oxford-st, London, Ont is timely. She says:—"A horrid rash broke out on my little boy's body. The child suffered acutely with the burning and itching and grew quite restless. A friend advised me to try Zam-Buk. I did so and was surprised to see how quickly it cleared away the rash. The very first application seemed to cool and ease the burning and itching, making the child rest easier In several days he was completely cured, not a mark remaining to show where the trouble had been. Zam-Buk is the best healing balm yet used."

AFTERNOON TEA

Just a little cup of tea,
Just a fleck of cream!
Just a whiff of violets,
Fleeting as a dream.

Just a little silver spoon,
Carved and filagreed;
Just a tiny macaroon,
Such as fairies knead.

Just a rosy sugared "kiss,"
Served from Edith's dish!
As I ate its crumbling bliss,
Edith read my wish.

Just a curtained fragrant spot,
Where the roses be;
Where a blue forget-me-not
Smiles in sympathy.

Just her girlish finger tips
Clasped in mine once more;
Just a touch of rosy lips
And the "tea" was o'er.

WEDDING BELLS

REYNOLDS—HUGH

A very pretty wedding took place on the 24th of June at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh, of Franklin, when their daughter, Cora Stewart, was united in marriage to Mr. John Reynolds, of Mount Horeb.

Rev. Dr. Marvin, of Bethany, tied the knot of unity, and Mrs. Dr. Marvin played Lohengrin's wedding march.

The groom was assisted by Mr. John Hickson, of Mount Horeb, and Miss Edna Hugh, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid.

There were only a few of the immediate relatives present.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds left on the evening train for Mount Horeb where they will reside in the future.

The bride's dress was of blue silk, trimmed with allover lace, while the bridesmaid was dressed in blue lustre trimmed with allover lace.

The bride was given away by her father. Among the guests from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Schuce, of Mount Horeb, Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds, Mount Horeb, and Mr. and Mrs. Fleming, of Mount Horeb. The dining room was prettily decorated with roses.

The bride received a number of very costly presents, the groom's gift being a gold watch and chain and to the bridesmaid a pearl brooch and a pearl pin to the groomsman.

Our Band Goes to Quebec

Chosen from Among Many Others to Play at Tercentenary

Col. Sylvester has received word from Col. Hemming asking that if possible the Sylvester band be allowed to attend the Quebec Tercentenary. It is very probable that the band will accept this proposal and if they do it is expected they will go with one company of the 45th Regiment. This is certainly a very big boost for the band, being chosen as it was, from among ten others and is something that the Lindsay people may be justly proud of.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Halls' Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO, Toledo, O.

Bull Fighting in Spain

The toreador is the hero, the idol of the Spanish people. It would be difficult for the ordinary reader to fully understand the remarkable popularity that he universally enjoys. Wherever he goes he is followed by admiring throngs. The celebrity that he enjoys might, to a certain extent, be compared to that of some of our great athletes, such as Jeffries, the wonderful pugilist, or Hachenschmidt the noted wrestler. And yet the comparison is inaccurate from many points of view. With some of our people it is well known that these athletes, although they arouse intense interest, are not, in some instances, looked upon with more than average respect. They would not, in all cases, be invited to one's drawing room, nor would they be considered an ornament at a social event. The toreadors of Spain are highly respected by every one. They are the demi-gods of the Spanish people. —Charles Merriles in June "Physical Culture."

C.M.B.A. Holds Garden Party

Enjoyable Function Last Evening at Parish Hall a Decided Success

In spite of the fact that everybody who could possibly do so went out of town Wednesday the crowd which attended the garden party on the lawn surrounding St. Mary's Parish Hall last evening was a large one. The affair which proved most success ful from everyp oint of view was given under the auspices of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association, of which Mr. Wm. Baker is president and Mr. Michael Fox secretary. The grounds were prettily decorated for the occasion while booths erected about the the lawn contained everything to satisfy the wants of everyone in the refreshment line. The Sylvester band was present to render music of a high order of merit, under the direction of Mr. W. H. Roenigk. The fine weather of yesterday no doubt had something to do in relation to the crowd. The officers expressed themselves as very much pleased with the success of the venture.

Our School Boys Enjoying Holidays

Young Men Starting Out on Their Camping Trips

The camping season is on and many of our schoolboys are away already to spend the summer. Every day a number of canoes laden with tents, rugs, etc. are seen going down the river on their way to find a good camping ground. A number of Lindsay youths left on Friday for Rosedale, where they will spend a couple of weeks fishing and hunting. Among the number were Willie Workman, Cecil Waller, Topsy Mulvihil, Jack Roberts and D. Thurston. They left in canoes and expect to paddle to their destination.

Carew's Mill to be Rebuilt

No Time Will be Lost in Getting to Work---Will Run in Six Weeks

"We will be cutting timber in six weeks."

That is what Mr. John Carew told The Post on Saturday, when asked as to his plans for the future in relation to the rebuilding of his burned saw mill.

This means that no time will be lost in the erection of the new mill and as a matter of fact men are now making preparations to commence on the foundation.

The new mill will be much larger than the burned one. It will be built partly on the old site but covers more ground. From the saw mill man's viewpoint it will be a big improvement over the old one and will include among the new machinery, a double cutting band. The whole plant will be of the most modern machinery that money can buy and in its way will outclass anything hereabouts. Mr. Carew has ambitious plans for an increased output, the recent severe fire though, it means a big loss, this summer having a rather opposite effect than that which was expected. He is now going into the business on a bigger scale than ever.

Mr. Carew's announcement that he would be ready to cut in six weeks he later admitted was the inside figure. It would be two months, he said before they could be going full blast. Should that become a matter of fact it will mean employment for a large number of men—something that means a good deal to the aforesaid men and their families. For it is not known to everybody that the burning of Mr. Carews mill meant an almost irreparable loss to several families around town. They at least will be overjoyed to know that the prospects for work all fall and through the winter again are so good.

BOY TORTURED BY AWFUL HUMOR

Almost Covered with Eczema—No Night's Rest for Nearly a Year—Feared Lifelong Disfigurement—All Treatments Failed and Limit of Endurance Seemed Near.

PERFECT RECOVERY IS DUE TO CUTICURA

"With the exception of his hands and feet, my son Clyde (thirteen years old) was almost completely covered with eczema. Physicians treated him for nearly a year without helping him any. While they were very kind and did all in their power, yet nothing seemed to relieve him. And I had tried many remedies sent to me by kind friends but they all failed. His head, face, and neck were covered with large scabs which he would rub until they fell off. Then blood and matter would run out and that would be worse. Many a time he looked as if his ears would drop off. Friends coming to see him said that if he got well he would be disfigured for life.

"When it seemed as if he could possibly stand it no longer, I decided to try Cuticura. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment, and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. I used them in the evening and that was the first night for nearly a year that he slept. This may sound exaggerated to you, but in the morning there was a great change for the better. In about six weeks you could not have told that he had ever had anything wrong with him. I treated him twice a day for six months and at present he has a fine complexion and not a scar on his body. This story may seem overdrawn, but neither words nor pen can describe Clyde's suffering and how he looked. Our leading physician, Dr. ——, recommends the Cuticura Remedies for eczema. Mrs. Algy Cockburn, Shiloh, O., June 11, 1907."

Frequent shampoos with Cuticura Soap and weekly dressings with Cuticura stop falling hair, remove crusts, scales, and dandruff, destroy hair parasites, soothe irritated, itching surfaces, stimulate the hair follicles, supply the roots with nourishment, loosen the scalp skin, and make the hair grow upon a sweet, wholesome, healthy scalp, when all other remedies fail.

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, in vials of 60) to Purify the Blood. Belleville People Bade Him Farewell

Rev. J. P. Wilson's Departure Gives Rise to Interesting Occasion

The departure of Rev. Mr. Wilson and his family from Belleville, where for four years he has been pastor of Bridge-st. church, was made the occasion of a most interesting episode.

On Monday evening the congregation of the church assembled in the school room to bid them good-by. Speeches expressing appreciation of Mr. Wilson's services and good wishes for the future were delivered and duly responded to, and the following address was read;

Belleville, June 23, 1908.

Rev. J. P. Wilson, M. A., Pastor of the Bridge-st. Methodist church, Belleville.

Dear Pastor,—It is with feelings of sadness that we have met here this evening to bid you as pastor of our church farewell.

When you came to us four years ago we received you with glad hearts and welcomed you to our midst feeling that your incumbency would be a successful and happy one, and now after four years intimate association with you, we feel that our expectations were more than justified.

Your loyalty to our Sunday school has excelled that of any other pastor we have ever had. The dignity and skill with which you presided over our Boards and at our different assemblies was never surpassed in our church. Your kindly manner and courteous conduct, your dignity and control has given you a standing with our congregation and in our city of which we have great reason to be proud. Your ministrations in our midst will never be forgotten whether it be those given at the cradle, by the sick bed, at the marriage feast or at the tomb.

Since you came here, many changes have been taken place and our hearts are filled with sympathy and sadness when we think of the great loss you and your dear family were called upon to bear.

Your daughters have grown into our hearts, your family have obtained a closer association because of our sympathy for you all. Especially we thank you for the splendid lessons you have given us from Sabbath to Sabbath, and at our mid-week meetings, simple and direct you have preached the word and the seed must bring forth great harvests in the years to come. Your kindly manner and good judgment has done much to settle differences and give us a spirit of peace in our congregation and we feel that is is a splendid testimony to us of your worth that you are leaving here with the regret of every member of your congregation and of the citizens at large.

We have met to-night to bid you good-bye as our pastor and to wish you God speed as our friend. We expect to see you again and hope you will finally make your home in our midst when your labor in the church is at an end.

Our prayer is that the sunset of your life may be more glorious than its mid-day brightness, that as the shades of evening commence to fall, the blessed memories of by-gone years and above all that the four years in Belleville will cheer and comfort you, that you may go forward ever with your hand in that of the Master hearing his voice speaking to you words of comfort and cheer and that when life is done here you may hear Him say, "Thou been faithful, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Reception to New Pastor

Rev. J. P. Wilson Given a Cordial Welcome to Cambridge-st. Church

The ladies of the Cambridge-st. Methodist church tendered to Rev. J. P. Wilson a most cordial welcome to his new field of labor on Thursday, a goodly number of the members of the congregation attending to participate in the proceedings. Dr. Clarke occupied the chair and discharged the duties devolving upon him most efficiently.

Dr. Vrooman and Messrs. W. Flavelle, A. B. Sparling and Newton Smale extended a hearty welcome to the new pastor in well chosen and most felicitous terms.

Rev. J. P. Wilson responded in fitting terms, expressing his appreciation of the welcome which had been extended to him and to his family.

Rev. Mr. Real, the new pastor of Queen-st. Methodist church, in a brief address, expressed his appreciation of the invitation which had been extended to him to be present.

Garden Party at Janetville

Presbyterian Church Holds a Very Enjoyable Entertainment

The garden party under the auspices of the Janetville Presbyterian church last Friday was a great success and was attended by people from all parts of the district as well as many from Lindsay. The garden party was held on the beautiful grounds of the residence of Dr. McCullough, which were tastefully decorated with Chinese lanterns and well supplied with comfortable seats. The ladies of the church provided a most sumptuous lunch of strawberries, cake etc. which was served at one end of the lawn, while at the other several young ladies served ice cream to many buyers. On another part of the lawn was a booth presided over by several of the gentlemen of the congregation, at which soft liquid refreshments were served.

The Sylvester band was one of the chief attractions and entertained the large crowd with an excellent program which was prolonged until late in the evening to the delight of those present. Bandmaster Roenigk and his band, are very popular with the people of that district.

The baseball game in the afternoon was a hot one and excited much interest. The Janetville boys, however met their finish.

Presentation to Mrs. Harstone

Is Made Recipient of a Handsome Ring Set With Emeralds and Diamonds

Mrs. J. C. Harstone was on Friday afternoon made the recipient of a presentation at a charming tea given in her honor at the residence of Mrs. Sam Hughes, Glenelg-st. The affair was very largely attended, Mrs. Harstone's many friends all joining in doing her honor. The presentation was made by Mrs. Ed. Gregory, who on behalf of the other ladies present, gave Mrs. Harstone a very handsome ring set with emeralds and diamonds, together with a bouquet of roses. Mrs. Harstone was deeply touched by their expression of remembrance. She has been most active in church and social circles and her friends felt they could not allow the opportunyt to pass without in some way giving Mrs. Harstone some tangible expression of their affection for her. The tea was otherwise a most delightful function.

Esturion Delayed by the Beaver

The Latter had a Tow of Logs and Blocked the Way

The Beaver with a tow of logs caused the Esturion some trouble Friday as she was coming up on her two o'clock trip. The Beaver had a large tow waiting to get through the locks bound for Rider & Kitchener's mill, and these blocked the channel from the bridge to Beal's warehouse. While they were emptying the locks the Esturion came along and found its way blocked. After much pulling and shoving the logs were pulled out of the way and the Esturion proceeded. The boat had to wait many minutes, however, before she could turn around again.

Education Regarding Flies

Campaign of Education now being Conducted with Reference to these Insects

The Board of Health of St. Joseph, Mo., is engaged in a campaign of education regarding the common house fly as a disseminator of contagious diseases and has outlined the following suggestions for the benefit of householders;

Screen all food and keep flies away from it.

Keep the streets clean.

Keep stable manure, breeding place for flies, in a vault or pit or screened inclosure and sprinkle its surface with chloride of lime.

Quickly cover up food after a meal and bury or burn table refuse.

Keep damp clothes near meat dishes milk jugs and other food receptacles.

Burn pyrethrum powder in the house. It will kill most of the flies and those it does not will fall stunned, when they may be swept up and burned. Sticky fly papers are a second-rate palliative.

Remember that the exposure of any kind of refuse near a dwelling furnishes a breeding place for flies, and if food is exposed the flies will deposit germs upon it.

One way suggested of driving away flies is by the use of the flower of the mignonette. The delicate perfume of this old-fashioned plant, so pleasing to most human beings, is said to be poison to the fly. If the blossoms are scattered freely about the house it is said that the flies will desert.

Dominion Day at Thurstonia

Dunsford Methodist Church Holds a Big Demonstration

The holiday entertainment which was arranged by the Dunsford Methodist circuit was a marked sucess. about 400 people were present, 250 arriving by the Kathleen and other launches. With the British ensign floating in the breeze and other excursion equipments bedecking the grassy lawns along the lake shore, a attractive scene greeted the eyes of pleasure seekers as strains from the Sylvester band gave merriment, and extra thrill and finished what otherwise would have been incomplete. There was no lack of good spirit and sociality and if those present had troubles of any kind they had left them all behind.

After a few selections by the band accompanied by a few drops of rain (which by the way, did not do any harm) the Rev. Mr. McCulloch, president of the conference made the patriotic speech of the day. He spoke of the extent and beauty of Canada, its inexhaustible resources, its adaption to physical and mental development of its inhabitants, and every Canadian had reason to be proud of his native land. There was also a great future in store for this vast Dominion. He believed there was truth in the prediction of Lord Strathcona, that within a few years Canada would be populated with 80,000,000 of people. The speaker observed that Canada was noted for its many triumphs in engineering skill, it could boast of the largest canal, the biggest bridge, the largest grain elevator, the largest lock and in several other acheivements the Canadians were the leaders of the world, and he also believed that he could justly add that some of the greatest men and women in the world were the Canadians, for under such a religious and educational system as the boys and girls were trained what limit could be placed to their acheivements.

Rev. Mr. Barber added a few remarks, but being sympathetically disposed toward his listeners he entertained them with a few humorous anecdotes when the Rev. Mr. Wilson apologized for the absence of other speakers and directed the assembly to the tables awaiting them a short distance away.

In justice to the ladies who had the provisions in hand it may be said that the arrangements did them great credit for almost every concievable device in the culinary art was produced.

The most exciting feature of the day was the football match between Omemee and Dunsford. The game was well contested though it was seen the Omemee boys had several advantages over their oponents. Dunsford put up a good game and did well, considering the roughness of the ground and other disadvantages. The game was finally decided in favor of Omemee, the score being four to one.

The Kathleen left the wharf at 9.50 and brought the day to a close.

Family of Three Was in Distress

Authorities Took Up Matter and Saw to Their Necessities

Until Thursday a family of three living in the neighborhood of Goodorham was in almost dire need having regard to medical attendance. The family consisted of an old woman, the grandmother, a middle aged woman, a mother and a child. Both mother and child were ill enough to require a doctors attention while the grandmother, ninety-five years of age was in a condition to require a great deal of attention and in one way or other be the cause of much trouble. In consequence of the decision of County Magistrate Fielding of Haliburton county, to do something to help the three of them arrived in town Thursday, the child to go to the Ross Hospital and later to the sick Children's Hospital Toronto, and the mother to go the the Nicholl's Hospital, Peterboro, and the grandmother to go to the Victoria County House of Refuge. Mrs. Sharpe, of the Children's Aid Society took charge of the child Alice Williams, and saw that she was taken to the Ross Memorial. Mrs. Sharpe was not prepared to look after the old woman but thinking all arrangements would have been completed took her out to the House of Refuge. There she found that Mr. Robertson steward of the House of Refuge had heard nothing of the matter and as old Mrs. Williams hailed from Haliburton county could not even give her admittance. However, Mrs. Sharpe has been successful in getting her cared for. Ultimately it is hoped the aged woman may be admitted into the home for aged women in Cobourg.

Roofing Right Costs No Less —But It Is Far Cheaper

SOME shingle roofs keep out the worst of the weather if you patch them up every summer. They ought to last at least ten years, if they're well cared for.

Some metal shingles are made of pretty good IRON. They make passably good roofs for maybe fifteen years—IF you paint them every year—two coats.

BUT—these "Oshawa" Special Galvanized STEEL Shingles of mine are GUARANTEED to make a REALLY good roof for twenty-five years (and that means a NEW roof for nothing if they leak a single drop in all that time). AND—

You needn't ever paint an "Oshawa"-shingled roof,—the heavy galvanizing, the 28-gauge sheet steel, the four-way-lock, makes paint needless. True these "Oshawa" shingles cost about the same at the go-in as good cedar shingles or as ordinary metal shingles. (You notice nobody but me calls their shingles STEEL—metal is a handier word).

But my shingles are not only guaranteed for 25 years—in writing, with a new-roof-for-nothing penalty and $250,000 back of my say-so—they are also guaranteed to be rain-proof, snow-proof, wind-proof, fire-proof and lightning-proof.

As a matter of cold fact, they are good for a century. How are you going to make weather-proof steel rust or rot?

"Oshawa" Galvanized Steel Shingles
A New Roof for Nothing if this one Leaks by 1933.

Wouldn't it really pay you to send a postcard for a free book that tells the whole story in plain words? My shingles cover thousands of the finest barns and houses and public buildings all over Canada. Though the same 25-year guarantee goes with every roof, we've never been called on yet to make it good. Read the book, won't you?

Trouble in the Fire Brigade

Members Signed Document Asking McGillivary's Resignation and the Matter Comes Before City Fathers

The town property committee will at an early date attempt to patch up the trouble in the fire brigade. At present it appears to be a hopeless, incomprehensible muddle.

Monday at a special meeting of the town council the matter of the dispute between Mr. John McGillivray, formerly a member of the Lindsay fire brigade, and the other members of the force was given an airing.

It proved to be an interesting half-hour.

Town Clerk Knowlson started the fireworks by reading a communication from Mr. McGillivray, which ran as follows:

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Lindsay:

Gentlemen,—

"I beg to appeal to your honorable body against an unfair and unjust action of the Chief and members of the fire department, and to ask that my request be sustained.

At a recent meeting of the fire brigade a petition was presented signed by members of the fire brigade asking for my resignation as one of the members, in the face of which the chief demanded that I retire from the brigade and in consequence of which I tendered my resignation. No just or fair reason, that I am aware of, was given, and I feel that I have been treated most unfairly. I have endeavored to give faithful and efficient service to the town and I believe that I have done so. I therefore request that the action of the chief of the fire brigade be not sustained and that I again be placed upon the brigade.—Yours obediently,

JOHN McGILLIVRAY.

On behalf of the firemen's side of the case, Chief Harry Bell, the first speaker, stated that the trouble had for the most part been between the men and Mr. McGillivray. They had, in consequence of certain alleged slanders and criticism, asked Mr. McGillivray to resign and this had been put into writing with the signatures of the men attached. Chief Bell had no direct charge to make against Mr. McGillivray, nor had any of the rest, contenting himself with saying that Mr. McGillivray had acted and talked insubordinately on frequent occasions. Chief Bell declared that he had given Mr. McGillivray every chance to square himself and had overlooked many things of which he might have made much. He preferred to settle the matter quietly, but Mr. McGillivray would not do so.

Asked by the Mayor as to the services of Mr. McGillivray at a fire, Chief Bell said he was a good man but no better than anybody else. "He is a big man and people notice him more. He doesn't do any more work at a fire than the smallest man in the brigade." Chief Bell has been a fireman for thirty-two years.

By way of helping matters the town clerk was asked to read the by-law respecting fire brigades, etc., which he did. All listened attentively.

The Mayor was of the opinion that all this trouble should be kept quiet; that the trouble should be fixed up among the members themselves.

Driver Jas. Bell rose up to say that the request of the men to Mr. McGillivray was made without the knowledge of the chief.

Mr. McGillivray, is also alleged to have made some unprintable statements about Mr. John Connolly, who is one of the fire brigade. Mr. Connolly had a business engagement in Whitby and in consequence of that was not present last night.

Mr. McGillivray's answer was a complete denial to all of these statements as to insubordination and alleged improper utterances. Mr. McGillivray stated he was at a disadvantage, inasmuch as he had thirteen men against him. He found it more or less difficult in recalling to mind what they said about him. The chief had not asked him to resign, but made allusions to certain "big men." The men had written their "ultimatum," and he had told them his resignation was in their hands whenever they wanted it. "You have accomplished what you have been working for for years." he had said.

The men had told the council that Mr. McGillivray had refused to follow orders one time at a test run on Kent-st. Mr. McGillivray admitted his objection, not so much to the chief's orders as to the placing of the hose wagon, where, with a strong west wind, the water came back on top of the men. There was no fire; it was a test run called out by Mayor Begg, ex-Mayor Dr. Vrooman and Reeve Geo. Jordan. He said in answer to a question from an alderman that he had no rubber clothes on at the time.

Excitement ran pretty high for a few minutes, and frequently his Worship the Mayor had to call the man to order. Finally, when the thing seemed to have been sifted pretty well it was referred to the town property committee.

Council Holds Special Meeting

Matters of Routine Receive Attention from Our Civic Dignitaries

W. J. Hoar is the new town bell-ringer, caretaker of the market building, council chamber, town clerk's office, etc.

Monday his appointment was confirmed as proposed by Ald. Campbell and seconded by Ald. Calvert. Ald. Dobson proposed Richard Abercrombie as a good man for the job, and Ald. McGeough proposed J. Chambers. Neither got a seconder, the other motion carrying. The other applicants for the position were Daniel McGillivray, James Sullivan, W. H. Brokenshire (who has been doing the work since the death of Joseph Wilson), Robt. Robson, W. Nelson, J. Hall, James Wilson, and William Irwin. It is probable that the caretaker's duties may be extended so that he will have to see to the cutting of the grass in the park.

Mr. Hoar is much younger than his predecessor and apparently should make good. He was for many years employed in Sylvester's, being known as a good man.

The John Carew exemption question did not come up before the town council last night after all. Mr. Carew was present and had a minutes conversation with Mayor Begg. Later the Mayor told the council Mr. Carew did not care whether it came up last night or not.

The council is again in the midst of a number of requests for drains, sidewalks, etc. Mr. Geo. Lindsay and others petitioned for a sewer on Albert-st. from 162 feet south of Kent-st. to Russel-st. A granolithic walk is wanted on the north side of Caf- from St. Patrick street to St. Paul st This was the fifth time it had came before the council. Mr. G. A. Bate and others asked for a walk on Queen from St. David to George-sts. Another is requested from the south side of King st. from St. Paul westerly 150 feet. The council received a communication from J. R. O'Neill east ward, objecting to a proposed sewer on Queen st. Mr. Staples and Mr. McWatters, both east ward men, were there to support the move for a sewer. It was explained that although there seemed to be a need for a sewer on Queen st. there were so few people living on that thoroughfare that the necessary number of names could not be secured to put it through in the regular way. Both gentlemen suggested that the council might construct the sewer on the initiative plan that is to say, to build it, taking a chance on the people when they saw the improvement it made in sanitary conditions, paying for it.

A teamster named Kent, asked why he was chared a license fee when other men drawing gravel for the town needed no license.

Mr. James Horn and others asked for a granolithic walk for the north side of Elgin st. from Victoria Ave to a point 300 feet east of William These matters were referred to a committee.

been put in than was agreed upon by

A block or two more pavement has council. Ald. Rea, chairman of the board of works being of the opinion that it would be cheaper to do this than to repair the old walk. Ald. Rea was not at the meeting last night. Ald Wm. Jordan asked what about putting in their coal supply now at cheaper rates than could be secured later. This will be done.

Decides to Grant Fixed Assessment

The Post is informed that a private meeting of the town council was held last Tuesday, when the Carew matter was taken into consideration.

After looking at the question from its various aspects it is said the members decided to grant a fixed assessment for a term of years.

It has also been agreed to give him better fire protection in the shape of another hydrant in close proximity to the mill.

Canadian Pacific Steamboats

The Assiniboia Will Go Into Commission This Month

The C. P. R. will on July 11th put into service what is expected to prove the best boat on the Upper Lakes. The Assiniboia, the name by which the new boat will be known, has a fourteen knot speed, is 348 feet long, and 43 1-2 feet wide, with a draft of something over twenty feet. She has been fitted up luxuriantly and is the last word as regards comfort and convenience. The "Assiniboia" will leave Owen Sound on Saturdays. Two hundred and fifty passengers is her limit.

THROW AWAY LINIMENTS

Here's the Prescription to Cure Rheumatism.

Liniments only reach the skin and the muscles directly under the skin. Now, liniments can't cure Rheumatism. They simply deaden the nerves for a time. When the effect wears away, the pain returns worse than ever.

If the bowels do not move regularly—if the kidneys are strained or weak—if the skin is dry or harsh—the blood is sure to be filled with impurities or urea. This urea is changed into uric acid which is the poison that causes rheumatism.

Now, the only possible way to cure Rheumatism is to prevent uric acid from being formed. Logically, the only way to do this is to keep kidneys, bowels and skin in good working order, and prevent the stomach from being too acid. And the only way to do this is to take "Fruit-a-tives."

These marvelous tablets of fruit juices and tonics act directly on the three great eliminating organs—bowels, kidneys and skin—and put them in perfect condition. That is the only secret of their great success in curing rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago.

Barrie Wins By Six to Five

Wideawakes Defeated Here Yesterday —Game Somewhat Slow

The game of baseball which took place at the fair grounds on Monday afternoon between Barrie and the Lindsay Wideawakes, resulted in a win for Barrie by 6 runs to 5. Barrie was first to bat, and by some clever playing managed to squeeze in a run before their side was retired. The Wideawakes then came to bat, but were retired in one, two, three order. It was not until the third innings that Nanny Nesbitt crossed the plate, scoring Lindsay's first run. The Barrie nine, however, had two by this time, receiving another in the second, making the score 2 to 1 at the end of the third innings. The Lindsay nine began to get down to business by this time, and in the fifth innings got to work and hammered the leather for three runs, making the score 4-2. The Lindsay fans were wild and many were the praises bestowed on Plug Hopkins for his timely hit. For a couple of innings no one scored, but in the first of the seventh Barrie scored three, making the score 6-4 in favor of Barrie, Lindsay fans were down-hearted once more, but their hopes began to rise when in the eighth innings a Lindsay runner crossed the plate, making the score 6-5. But victory was not to be on our side, for the rest of the batters were retired in short order. In the ninth innings no one scored and victory rested with the Barrie aggregation.

The game, from the onlookers' standpoint was very slow at times, but like all games, there was some brilliant playing on both sides.

Dick Butler officiated as umpire to the satisfaction of all.

Celebration at Oakwood

A Good Game Between Oakwood and Cambray—Score Was 26 to 25

(Special to The Post.)

The first of July celebration at Oakwood was a decided success. The baseball game between Oakwood and Cambray resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 26 to 25. The game for the most part was slow and uninteresting. The features of the game were the splendid hitting and fielding of E. Tonkin, for Cambray and the batting of young Herbie Perrin, of Oakwood. The football game between Oakwood and Linden Valley was a much harder contested game, and much more interesting to watch. The teams were very evenly matched, the game resulting in a tie, no goals being scored. The feature of the game was the opportune kicking of Harry Swindles, who time and again saved the goal for the Valley team. M. Rogers and E. Beals for the Linden Valley team, and F. Perrin and J. Lee for the Oakwood team, played splendid games.

The teams lined up as follows;

Oakwood — Dugan, Coad Weimark, Weber, Perrin, Lane, Coad, Weldon, Mark, Weber. ———

Linden Valley — Swindles, Jewell, Beall, McCamus, Hancock, Collis, Mcellroy, Hicks, Rogers, Coad.

St. Paul's Big Band of Hope

Organization for Youthful Boys and Girls is Progressing—A Successful Entertainment

The Band of Hope in connection with St. Paul's church, although little over a month re-organized, has a membership of seventy, all the indications pointing toward continued success. The officers are meeting with much satisfactory progress in their work, and a spirit of optimism prevails throughout the entire organization.

On Thursday in the school-room of St. Paul's church a very much enjoyed programme was given, including dialogues, recitations and musical selections.

Rev. Mr. Creighton was chairman, while the hall was crowded to its entire seating capacity. As a result, a neat sum goes toward the maintenance of the Band of Hope.

Lacrosse Club Was Benefited

By the "Benefit" in the Lyceum Thursday Night—Good Season Ahead

The lacrosse club are in receipt of a goodly sum of cash as a result of last Thursday's benefit at the Lyceum. In addition to the regular features by way of pictures there were several specialties including songs by Master Percy Mulheron and instrumental selections by Messrs. Bert and Elgin Naylor, and Dave Mullen. The lacrosse club feel much indebted to the management of the Lyceum for the use of the place.

Notwithstanding the rather severe setback they have sustained at the first of the season, in cash as well as in reputation in consequence of their unsatisfactory arrangements with Millbrook for the holiday the local club will stick to-gether and with reasonable luck win the pennant. Manager Gartlan has control of some of the best men in the league and they live right here in Lindsay. He has lots of experience in managing lacrose teams and says that he will have a team yet that will make everybody sit up and take notice.

Queen Street Epworth League

Making a Study of Heroes—Interesting Meetings to be Held for the Future

To make the meetings of the Queen-st. Methodist Epworth League more more attractive it has been decided to pursue a course of hero studies, and last Monday first of a series was taken in hand by Mr. Stevens who gave an interesting paper on the life of John Wesley. A brief sketch of church and secular history was given and the social condition of the reformer's life and its effect upon the spiritual development. The speaker gave special prominence to the manhood of his subject and dwelt upon the aspect of his character which all might follow to their advantage. Comments were made by Miss Fee, who purposed continuing that course of procedure at intervals.

A Plucky Driver of Runaway Horse

Lady Driving Alone Does the Only Possible Thing and Steers Animal Home

Not a little excitement was caused by a runaway Thursday between ten and eleven, when a horse and buggy belonging to Armstrong's livery came tearing up Lindsay-st. from the south at a clip that would surprise anybody. In the rig alone and seemingly the most unconcerned person on the street, was a woman doing the only thing she could do — holding the lines steady and letting the animal go. Talk about your nerve and all the rest of it. You should have seen that runaway.

Finally, the horse was brought to a standstill by a gentleman, well known around town, but who does not wish his name to appear in the limelight. No harm was done. The horse had run a long distance, taking fright at something so suddenly that the driver lost control. All she could do was keep the animal on the road and let it make the pace as it saw fit.

Books Unread at the Library

Good Books Neglected and the Poorer Kinds Eagerly Read

It would be interesting to know just how many hundred dollars worth of books, and good books at that, are in our public library with the leaves uncut. One of The Post reporters on his daily rounds got into a conversation with a citizen of this town who has been reading the "Makers of Canada" series, and he was surprised to hear this gentleman say that the first eight volumes had not been read by anybody, although they have been in 2 years, the leaves being yet uncut. He was still further surprised when he was told that in these eight volumes were the lives of Sir. John A. Macdonald, Hon. Geo. Brown and Hon. Jos. Howe, three of the foremost men Canada has ever produced. It does seem too bad that good literature should be untouched and that fiction should be thumbed until the pages are loose. If this is true it does not speak well for the literary tastes of our citizens and it would form a good discussion by our library board as to the why and wherefore of it.

Are Cutting Hay Near Franklin

Among those who took in the excursion to Guelph on Monday last were Mr. E. O. Start, Mrs. S. Veals Miss Ruth Veals, and Mr. Robt. Henderson

The local baseball team played the return game at Fleetwood garden party on Monday evening last. The The score was 25 in favor of Franklin and 22 for Fleetwood.

The crops in this vicinity have improved greatly in appearance since the recent rains. Some farmers have commenced cutting their hay which promises to be a fairly good crop.

Miss Ella Smith of Pittsburg, is at present visiting friends in Franklin.

Rev. Dr. Marvin leaves for his new appointment at Warsaw this week.

Forest Flowers

The phenomenon called "frost flowers" was discussed before the Biological Society in Washington recently by Dr. Walters. The so called flowers are composed of ice that forms on frosty mornings in autumn and early winter on certain plants. The peculiar thing to be explained is that frost flowers do not form on all plants, but on only about twenty six species, as far as yet known. Among them are frost weed, dittany, marsh, fleabeans and cultivated heliotrope. The phenomenon is apparently due to capillary movements of water in the plant; but a wholly satisfactory explanation is lacking.

The Peterboro Cheese Board

Salesmen Would Not Accept Eleven and a Half Cents

The offer of 11 1-2 cents per pound for cheese at the Peterboro Cheese Board meeting Wednesday morning was rejected by the salesmen and the sale was, on motion adjourned for a week. The salesmen maintained that other boards were paying better prices and they wanted something higher. The buyers stated that the cheese could not be shipped for ten days and and they were simply taking a chance on the market going up if they offered a better price. Therefore, at the next sale the June cheese will be sold, and shipped a day or two after the sale, so that the buyers will know at the time of sale almost how the market will stand when they ship This will enable them to buy without taking any chances on a drop in the market before the cheese has passed from their hands.

This will also hold good at the concluding meetings of the board. No cheese made within the week previous to each board meeting will be sold at that meeting. The cheese will then be ready for shipping a day or two after the sale, and the shipments will include no green cheese, either.

TO GIVE A PRIZE

The buyers present were Messrs. Fitzgerald Gillespie, Kerr, Cook Weir Morton, Gunn and Langlois.

Before the bidding began Mr. G. A. Gillespie suggested that a prize of $50 be given by the cheese board for the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, on condition that the Exhibition puts up the same amount to be given for the best cheese. On motion of Mr Wm. Switzer, this was decided upon.

The cheese was then boarded to the number of 4,854 but as they were not sold, the list of factories and the number boarded is unnecessary, as they will be published next week.

The bidding was opened by Mr. Gillespie at 11 cents. It was raised in quick order to 11 1-2 cents in several bids, but as above mentioned the salesmen considered the price too low, and the sale was adjourned for a week.

"If we could only look into the future, remarked one salesman after the meeting, was over "I would have been at a picnic to-day."

The Lindsay Cheese Board

Meeting Held Here Today—Over Fourteen Hundred Cheese Boarded

The Lindsay cheese board met this morning in the market building. There were a goodly number of factories represented, and when President Robertson called the meeting to order everybody was in his place.

There were four buyers present Messrs. Flavelle, Gillespie, Brown and Cook.

Mr. Gillespie started the bidding with 10 1-2 c., but this was raised to 10 3-4c. by Mr. Brown. Mr. Cook then bid 11 3-8 c. which was raised to 11 7-16c. by Mr. Gillespie. Mr. Cook then bid 11 1-2 c. and the price went no higher.

Mr. Cook then called Red Rock N. Verulam Dunsford, Mariposa, Star North Ops, Reaboro, Omemee, Bobcaygeon, Maple Leaf, North Harvey and Cameron. Mariposa, Reaboro, Bobcaygeon and Cameron refused this offer. The factories accepting were to ship the cheese either next Saturday or on the following Tuesday.

Mr. Flavelle then called Bobcaygeon Reaboro, Cameron and Mariposa, at the foregoing price. Mariposa refusing, as he thought the price too low. The meeting then adjourned until the 20th instant.

Following are the factories represented with number of boxes boarded:

Star	114
Cameron	53
Dunsford	130
Mariposa	130
Omemee	195
North Verulam	117
North Ops	90

Thrilling Sail to Montreal

An Exciting Passage in The Post's Great Free Trip for Ten Young Ladies

A few days ago we published a description of the route of The Post's Great Free Trip through the Thousand Islands, and we now give a few particulars regarding the trip from down the St. Lawrence resuming our eastbound trip.

The steamer now bears to the right discussing the imposing group of buildings of the Point Ayy New York State Insane Asylum. Soon after the first glimpse of Prescott rolls by the steamer passes through the first of the troubled waters of the St. Lawrence, the Galoop Rapids, only a foretaste of what is to follow. We rapidly pass the picturesque villages of Cardinal and Iroquois. Our hands half miles below Iroquois is the Government point in the river—with seven hundred and forty feet, and on the right is Cedar Point. To the whole of fortification of this point by the Americans in 1812-13 the Rideau canal between Kingston and Ottawa, owes its existence. Morrisburg, Ont., soon comes in view. Five miles below Morrisburg is the Canadian mainland, is a grey stone monument which commemorates the battle of Crysler's Farm, fought in 1813, resulting in the defeat of the American Army under General Wilkinson by the Canadian Militia under Col. Morrison. Between Ironside and Morrisburg the Rapids de Plat—small but dark green waters among a group of wooded islands. Opposite Morrisburg is Dry Island and a mile below is Cooneck Island. After shooting the du Plat the steamer glides with steadily increasing speed past a picturesque point named Woodlands and an almost boulder shown on Dalworth side of Cooper Island, and signalled the turbulent waters of the Long Sault, with its numerous narrows of raging water. This, the great cut off the really remarkable rapids of the St. Lawrence extends about twelve miles down stream to Cornwall and is divided into main channels by numerous beautiful wooded islands. In "shooting of the rapids," as the descent by boat is called, is a most exciting experience. Before us is a seething mass of churning waters rushing with rendering speed down a destiny which threatens ahead, apparently without termination. Much moment we find ourselves being further drawn into the Charybdis jaws of the mighty powers, among its angry dashing rollers, past jutting headlands, along its fabulous rocks; while the roar of the waters, the foaming spray that leaps on over the vessel, intensifies the excitement caused by her swift downward and sideways movements. Yet her Steam almost snuff off she dashes on among the waves that seem to defy her passage. Not a moment but is carried along by sheer force of the current, at a speed of twenty miles an hour, past where seems to be some great gloomy mouth the ocean roar and tumult of the breakers. As we approach the foot of these rapids the steamer rapidly passes on the left of the Long Sault Islands to the Indian waters and a few yards further on St. Barnhart's Island in the Canadian waters and for the next two miles, both sides the river belong to the United States owing to an error made by the King of Holland, when was arbitrator of the treaty of 1842 defining the state boundaries. Long ago, it was discovered that the main channel of the river passed around the north side of Barnhart's Island, and there is only about three feet of water in the channel between Barnhart's and Sheik's Island, and the royal arbitrator was certainly wrong.

Navigation of the Long Sault requires exceptional nerve and precision in piloting, as well as extra power to land up the hill, hence, in "shooting the rapids," the vessel is provided with a tiller, besides the regular apparatus for steering a steamer. Only four men are kept at the wheel to insure safe steering; and as a result of such precautions accidents are unknown.

The first passage of the Long Sault by a steamer was made by Commodore Vanderbilt, the pilot of the celebrated Inman Line, Terrapin.

Our next stop is at Cornwall, with its extensive woollen and cotton mills. Before stopping at Cornwall we pass a tunnel passes under the New York and Ottawa Ry. bridge, of the New York Central Line, the only bridge spanning the St. Lawrence which joins the United States and Canada. The tunnel, about twelve miles long, with six locks, offers a safe passage for vessels from the eastern journey and is the only course possible for craft bound westward. About opposite the foot of the Cornwall Island, on the right is the picturesque Indian village of St. Regis with its little cross of bones marking its church in its gated near the line which divides Canada from the United States. The St. Lawrence expands below Cornwall, forming the beautiful Lake St. Francis, 25 miles in length. The shores on either side present a pleasant prospect, diversified with woods and farms "But," says a well known writer "the charm of a sail down Lake St. Francis, is the distant mountain range lake against the horizon. It is the old Laurentian range, spur of the Alleghanies—sometimes drawing nearer, sometimes receding into cloud-like indistinctness." At the entrance to the lake, we pass several islands among which is Stanley Island, a place and summer resort and in the full a place noted for duck shooting, etc. Located on the north shore about the middle of the lake is Lancaster and a few miles below is the boundary line between the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

At the lower end of the lake is Coteau-du-lac, a place occupying one of little French houses, looking still similar in contrast with the great stone church and glaring spire, evidence that we are now in French Canada. Across the Coteau, on the southern side, is the town of Valleyfield with its huge cotton mills.

After passing Coteau Landing the steamer glides under the magnificent iron bridge of the Canadian Pacific Ry. shortly below this bridge the Coteau Rapids are entered. These rapids are about two miles long and very beautiful and have an exceedingly swift current. It was here that a detachment of Indians were ambushed during Gen. Amherst's expedition, wood lost.

About seven miles further down we sweep past a small island whose trees almost dip into the flowing stream and rounding a sharp curve we enter the Cedar Rapids. On the left is a beautifully wooded island, and on the right is Hoffs Hole, the greatest gap known in the river between Kingston and the gulf. By planning a little bend one may now have fun the steamer is going. These rapids are very short but calculated the passing is most exciting. At times the steamer seems to be rushing at it to stay, but she steadily forces from the directional danger, and common rocks until she emerges from the rapids. But scarcely has we left the Cedars when she agains the Split Rapids—seemingly the submerged boulders guarding the entrance. One cannot help a shudder of fear as the ship approaches the threatening rocks but the skilled hand of the helmsman turns the boat aside, and it passes by unscathed.

A most distinctive feature the Split Rock Rapids are the Sailors. Long last the series of rapids completed by a wide expanse which almost mount gnomelikeously from a dark grey waters in such a choppy manner that they make the impression of less and less as though at sea. This group of four rapids, following one another in quick succession, extend in a gloomy wave miles.

The Soulanges Canal which parrels the river from Cascades to Coteau, is the lost of the Cascades is one of the finest of the canals, and is well worth taking a trip westbound in order to see the massive stone locks with fine finish on each side. The canal is lighted and operated by electricity.

Below the cascades the river extend into Lake St. Louis. Almost at the head, where the Cascades scathing waters soften into calm the Ottawa River which is here dammed and the waters in length discharges one of the finest sights on the St. Lawrence. The scenery is very fine along the lake Calm and shadowy with the mountains in the distance. Tall trees behind the tree tower down the line outline of Mount Royal so famed in song and story, and the spires topped of Beloeil St. John, and Sheffort are visible on the way. On our left is the Island of Montreal, and the Lachine rapids the passages of Montreal's harbor, which we spend in twenty minutes. It is a most pleasant resort on account of its nearness to the city and the Lachine rapids are a favorite course excursionings. Along the shore the shore there are several yacht and boating club houses—magnificent and a little above the head of Dorval (o) is the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club.

After passing from the lake we pass through the Lachine Canal to Montreal. This place was founded by La Salle in the year 1670. Here the Indians Lachine of Montreal, across from Laselle, on the south side, the Indian village, Caughnawaga. The name means "Praying Indians"

Below Caughnawaga is the magnificent Cantilever bridge of the Canadian Pacific Railway, a beautiful structure and a marvelous engineering principle.

Passing under the bridge we pass over globes into mid stream that seem to be suspended in mid air above the coming rapids, which now appear in full view. And soon we are in the midst of the Lachine rapids—the Lachine. A moment more and we have completed the descent, and we are bounding on the placid Ottawa of the river below with

Since leaving Cornwall we have passed dangerous rapids. This last short of five rapids have a total length of one hundred and twenty miles, and, that second one—the cedars—have the most rapid current of any of the rapids, the descent of which we have descended therein a sinking sensation which we experienced then when in the other rapids. The Lachine rapids, but, or the St. Lawrence rapids and the Lachine rapids are the most interesting to Montreal and are probably the best known. At the Long Sault Rapids are the most picturesque, and at the Cedars the scenic environments they are equal to the Cascades, consequently the Long Sault rapids are at the times long and been pleasing of the rapids, but each has its own beauties and individual attractions.

Passing the beautiful wooded shores of Sault Island we see the former picturesque Dollar bridge, built to replace the old Victoria Tubular bridge which was destroyed by conflagration, which is the most beautiful bridge of view with the formous structures of the present age, and connects Montreal with the south shore of the St. Lawrence.

Sweeping beneath the great bridge we come in full view of the city of Montreal with its teeming harbour, with its beautiful buildings of massive stone, its churches, with gleaming pinnacles and domes, its collegiate, its fine quay, docks and piers, and most all, with its royal mountain lifting its imperial head above the dim and rough commerce. As we move along through the crowded harbour, we pass here and there the huge forms of ocean liners. We come to Fort St. Victoria Lire a little above St. Helena's Island. It gives on this island that Chevalier de Levis burned the fleet of the French Army in 1760 rather than surrender it to the British conqueror, General Amherst.

Causes Needless Loss to Breeders

Sir Edward Moseley Gives Evidence as to Tuberculin

Its dense continues to pile up in support of this Hon. Sydney Fisher's contention in refused to tuberculosis in cattle, its most effective treatment and the best methods of its prevention. This week the New York Herald prints a letter from London giving the views of Sir. Oswald Moseley on the subject, which coincide with those of Canada's Minister of Agriculture.

Their is perhaps nobody in England better qualified to speak on the subject of the diseases than Sir Oswald. He is not only a practical farmer, but one of the most successful successful breeders of short horn cattle in Great Britain. He has given tuberculin a fair trial and not spoke with a degree of authority, which to the mind of the average man would outweigh the views of any number of chemists.

Sir. Oswald has tried the tuberculin test, and found it wanting. Moreover, he considered to be that reaction from the test does not necessarily prove the presence of tuberculosis that he now steadfastly believed he have his cattle innoculated with tuberculin. It was at Ralston Hall, his fine old palace near Burton on Trent, Staffordshire, that Sir. Oswald made his statement, which, when read him, it is said, at least 81,000.

SIR OSWALD'S EXPERIMENT

He said, in part, said Sir Oswald to the Herald correspondent. "I had a herd of ninety short horn cows, and I had a thoroughly healthy herd. I had tested by Professor MacFadyean, head of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons, and my own veterinary surgeon, Author, of Tutbury, Burton on Trent. I attended myself to the innoculation. It was at Ralston Hall, his fine old palace near Burton on Trent, Staffordshire, that Sir. Oswald made his statement, which, when read him, it is said, at least 81,000.

SIR OSWALD'S EXPERIMENT

He said, in part, said Sir Oswald to the Herald correspondent. "I had a herd of ninety short horn cows, and I had a thoroughly healthy herd. I had tested by Professor MacFadyean, head of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons, and my own veterinary surgeon, Author, of Tutbury, Burton on Trent. I attended myself to the innoculation. It was at Ralston Hall, which was that twenty cows out of ninety reacted sufficiently to be considered by Professor MacFadyean.

"These twenty, which were mostly in calf, I sent up to another property of mine, and I separated them from two miles away, and experimented on them. I had my veterinary surgeon to see them every day for a week, then every other day for another week, and then once a week for three weeks, and, lastly, once a month for about three months.

"With the exceptions of two cows out of twenty they all seemed to thrive well. Then two gradually began to pine and to show the disease after stopping the innoculations I had them destroyed. I found that they were full of tuberculosis. Twenty eighteen calves in due course. The calves were apparently very healthy when born but within a few days, or three weeks to two months, all these calves apparently went mad. I had them killed, otherwise they would have knocked themselves to pieces.

DROVE THEM MAD

"There were no perceptible cause of tuberculosis in the mothers or intestines, but their brains were very diseased, and, and, and my veterinary surgeon and myself concluded that the separent madness was due to the tuberculin in the brain.

"The cows in due course were again in calf. The sire, a pedigree shorthorn bull, I had then strength the same course of tuberculin innoculations as they had. They produced healthy calves. Then, in order to test it, I separate lots at the end of one of my tuberculin sales after they had been innoculated. The calves were perfectly healthy, and although the public were told that the cows had gone through a tuberculin course of tuberculin innoculation the calves made as much money as those at the rest of my herd. Well, I was pressured second. The cows so far as I could ascertain, were healthy, I sold, bred again and did well for the purchasers.

TEST HINGES ON LATENT ILLNESS

"So far as I can judge, the tuberculin test bring out any latent illness in the cattle, and, if it does, it saves from at the time they are tested. I have had cows reacts very strongly to the tuberculin innoculation and show that they were entirely free from tuberculosis. In one or two cases I was swindled by the animal, which had pierced various internal organs and had produced a certain amount of tuberculosis. What would have been the natural end of such animals I cannot say, as they were destroyed to see what was the cause of the reaction.

"At other times I have tested bulls which have reacted strongly and have sold them at public sales, for what they would fetch for grazing or breeding purposes, and I have even heard of these bulls being tested a year afterward and being passed, as far as I could see, quite healthy. Therefore I conclude the animals were suffering from a bad cold or some ordinary malady at the time they were tested.

"Another experience I had of the tuberculin test related to a thirteen healthy young Bates shorthorn bull, which I put out with thirteen healthy young Bates in a field of pasture. This young bull began to waste when out with the heifers and did not improve when I put him on the grass at the end of August. It gradually pined away, and on post-mortem examination proved to be full of tubercles in its intestines and lungs. The tuberculosis was evidently of later medition. C. C.

"Of the thirteen heifers that were with him when bull died, twelve of which I had slaughtered when of good age for veal, and, with two exceptions, they were found to be decidedly affected with tuberculosis in the lungs. Their dams were healthy, and, as a rule, were good specimens of the Bates shorthorn breed, and always produced sound calves so far as I know.

ABANDONED THE TESTS

"Afterward at my last triennial sale, I refused to have any of my animals tested, as I was of the opinion that, if I did, there was stumbling in hereditary tuberculosis in the animal, the testing would in many cases develop the disease and so enable the animal to become tuberculosis when, if I did not, it might not develop the disease at all during its life. Therefore, if anybody wants to buy my animals privately, and wants them tested before taking them, he must pay the increased price. C. C.

"I think some any experienced herdsman can tell whether a animal is under his charge care tuberculosis or not. It is not necessary to instill poison in the blood of an animal which might cause development of any latent tuberculosis.

"Although veterinary surgeons, I think, as a rule, are irreproachable as regards the honesty of their transactions," Sir Oswald concluded, "there is no doubt that there (are) some dealers who take advantage of means of preventing the test. Therefore, after an animal has been repeatedly inoculated with the poison there is no reaction after the test."

Queen Street Methodists

Cordially Welcome Their New Pastor in the Sunday School Room

The ladies of Queen-st. Methodist church gave a reception to their new pastor, Rev. J. R. Real, and his wife in the Sunday School last Friday in the abolitions of the church.

The schoolroom was well filled with members of the congregation as well as some from Cambridge-st. church. Mr. Wm. McWatters acted as chairman and opened the meeting by asking those present to sing "Praise God From Whom all Blessings Flow." After which Mr. Real led in prayer. Mr. McWatters then welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Real to Queen-st church and assures them that they would in all times have the co-operation of the church. He then called on Messrs Vakey, Pearson and Marks who in well chosen words, welcomed Mr. Real to his new field of labor.

Mr. Percy Moynes then sang a solo which was well received.

Rev. Wilson was called on first. Mr. Wilson, the new pastor of Cambridge-st church for a few words.

Mr. Wilson said he was glad he present and wished to thank the congregation for the hearty invitation they had given him. He said that Mr. Wilson had known Mr. Real for the past four years of his and he saw no reason why the church should not very soon of our of the day. Mr. Wilson also referred to the great ability of Mr. Real and said that no pastor had ever left Mr. Real's last charge in a worse condition than Mr. Real. Although he (Mr. Wilson) used to preach there last year.

Mr. Geo. Adams and Mr. Hughes were called upon to say a few words and did so, welcoming Mr. Real to the town and to the work.

The chairman then introduced Mr. Real, who on rising, was greeted with loud applause. He said he thought it would be very strange of him if he did not appreciate the chairs said of him since coming to Lindsay. He said that not much could be accomplished unless the congregation worked with him. But he was sure he had found a people who would do that. Mr. Real said he was always enjoyed Sunday School work and also the Epworth League work. He said he did not do much very much extraordinary but these jobs called at the parsonage were always well received. Mr. Real closed by asking everyone present to pray for him that his work might prosper and at the end of the year they would be able to say, "God has indeed been with us and our hearts been a success."

Refreshments were then served by the ladies, after which the hymn, "God with you will we meet again" brought the evening to a close.

away is not to find out this girl and marry her unknown to me. I don't mind your losing your heart, but don't lose your head. Give me your hand on it."

Jefferson reluctantly held out his hand.

"If I thought that you would marry that girl unknown to me I'd have Rossmore sent out of the country, and the woman too. Listen, boy. This man is my enemy, and I show no mercy to my enemies. There are more reasons than one why you cannot marry Miss Rossmore. If she knew one of them she would not marry you."

"What reasons?" demanded Jefferson.

"The principal one," said Ryder slowly and deliberately, and eying his son keenly as if to judge of the effect of his words, "the principal one is that it was through my agents that the demand was made for her father's impeachment."

"Ah," cried Jefferson, "then I guessed aright!"

"Marry Kate or not, as you please, but I want you to stay here," the elder man said after a pause.

"It's no use. My mind is made up," answered Jefferson decisively.

The telephone rang, and Jefferson got up to go. Mr. Ryder took up the receiver.

"Hallo! What's that? Sergeant Ellison? Yes, send him up."

Putting the telephone down, Ryder senior rose and, crossing the room, accompanied his son to the door.

"Think it well over, Jeff. Don't be hasty."

A few minutes later Jefferson left the house.

The door opened and Mr. Bagley entered, followed by a tall, powerfully built man, whose robust physique and cheap looking clothes contrasted strangely with the delicate ultrafashionably attired English secretary.

"Take a seat, sergeant," said Mr. Ryder cordially, motioning his visitor to a chair. The man sat down gingerly on one of the rich leather upholstered chairs. His manner was nervous and awkward, as if intimidated in the presence of the financier.

"Are the national committee still waiting?" demanded Mr. Ryder.

"Yes, sir," replied the secretary.

"I'll see them in a few minutes. Leave me with Sergeant Ellison."

Mr. Bagley bowed and retired.

Ryder, with his customary bluntness, came right down to business.

"Well, what have you been doing about the book?" he demanded. "Have you found the author of 'The American Octopus?'"

"No, sir; I have not. I confess I'm baffled. The secret has been well kept. The publishers have shut up like a clam. There's only one thing that I'm pretty well sure of."

"What's that?" demanded Ryder, interested.

"That no such person as Shirley Green exists."

"Oh," exclaimed the financier, "then you think it is a mere nom de plume?"

"Yes, sir."

"And what do you think was the reason for preserving the anonymity?"

"Well, you see, sir, the book deals with a big subject. It gives some hard knocks, and the author no doubt felt a little timid about launching it under his or her real name. At least that's my theory, sir."

"And a good one, no doubt," said Mr. Ryder. Then he added: "That makes me all the more anxious to find out who it is. I would willingly give this moment a check for $5,000 to know who wrote it. Whoever it is, knows me as well as I know myself. We much find the author."

The sleuth was silent for a moment. Then he said:

"There might be one way to reach the author, but it will be successful only in the event of her being willing to be known and come out into the open. Suppose you write to her in care of the publishers. They would certainly forward the letter to wherever she may be. If she does not want you to know who she is, she will ignore your letter and remain in the background. If, on the contrary, she has no fear of you and is willing to meet you, she will answer the letter."

"Ah, I never thought of that!" exclaimed Ryder. "It's a good idea. I'll write such a letter at once. It shall go tonight."

He unhooked the telephone and asked Mr. Bagley to come up. A few seconds later the secretary entered the room.

"Bagley," said Mr. Ryder, "I want you to write a letter for me to Miss Shirley Green, author of that book 'The American Octopus.' We will address it care of her publishers, Littleton & Co. Just say that if convenient I should like a personal interview with her at my office, 36 Broadway, in relation to her book, 'The American Octopus.' See that it is mailed tonight. That's all."

Mr. Bagley bowed and retired. Mr. Ryder turned to the secret service agent.

"There, that's settled. We'll see how it works. And now, sergeant, I have another job for you, and if you are faithful to my interests you will not find me unappreciative. Do you know a little place on Long Island called Massapequa?"

"Yes," grinned the detective. "I know it. They've got some fine specimens of 'skeeters' there."

Paying no attention to this jocularity, Mr. Ryder continued:

"Judge Rossmore is living there pending the outcome of his case in the senate. His daughter has just arrived from Europe. My son Jefferson came home on the same ship. They are a little more friendly than I care to have them. You understand. I want to know if my son visits the Rossmores, and if he does I wish to be kept informed of all that's going on. You understand?"

"Here is $500 for you."

"Perfectly, sir. You shall know everything."

Mr. Ryder took a blank check from his desk and proceeded to fill it up; then, handing it to the detective, he said:

"Here is $500 for you. Spare neither trouble nor expense."

"Thank you, sir," said the man as he pocketed the money. "Leave it to me."

"That's about all, I think. Regarding the other matter, we'll see how the letter works."

He touched a bell and rose, which was a signal to the visitor that the interview was at an end. Mr. Bagley entered.

"Sergeant Ellison is going," said Mr. Ryder. "Have him shown out and send the national committee up."

CHAPTER X.

"WHAT!" exclaimed Shirley, changing color. "You believe that John Burkett Ryder is at the bottom of this infamous accusation against father?"

It was the day following her arrival at Massapequa, and Shirley, the judge and Stott were all three sitting on the porch. Until now by common consent any mention of the impeachment proceedings had been avoided by every one. The previous afternoon and evening had been spent listening to an account of Shirley's experiences in Europe, and a smile had flitted across even the judge's careworn face as his daughter gave a humorous description of the picturesque Paris students with their long hair and peg top trousers, while Stott simply roared with laughter. Ah, it was good to laugh again after so much trouble and anxiety! But, while Shirley avoided the topic that lay nearest her heart, she was consumed with a desire to tell her father of the hope she had of enlisting the aid of John Burkett Ryder. The great financier was certainly able to do anything he chose, and had not his son Jefferson promised to win him over to their cause? So today after Mrs. Rossmore and her sister had gone down to the village to make some purchases Shirley timidly broached the matter. She asked Stott and her father to tell her everything, to hold back nothing. She wanted to hear the worst.

Stott, therefore, started to review the whole affair from the beginning, explaining how her father in his capacity as judge of the supreme court had to render decisions, several of which were adverse to the corporate interests of a number of rich men, and how since that time these powerful interests had used all their influence to get him put off the bench. He told her about the Transcontinental case and how the judge had got mysteriously tangled up in the Great Northern Mining company and of the scandalous newspaper rumors, followed by the news of the congressional inquiry. Then he told her about the panic in Wall street, the sale of the house on Madison avenue and the removal to Long Island.

"That is the situation," said Stott when he had finished. "We are waiting now to see what the senate will do. We hope for the best. It seems impossible that the senate will condemn a man whose whole life is like an open book, but unfortunately the senate is strongly Republican and the big interests are in complete control. Unless support comes from some unexpected quarter we must be prepared for anything."

Support from some unexpected quarter! Stott's closing words rang in Shirley's head. Was that not just what she had to offer? Unable to restrain herself longer and her heart beating tumultuously from suppressed emotion, she cried:

"We'll have that support! We'll have it! I've got it already! I wanted to surprise you! Father, the most powerful man in the United States will save you from being dishonored!"

The two men leaned forward in eager interest. What could the girl mean? Was she serious or merely jesting?

But Shirley was never more serious in her life. She was jubilant at the thought that she had arrived home in time to invoke the aid of this powerful ally. She repeated enthusiastically:

"We need not worry any more. He has but to say a word, and these proceedings will be instantly dropped. They would not dare act against his veto. Did you hear, father, your case is as good as won!"

"What do you mean, child? Who is this unknown friend?"

"Surely you can guess when I say the most powerful man in the United States? None other than John Burkett Ryder!"

She stopped short to watch the effect this name would have on her hearers. But to her surprise neither her father nor Stott displayed the slightest emotion or even interest. Puzzled at this cold reception, she repeated:

"Did you hear, father—John Burkett Ryder will come to your assistance. I came home on the same ship as his son, and he promised to secure his father's aid."

The judge puffed heavily at his pipe and merely shook his head, making no reply. Stott explained:

"We can't look for help from that quarter, Shirley. You don't expect a man to cut loose his own kite, do you?"

"What do you mean?" demanded Shirley, mystified.

"Simply this, that John Burkett Ryder is the very man who is responsible for all your father's misfortunes."

The girl sank back in her seat pale and motionless, as if she had received a blow. Was it possible?

"Do you really believe this, that John Ryder deliberately concocted the bribery charge with the sole purpose of ruining my father?" demanded Shirley, when she had somewhat recovered.

"There is no other solution of the mystery possible," answered Stott.

"And you, father, do you believe Ryder did this?"

"I have no longer any doubt of it," answered the judge. "I think John Ryder would see me dead before he would raise a finger to help me. His answer to my demand for my letters convinced me that he was the arch plotter."

"What letters do you refer to?" demanded Shirley.

"The letters I wrote to him in regard to my making an investment. He advised the purchase of certain stock. I wrote him two letters at the time, which letters if I had them now would go a long way to clearing me of this charge of bribery, for they plainly showed that I regarded the transaction as a bona fide investment. Since this trouble began I wrote to Ryder asking him to return me these letters so I might use them in my defense. The only reply I got was an insolent note from his secretary saying that Mr. Ryder had forgotten all about the transaction, and in any case had not the letters I referred to."

"Couldn't you compel him to return them?" asked Shirley.

"We could never get at him," interrupted Stott. "The man is guarded as carefully as the czar."

"Still," objected Shirley, "it is possible that he may have lost the letters or even never received them."

"Oh, he has them safe enough," replied Stott. "A man like Ryder keeps every scrap of paper, with the idea that it may prove useful some day. The letters are lying somewhere in his desk. Besides, after the Transcontinental decision he was heard to say that he'd have Judge Rossmore off the bench inside of a year."

"And it wasn't a vain boast—he's done it," muttered the judge.

Shirley relapsed into silence. Her brain was in a whirl. It was true, then. This merciless man of money, this ogre of monopolistic corporations, this human juggernaut had crushed her father merely because by his honesty he interfered with his shady business deals! Ah, why had she spared him in her book? She felt now that she had been too lenient, not bitter enough, not sufficiently pitiless. Such a man was entitled to no mercy.

Long after the judge and Stott had left for the city Shirley sat alone on the porch engrossed in thought, taxing her brain to find some way out of the darkness, and when presently her mother and aunt returned they found her still sitting there, silent and preoccupied. If they only had those two letters, she thought. They alone might save her father, but how could they be got at? Mr. Ryder had put them safely away, no doubt. He would not give them up. She wondered how it would be to go boldly to him and appeal to whatever sense of honor and fairness that might be lying latent within him. No, such a man would not know what the terms "honor," "fairness" meant. She pondered upon it all day, and at night when she went tired to bed it was her last thought as she dropped off to sleep.

The following morning Shirley went out for a walk. She preferred to go alone so she would not have to talk. Hers was one of those lonely, introspective natures that resent the intrusion of aimless chatter when preoccupied with serious thoughts.

Every now and then Shirley espied in the distance the figure of a man which she thought she recognized as that of Jefferson. Had he come, after all? The blood went coursing tumultuously through her veins only a moment later to leave her face a shade paler as the man came nearer, and she saw he was a stranger.

As she neared the cottage on her return home, she caught sight of the letter carrier approaching the gate. Instantly she thought of Jefferson, and she hurried to intercept the man. Perhaps he had written instead of coming.

"Miss Shirley Rossmore?" said the man eying her interrogatively.

"That's I," said Shirley.

The postman handed her a letter and passed on. Shirley glanced quickly at the superscription. No, it was not from Jefferson; she knew his handwriting too well. The envelope, moreover, bore the firm name of her publishers. She tore it open and found that it merely contained another letter which the publishers had forwarded. This was addressed to Miss Shirley Green and ran as follows:

Dear Madam—If convenient, I should like to see you at my office, 36 Broadway, in relation to your book, "The American Octopus." Kindly inform me as to the day and hour at which I may expect you. Yours truly,

JOHN BURKETT RYDER.
Per B.

Shirley almost shouted from sheer excitement. At first she was alarmed—the name John Burkett Ryder was such a bogey to frighten bad children with, she thought he might want to punish her for writing about him as she had. She hurried to the porch and sat there reading the letter over and over, and her brain began to evolve ideas. She had been wondering how she could get at Mr. Ryder, and here he was actually asking her to call on him. Evidently he had not the slightest idea of her identity, for he had been able to reach her only through her publishers, and no doubt he had exhausted every other means of discovering her address. The more she pondered over it the more she began to see in this invitation a way of helping her father. Yes, she would go and beard the lion in his den, but she would not go to his office. She would accept the invitation only on condition that the interview took place in the Ryder mansion, where undoubtedly the letters would be found. She decided to act immediately. No time was to be lost, so she procured a sheet of paper and an envelope and wrote as follows:

Mr. John Burkett Ryder:
Dear Sir—I do not call upon gentlemen at their business office. Yours, etc.,
SHIRLEY GREEN.

Her letter was abrupt and at first glance seemed hardly calculated to bring about what she wanted—an invitation to call at the Ryder home, but she was shrewd enough to see that if Ryder wrote to her at all it was because he was most anxious to see her and her abruptness would not deter him from trying again. On the contrary, the very unusualness of any one thus dictating to him would make him more than ever desirous of making her acquaintance. So Shirley mailed the letter and awaited with confidence for Ryder's reply. So certain was she that one would come that she at once began to form her plan of action. She would leave Massapequa at once, and her whereabouts must remain a secret even from her own family. As she intended to go to the Ryder house in the assumed character of Shirley Green, it would never do to run the risk of being followed home by a Ryder detective to the Rossmore cottage. She would confide in one person only—Judge Stott. He would know where she was and would be in constant communication with her. But, otherwise, she must be alone to conduct the campaign as she judged fit. She would go at once to New York and take rooms in a boarding house where she would be known as Shirley Green. As for funds to meet her expenses, she had her diamonds, and would they not be filling a more useful purpose if sold to defray the cost of saving her father than in mere personal adornment? So that evening while her mother was talking with the judge she beckoned Stott over to the corner where she was sitting.

"Judge Stott," she began, "I have a plan."

He smiled indulgently at her.

"You said that no one on earth could resist John Burkett Ryder, that no one could fight against the money power. Well, do you know what I am going to do?"

"What will you do?" he asked with a slightly ironical inflection in his voice.

"I am going to fight John Burkett Ryder!" she cried.

Stott looked at her open mouthed.

"You?" he said.

"Yes, I," said Shirley. "I'm going to him, and I intend to get those letters if he has them."

Stott shook his head.

"My dear child," he said, "what are you talking about? How can you expect to reach Ryder? We couldn't."

"I don't know just how yet," replied Shirley, "but I'm going to try. I love my father, and I'm going to leave nothing untried to save him."

"But what can you do?" persisted Stott. "The matter has been sifted over and over by some of the greatest minds in the country."

"Has any woman sifted it over?" demanded Shirley.

"No, but"— stammered Stott.

"Then it's about time one did," said the girl decisively. "Those letters my father speaks of—they would be useful, would they not?"

"They would be invaluable."

"Then I'll get them. If not"—

"But I don't understand how you're going to get at Ryder," interrupted Stott.

"This is how," replied Shirley, passing over to him the letter she had received that afternoon.

As Stott recognized the well-known signature and read the contents the expression of his face changed. He gasped for breath and sank into a chair from sheer astonishment.

"Ah, that's different!" he cried. "That's different!"

Briefly Shirley outlined her plan, explaining that she would go to live in the city immediately and conduct her campaign from there. If she was successful, it might save her father, and if not no harm could become of it.

That same evening her mother, the judge and Stott went for a stroll after dinner and left her to take care of the house. They had wanted Shirley to go, too, but she pleaded fatigue. The truth was that she wanted to be alone, so that she could ponder undisturbed over her plans. It was a clear, starlit night, with no moon, and Shirley sat on the porch listening to the chirping of the crickets and idly watching the flashes of the mysterious fireflies. She was in no mood for reading and sat for a long time rocking herself, engrossed in her thoughts. Suddenly she heard some one unfasten the garden gate. It was too soon for the return of the promenaders. It must be a visitor. Through the uncertain penumbra of the garden she discerned approaching a form which looked familiar. Yes, now there was no doubt possible. It was indeed Jefferson Ryder.

She hurried down the porch to greet him. No matter what the father had done, she could never think any the less of the son. He took her hand, and for several moments neither one spoke. There are times when silence is more eloquent than speech, and this was one of them. The gentle grip of his big, strong hand expressed more tenderly than any words the sympathy that lay in his heart for the woman he loved. Shirley said quietly:

"You have come at last, Jefferson."

"I came as soon as I could," he replied gently. "I saw father only yesterday."

"You need not tell me what he said," Shirley hastened to say.

Jefferson made no reply. He understood what she meant. He hung his head and hit viciously with his walking stick at the pebbles that lay at his feet. She went on:

"I know everything now. It was foolish of me to think that Mr. Ryder would ever help us."

"I can't help it in any way," blurted out Jefferson. "I have not the slightest influence over him. His business methods I consider disgraceful. You understand that, don't you, Shirley?"

The girl laid her hand on his arm and replied kindly:

"Of course, Jeff, we know that. Come up and sit down."

He followed her on the porch and drew up a rocker beside her.

"They are all out for a walk," she explained.

"I'm glad," he said frankly. "I wanted a quiet talk with you. I did not care to meet any one. My name must be odious to your people."

Both were silent, feeling a certain awkwardness. They seemed to have drifted apart in some way since those delightful days in Paris and on the ship. Then he said:

"I'm going away, but I couldn't go until I saw you."

"You are going away?" exclaimed Shirley, surprised.

"Yes," he said, "I cannot stand it any more at home. I had a hot talk with my father yesterday about one thing and another. He and I don't chin well together. Besides this matter of your father's impeachment has completely discouraged me. All the wealth in the world could never reconcile me to such methods! I'm ashamed of the role my own flesh and blood has played in that miserable affair. I can't express what I feel about it. But what are you going to do?" he asked. "These surroundings are not for you"— He looked around at the cheap furnishings which he could see through the open window, and his face showed real concern.

"I shall teach or write, or go out as governess," replied Shirley, with a tinge of bitterness. Then smiling sadly she added: "Poverty is easy. It is unmerited disgrace which is hard."

The young man drew his chair closer and took hold of the hand that lay in her lap. She made no resistance.

"Shirley," he said, "do you remember that talk we had on the ship? I asked you to be my wife. You led me to believe that you were not indifferent to me. I ask you again to marry me. Give me the right to take care of you and yours. I am the son of the world's richest man, but I don't want his money. I have earned a competence

Lindsay's Excellent Public Library A Well Conducted Institution

A Description of a Useful Depository of Information which Every One May Use

Is Lindsay's public library doing all that is required of it? Is it serving the needs of the town as it was expected it should?

Those are questions which are bothering a good many people about town to a great degree—if their grumblings are to be taken seriously. A few facts as to what the library is doing may be of interest.

The public library has on its shelves something over 6000 volumes. Between eight and nine hundred people were served last year but that number is increasing rapidly. In other words there are nearly a thousand people who will regularly take out books this year. The circulation in town is growing rapidly. Last year it varied from approximately 1,700 in the slack summer months to 2400 in the winter time. A very considerable percentage of those who use the books are young ladies and young men attending the Collegiate institute, those from outside the town being the most frequent users, strange to say. Especially do these students use books of reference and of nature study. History is also largely read by them, the fine sets of books in the local library being of great assistance to those attending the local schools. In this connection may be mentioned the much valued assistance of Mr. Cornish, of the L. C. I. teaching staff, in his selection of works on natural history and nature steady. His opinions on such matters are counted as the best authority hereabouts. The stock room contains many fine works of reference though it doesn't hold as many as cellar. For some reason other works of reference are not diligently sought after in the Lindsay public library. Fiction has the big call though this is the case everywhere. The convent is a big user of library books, the young ladies in residence taking full advantage. At present the library is open to the public from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m., and from 7 to 10 p.m. An effort is being made by the board to increase the number of hours to from 8 or 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.

AN OPINION.

Summed up, the stand which the public library board, of which Mr. R. M. Beal is chairman, takes, is as follows:

"The public library, althought not nearly perfect is one of the best things that we have and yet the public library in many ways is a still more useful institution for the community of nation as a whole in that the child who receives an education in the public school may after acquiring that education become a citizen of a foreign or an enemy's country and be completly lost to the land that furnished the means for his or her education, and while tens of thousands of children in city, town, and country are deprived of the opportunity of attending the public school for a sufficient time, while not more than five per cent of the children of the nation ever have the opportunity of attending the High Schools or the Collegiate and while not more than the very smallest fraction or percentage of the people enter the Universities, upon which millions of dollars of their money has and is being spent, while all these things are so the Public Library continues on for all time and for the benefit of all citizens whether young or old, rich or poor, irrespective of creed, colro, and condition. The Public Library is the most democratic thing we have—it is the peoples' University, the only place where they can go for their higher education, the one place in which all citizens can meet on common ground; where all are economic equals, where all differences of class denominations, organizations, associations, and political animosities disappear, where all can assemble to consider and discuss and carry off what is best for the comfort and intelligence of the people" An extract of an adress to the county council by a special committee asking for an increased grant.

A GIFT.

The local public library is directly benefited by the decision of the government of the United States to close the consulate at Port Hope and remove it to Orillia. Mr. Harry P. Dill the U. S. consul at Port Hope offered the gift of a large number of valuable books which he had there, to the librarian here, Miss Reazin, which need less to say was accepted.

The books have not arrived as yet but are expected in the near future. They include many different subjects

ABOUT THE BUILDING.

The library represents an expenditure of $13,500 the gift of Andrew Carnegie, on the customary condition that the expenditure for maintenance be ten per cent of the cost or $1350. That sum is somewhat less than the present revenue of the library board from the half mill rate, the grant from the county council and other sources. The site of the building on the north east corner of Victoria avenue and Kent-st. seems to have been just about the best place in town according to the opinions of a good many residents of Lindsay. There was a good deal of adverse comment and criticism at first but that has been seemingly forgotten. The building is of modern Greek architecture, the main part measuring 27 x 55 feet. The stack room with an estimated capacity of 20,000 volumes is also 27 x 55 feet. It is operated on the open access plan — the public, or rather ticket-holders, having the right to go in and pick out their book. There is a spacious basement with a ten foot ceiling. Down below are the lecture room, Historical Society room receiving room, lavatories and hall; the ground floor rooms include stack and reading rooms; and the board room and secretary's office all in one. The appearance of the building when contrasted with other similar structures throughout the towns and small cities of the province, compares very favorably with any of them from an architectural point of view.

HOW'S THIS?

In all the six thousand books in the local public library there is not one single bible, large or small. Just why this state of things exists cannot be very satisfactorily explained, except that the board has never seen fit in its wisdom to buy one, or else it has overlooked the matter. Lindsay library is not the only one to be without a Bible, however the Brantford, Ottawa Woodstock and other libraries being without this Sacred Book. The shelves contain about two hundred works of a religious character; the circulation, however is not large enough to keep one assistant going all the time handling books. For days at a time not one is touched.

THE LIBRARY BOARD

It is not believed for a minute by anybody that a better selection of men for the purpose could be made than those who form the present library board. They are; Mr. R. M. Beal, chairman; Mr. G. S. Patrick secretary-treasurer; Mr. F. D. Moore K. C., Dr. Vrooman appointed by the town council; Judge Harding; Mr. Wm. Flavelle and Mr. Works, of L. C. I., appointed by the board of education; Rev. Father Collins and Crown Attorney A. P. Devlin, appointed by the separate school board; Inspector J. H. Knight, appointed by the East Victoria Teachers' Association.

AS REGARDS FINANCE

The Board is having real trouble of its own in regard to the matter of financing the institution. Like a great many more people, they say if they only had more money to spend how much better things would be. Perhaps they have some claim in saying this, however which other people haven't. For this reason; The total receipts of the public library for 1907 were $1,412.87 and of this amount, after careful management, $980.66, was consumed for running expenses. This left $319.93 for the purchase of books and periodicals. Owing to an overdraft from 1906 of $45.30, and insurance policies for three years amounting to sixty dollars having to be paid, the board was forced last year to curtail somewhat the amount expended in books, which in turn reduced the amount of conditional grant from the Ontario Government. So to say the least the outlook is none too bright.

Much Business Transacted

The Committees of Council Discuss Numerous Details Yesterday Afternoon

A committee meeting of the town council was held in the town clerk's office Monday afternoon. There were present Mayor Begg, Reeve Jordan, Deputy-reeve Eyres, Aldermen Jordan, Smale, McGeough Calvert Rea, Campbell and Dobson.

The first matter considered was an account of J. S. Porter, which was referred to the finance committee. The license matter of J. Kempt was also referred to the finance committee.

The case of Mr. McGillivray then came up before the committee, and occasioned considerable discussion.

Ald. Dobson said he would like to know how many Bells were on the fire brigade and was given the answer that it took a good many bells to make a string.

Reeve Jordan — There is a feeling in this brigade which seems hard to reconcile. It is a department that must be harmonious. It is a most important thing that all should work together.

Ald. McGeough — I don't think that these men had any right to discharge Mr. McGillivray. They are trying to swipe the best man of the lot.

Ald Rea — I think the chief was the man to discharge this man.

Reeve Jordan — A great deal of care should be taken in this matter.

Ald. McGeough — The chief is not able to boss the gang.

Ald. Rea — Has the chief any trouble with the rest.

Mayor Begg — I don't think so. Does Mr. McGillivray want to be reinstated?

Ald. Rea — The brigade does not want him.

Ald. Smale — It would break the efficiency of the brigade.

Reeve Jordan — If the men are allowed to act as they like, where is it going to end?

Ald. Dobson — I'm told that this man is the best man on the brigade.

Reeve Jordan — I would advise that a regular committee be appointed to meet Mr. McGillivray and the rest of the brigade and make new rules.

Mr. Eyres — I do not want to cast reflections on anybody. In the first place, Mr. McGillivray is a good man, but I think the chief should have either put a stop to this business or carried it through. We have enough particulars to dispose of this matter.

Reeve Jordan — Appoint a committee and meet these men and try and settle it and if not able, report at once.

Ald. Dobson — Put the best men on the brigade.

Moved by Reeve Jordan, seconded by Ald. Calvert, that the Mayor, Deputy Reeve Eyres and the chairman, W. Jordan, look into the fire department and bring in any recommendation for the benefit of the brigade and have them sounded by the council. This motion was carried.

The matter about the new sweeper was filed.

A bill for five bushels of oats bought by Ald. Jordan for the fire hall from J. Maunder was ordered to be paid.

A bill from J. Brown for groceries was filed.

The next matter to be considered was the rate.

Moved by Mayor Begg, and seconded by Reeve Jordan, that the rate for the year be fixed at 28 mills.

Ald Dobson — I would like to know what amount has been spent.

Mayor Begg — Nearly $2,000.

Ald. Dobson — The east ward streets have not received their share. It is false economy to leave Queen st. ungravelled.

Ald. Smale — How much is there to grade.

Ald Dobson — About one block.

Mr. Eyres — We should discuss whether the gravel should go on Peel or Queen-sts.

Ald Dobson — I understand Mr. Rea to promise gravel for Queen-st. last year.

Ald Rea — I think we will be able to gravel Queen-st.

Mr. Eyres — We will have to divide it up and put some on both

Moved by Mayor Begg, seconded by Ald. Dobson, that a reduction be made to constitute 28 mills.—Carried.

The roller rink matter then came up for discussion. Moved by Mayor Begg, seconded by Ald. McGeough that the matter be filed.—Carried.

The report of the finance committee was then taken up.

R. S. Porter's bill was ordered to be paid.

The matter of James Kempt was allowed to stand over.

A bill from the Bell Telephone Co. for $62.50 was ordered to be paid.

The chairman then read a letter from the Municipal Association and said he thought the town council should send a representative to the association to press our case. This association meets on the 2nd. and 3rd of September.

On motion it was decided to send Mayor Begg and Ald. Jordan.

Rag and stocking bags can be made from good pieces of an old hammock.

The Board of Education

Miss Moir of Port Hope Appointed to the High School and Miss Isler of Michell to the Public

Owing to an anticipation that some of the members of the Board of Education would be absent from town Tuesday, the meeting was held instead Monday afternoon in the council chamber. Those present were Messrs. Thos. Stewart, Robt. Spier, J. D. Flavelle, Magistrate Jackson, Dr. Blanchard, Dr. White, D. R. Anderson, J. Anderson, and J. G. Edwards.

Mr. Stewart, chairman, opened the meeting by reading a communication received from the Minister of Education, stating that the new system of model schools would not come into effect for some time, but for the present term a grant of five hundred dollars would be given to the Lindsay Model School.

Moved by Magistrate Jackson and seconded by Mr. J. D. Flavelle, that the grant from the council be reduced accordingly.

The business in regard to the applicants for the vacancies caused by the recent resignation of Miss Jackson and Miss Parr was then proceeded with.

Moved by Mr. J. D. Flavelle and seconded by Magistrate Jackson that Miss Edith Isler at present teaching at Mitchell, Perth county, be appointed to fill one vacancy.

The remaining vacancy was not filled.

It was then considered from the many applicants received, who should be the general assistant at the High School.

Miss K. D. Moir, of Port Hope was thought to be the best fitted to fill the position and was accordingly appointed.

Arrangements for the Schools

What it has been Decided to do at the Different Buildings

At a meeting of the management committee of the public schools and Collegiate Institute held on Monday afternoon composed of the following gentlemen; Messrs. J. W. Anderson, D. Anderson, N. Grey, and Drs. Blanchard, White and Walters, the committee awarded the contract of erecting a fire escape at the Collegiate Institute to the Parkin Elevator Co. of Hespeler. Wm. Keys was awarded the contract of putting on a new steel ceiling on the room below the science room. Messrs. Morrison Bros. were given the contract of overhauling a portion of the plumbing of the Collegiate Institute and Messrs. Boxall & Matthie were given the job of converting the wood furnaces in the east ward school into coal burners. The committee decided to put in a certain number of slate black boards, the number to be regulated by the amount of cash left at their disposal.

No Increase for the Band

The Matter is Reconsidered but Failed of a Two-thirds Vote

The town council met on Monday and despatched a considerable amount of business.

Among the important questions dealt with was the matter of increasing the grant to the band from $300 to $500. Mr. Sylvester put the matter clearly before the Council in both letter and speech but a motion to refer the matter to the finance committee failed of a two-thirds vote, and the motion therefore could not be passed.

All the members were present excepting Reeve Jordan and all but the mayor bowed to the demands of a hot July evening and doffed their coats.

The Market Clerk reported that the weighing fees during June amounted to $40.75, and the market fees to $2.62.

The monthly report of the police commissioners was also laid upon the table.

Mr. Wilson for the Ops council, stated that there was a bad piece of road on the boundary which needed repair and he asked this council to share the expense to the amount of $5 that repairs may be made.

Ald. Rea was instructed to view the road and act according to his judgment.

THE BAND GRANT

A communication was read from Mr. R. Sylvester asking that a further grant of $200 be made to the band making the total sum $500. The letter stated that there was an indebtedness of some $400 against the band and that unless the grant were made as requested the band would have to discontinue. It pointed out also the great efficiency of the band and asked that final action be taken as no further appeal would be made.

Mr. Sylvester on being invited to address the council said he thought it well that they should have a square talk and a friendly talk on the subject and they should come to some understanding on the matter. If the town did not want a band of course he would not insist upon it. When some years ago the band disbanded he took the instruments over for the good of the town and they had been doing their best to keep them together so that Lindsay might have a band that was a credit to it. The amount asked was a small one when everything was considered and there should not be any objection to it. Other towns were paying larger sums and did not have nearly such a good band. We have a really good one and if any proof were needed of this we had only to look at the fact that it had been picked out of nine others as the best one to go to the Tercentenary at Quebec, thus bringing honor and credit to the town of Lindsay. If the Council wants such a musical organization as this to be disorganized of course it lay in its hands to say so. The parties behind the band had taken over the instruments some years ago and held them as security but they could not go spending their good money unless the council were prepared to do something to support it. It would be well to consider now whether the grant would be increased as it was the last time it would be asked for. He did not come in any sense threatening but in a friendly way so that they might have a clear understanding as to how matters stood.

Ald. Wm. Jordan asked if Mr. Sylvester thought these requests would not be continued.

Mr. Sylvester said he thought not because if they were relieved of their debt, they would be in a much better position.

—Mr. Roenigk, bandmaster addressed the council pointing out the sacrifices which the band made and the breaking up which would follow if aid were not forthcoming.

The matter was laid on the table until the report of the finance committee should come up for consideration.

Mr. Ferguson was allowed to addressed the Council for a few minutes. He wanted to move a shed adjoining his house away from it a few feet. Referred to the chairman of the town property and the fire warden.

The reports from the different committees were then read and adopted.

A number of by-laws were then read and passed.

On the by-law for the issue of debentures for the Waterworks Ald. Dobson moved an amendment. He said "Lindsay is not in a condition to have a new filtration plant. Let us have a filtration plant that has been tested by science. He would like to see Lindsay have good water as well as anybody but he did not thing we could go to that expense when we don't know how it will come out. The Commissioners are $400 in the hole now and he warned the council to be careful of what they are doing.

Mayor Begg then explained to Ald. Dobson that this plant would cost the town nothing if it was not a success and with that Ald. Dobson took his seat.

Moved by Deputy-reeve Eyres and seconded by Ald. Jordan that the Grand Trunk railway be interviewed in regard to the insufficient service between Lindsay and Port Perry and Whitby. They would advise better connections at Manilla or else to run a train right through.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Rea seconded by Ald McGeough that a commissioner be appointed to report on the building of a cement walk on the south side of Peel-st. from Victoria avenue to Cambridge-st., to be built on the initiative plan. — Carried.

Adl. Calvert—How about that cement walk on Queen-st?

Ald Rea—We have decided to repair that for this year.

Ald. Calvert — That walk cannot be fixed. The boards are all rotted away.

Mayor Begg. — Well, we were looking at it and we thought we could fix it.

Ald. Calvert — There was a cement walk petitioned for that street last year and they surely thought they would get it this year.

Ald Rea — Well I guess, Mr. Mayor, we will have to build that walk. I see there is a petition for it.

Mayor Begg — You can look at it to-morrow and it if needs it order the stone at once.

The Sylvester Band grant then came up again.

Moved by Ald Jordan, and seconded by Ald. Rea that the matter of the Sylvester band grant be referred to the finance committee. This motion needed a two-thirds majority to pass and as only five were for it, it was not carried. The increased grant was therefore thrown out.

Fruit Crop in The Dominion

Result of Investigations Made by the Dominion Government Officials

The following on the condition of the fruit crop throughout Canada as ascertained by the Dominion Government officials will prove interesting;

Weather Conditions—The weather conditions throughout the Dominion for the past month have been generally favorable for fruit. The first three weeks were exceptionally dry in the fruit districts of Ontario but occasional showers after the 20th have prevented serious injury except that the samples of strawberries in some cases are not as large as usual. Light frosts on the 15th did only a very slight damage. Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island have had exceptionally favorable weather. In British Columbia, though the weather was cool and wet till the early part of June, conditions were not seriously affected. During the latter part of the month the temperature has been higher with occasional showers.

Apples — Prospects are not so good this month as last. The "set" of fruit was not as good as was expected, and the dry weather has probably increased the June "drop" A fair estimate of the present conditions would be an average crop of early and fall apples, with winter apples somewhat below a medium crop. The districts producing a larger quantity of fruit in Ontario, such as the counties of Hastings, Durham and Northumberland have rather a light crop of winter apples.

Speaking generally for the whole apple belt, Spies, Baldwins, and Kings will be light or very light, Russets a medium crop, Ben Davis, nearly a full crop, the Fameuse above the average, almost everywhere and at least an average crop of fairly good sized fruit in the Ottawa and St. Lawrence valleys.

In Nova Scotia the prospects for the apple crop as a whole are particularly good, this being a bearing year for the Gravenstein. There are no unfavorable conditions in British Columbia, the prospects showing a medium crop.

Pears and Plums — The prospects for pears and plums are only medium Bartletts and Kieffers have the best best showing.

Peaches — Early varieties will be fairly abundant, somewhat above the average; late varieties a medium crop In the early varieties, Alexander, Early Rivers, and Triumph are reported bearing full crops. Of the latter varieties St. John will be only a medium crop, the Early Crawford light, Smocks and Elbertas show for something over a medium crop. The Elbertas are bearing heavily where thye were sprayed for Curl Leaf; those not sprayed have in many cases a very light crop.

Tomatoes — The prospects for tomatoes are excellent. Should there be plenty of moisture during July there seems nothing in the way of a full crop this year.

Cherries — Sweet cherries will be somewhat scarce; sour cherries more plentiful.

Grapes — Grapes look well and promise a full crop.

Small Fruits — With a moderate amount of rain small fruits will likely give a large crop. The conditions are so favorable over all the fruit producing sections that the aggregate of the crop will likely be very large.

Insects — Insects are not more prevalent than at this time last year, and fungous diseases are not specially in evidence. Up to the present time most injury has been done by the Cigar Case Bearer the Bud Moth, Canker Worm, Green Fruit Worm, and Oyster Shell Bark Louse.

Foreign Crop conditions — The United States will have only an average crop, but very generally distributed over the apple growing districts. The prospects for stock suitable for marketing during the summer months would indicate about an average crop or somewhat less.

The prospects for apples in Great Britain and for the fruit crop generally are particularly good, and there are no serious adverse conditions reported from the Continent.

Cause for Alarm

Epidemic Influenza, Grippe, Catarrhal Troubles, Pneumonia Increasing

A marked increase in troubles of the breathing organs is noted in many localities. If you will only have Hyomei at hand to use with the first attack of cold in the head, pneumonia, colds, bronchitis, hoarseness, sore throat, croup, in fact any respiratory affection the trouble will be quickly overcome.

If the attack is neglected and become severe, speedy relief will come in most cases and a persistent use of Hyomei will cure.

The directions for using it vary, but the principle is always the same, that of destroying all the germs in the air you breathe and having it reach the air passages with dry medication from the pine and eucalyptus forests.

Remember that liquids or moisture is barred from the bronchial tubes and lungs. It's the dry air of Hyomei that reaches the spot. Jury & Gregory guarantees it.

(Special to The Post.)

Coboconk, July 8th — Last night fire broke out in the buildings attached to Mr. R. A. Callan's lime kiln and considerable loss resulted.

The fire was discovered about midnight and in a short time the people of the village had congregated at the scene of the conflagration in large numbers and strenuous efforts were put forth to save the buildings, which, however, were destroyed.

The loss is estimated to be in the neighborhood of $800.

Everybody Is Hustling

All the Candidates and All of Their Friends are Getting Busy

"Everybody is excited over The Post's Free Trip competition," said a visitor in town this morning. "The candidates are canvassing all districts thoroughly, and are apparently leaving no stone unturned to secure the trip to Quebec. It is the most exciting thing that ever happened in this county." This is the story that comes from all sections, and the excitement is not confined to Lindsay and Victoria County. It extends among friends of the candidates in all parts of Canada. From even the remotest parts have votes come in.

'Twas Somewhat Premature

Was the Announcement that Mr. Jesse Perrin Would Leave Lindsay

The Fenelon Falls Gazette of last week said:

"It has been rumored that we are to have a new industry at the Falls being that of a boat building establishment. Mr. Jesse Perrin, of Lindsay is to start it and it is expected to be located somewhere near Redner's Point."

A reporter of the Post interviewed Mr. Perrin this morning and ascertained that the announcement was premature, as Mr. Perrin has not decided to leave Lindsay, although it could not be denied that the Point indicated would be an advantageous place at which to pursue his calling.

The Pedestrians Were Drenched

Were Caught in the Storm When Near Reaboro

The Peterboro Examiner says that Stacey, Stevens, Hartley and others comprising a bus load who left Lindsay on Saturday night after the walk was over to go to Peterborough, had an experience which was anything but agreeable. There were fifteen in the party and the 'bus with a team of horses, was engaged to make the trip. They got away from Lindsay all right, but on the road a storm broke upon the party after midnight. It was no pink tea affair, either. Jim Stacey laughs yet when he thinks of the soaking he got and the experience on that lonely Victoria Road while the wind whistling fortissimo through the trees, and accompanying illustrations in the form of frequent flashes of lightning which lit up the inky depths of the heavens and made one feel a thousand miles from home.

The wind finally caught the top of fact, that it lit in the lake, giving them the advantage of one run, although he had quite sufficient time to get around the diamond twice, the game ended with a score of eight to five in Mr. Pogue's favor.

During the latter part of the day the pleasure of the day was slightly marred, but considering everything, a most delightful day was spent.

Baptist Outing at Thurstonia

A Most Delightful Sail and Picnic Enjoyed Tuesday

Over one hundred and fifty adults and children were in attendance at the annual excursion of the Baptist church to Thurstonia park last Tuesday via the steamer Kathleen. While there, nearly everyone participated in the program of sports, the ball game being particularly exciting. Dr. Pogue and Mr. A. Clark acted as captains, but notwithstanding a big hit made by Mr. Clarke (so big. In the 'bus and put it out of commission, leaving the fifteen occupants at the mercy of the driving rain. It fell in torrents and the party was glad to accept the shelter of the church sheds at Reaboro. They will not soon forget this feature of the trip from Lindsay.

Orangemen are Hard at Work

Making Arrangements for the Great Celebration on Monday

The committee of Peterboro Orangemen who are arranging for the big celebration of July 13 are nearing conclusion of their work. There is a possibility that an excursion may be run from Toronto, and arrangements are now under way with the C. P. R. to this effect. There are several Orange lodges in the Pontypool and Burketon districts who only recently intimated their desire to go to Peterborough and the special train if run will be for the benefit of lodges between Toronto and Peterboro.

Mr. W. H. G. Armstrong, County Master for West Peterborough stated yesterday that he expected between 15,000 and 20,000 Orangemen and their friends in Peterborough next Monday. They will be there from Victoria Hastings, Durham Northumberland, as well as from all parts of Peterboro county.

Addresses will be delivered by prominent members of the order and at two o'clock there will be a procession.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to those who worked so well and so successfully to keep the fire of the 7th inst in check, and thus lessen my loss considerably.

CAMBRAY

(Special to The Post.)

The Methodist Sunday school anniversary was held in W. B. Feir's grove on Tuesday, 7th. Notwithstanding the wet day, a large crowd was present. Tea was served and there was a baseball match between Eden and Cambray juniors, also between Glenarm and Cambray. Owing to the wet grass the games lacked enthusiasm.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Jackson and family are guests at the Methodist parsonage.

Cambray lodge I. O. F. will hold their annual parade to the Methodist church on Sunday evening. A large number of visiting brethren are expected.

Mr. W. McIntyre, of Gilbert's store is enjoying a week's holiday at Long Point.

Mr. C. Wood, of Buffalo, is spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Wood.

The Epworth League picnic to Ball Point on Monday afternoon was a decided success. A large number of the young people from the village were there and spent a pleasant time.

A number of our villagers are camping at Long Point, and some of them are telling some big fish stories.

OMEMEE

(Special to The Post.)

The Orangemen have returned from Peterboro highly pleased with the grand celebration and no casualities. Many celebrate the day and take no other day in the year to meet old friends and acquaintances—some with colors on and other followers who do not care to display colors and it might be safely said the majority go with no malicious purpose to aggravate anyone, but with good will toward all.

The Rev. McCulloch preached a very eloquent and impressive sermon on Sunday evening at the Methodist church. Many came away well impressed and remained in that feeling until after the celebration at Peterboro was ended.

It is now fully expected that the clearing out of our beautiful river to Pigeon Lake will begin on Saturday, August 1st. The water continues four to five feet high to the village and increases northward to the lake, as also do the weeds of all kinds.

Mrs. W. G. Stevenson presented a charming young son to her husband on the 13th of July.

Our contingent of soldier boys are preparing for Quebec. As in all other cases, the senior members come first Major W. Neill, our old South African veteran, is spending a few holidays here and prefers this to many other summer resorts visited. Captures a fish every day, as he did the Boers.

Rev. Mr. Peokover returned to-day after a well earned holiday at Toronto and other places, and will occupy his own pulpit next Sabbath at 3 p. m.

Rev. Walter Nugent, of Chicago, is spending his hoildays with his father here, Mr. Harry Nugent.

Mr. St. John, of Sunderland, opened out his market here to-day at the Commercial hotel, paying the highest possible prices in cash for butter, poultry, eggs, etc. They must be all choice.

Are you helping the young lady candidate in your district?

CAMERON

(Special to The Post.)

Quite a number from our village went to Peterboro on the 13th. Among the number were Mr. A. McLean and wife, Mrs. E. Langford and Mrs Dr. Langford and Mr. Wm. Hepburn. The local brethren went to Fenelon Falls and were joined at the station by the Cambray lodge.

Misses Ethel Maylen and Miss M. Langsford are spending vacation at their respective homes.

Mr. Ed. Dunn now has his house about completed and will soon be movving in.

Elder Thompson of the Latter Day Saints church is preaching a series of discourses in the church of that perssuasion, and as a result of his efforts three converts were immersed in the lake on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. A. E. Williamson, of the Bible House, Alleghenny, will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Perrin during the week.

Mr. Paul Johnson, a converted Hebrew, will give two lectures in the east ward church on "the first and second bell of the bible." The first discourse will be given on Saturday evening at the hour of half-past seven and the other on Sunday afternoon at the hour of half-past two. As Mr. Johnson is a learned man conversant with the Hebrew and other Oriental languages, a clever debater, close reasoner, and effective speaker, it will well repay the effort made to hear him on these two much debated subjects.

Are you helping the young lady candidate in your district?

FRANKLIN

(Special to The Post.)

We are pleased to see our worthy Sunday school superintendent able to again take charge of the school, after having passed through an operation in the Peterboro hospital.

Trials of a Hot Night in Lindsay

How the Average Citizen Tried to Woo the God of Sleep and Lost Out---Constable Short Locates a Troublesome Dog

Saturday night was hot—oh, so hot! and suffering humanity more than gasped for breath.

With windows open wide, and the sparsest of covering, the average citizen struggled through the weary hours of fitful sleep, abundance of sweat and the usual concomitants of a "Midsummer Night's Dream."

The citizen who went to bed at the usual hour got him off to uneasy slumber, when he was aroused by the cheerful, if not tuneful, whistle of a belated pedestrian. Again he rolled over to snooze when a feline caterwauled in plaintive tones to his "Mariar". Again the uneasy slumberer sat up with a mouthful of expletives that made his teeth ache before he could get rid of them.

Once more he laid him down to sleep and was just dropping off to the Land of Nod, when one of the big mosquitoes that Jim McPhadyen uses to pull up the stumps from the Scugog made his escape and took a nip out of the citizen's leg. Of course he awoke again and muttered things.

But the heat was too oppressive to sit up long and again he lay down, his wife meanwhile praying for the welfare of his being in the hereafter, and again he was on the point of dropping off into the soothing realms of the god of sleep when—there arose and filled the air for blocks and blocks around the loud, mournful and insistent howls of a lusty dog. Hoping it would cease ere long the citizen turned over once more to woo the sleep that seemed so elusive, when still louder they broke forth accompanied by loud foot falls clap—clap—clapping along the cement walk. This was the last straw and immediately from every window there protruded heads and bodies in all kinds of array and some with practically none at all. And then everybody beheld Constable Short hurrying up the street, his coat off, helmetless and almost a total wreck from the excessive heat, the sweat dropping from him in streams that beat to a frazzle Felix Forbert's sensational advertising tracks.

The alert constable was not slow in locating the source of the latest sleep disturber, for he soon discovered that the howls emanated from the Lyceum Theatre, where the poor dog had been inadvertently locked in.

Mr. Short hunted up the owner of the Lyceum, and soon the dog was liberated, and in sheer gratitude the poor animal followed him around the remainder of the night.

But in the meantime everybody had gone to sleep.

Funeral of a Beloved Clergyman

Rev. Father Farrelly Laid to Rest at Belleville Saturday

The funeral of the late Rev. Father Farrelly, at one time parish priest of Lindsay, took place Saturday morning at Belleville, and was attended by a large number of clergy from the Arch-diocese of Kingston, as well as many from other parts of the province.

The services were held in St. Michael's church, and the edifice was crowded. The citizens of Belleville, irrespective of creed, turned out in large numbers to pay the last tribute of respect to one who was beloved by all.

Requiem mass was chanted by His Grace Archbishop Gauthier, of Kingston, and interment took place in the Roman Catholic cemetery, Belleville.

A Referee for Butter and Cheese

An Acting Officer Appointed at the City of Montreal

In order to meet occasional requests for the service of a referee for butter and cheese, Mr. Joseph Burgess, a member of the dairy commissioner's staff, has been assigned to duties at Montreal, which will permit him to examine on request shipments of butter and cheese over which there is a dispute as to quality. Examinations will be made and certificates given only when the request comes from both buyer and seller.

Mr. Burgess may be addressed at Department of Agriculture, Custom House, Montreal, or Telephone Main 4154.

It may be added that Mr. Burgess is well qualified to perform the duties of a referee. He is an experienced cheese and butter maker and has been on the Dominion dairy commissioners staff since 1902. He was superintendant of the government curing room at Woodstock, Ont. until it was closed in 1906. Since then he has been inspector for the dairy and cold storage branch in Western Ontario.

C.P.R.'s Magnificent New Steamer S. S. Assiniboia is Upper Lakes Champion

The latest addition to the Canadian Pacific's Upper Lake fleet is the "Assiniboia," now in active commission and on her first voyage she has proved herself to be not only the largest and most modern passenger vessel on the Upper Lakes, but also the swiftest. She will sail from Owen Sound at about 5.50 p. m. every Saturday for Sault Ste. Marie, Port Arthur and Fort William, the connecting express train leaving Toronto at 1.50.

The "Assiniboia" has luxurious accommodation for 250 cabin passengers, with five cabins de luxe (private baths,) spacious dining room, observation, drawing and smoking rooms and many new features conducive to passengers' comfort. Intending passengers should make early application to local C. P. R. agent for accommodation.—d3.

Disturbing the Revenue

The reports of the various departments of a great Railway System would, if made public, often surprise the readers of current news. It has been gathered that the Grand Trunk Railway system has spent, within the past few years, no less than fifteen million dollars in double tracking the main line, and that the pioneer Canadian Railway now operates the longest stretch of double track under one management in the world.

In addition to this they have spent other millions in stations shops and other improvements thus increasing the carrying capacity of the road contributing to the upbuilding of the country, and at the same time affording added security to the lives and property of its patrons which the installation of block signals on a single tracked line could never secure. By the expenditure of all these millions in Canada, they are distributing the Revenue, or a good part of it, among the people.

Low Water in the Scugog

The Government Takes Action to Remedy the Trouble

The water in the river is getting lower each day, and this morning the Sturgeon Point boat had difficulty in making the town wharf.

The Post called up Mr. McClelland, the superintendent of the Trent Valley, last week, who said his department were fully alive to the trouble and were making every effort to maintain a proper level of water in Sturgeon Lake. He has men north letting loose some of the water in storage, and at Bobcaygeon he was having all leaks that it were possible to stop in the dams calked and on the river he has a gang of men removing old sunken logs from the bottom of the river. The lack of rain in June and the evaporation of the water is in a great measure to blame for the trouble. Balsam and Cameron lakes are also lower than is usual at this season of the year.

Ruins on Fire at Buckhorn

All Inflammable Matter Consumed---Sparks from a Traction Engine the Cause

(Special to The Post.)

Fire broke out among the ruins of Culverwell's mill at Buckhorn Monday evening and burned furiously Tuesday and Wednesday until all inflammable material was consumed. Sparks from a nearby traction engine are supposed to have started the fire. The loss will consist chiefly of of lumber and ties, piled in close proximity to the mill.

Work is steadily progressing on the new government dam here and the leakage has been stopped. The exhaust of the steam drill is unceasing.

The steamer Cora spent part of Wednesday here before making her way up to Sturgeon Point and Lindsay.

A large number of lumber jacks are seen around town from the drives in the lakes below and above here.

Carlton Warner Has Narrow Escape

Canoe Upset at the Point but Warner was Rescued in Good Condition

The late narrow escapes and other unintentional immersions in the river and lake have not as yet resulted in any serious accident. Another narrow "squeak" was averted Wednesday however at Sturgeon Point when Mr. Carlton Warner, while out sailing with the lake excessively rough was suddenly upset about 125 yards distant from A. B. Terry's boat house. Assistance was immediately rendered however, by Mr. Aird Flavelle and Carl was found to be little the worse for his unexpected ducking.

The Public Library Board

Routine Business Transacted at a Meeting of the Board

The Lindsay public library board held their regular monthly meeting Monday at the library. Those present were Messrs. G. Patrick, R. M. Beal, Dr. Vrooman, Robt. Walks and J. Knight. The librarian's report after being read, showed that there was a slight decrease in the circulation for June than that of May, probably owing to the scholars being too busy at their exams to read much. Following are the figures for May; History 121, Biography 84, voyages travels 125, general literature 132, juveniles, boys 122, girls 110 little ones 96, bound periodicals 27, poetry 60, science 104 religion 46, miscellaneous 38, fiction 886. Total circulation for month, 2045; number of new tickets issued 9. Cash receipts, new tickets 45c., fines 55c., total $1. June report; History 108, biography 72, voyages and travels 96, general literature 63, juveniles, boys 190 girls 96 little ones 83, bound periodicals 53, poetry 49, science 99, religion 52 miscellaneous 36, fiction 740. Total circulation for month 1743. New tickets, 8. Cash receipts; New tickets, 40c., fines 20c. Total receipts 60c. The communications received were then attended to. A 25 pound order had been given to Coll Bros. for soap, but 45 pounds was received. It was therefore decided to forward them $3 less fifty cents for express although the soap was worth $3.60. A number of books and other donations were ordered to be acknowledged. The following accounts were ordered to be paid:

Henley Bros.	$30.66
Light Heat & Power Co.	1.33
James McGahey	3.25
Librarian	0.65
Light, Heat & Power Co.	3.64
G. S. Patrick	23.00
Wilson & Wilson	1.00

The attention of the board had been called to the uncut pages in valuable books, so it was thought best to have the matter looked into.

Considerable discussion arose over the yearly grant of fifty dollars from the county council. Mr. R. M. Beal took the view that no noticeable improvement could be derived from such a sum, and that it would not cover sufficient improvements which it was desired to make in the way of keeping the library open during the day. He suggested that an approach be made to the council for a larger grant. However, the matter was laid over until October, when more members would be present.

Scrub out the gas stove oven once a week with strong soda water.

Fatal Accident to Mr. Mulvihill

Killed at the Junction While Loading Sewer Pipe

Last Tuesday about eleven o'clock Mr. Michael J. Mulvihill, was instantly killed at the junction by the engine of the derrick car falling on him.

The accident itself was a most horrible one, the skull of the unfortunate man having been crushed beyond recognition and his neck and spine being broken.

The accident was caused by the derrick arm, which, loaded with a heavy iron sewer pipe weighing probably one thousand pounds suddenly swung it around at nearly a right angle to the car, thus overbalancing the whole car to the left. Mr. Mulvihill, who was on the left side next the engine, manipulating the derrick ropes, foresaw that the car would tip, and accordingly attempted to jump out through the window, but his efforts were unavailing, for the unfortunate man, before he could extricate himself, was pinned between the enormous weight of the engine and a number of rails lying at the side of the track, crushing the life out of him instantly.

Foreman Rear, who was also in the cabin at the time, succeeded in escaping through the window on the opposite side and immediately summoned Dr. Jeffers, the railway physician, and a derrick from the station. The engine was at once lifted and the body removed shortly after in the ambulance.

Coroner Jeffers, after viewing the body and learning the circumstances attending the accident, decided that an inquest would be unnecessary.

Many of the readers of The Post will remember that this accident occurred within a short distance of where Mr. Stubbings was fatally injured last winter.

By this sad bereavement a wife and two sons and a daughter are left to mourn the sad death of a husband and father.

It is a peculiar coincidence that Mr. Mulvihill's father was killed on the old Prescott road and that his two brothers were also killed on the C. P. R.

Deceased was a member of the Catholic Mutual Benevolent Association, and a meeting of the Lindsay branch of that order is called for this evening to take action regarding the funeral.

Mr. Mulvihill has been a resident of Lindsay many years, and enjoyed the respect and esteem of a large circle of acquaintances, whose sympathies will go out to the sadly bereaved family.

Beaten at Cannington

A Scrub Lacrosse Team Gets the Enthusiasm Knocked Out of Them

A scrub lacrosse team from town journeyed to Cannington on Monday and were defeated at the hands of the braves of that place by the score of 6 to 4.

The game was very fast and clean and the Lindsay boys put up a very stiff game. It was not the regular Lindsay team, however, Carruth Chambers, Taylor and Newton being absent from the line-up. These players are the mainstay of the team and the rest of the bunch did well to keep the score so low. Manager Gartland is well pleased with the showing of the team and says they will take a lot of beating.

The boys arrived home about midnight, having spent a most enjoyable day.

Extensive Works at Rosedale

A Post Representative Makes a Trip---The Trent Valley Canal Operations

A representative of The Post one day last week visited the works on the new portion of the Trent Valley Canal now under construction between Cameron and Balsam Lakes.

The new section commences within a short distance of the Rosedale bridge and takes an entirely new route directly to Cameron Lake, a distance of about two miles. The contractors are Messrs. Randolph, McDonald & Co., of Toronto, experienced men, who have undertaken some of the largest contracts that have recently been done in this province.

The work is one that will give employment to a large staff of men, and is one of a magnitude that will be a surprise to those who have not looked into the matter.

The original contract calls for an expenditure in the neighborhood of two hundred and eighty thousand dollars. The work will consist of building a modern cement dam across the present channel and a cement lock large enough to accommodate the largest vessel plying on these waters, also cutting the canal to the proper width through what is now dry land.

The contractors are now at work with over a hundred men, including foremen, engineers, etc., who have quite a little village on the bank of the river.

Mr. McCrimmon, of Toronto, is running a first-class boarding house for the men and, judging from the quality of food shown our reporter, and the sample pie submitted to his critical taste, would do credit to the King Edward, of Toronto.

The plant consists of three locomotives and a large number of dump cars, with miles of track, which are employed in removing the rock and earth thrown out by two ponderous steam shovels. One large dredge, with a number of pontoons, and a powerful tugs, working at the mouth of the new cut, removing tons of rock from the river bottom near Rosedale. A fully equipped blacksmith shop, steam rock drills and dozens of dump carts go to make up this outfit. It is expected the work will take two years to complete.

A telephone line has been put in, connecting Lindsay and other points with the works, and a first-class stone road has been constructed along the bank of the canal, that all supplies being brought in may be handled expeditiously.

A dock has also been built on the canal bank, and their supply of coal is being brought in by boat from Fenelon Falls.

THE IMPORTED THOROUGHBRED STALLION

"SALZBURG"

the Imported Stallion From Austria,

of the celebrated Pingan breed, which is somewhat similar to the Belgium breed, but considered by all good horsemen in the country where he was bred to be an improvement on that famous breed. Will stand for mares in Lindsay during the season of 1908.

As the season is well advanced, and the horse has been a long time on the voyage to Canada—six weeks—he will serve only a limited number of mares. The price this year will be very cheap as he is new in this district. To insure $12. He can be seen at any time in my barns, No. 8 Melbourne-st, south ward. He weighed on his arrival at Montreal, 1,570. "Salzburg" is a handsome bay, with black points, stands 16 1-2 hands high; very muscular; heavy, hard flat bone, with clean bone not hairy legged, the best of feet and bone. He is a straight mover, with good action, and in no way resembles the Clydesdale horse. He has a very handsome head and neck full bright eyes, and very intelligent countenance. He has the very best of disposition, perfectly kind and free from all vicious habits, absolutely sound and in perfect health. "Salzburg" is the only horse of this breed in Ontario to-day. There is no doubt he will prove a very beneficial sire for the farmers of this district.

This horse has come a long distance and has cost me a lot of money. I invite the farmers of this section to call and see him. If they approve of him I will be pleased with any business they may see fit to give me.

This horse was imported by Mr. Boswell, of Quebec city, who is a thorough horseman, not a dealer. He a much travelled and very wealthy man, and while in Australia bought this horse, beliving the Austrian breeds to be one of the best breeds of horses in the world.

Saved by His Companions

A Young Boy has a Narrow Escape from Drowning

On Saturday while fishing off one of the piers along the river bank Howard Clark happened to lose his balance and fall into the briny deep. He can swim only a few strokes and it is hard to say whether he would have gotten out or not but just as he was in the midst of his struggles he was grabbed by his collar and landed on the bank by one of his companions. He was a little scared, but unhurt.

PILES

Mr. Alfred Brown, of Merriton, Ont. says :—"For six years I have not known what it was to be free from pain. No one ever suffered more from itching bleeding Piles than I did and I tried everything to get cured but failed. One day a friend of mine who had been cured with Zam-Buk gave me a part of a box to try, and the relief I got was marvellous. I then bought a supply and before I had used it all was completely cured."

ZAM-BUK RELIEVES & CURES

Historic Sights on Quebec Trip

Brief Description of the Delightful Sail from Montreal to Quebec

The journey down the St. Lawence, from Montreal to Quebec, in one of the palatial new steamers that ply on this route, is as pleasant a trip as could be taken anywhere in America. Leaving Victoria Pier in the evening, we first pass Longueil, a small village on the south bank, memorable in history for the repulse, by the Americans, of General Carleton, in 1775. A little lower down on the north shore is Longue Pointe. At a distance of nine miles from Montreal, we see Pointe-aux-Trembles, founded in 1674. Here is one of the old French churches, built in 1709. Just below it are the islands of Boucherville.

Forty-five miles from Montreal, at the junction of the Richelieu River, is Sorel. It stands on the site of the fort built by de Tracy in 1665, and was for many years the summer residence of successive governors of Canada. About five miles further down, the river expands into a vast sheet of water, about twenty-five long and nine miles broad, which is known as Lake St. Peter. The lake is, for the most part, quite shallow, except in the channel, which has been dredged so as to permit the passage of the largest ocean steamers.

Sorel was founded by the French in 1634 as a trading post under the name of Fort Richelieu.

At Sorel is located the large workshops of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company and the winter headquarters for a number of its large fleet of magnificen steamers.

Passing the mouth of St. Franc's river, we arrive at the city of Three Rivers, which was founded in 1634, midway between Montreal and Quebec, situated on the north shore of the St. Lawrence at the mouth of the St. Maurice River, which here separates into three channels, hence the name of the city is derived. Here the great fire occurred a couple of weeks ago which resulted in the destruction of property to the extent of over $2,000,000. The French began the smelting of iron here as early as 1737. Three Rivers is the see of a Roman Catholic bishopric. This progressive city is well worth a visit from the tourist, there being many points of interest in it and its surroundings. It is noted in the medical world for its sanitarium for the scientific treatment of nervous diseases, etc.

Here we may be said to be at the head of tide water. The total fall of the St. Lawrence, from Kingston to tide water, is two hundred and thirty-two feet, an average of ten and one-fourth inches to the mile. Continuing the journey, we pass Batisean, called after the famous Indian chief; then St. Anne and the Jacques-Cartier River, after which the land on the river banks begin to rise, presenting a more bold and picturesque appearance as we near Quebec. The mouth of the Chaudiere on the south is the next object of interest. Before us is the grand gateway of the St. Lawrence, and on our left, crowning Cape Diamond, is the famous Citadel of Quebec. This lofty fortress, which covers an enclosed area of forty acres, three hundred and sixty-five feet above the river, was built from plans approved by the Duke of Wellington.

From under these grey old walls, the first pioneers of what is now the granary of the world, went forth into the wilderness.

From this antique city, also departed the first missionaries, carrying the message of the cross to distant tribes and nations. But that which must forever give Quebec chief claim to the attention of the traveller is its historical battlefield, which saw the fiercest and mos momentous battles in the early history o North America, and on which the generals of both France and England perished in the final struggle for the possession of Canada. It is impossible to stand here and reflect on the momentous consequences of Wolfe's victory without feeling the influence of the spirit of the scene. Founded by Samuel de Champlain, A.D. 1608, three centuries have given the fortress city a history rich in material for the publisher, the poet and the romancer.

Quebec will celebrate its three hundredth anniversary this summer. An elaborate programme has been arranged for the event.

Of Quebec, Henry Ward Beecher wrote: "Curious old Quebec! Of all citieson the continent of America the quaintest. It is a populated cliff. It is a mighty rock, scarped and graded, and made to hold houses and castles which by a proper natural law, ought to slide off its back, like an ungirded load from a camel's back. But they stick. . . Here is a small bit of mediaeval Europe, perched upon a rock and dried for keeping, in the north-east of America, a curiosity that has not its equal, of its kind, on this side of the ocean."

As the date fixed for the opening of a celebration which will become an historic event draws near, the eager public begins to realize what really happened here three centuries ago, when Sieur Samuel de Champlain landed at the foot and climbed to the top of the hill on which the charming City of Quebec now stands. We begin now to realize that Quebec is the real cradle of Canada. Thrilling tales of the heroic deeds of dead pioneers we read and forget, but when we see it set forth in imposing pageant, we will not forget. One year's travel and actual observation of this wonderful world is worth more than ten years' constant reading of other men's descriptions of sights and scenes.

And one day in Old Quebec will fix in one's mind the historic scenes that have been enacted here within the past three hundred years so that they will endure as long as life lasts.

Here living men and women will walk and talk as in the olden days when history was written in the red blood of heroes. The founder of the City, Champlain, the brave Wolfe, the great Montcalm, all the famous characters who gave their lives to the defense or the conquest of Canada, will be depicted as the mighty pageant passes, and among the onlookers will be His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, great statesmen and brave soldiers from almost every civilized land and every sea, and women—the fairest of the fair.

The curtain rises on the scene, so to speak, ante-dating the arrival of Champlain a century or so, showing the natives dancing among their wigwams by the banks of the beautiful St. Lawrence when Jacques Cartier comes to plant the first cross in their midst and speak to them and tell to them, for the first time, the wonderful sotry of the white man's God. Then the assembled multitude will be carried across the sea to the Court of France, a see rtier appearing before the King, o ering him a few natives of North America who have accompanied the Explorer across the Atlantic. On the ensuing scene brave men and fair women dance before the King, after which Champlain is commissioned by the Sovereign to return to the new world where Cartier left off. Then we see Champlain with his beautiful girl wife landing at the little village of Stadacona.

Now Champlain and his beautiful wife are dead—Stadacona has become Quebec with 200 inhabitants.

Few People in Lindsay Really Know How

Slow eating and regular meals is of great benefit to a wrong acting stomach. Those who suffer with indigestion and weak stomach can with care restore the digestion to a healthy condition, so that they can eat what they want at any time without fear of distress or suffering.

After a few days' use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets, the headaches, dizzy feeling, drowsiness, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, flatulence sleeplessness, distress after eating, --all these symptoms of a weak stomach—will disappear, and perfect digestion and good health will be restored.

Jury & Gregory have so much confidence in the power of Mi-o-na to cure indigestion that they guarantee satisfaction or money back.

Another New Explosive

Interesting Discovery by Two Residents of Haliburton County

Haliburton county is making itself famous for the discoveries of new and wonderful high power explosives. Messrs. W. Oliver and A. Stevens, of Gelert, have discovered a new explosive which they have tried in the presence of large crowds, and the general verdict is that it has more power than anything they ever saw, is perfectly safe to handle — as safe as flour — and will burn without harm if fired in the open air. On Saturday evening they blew up a very large rock measuring about 9 ft x 7 ft. and 5 ft. with less than a 1-4 lb. of the explosive placed in a 2 1-2 inch hole 12 inches deep with only earth for packing to exclude the air. All that is necessary is to exclude the air and cause a spark to reach the charge when it is placed and the results are wonderful. The compound is of a pinkish color and looks very harmless.

Any person interested may call on the discoverers, who will be pleased to show what it is like and how it works.—Minden Echo.

License Inspector Makes a Seizure

A Woodville Man Will Appear Before Magistrate Moore Tomorrow

On June 18 and on July 3, License Inspector W. Thornbury took three seizures of liquors from the hotel of Mr. Duncan J. McRea, of Woodville, and on submitting the samples to the government analyst at Toronto received the following astounding figures; 1st sample contained 28.77 per cent. proof spirits, 2nd 8.78 per cent. and 3rd 19.40 per cent. The maximum amount of proof spirits is two and one half per cent. as decreed in the liquor law, and as the above figures will indicate, the per cent. is enough to cause serious injury to anyone indulging in such. The case against Mr. McRea will appear in police court tomorrow morning at 11.00.

Liquor Soaked Nearly Drowned

Man Nearly Loses His Life in a Hole in a Peterboro Street

The Peterboro Times tells of an almost fatal incident on a street in that town. It appears that on Tuesday a man giving his name as John Sullivan, of Lakefield, was found lying in a mud hole just east of the National Hotel. He was under the influence of liquor and if P. C. McGinity had not arrived when he did there is no doubt but that the men would have been drowned.

WEDDING BELLS

REYNOLDS—STEWART

A very pretty wedding took place on the 23rd of June at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Stewart, of Franklin, when their daughter, Cora was united in matrimony to Mr. John Reynolds, of Mount Horeb.

Rev. Dr. Marvin, of Bethany, tied the knot of unity and Mrs. Dr. Marvin played Lohengrin's wedding march.

The groom was assisted by Mr. John Hickson, of Mount Horeb, and Miss Edna Stewart, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid.

There were only a few of the immediate relatives present.

The bride's dress was of blue silk, trimmed with silver lace, while the bridesmaid was dressed in blue lustre crimmed with silver lace.

The bride was given away by her father. Among the guests from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Sleece, of Mount Horeb, Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds, Mount Horeb, and Mr. and Mrs. Fleming, of Mount Horeb. The dining room was prettily decorated with roses.

The bride received a number of very costly presents, the groom's gift being a gold watch and chain and to the bridesmaid a pearl brooch and a pearl pin to the groomsman.

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and stomach troubles are alarmingly frequent at this time and too often a precious little life is lost after a few hours' illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of Baby's Own Tablets prevents stomach or bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly — as it generally does — the Tablets will bring the little one through safely. Mrs. George Gig, Tates cap, writes: "My little baby was suffering with colic, vomiting and diarrhoea, but after giving him Baby's Own Tablets the trouble disappeared. I would advise all mothers to keep a box of Tablets always on hand." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

—Get my "Book No. 4 for Women." It will give weak women many valuable suggestions of relief — and with strictly confidential medical advice is entirely free. Simply write Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The book No. 4 tells all about Dr. Shoop's Night Cure, and how these soothing, healing, antiseptic suppositories can be successfully applied to correct these weaknesses. Write for the book. The Night Cure is sold by all dealers.

NESTLETON

Dr. Irvine, of the firm of Neelands & Irvine, will make his regular visit to Nestleton on Monday, the 26th and the 3rd Monday of each month following.—w1.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! But a remedy that will eradicate the distorted blood of chronic origin, can turn many growths back to fresh tissue. That is impossible, and yet I have found it! Yes, the pain and pangs of this dyspeptic disease!

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Dresden—I found a Prof. Hoffmann, who spent twenty years and ten thousand Marks in producing a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that long experience, I unwittingly treated many, many cases of Rheumatism, but now, at last, I can say to sufferers, that I have a remedy that will reach deep-seated disease. Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic remedy, found in Rheumatic Blood, soon influences and man's sway under the effects of this remedy is freely as does sugar when added to pure water. Pain, Lameness and Stiffness disappear, uric acid freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer with cold feet. We sell, and in confidence recommend Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy.

Fenelon Falls

An alarm of fire was sounded about 12.30 p. m. on Monday. The fire was started in some unaccountable manner in the frame building occupied by Mr. S. Shakra, but was easily quenched before any serious damage was done.

A boy about 10 years old was hurt on Monday by a chimney falling off the implement shed next to Mr. T. Robson's, occupied by Mr. Graham. One of the banners was attached at one end to the chimney, and the wind blowing quite strong, it loosened the bricks, resulting in what might have been a serious accident.

We are pleased to state that Miss E. Wilson's pupils who recently tried their examinations in music at Lindsay were successful. They were Miss Nora Wilson and Mr. B. Mason and Elber Shane. Miss N. Wilson and Mr. R. Mason succeeded in taking honors.

Miss Annie Robson, who has been on a visit to friends in Toronto and Lindsay, returned to the Falls on Saturday.

Miss May Ellery spent Sunday with friends in Peterboro.

Miss Maud Lansfield, of Lindsay, came home on Thursday last to spend a couple of weeks.

Miss Edith Hand returned on Friday from Lindsay, where she had spent a week with her aunt, Mrs. J. Berry.

Mr. Clifford Moore, of Cobalt, is renewing acquaintances in town.

Mr Geo. Wilson, of Toronto, is spending his vacation at his home here.

The present crusade in France against the intoxicating liquor known as "absinthe" is perfectly analogous to the widespread movement on this continent for the suppression of licensed drinking places. The proposal in the Chamber of Deputies is to make the sale of absinthe a penal offence, and it has already the informal approval of a large proportion of the members of the Senate. Public opinion seems to run strongly in favor of restrictive, if not prohibitive, legislation.

Box Factory Is Very Busy

Carew's Establishment is Filled to the Brim with Orders

It makes no difference what the other people say about slow times, the foreman of Mr. Carew's box factory says that these are the busiest times they have had since the place opened. They have so many orders ahead of them that they hardly know where to begin, and the man are working full hours at that. As told there are twenty men employed in the factory besides the teamsters.

The burning of Mr. Carew's mill made no difference in the work of the factory, as they had enough material to keep them going for a long while.

The factory turns out the boxes already put together or just the different parts of the box not put up. They do a large business both in town and out of town and the factory is putting in a new siding so that the goods can be put directly on the cars.

The foreman says that the dry kiln was never kept so full before as it is at the present time.

Notes on Cherries

Cherries will thrive in almost any part of Canada by having the land well drained. They will not stand wet feet. The sour cherries are more profitable than the sweet, and of the many kinds we prefer the Early Richmond and large Montmorency.

Cherries like other fruits have enemies. The black knot is one; it has to be checked in its green state. I also find the plum curculio attacking them of late. Spray the same as for plum.

We begin picking before they are very ripe, in order to have them all marketed in a firm state, leaving all the stems possible on the fruit. We find it better to pick in small pails, and to empty into the baskets ready for market. We handle all our cherries on the local market, getting the middlemen's commission. There is no more profitable fruit to grow at the present time than the sour cherry.

Accident on Lindsay-st Hill

Harness Breaks and Causes Inconvenience to Teamster

A serious accident was narrowly averted Wednesday when two farmers' buggies collided at the entrance to Lindsay-st. bridge. On coming down the hill the hold straps broke, letting the buggy run up on the horse's heels. It ran down the hill and collided with another rig coming the other way. The hind wheel was completely torn off and the buggy lowered to the ground. The horse was stopped before any more damage was done.

Jottings from Sturgeon Point

A Very Quiet Sunday Enjoyed by Many Visitors

A party consisting of the families of Mr. J. W. Flavelle and Mr. Wm. Flavelle took a trip to Burnt River on Monday.

Saturday evening was an ideal moonlight, and many canoes floated about until nearly midnight.

Mr. R. H. Hopkins, B. A. Sc., has been appointed on the staff of the School of Practical Science for a second term.

Mr. James Park, of the Park Blackwell Co., was a visitor at Sturgeon Point.

Dr. Zeigler, wife and daughter, of Toronto, are spending a few days at Sturgeon Point.

Mr. Calvert, of the Orangeville high school staff, was in town today.

The Sturgeon Point service was taken yesterday by the Rev. A. C. Collier, of St. Paul's. This was Mr. Collier's first appearance at the Point church, and everybody was much pleased with the service. The reverend gentleman had quite an experience in crossing from Pleasant Point. The second yacht had to be brought into commission for the purpose.

Pleasant Trip Saturday Night

The 8.30 trip of the Esturion to Sturgeon Point on Saturday evening was probably the most pleasant of the season. On leaving town the atmosphere was most oppressively hot and as the boat proceeded down the river a cool breeze tempered the air to proper condition. On reaching the lake a full moon bathed its surface with a silver sheen. At Pleasant Point the wharf and cottages were illuminated with Chinese lanterns, which made it look like fairy land. At Sturgeon Point the boat was met by a jolly crowd of young people who were on hand to welcome its passengers, and it was a very busy scene before each cottager became annexed to his own particular parcel and finally disappeared laden down with his bundles.

At last Mr. Patrick Powers has accomplished the impossible by getting an umpire against whom Montreal fans have no kick.

Band Grant Passed by the Council

Meeting Addressed by Prominent Citizens and Resolution Unanimously Passed

A meeting of a number of prominent citizens was held Wednesday morning to take into consideration the serious condition of the band and its threatened dissolution. There was a unanimous feeling that it would be a great mistake to allow the band to dissolve for the sake of the small sum of $200 which stood as a pivot of the situation and a committee was appointed to wait upon the Mayor and ask him to call a special meeting of the council to reconsider the matter.

The Mayor was subsequently interviewed and a meeting was called for three o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

There were present at the meeting Mayor Begg, Reeve, Jordan, Deputy Reeve Eyres, Aldermen Jordan, Rea Calvert and McGeough.

Mayor Begg said that this meeting was called to reconsider a most serious question; the question of whether the Sylvester band was to be given an extra grant of two hundred dollars or not. He then called on Mr. John Carew to address the council.

Mr. Carew said; "Mr. Mayor and gentlemen;—You will begin to think that we have a good ear for music, we have been before you so often. The stand that the council has taken in regard to this matter is a good stand—the stand I myself would have taken if I had been in their places. In this case however, we cannot afford to be without a band and a good band. The band is not piling up money, and I consider it our duty as a town to help them. I would be willing and I am sure there are other gentlemen in this room who would be willing to give $10, but Mr. Sylvester does not want it. Mr. Sylvester has done much for the band and if $200 is granted he will do the rest. I would hate to take over a band, but Mr. Sylvester has raised our band from the lowest depths to the highest pinnacle."

Mr. Flavelle said,—"I think we are all a unit, that we want a band and a good band. I have heard bands that were far from good right in our own town. I think the way our band is run now is the right way. Mr. Sylvester has done a great deal for this band. He has given men employment when he did not need them. This has been a strenuous year and Mr. Sylvester has had all his money locked up in the west. It is most important that we keep our band and keep it up to the standard. I believe there is a good reason to uphold the band. You will be glad in future years if you can give the $200. Mr. Roenigk has been offered a position in Fort William, but he does not want to leave our town. I would like you to reconsider the matter and make the grant.

Dr. Vrooman said,—"Last year the same thing took place. I consider that the council have done right in taking this stand. After the grant was passed last year, I do not think I heard one word of dissent. I would be a sorry man, if I was on the council especially Mayor, if by any action of the council a man was turned out of town. The people that are against giving the band the grant will be the ones who will miss the band most. I am satisfied that Mr. Sylvester has done his best."

Mr. Boxall said,—"I do not think I can add anything. I look at this matter from a business standpoint. If we were to lose a man like Mr. Roenigk it would be hard to replace him. I think we should do all in our power to help the band and I have no hesitation in saying that it is worth it."

Mr. Keesor was then asked to speak. He said,—"I can give my heartiest accord to what has been said by the former speakers. I think the council should wipe out the entire debt."

Mayor Begg said,—"I am glad to say we have a council that are not afraid of next year. They are not afraid that their actions will lose them a vote. They do what they think right. I think if we give the $200 to the band we should take a claim of $400 on the instruments and uniforms. I would also suggest that the word Lindsay be put on the caps of the bandsmen. We have always tried to do our best for the band."

Messrs. Flavelle and Carew thought the Mayor's suggestion highly proper. Moved by Reeve Jordan and seconded by Ald. Rea that an additional grant of $200 be made to the band this year and that the word Lindsay be placed in gold letters on each bandman's cap, and it be provided that the uniforms and instruments be given as security for the advance of $400.

This motion was carried by all the members of the council voting for it.

Kawartha Lakes Summer School

Large Attendance of Delegates and Visitors at Chemong Park

A special to the Peterboro Examiner says that the Kawartha Lakes Summer School opened its sessions on Monday evening at the Chemong Park. There was a large attendance of delegates and visitors. It is expected that many more will arrive by train and boat to-day. The school is drawn from the workers in Epworth Leagues and Sunday schools in the Bay of Quinte Conference. Any interested worker is eligible for attendance and is cordially invited. The registration fee is $1. The school continues every day this week. The morning sessions are given over to study and the afternoons alternately to recreations and addresses, and the evenings to popular and timely addresses, by prominent laymen and ministers. The scope of the school is threefold—the study of missions, methods of work and the Bible. The closing service will be held next Sunday evening, when Rev. Robt. Emberson, B. A., returning missionary to Japan, will preach. The meetings, and the evening ones in particular, are open to the general public.

Monday night was devoted to addresses, outlining the work of the school, Prof. E. R. Doxsee, B. A. B. D., Albert College, Belleville who takes charge of the department of Mission Study, gave a most interesting outline of the work to be covered in the two text books of study. The one text is entitled "The Why and How of Foreign Missions," and the other is "The Moslem World." The Rev. A. C. Crews, D. D., General Secretary of the Young People's work of the Methodist church, gave one of his bright and illuminative addresses on "Various Types of Leagues," (as personally observed.) Dr. Crews takes charge of the department of "Methods of Work." The closing address was given by the pastor of Euclid avenue Methodist church, Toronto, the Rev. E. N. Baker, M. A. D. D. Dr. Baker, in a brief and impressive address, gave an outline of the Bible studies which he will conduct morning by morning in the Book of Hebrews. The evening programme was enlivened with singing. Two solos were rendered, one by Mr. Kemp of Trenton, and one by Miss May Dobson, Whitby Ladies' College. Collections are taken at all mass meetings.

The New Rates Are Discussed

High Court Treasurer Stewart Addresses Independent Foresters

A very interesting meeting of Court Lindsay 181, I.O.F., was held Thursday evening, when an excellent address was delivered by Mr. Alex. Stewart of Toronto, High Court Treasurer of Central Ontario

Mr. Stewart in discussing the new rates applicable to the older members of the order, stated that the change had been found to be absolutely necessary by reason of the facts elicited by the Insurance Commission, the experience of other organizations and companys and by reason of the experience of this organization itself. When the fact became apparent that the rates for the older members were inadequate, an actuary was appointed who was entirely without entanglements with other organizations or companies, but who was fully competent, had been appointed and the result was the rates adopted at the recent meeting of the Supreme Court. The change was also rendered necessary by the attitude of the Dominion Government, which insisted upon the adoption of higher rates, and also by the attitude of the congress of fraternal societies.

Mr. Stewart pointed out that there were three options within the choice of members. They may pay the new rates and maintain the integrity of their policies; they may pay their old rates and have the face value of their policies correspondingly reduced, or they may pay the old rates and borrow from the Supreme Court each month a sufficient sum to make up the difference between them and the new rates, which, with four per cent. interest, would be deducted on the maturity of the policy.

At the conclusion of the address a very hearty vote of thanks to the speaker was unanimously passed, and it was most felicitously tendered by Chief Ranger Maxsom.

W. J. Bryan Is Nominated

He Will Make a Third Attempt for Election as President of the United States

(Special to The Post.)

Denver, July 10 — William Jennings Bryan was nominated by the National Democratic convention here to-day as their third-time standard bearer for the presidency of the United States.

When it became evident that nothing could prevent the nomination of Mr. Bryan, the display of enthusiasm was something to be marvelled at.

The cheering, flag-waving, and band-playing was a most inspiring spectacle and one never to be forgotten by those who witnessed it.

Mr. Bryan is at his home in Lincoln, Nebraska, but his library is directly connected by telephone with the convention hall.

A Day on Chemong Lake

A Pleasant Day's Experience with Men Who Know

(By one who would like to know.)

There is always a wonderful difference between the man who knows and the man who doesn't know. This truism has been brought home to me during the past few days in connection with the fisherman's art, as I have seen some devotees of the rod and line go forth in the morning, expectant and hopeful, and come home home in the evening as regularly disappointed and empty-handed. Patience they must have had to a job-like degress until they had qualified to render a new version of the old adage, "All things come to those who wait except maskinonge." In order to succeed in this to patience must be added some knowledge of the habits of these denizens of the deep.

If you are one of these would-be fishermen and want a thoroughly enjoyable and successful day on the water, come with me and I will introduce you to conditions and companions such as cannot fail to satisfy the most exacting demands of the most ardent sportsman.

It was almost two weeks ago that I drove over to a point on the Chemong Indian Reserve and was there met by three of my friends among the Missisauga people, whose guest I was to be for the day. They may not be offended if I reveal their names — Messrs. Fawn, McCue and Knott — three men quite abreast of modern thought and civilization and yet possessed of all their native instincts, with keen sense of sight and hearing, living close to the heart of nature and thoroughly versed in all that pertains to creature life in so far as it concerns the hunt or the fisherman.

Two canoes were in waiting equipped with all the essentials for such an expedition, including a variety of rods, lines, baits gaffs etc. and I especially noted a large empty sack and the indispensible basket, also large, the contents of which we were some hours later eager to explore. Sack and basket were doubtless supposed to come home with their states of emptiness and fulness reversed.

All other necessary arrangements also seemed to have been carefully attended to, as the weather was superb. It was one of those close, sultry days on land which makes the water inviting. There was just sufficient vagabond clouds—of the white, fleecy kind with no rain in them — to occasionally obscure the sun. There was just sufficient stir in the air to make the surface of the water a very poor mirror. All of which features contributed much to a good day's fishing.

It was a day replete with interest. Conversation turned on different topics suggested now by a moment's quiet reflection as we slid noiselessly along and adjusted our tackle, or again as the quick eye of my companion caught something of interest on the shore. Soon we entered into a little lake of bays, and I was told it formerly bore some unpronounceable polysyllabic name as in the early times before they were well acquainted with these waters, it was difficult to find the way out for each little bay suggested the head of the lake. A little later we passed by a small island known as the "fort," where, they told me, a terrible battle had occurred between the Algonquins and the Iroquois, and even in very recent years, the skeletons of those killed in the fight have been unearthed, together with many weapons of war and utensils of the wigwam, largely formed of flint.

We did not stop, however, to hunt for relics, as our quest was rather for something which so far had eluded our search and I was beginning to be anxious lest we might have to take dinner without the one factor indespensible to a successful shore dinner. But my companions knew when and how and scarce had this fear been conjured up, when almost simultaneously each canoe landed—not a twenty pounder, but what was more to the point — a fish sufficient to provide dinner for four hungry men.

Then instinct and good judgment guided us to an ideal shore, wooded with maple, elm and birch, which furnished an excellent camping ground. We immediately applied the principle of an equitable division of labor and while one prepared the fish and another the coffee, I assisted the third in kindling a fire and soon we were all interested in watching the process of skewering the fish, and of improvising a boiler out of the branch of a green elm. In a short time our appetites, already sharp, were being whetted by the savory odor from the steaming pail and the dripping roast

Perhaps the novelty of the situation provides the best sauce for such an outdoor meal and the opportunity of being entirely unconventional adds not a little, but our best efforts to ape the primitive ways of the aborigines and imagine ourselves in their circumstances failed, for we sat helpless until knives and forks were fished out of the basket, even though we had been satisfied with a bit of birch bark for a plate. Then again whence came that tin of pork and beans and that canned pineapple? Those biscuits, butter, sugar pepper salt? Ah! how hopelessly complex and interdependent is life to-day! Suffice it to say these viands were all at hand and we saw that they were very good and that there was very little left for the orchestra which had so kindly and gratuitously furnished music from the green balcony overhead.

After bodies and minds had been regaled by liberal portions of the above, well seasoned with happy reminiscent morsels and choice bits of humorous repartee, we retired to a well shaded and level stretch of sod and engaged in a game of quoits — using flat pieces of limestone in lieu of discs. When my partner and I had vanquished our friends the enemy to our entire satisfaction, we betook ourselves again to the business of the day and prepared to give a cordial reception to whatever of the finned tribe should seek acquaintance with our hooks.

The breeze had stiffened since morning and the men who knew prophesied better fishing; nor was this long in being fulfilled. I had been furnished with a rod and line as likely to provide more sport with the gamy maskinonge than can be had with a hand line, and that afternoon saw three good sized and bellicose specimens landed by my hook, after several lively skirmishes in the course of which the outcome was ofttimes in doubt.

You who are or who have been novices at the game can well understand my elated feelings over such an achievement, and yet was it not rather a cheap and vain glory, when an expert had chosen the bait, adjusted, the sinker, regulated the speed and had taken me right to the home of the maskinonge and had advised me sundry times when the spoon was not playing properly or when weeds were interfering. But it was enough for me that I was there and had hold of the line.

We hadn't the usual story to tell on our return, of how the biggest fish that had ever been seen in these waters had almost been landed — but just got off or ran away with the hook a second too soon. But the catch of four totalled eight real, actual honest, respectable fish, all of which we were proud to display to envying and admiring eyes; and surely for the pure love of sport those eight were as good as more.

That was a day for me long to be remembered and it might be well worth the while of the amateur or the unlucky fisherman to come along with me when I go back to repeat my experience there.

I haven't taken time to tell of the tea served on the school grounds in the evening after our return; nor of the game of ball participated in with the young braves, who could perhaps give pointers to some of our town-leaguers; nor of the game of checkers with one of their champion players, in which I was again reminded there is a wonderful difference between the man who knows and the man who doesn't know.

I hope I may never get too wise or too old to enjoy such a day nor forget where to go to find it.

They Will be Chaperoned

The Post Free Trip Party will be Chaperoned and Their Comfort Carefully Provided for

A statement has been circulated to the effect that the ten successful young ladies in The Post's Great Free Trip will not be accompanied by anyone.

This is entirely untrue and has doubtless been circulated by interested parties. The party will be chaperoned by a lady of good social standing and by a member of the firm or by a gentleman equally responsible, both of whom will look after the comfort and enjoyment of every member of the party.

This is going to be the grandest, pleasantest, and most memorable excursion party that ever left Lindsay and those who are fortunate enough to go will never regret the efforts they put forth to win a place among the lucky ones.

It is early yet in the contest and while the battle of the ballots has waged merrily from the very start it is altogether too soon for anybody to predict what will be the outcome. There is more than a month before us yet and a month is a long time and affords abundant opportunity for the biggest kind of surprises.

This afternoon we publish corrected figures as to the standing of the respective candidates which shows what can be done in reversing positions and what a little spurt can do.

On Monday again we will publish the result of the contest for the prizes offered by The Post for the greatest number of new subscribers received between June 27th and July 11. The figures will prove interesting.

— Not only is tea grown at a high elevation finer flavored and more healthful than ordinary tea, but it is much more economical. That is why one pound of "Salada" will make more cups of tea than one and one-quarter pounds of any other kind.—51.

Victoria Road Has Big Picnic

St. Thomas' Church Annual Outing Develops a Huge Success

(Special to The Post.)

The annual picnic under the auspices of St. Thomas church took place Wednesday afternoon at the Fort, Balsam Lake, and proved an unqualified success in every way. The affair was attended by nearly the whole countryside and to say that everyone was delighted with the outing is putting it lightly. The day was an ideal one and this, together with the amusement provided, were conditions that made the affair one of unbounded pleasure.

The atheletic programme provided during the afternoon was a splendid one. Kirkfield juniors and Brechin juniors clashed on the baseball diamond, the youngsters from Brechin winning out by a score of 9-7. Afterwards Victoria Road Seniors and Kirkfield seniors played ball, the Vics winning by a score of 12-3. In a stubbornly contested football game Kirkfield worsted Lorneville by the score of 3-1.

The supper provided during the evening was an excellent one and ample justice was done the good things by the throng present.

The festivities closed with a display of fireworks and a huge bonfire on the lake.

Norway's Versatile Queen

Queen Maud, of Norway, has innumerable hobbies and recreations, many of them being of a very useful and practical nature. She devotes many hours to sewing, wood carving and book-binding, and in regard to the latter work has turned out some really beautiful specimens of the craft. Like Queen Alexandra, her mother, Queen Maud is very skillful with the camera, while such is her skill in outdoor sports that she is her husband's constant companion when his majesty indulges in skating, skiing, motoring and cycling excursions. At billiards Queen Maud can easily beat King Haakon, while King Edward, himself a very skillful whist player, confessed that he could not teach his daughter much in regard to the game.

Not Merely a Better Roof ---- but the ONE Roof that's Right

BEFORE you make up your mind that a cheap-for-price-sake roof is all that you can afford just now—

Get a good look into the roofing question as it concerns your pocket-book a year from now—or twenty-five years.

I know you can put on a roof that will cost a few dollars less than an "Oshawa"-shingled roof. Wood shingles cost about the same. Most of the tar-paper roofs cost less—if you want a roof that will melt away in a season or so.

Last year half-a-million dollars wouldn't cover the damage lightning did to Canadian barns. Not one cent of that loss would have occurred if the buildings struck—barns, mostly,—had been safeguarded by "Oshawa" Galvanized Steel Shingles.

And, besides making buildings lightning-proof and absolutely weather-proof, warmer in winter (because these shingles are wind-proof) and cooler in summer (because they keep out the sun's heat), they go a long way to make buildings fireproof.

"OSHAWA" GALVANIZED STEEL SHINGLES

A new roof for nothing if they leak by 1933

But this roof of mine will be a good roof for a HUNDRED years—and that's no mere trade talk. We GUARANTEE it for twenty-five years —which means that if it leaks in that time you get a NEW roof for NOTHING.

If there was nothing else that made an "Oshawa"-shingled roof better worth buying than any other roof, this one fact of their being LIGHTNING-proof ought to make you put them on your barn or residence.

The saving in reduced insurance rates alone will pay their cost in a very few years.

With all this, an "Oshawa"-shingled roof costs only as much as a cedar-shingled roof, —and outlasts it ten to one.

Suppose you read the free book about "Roofing Right." Sample shingle goes with the book. Sent as soon as we get your request,—a postcard will do to ask on.

Woman's Institute at Fenelon Falls

The Picnic was a Grand Success and a Delightful Time Was Spent

The union picnic held on Thursday, 9th inst., by the East and West Victoria Women's Institutes, will long be remembered by those who were present at one of the pleasantest events of the kind on record. The weather was perfect, and the spacious and beautiful grounds surrounding Mr. W. E. Robson's residence, kindly placed at the disposal of the committee by the owner, was a delightfully cool and shaded spot in which to spend a midsummer afternoon. About one hundred and fifty members and their friends, belonging to the different branches, arrived on the steamer Kathleen. A number drove from Bobcaygeon and others arrived on the noon train, among them being Mr. Putman, provincial superintendent of Women's Institutes. Shortly after noon a bountifully spread table under the trees was surrounded by the picnickers, who, after grace had been pronounced by Rev. Mr. Lord, enjoyed the good things provided. About two p. m. all were assembled on the lawn before the house, when a good programme was rendered. As is the custom with the Women's Institutes, the meeting was opened by all repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. Mrs. Dr. Gould, president of the local branch, introduced Mrs. Webster, district president of West Victoria, who occupied the chair. She gave an interesting address on the subject of Women's Institutes, and work in and for the home. Mrs. Fell, district president of West Victoria, then gave a brief but excellent address. She was pleased to meet and welcome so many members from the different branches. Miss Parsons, of Omemee, rendered a solo, which was much enjoyed.

Mr. F. H. Reed, B. S. A., said he was very much pleased to have the opportunity of addressing such a representative gathering of the women of East and West Victoria, especially the mothers and sisters of the young men of Victoria county. He urged on them the claims of the agricultural profession, setting forth the advantages to be derived from a term spent at the agricultural college or at the collegiate institute, Lindsay, where the science of agriculture is now taught in all its branches. He advised a course at the McDonald Institute, Guelph, for young women, as being of inestimable value in after life.

Mr. Stewart, of Bobcaygeon, briefly addressed the assembly, expressing much pleasure at the reception given the visiting members, and congratulating the institute on having such a beautiful situation for the present gathering.

A solo by Miss Webster of Oakwood was very well rendered.

Mr. Thurston, of Bobcaygeon, was called on for a speech to which he responded briefly, but happily.

Mr. Putman, superintendent of women's institutes, throughout the country, as well as in towns and even in the cities. The membership at present was about 11,000 and steadily increasing, new branches being formed, and new members constantly being added. He strongly advocated making the monthly meetings attractive to the younger women, so they might have the advantage of these more experience in home making. He thought our motto, "Home and country," though a good one, might with advantage be condensed into the one word "Home," for in his opinion if home and its influences were all they should be the country will take care of itself. Co-operation between branches was also advocated, and the interchange of programmes produced good results.

Mr. Dix, a native of Little Britain, but now of Uncle Sam's domain, gave a pithy and pointed address of a few minutes' duration, which was very much appreciated.

An excellent though brief address was then given by Rev. C. S. Lord, pastor of St. Andrew's.

He advised the members of the institute to take themselves seriously, as they were doing a grand work and he hoped they would go on in the way they were doing.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Robson for the use of their grounds for the occasion, after which the national anthem was sung.

Misses Flo and Madeline Adams, of Detroit, are visiting their sister, Mrs F. Rutherford.

Miss Clifford, of Coboconk, is the guest of Mrs. Jno. Cooke.

Miss Gladys French, of Havergal Hall, Toronto, and Miss Dorothy of Lindsay Collegiate Institute, are home for the summer vacation

Miss Maud Ellis, of St. Louis, came home on Wednesday.

Mr. Geo. A. Jordan, reeve of Lindsay, was in town Thursday.

Mr. McDonald, of Rosedale, was in town on Wednesday.

Mr. M. Rewe, teller in the Bank of British North America, left on Wednesday for Toronto Junction, to which place he has been removed.

Little Bob Dam Construction

A Work of Magnitude Near Bobcaygeon —Large Amount of Cement Used

A despatch to the Peterboro Examiner gives some very interesting particulars regarding the work now in progress on the Little Bob dam. It says;

Messrs. McCoy & Wilford are making good progress with their contract of building the dam and sidewalks, which are to replace the old mill dam across the Little Bob bridge, a mile east of the village. The contract is from the Dominion Government, and the dam is to be completed by November next. Forty-five men and eight teams are at present employed in the work. The cement side-wall on the south side of the river is finished. It is two feet thick, and ranges in height from six to seven feet to twelve to fourteen feet, according to the depth it was found necessary to go in order to find solid rock bottom and to get below the crevices in the limestone through which there has been for years a considerable leak. The wall extends from the river in a south-westerly direction a distance of over one thousand feet to high ground near the foot of Oliver's mill. A number of teams are engaged at hauling gravel, which is being banked up to the top of the wall on both sides as a reinforcement. A great quantity of gravel will be required for the purpose. On the north side of the excavation eight or ten feet deep has been dug in the sawdust, but nothing has as yet been done at putting in the side-wall there. This latter wall will be much shorter than the one on the south side of the river, as there is high ground within a hundred or a hundred and fifty feet of the water's edge.

HOW THE WORK IS DONE

Work on the dam proper is just commencing. A gang of men are putting up the necessary framework and tracks for running the cement cars on are being laid. A large cement mixer with a capacity of one hundred and eighty yards per day has been installed. When a load of cement is mixed it is dumped out of the machine into small cars, which are run over the section being worked upon and there unloaded. About 150 bags of cement are used daily and six cars loads have been put into the side-wall. The wall across the river will take a much larger quantity, and it is estimated that thirty car loads more will be used before the contract is completed. The dam is to be twelve feet thick at the bottom, tapering to five feet at the top. There are to be six piers each seventeen feet long and six feet wide. Where the greatest strain will come on the structure the piers are to be placed ten feet apart; where less support is necessary a greater space will be left between them. The dam is being built in sections; at each division a rough coffer-dam is put in and a water-tight box built. Then the water is pumped out of the chamber thus formed so as to leave the bottom dry for putting in the cement. A large pump driven by a 6 h. p. engine does the pumping. Mixed cement is run out in cars on an overhead track and dumped into the chamber below, where it is packed into place. In this way a great mass of cement can be handled. A concrete walk is to be built across the top of the dam.

OTHER DETAILS

A blacksmith and carpenter shop has been erected near the scene of labor and the old mill stables are being utilized for stabling the horses and mules employed in connection with the operations.

A boarding house under the management of the contractors is maintained close at hand for the convenience of employees, and about thirty men take advantage of the opportunity to live close to their work.

Foreman Bromwell, who is in charge, has superintended all the excavating and the building of the side-wall. He has recently moved his family to Bobcaygeon, and is now comfortably settled at Little Bob in one of the houses formerly occupied by Mossom Boyd Company's mill employees.

Boy Nearly Killed by Steamer

Had Narrow Escape from Death by Being Run Down

A young boy had a very narrow escape from being run over and perhaps fatally injured by the str. Esturion on Friday, and it was only by the prompt action of Capt. Johnston that a serious accident was averted.

As the Esturion was running slowly along opposite Madison Williams' foundry a boy, supported by a life preserver, swam out directly in front. The passengers in the bow shouted to him to get out of the way and the engineer was signalled to stop, as the suction from the paddle wheels would have drawn him into them. The paddles missed him by about a foot.

The Building is Going Up Rapidly

Carew's New Mill Now in Course of Erection

The gang of men employed in the building of Mr. John Carew's new mill are making fast headway. They have already put in the cement piers on which the mill is to stand and are raising the big timbers. The mill is to be one hundred and eighty feet long by forty eight feet wide, a little larger than the old one.

The construction of the mill is under the supervision of Mr. Tom Gray. Mr. Carew is putting a lot of new machinery in his mill, and when it is completed will be one of the most up-to-date mills in the country.

That stormy petrel of the West, Joe Martin, announces that he will again run for parliament. There will surely be more than equinoctial gales in the elections the coming fall.

Church Notes

ST. MARY'S CHURCH

Rev. Father John Collins, son of Mr. T. Collins of Lindsay (a member of the Basilian Order(delivered the sermon at the two masses Sunday. The reverend gentleman in a scholarly discourse referred to man's ultimate destiny on earth, and the purpose for which God created him. In a beautiful word picture he referred to a youth buoyed up with the exaggerated notions of the joys, pleasures and vanities of the world, and when in the blush of manhood he leaves his father's threshold with the determination to climb to the highest pinnacle. In the course of time, in moments of reflection, he finds things different to what he had expected. The thoughts and ideas he had conjured up in his mind were mistaken ones - friends go cold, discouragements confront him, and he comes to the conclusion that the world has changed, whereas the change is in himself. The things of this world are nothing the speaker said, and we should strive more after the things of God — to serve Him and live for Him. The earth and all earthly things would pass away, but God and His church would remain forever. We are God's creatures, made unto His likeness and image, and were placed on His earth to know and to do His will. That should be our aspiration — not to strive after the things of this world. The speaker urged upon his listeners to live in conformity with God's desires—to aim towards faithfully loving and serving Him, and be worthy of meriting eternal happiness hereafter in the Kingdom of Heaven.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. James Wallace, M. A., B. D. preached to two very large congregations Sunday.

In the morning he took his text from II Chronicles, 29-27. "And when the burnt offering began, the song of the Lord began also, with the trumpets ordained by David King of Israel." In this chapter we are given a discription of the reforms which had been affected by Hezekiah. These people were a people who cared. It is a great thing to be over a people who care about the welfare of their country. It was because the country had come to such a pass that Luther came to the front. He was one who cared and he took the lead. It is only by using brain and muscle that anything is accomplished. Where there is no sacrifice there is no song. Song in this case means the joy of life. The world can do nothing without sacrifice. It should be our aim to make others live happy, and so make life, death, and the vast forever, one grand sweet song.

In the evening Mr. Wallace took his text from Matthew 1-19. "Behold a man gluttonous and a wine-bibber, a friend of publicans and sinners." These words were a slander to our Lord and it is hard to see the reason of it. The last clause is more easily understood, but the first part was entirely without provocation.

We are inclined to think of Christ as always sad and serious, but He was at all times bright and gleeful, seeing the bright side of life which others failed to see. The people did not understand our Lord. Some people think that a clergyman should always be sober and serious. It is because people have taken this view that religion is so depressing.

What Christ disliked was the sins that were committed in cold-blood as it were, sins that were deliberate. Christ found something that attracted him amongst sinners.

People may be formal and keep up with the law, but still be unlovable.

The work that Christ did is not remembered by a fast but by a feast. The ideal of every living person should be joyousness instead of severity. There is a special place in the church for a special work. Christ is sure to give his approval if by joy, we bring happiness and joy into the lives of others.

The singing at both services was very good.

CAMBRIDGE-ST. METHODIST

Rev. J. P. Wilson occupied the pulpit at Cambridge-st. Methodist church both morning and evening. For the morning service he chose as his text the twenty-first verse of the twenty-second chapter of Job; "Acquaint now thyself with Him and be at peace, thereby good shall come unto thee," and in a concise but forcible manner proceeded to point out how necessary it was for man to become acquainted with and know the great works of God. Reconciliation by faith and obedience he took to be the theme. Naked and open to men are the works of God. Many men talk of His presence in nature — the stars, winds, trees, etc. and yet do not believe in him or know the bible. There are those who read the bible just as if they were reading Tennyson — scanning it close, but never giving it an after thought. God comes down and talks to man, but we need the listening ear, the obedient heart, in order to understand what he is saying, and we must also believe that God is speaking. In this age of strife our ears become so filled with the hurry of business and the enjoyment of pleasure that there is no time to hear Him. Such men as Lord George White, Livingstone, knew God and heard him, as their great deeds testify. God is anxious to-day to reveal himself, if we will but open our hearts to him. And if we do this, good and peace shall come to us. Peace with God and of God comes to all who know Him. Christian character is the essential above all. His eye is always on us, so we must press on and we will see Him face to face.

In the evening he used as his text the twenty-second verse of the fifteenth chapter of Samuel, "Behold to obey is better than sacrifice." Saul had a great career opening up for him. He was clever, handsome and possessed great dignity, so people expected great things from him. But he failed, and why? Because he was disobedient. True character cannot be made without obedience. Obedience is the watchword of the door that leads to character. Saul saw a vision of what he might do, and should do, but he was disobedient and as a result did not rise to the occasion. He betrayed the high interest God had placed on him and thus we see Saul the brilliant kind a failure. Many men to-day see their duty, have visions of what they should do, but like Saul are disobedient, and their lives are the same failure. But it is a glorious thing that there are some men who see these visions and do act on them —men who see the great needs of humanity and act as God would have them do. When we see as God sees, then we can do the great work of God. We all see visions and dream visions, but only those succeed who carry out their dream, not disobeying as Saul did. Florence Nightingale had a vision, and acted on it. William of Orange was a dreamer, but he was not afraid to assume the leadership and carry out his dreams. We will never be any better than we expect to be, and never be happy till we are obedient to his vision.

QUEEN-ST. METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday Rev. J. R. Real preached able sermons both morning and evening. In the morning he took for his text Isaiah 41c. 6 v. In the evening he took his text from St. Matthew 19th c. 21st. v.

The Balance Sheet

Not as an answer to its critics, or with the hope of satisfying the constant persistent demand for lower rates, but just as a matter of news, the interesting fact has been given out that the Grand Trunk has, within the past few years, expended $15,000,000 in double tracking the main line from Montreal to Chicago, that they have now over a thousand miles of double track—the longest continuous double track under one management in the world.

At the same time they have been laying down 80 pound steel where in former years there was 65 and 72 pound rails. And now, having set a new and heavier standard, they are replacing the 80 pound steel with new rails weighing 100 pounds to the yd. In other ways they are bringing the system up to a standard which will make it, in all respects, a first-class railway. Every new bridge put in is made to carry the heaviest.

All this money or the most of it finds its way back to the pockets of the people, for the work is done largely in Canada and the materials entering into the work are largely the products of Canadian mills and the Canadian hands.

And all over the vast system, from Niagara on the south, North Bay at the north—from Portland to Chicago they are building new shops, round houses, stations and other buildings. In the double track alone the company have provided additional safety that no mere block system could secure. No doubt as business justifies other lines will be double tracked, especially the lines leading down from the Great Lakes, the outlet for the wheat of the Northwest.

Woman's Institute Organized at Islay

(Special to The Post.)

On Wednesday, June 17, a branch of the Woman's Institute was organized in this vicinity. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Elford and was largely attended by the women of the neighborhood. The district president, Mrs. F. Webster and district secretary Mrs. J. Berchard, were also present also Miss McMurchy, who gave a demonstration in egg dishes which was very profitable, and Mrs. S. Grey gave a very interesting address on "The Woman's Institute, what it is and why we should belong to it." The nomination and election of officers next took place and resulted as follows; Pres. Miss Maggie McMillan, Vice-pres. Miss Addie Elford, sec.-treas. Miss Mabel Currins, branch directors, Mrs. W. Brown, Miss Lizzie Elford, and Mrs. Stone.

It was decided that the next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Currins on the 8th July at 2 o'clock sharp. An interesting feature of this meeting will be a paper by Miss A. Elford, on canning fruits. All the women in the neighborhood are invited to attend these meetings. The meeting was closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

Outbreak of Small Pox

Twenty-six Cases Said to be Quarantined in Galway

Twenty-six cases of a mild, but genuine form of small pox reported to have broken out at Union Creek in the north western section of Galway township and all are under quarantine. A dispatch to the Toronto News from Fenelon Falls says:

Fenelon Falls July 6.—An outbreak of small pox has occurred at Union Creek, in Galway township, and four cases are under quarantine in the neighboring townsh p of Somerville, Victoria, County. The presence of the disease was first suspected last week. Dr. Bell, Provincial Medical Inspector, was notified and upon visiting in the neighborhood pronounced it genuine small-pox.

It is supposed the disease, which is of a mild type, was brought in by the teacher of the school at that settlement, who taught for some time after being taken ill before the nature of her ailment was suspected. Latest reports by telephone are to the effect that there has been no change in the situation during the past few days and that the outbreak is now well under control. The total number of cases under quarantine is about twenty-six.

The locality where teh outbreak occurred is about sixteen miles from here and some five miles from Kinmount. Every possible precaution has been taken by vacination and quarantine to prevent a further outbreak or spread of the disease.

For a quick lunch: Put sliced raw ham in sweet milk for half hour before frying. It will give it a nice flavor.

THE SAVING OF LIFE

The following remarks, contributed to The Post by Mr. T. W. Sheffield, of Lindsay, who is an honorary member of the British Life Saving Society, are well worthy perusal at this season:

Until the formation of the Royal Life Saving Society of Great Britain in 1891 very little was done to promote the essential feature of the art of swimming, that of rescuing persons in danger by swimming to their relief, and at the present time the society is the only body which exists solely for the purpose of providing instruction in the art of human salvage. In an empire which prides itself on its strength upon the waters, there should not be a person ignorant of these things, and yet it may safely be said that comparatively few have the skill to undertake a rescue in deep water, or the knowledge of how to restore suspended animation.

Here is an admitted evil, the gravity of which is forced upon us in hundreds of cases every year. If only those who have learned by sad experience what it is to see a person struggling in the water, and unable to help him, could be moved to assist a national enterprise for the saving of life, this evil would soon disappear from our midst.

The safety of the person who cannot swim may be imperilled at any moment when he ventures in, upon or near water. It may be safely said that there is no art in which it is easier to arrive at a moderate facility than that of swimming. There is none which is cheaper and the pursuit of which conduces so much to health or confers more pleasure. A very little scientific teaching acquaints the pupil with the all-important fact that the body is buoyant in water, and that nobody need drown except as a consequence of panic, exhaustion or ignorance. A knowledge of swimming will prevent those ugly clutches, through which scores of people have gone down, and through which even the strongest swimmer may be fatally submerged if he does not know how to free himself. This self-control and knowledge will never come to one as the result of theory alone. The confidence and ability which are necessary can only be instilled into the human being by practice and experience. It is earnestly to be hoped that it will soon be publicly recognized that it is a duty on the part of those who are charged with the education to see to it that every boy and girl shall be taught swimming and life saving before leaving school. The method or system whereby this knowledge may be easily and profitably imparted is in existence and having regard to the wants of the rising generation, no educational body should leave it unemployed.

Everybody knows that man is not a swimmer by nature, but he may become an excellent swimmer by practice, and may yet with the most admirable and utmost courage be unable to render efficient service to a drowning man. He may be clutched by the person whom he desires to rescue, and the pair may drown together. There are hundreds of abortive efforts at rescue every year, and there are many in which a single tragedy is made into a double one through the absence of a little simple knowledge on the part of the intending helper. Even a powerful swimmer takes a great risk upon himself when he approaches in the water a person who has fallen into that natural state of panic which so generally overcomes those who are in danger of drowning unless he knows his business, in which case the whole thing becomes perfectly safe and comparatively simple and easy. The person who has been trained undertakes the work of rescue with as complete immunity from danger as if he were disporting himself in the water for his own amusement. He has no fear of the man's drowning clutch, which has been fatal in so many instances, for he has his guard, just as a practised wrestler has, against a possible contingency, as he has this advantage over the wrestler, that he is at home in the element in which the other person concerned is in deadly danger. The drowning man is altogether at his mercy, and the wildest flurry and the most desperate embrace have no perils for the trained life saver.

There is no part of the empire which offers so many advantages as Canada, for the immediate formation of this society, whose chief aim would be to educate all to the art of natation and life saving methods and thus minimize the terrible loss of life that is always taking place in the great lakes and waterways of the Dominion.

Sweet Potatoes

In the spring of 1900 I sent to Maryland for some sweet popato sprouts. They came by mail in fine condition, well rooted, and healthy plants. I set out about seventy five plants, giving as many more to farmers in different parts of the country, where I knew the soil and conditions were favorable to growing them. Mine proved very satisfactory. I must have had over a bushel, the biggest one weighing one pound. I put a dozen on the scales and they weighed six and a half pounds. The farmers were well satisfied with their experience, which was successful.

In the spring of 1907, I set out nearly 500 plants, but on account of the backward season and late frosts, I could not plant them until June 10. The season was much shorter, and there was less hot weather than the previous year. While the vines grew vigorously, the yield of potatoes was unsatisfactory. The largest I had was one-half pound, but very few attained a satisfactory size. If the season had been three weeks longer, as the previous one in 1906, I see no reason I see no reason why I should not have had ten bushels, for which the dealers here would have paid $2.00 a bushel. This proved that with an early spring, a hot, dry summer, the yield will be satisfactory; otherwise the result will be a failure.

The plants should be set out in rows, three feet apart, and fifteen inches apart in the rows. The best fertilizer is one having a small amount of nitrogen, and a large amount of potash. I found the Yellow Nansemond the most satisfactory variety of the four or five different varieties that I grew. — Walter T. Ross, Picton, Ont.

Brummell's Saw Mill Burned

Destroyed this Morning, Causing a Loss of $4,000.

Loss $4,000.

Saw mill completely destroyed.

Machinery and engine rendered worthless for further use.

Such was the amount of damage done to Mr. Geo. H. Brummell's saw mill at an early hour Friday morning by the fire fiend. Up to the present time the exact origin of the fire is unknown, but it could not have started from the engine, as there has been no steam up for over two weeks. The most probable theory seems to be that it was caused by a match or a spark dropping in some inflammable material from the pipe of a pedestrian on the street and thus setting the building on fire. The flames were first noticed by Mr. Kennedy, who resides just across the road, about 2.45, and he immediately telephoned the fire hall.

When the fire team arrived on the scene the mill was one mass of flames, and it seemed impossible to quell such a seething furnace. So intense was the heat that windows were cracked in both Mr. Kennedy's house and Mr. R. M. Beal's warehouse across the river. It was only with the utmost exertions on the part of the firemen and Mr. Kennedy that the surrounding buildings were saved, as showers of sparks were continually falling upon the roof. With the aid of a private hose the flames were kept in subjection whenever they showed a disposition to break out as a result of the intense heat disseminated by the burning mill.

The firemen worked heroically throughout, but all their efforts to save the mill were fruitless, as could readily be seen by the many hundreds of spectators who had been aroused by the fire bell. Good streams, however, were thrown on the surrounding buildings, and much damage thereby averted.

Mr. Miller's house, which is only about twenty feet from the mill, was badly scorched, but the firemen kept the building continually damp, resulting in no harm whatever to it. The huge smokestack collapsed shortly after the arrival of the firemen. The most conspicuous object left standing this morning, as if to survey the dismal ruins, is the whistle, although many of the burnt rafters and cross beams are still hanging precariously in midair.

Mr. Carew has been using the mill for some time up to two weeks ago, cutting timber for his new mill. He ceased operations two weeks ago, and a week ago the timber was removed and the watchman taken off.

Mr. Brummell estimated his loss at something like $4,000.

"I wish I could say the same of mine," replied Sylvia sadly. "but because the clouds are dark about you that I want to come into your life to comfort you."

The girl shook her head.

"No, Jefferson, the circumstances make such a marriage impossible. Your family and everybody else would say that I had inveigled you into it. It is more even impossible now than I thought it was when I spoke to you on the ship."

Emotion stopped her utterance, and she buried her face to her hands, weeping silently.

"Shirley," said Jefferson tenderly, "you are wrong. If you will not say 'Yes' now, I shall go away as I told my father I would, and one day I shall come back and then if you are still single I shall ask you again to be my wife."

"You may not want me then."

"I shall always want you," he whispered hoarsely, kissing her hair. In the dim light of the porch he saw that her face was flushed, but that she was pale. He rose and held out his hand.

"Goodby," he said simply.

"Goodby, Jefferson." She rose and put her hand in his. "We will always be friends."

He raised her hand to his lips.

"Goodby, Sylvia. Don't forget me. I shall come back for you."

He went down the porch, and she watched him to the end of the gate and down the road until she could see his figure no longer. Then she turned back and sank into her chair, and, burying her face in her handkerchief, she gave way to a torrent of tears which affected some relief to the weight on her heart. Presently the others returned from their walk, and she told them about her news said.

"Mr. Ryder's son, Jefferson, was here. We crossed on the same ship. I introduced him to Shirley and I on the dock."

The judge looked surprised, but he merely said.

"I hope for his sake that he is a different man from his father."

"He is," replied Shirley simply, and nothing more was said.

Two days went by, during which Shirley went on completing the preparations for her visit to New York. It was arranged that Sylvia should accompany her to the city. Shortly before they started for the train a letter arrived for Shirley. Like the first one, it had been forwarded by her publishers. It was as follows:

Miss Shirley Gresson:

Dear Madam—I shall be happy to see you at my residence—Fifth avenue—any afternoon you will mention. Yours very truly,

JOHN RUKKETT RIDER.

For B.

Shirley smiled in triumph as, unseen by her father and mother, she passed it over to Stott. She at once sat down and wrote this reply:

Mr. John Rukkett Ryder:

Dear Sir—I am sorry that I am unable to comply with your request. I prefer the Gresson to walk in Central Park, Friday afternoon, about four o'clock. Mrs. Ryder, Yours, etc. SHIRLEY GRESSON.

She laughed as she showed this to Stott.

"He'll write me again," she said, "and next time his wife will sign the letter."

An hour later she left Massapequa for the city.

CHAPTER XI.

THE Hon. Fitzroy Bagley had every reason to feel satisfied with himself. His affairs in the cocoa with the senator's daughter was progressing more smoothly than ever, and nothing now seemed to interfere with the carefully prepared plans to capture an American heiress. The interview with Kate Roberts in the library, so awkwardly disturbed by Jefferson's unexpected intrusion, had been followed by other interviews more secret and more successful. In the intervals of these he had contrived so well to persuade the girl that he really thought the world of her and was a brilliant fellow and that he and his wife that it was not long before the second her in a road to refuse him nothing.

Bagley urged immediate marriage. He insinuated that Jefferson had treated her shamefully and that she owed it to herself to show the world that there were other men as good as the one who had left her in the lurch. He told her of the senator being bent on the match with Ryder's son. It would be worse than madness for him (Bagley) to make formal application for her hand, for the senator would be angry at the idea, and remained was a runaway marriage. Constrained with the fall around Papa Roberts would bow to the inevitable. They could get married quietly in Iowa, go on a long tour and return when the senator had got over his first disappointment and would be welcomed back with open arms.

Kate listened willingly enough to this specious reasoning. Her heart she was piqued at Jefferson's indifference, and she was the more inclined to really believe that this marriage with a British nobleman, Bagley assured, would be in the nature of a triumph over him. Besides, the project of an elopement appealed strangely to her fancy and imagination; it put her in the same class as all her favorite novel heroines. And it would be capital fun.

Meantime Senator Roberts, in blissful ignorance of the little game in his domestic peace, was growing impatient for the appearance of his future Ryder once more on the subject of his son's prospects. The young man, he said, had been back from Europe some time. He insisted on knowing what his intentions were toward his daughter. If they were engaged to be married, he said, he thought should be a public announcement of the fact. It was unfair to him and a slight to his daughter to let matters hang in this unsatisfactory way, and he hinted that both himself and his daughter might demand their passports from the Ryder mansion unless some explanation were forthcoming.

Ryder was in a quandary. He had no trials to contend with like would Washington ally. He recognized the reasonableness of his complaint. But what could he do? Much as he himself desired the marriage, his son was obstinate and showed no inclination to settle down. He even hinted at attractions in another direction. He did not tell the senator of his recent interview with his son, but he was later made it very plain that the marriage could never take place. Ryder senior had his own reasons for wishing to compromise. It was quite possible that Jefferson might change his mind and abandon his idea of going abroad, and he suggested to the senator that perhaps if he, the senator, made the engagement public through the newspapers it might have the salutary effect of forcing his son's hand.

So a few months later there appeared among the society notes in several of the New York papers this paragraph:

The engagement is announced of Miss Katherine Roberts, daughter of Senator Roberts of Wisconsin, to Jefferson Ryder, son of John Rukkett Ryder.

Two persons in New York happened to see this item about the same time, and both were equally interested, although it affected them in a different manner. One was the senator's daughter who had chanced to pick up the newspaper at the breakfast table in her boarding house.

"So soon?" she murmured to herself. "Well, why not? I suppose I love Jefferson. He had often spoken to her of his mother and family in Iowa and they had laughed over it as a typical marriage of convenience modified after the manner of the day. Jefferson, she knew, had never cared for her as she had taken the matter for granted. Some powerful influences must have been at work to make him surrender so easily. Perhaps again she recalled the masterly hand of Ryder senior, and she wondered if he was equal to cope with this extraordinary man and measure her strength with him. Her mind, indeed, was too full of her father's troubles to divert over her own moreover much she might have been inclined to do under other circumstances, and all that day she did her best to banish the paragraph from her thoughts. More than a week had passed since she left Massapequa and, what with corresponding with financiers, calling upon old friends and attending to the management of her time had been kept busy. She had formed a quiet and reasonable friend boarding house off Washington square, and here Stott had called according to see her. After the conference with Mr. Ryder had now reached a phase where it was impossible to invent any further excuses for delaying the interview asked for. As she had foreseen, a day or two after her arrival in town she had received a note from Mrs. Ryder asking her to do her the honor to call and see her, and Shirley, after waiting another two days, had replied with an appointment for the following day at 3 o'clock. This was the same day on which the paragraph concerning the Ryder-Roberts engagement appeared in the social chronicles of the metropolis.

Directly after the meager meal which in New York passes for a luncheon, she dressed by the name of luncheon Shirley proceeded to get ready for her momentous visit to the Ryder mansion. She was anxious to make a favorable impression on the financier, so she took some pains with her personal appearance.

In about twenty minutes the car stopped at Mr. Ryder's seventy-fourth street. Shirley descended and with a unfeigned nervous wished towards the Ryder mansion, which she knew well by sight.

There was one other person in New York who that same morning had read the paragraph concerning the Ryder-Roberts betrothal, and he did not take the matter as quietly as Shirley had done. On the contrary, it had the effect of putting him into a violent rage. This was Jefferson. He was working in his studio when he read it, and two minutes later he was hurrying uptown to seek the author of it. He determined to confront Shirley. They wanted to force his hand, to frame him into the marriage, to so entangle him with the girl that other alternatives would be possible to an honorable man. It was a despicable trick, and he had no doubt that his father was at the bottom of it. He knew he now fully made up. He would go away at once where they could not reach his life. Rather than be forced into marriage which was foot becoming a nightmare to him. He would close his studio and leave immediately for Europe. He would show his father there for all that he was a man and expected to be treated as one.

An errand boy handed that person he saw was the ubiquitous Mr. Bagley, who stood at the door of the first-floor apartment with a letter in his hand. Jefferson crossed him at once, holding out the newspaper containing the offending paragraph.

"Why, Bagley," he cried, "what does this mean? Is this any of your doing?"

The English secretary gave his cuffs a quick and nervous jerk and, without deigning to reply or even to glance at the newspaper, continued his instructions to the servant:

"Here, Jordan, get stamps for all these letters and see they are replied at once. They are very important."

"Yes, sir," said the clerk.

The man took the letters and disappeared, leaving Jefferson, impatient, repeated his question.

"My dolings," sneered Mr. Bagley, "Tell Jefferson, you go too far. I fear you suppose for one instant that I would condescend to trouble myself with your affairs?"

Jefferson was in no mood to put up with insolence from any one, especially from a man whom he heartily despised, so, advancing menacingly, he thundered:

"I mean—were you in the discharge of your secretarial duties instructed by my father to send that paragraph? Did you have anything to do with my alleged betrothal to Miss Roberts? Yes or no?"

The man winced and made a step backward. There was a gleam in the eyes of Jefferson that he knew by experience boded no good.

"Dooly, Jefferson," he said in a more conciliatory tone, "I know absolutely nothing about the paragraph. This is the first I have seen it. Why ask your father?"

"I will," replied Jefferson grimly.

He was turning to go in the direction of the library when Bagley stopped him.

"You cannot possibly see him now," he said. "Mr. Ryder and one of the secret service is in there with him, and your father told me not to disturb him on any account. I has another appointment at 3 o'clock with some wealthy Hebrew who wishes—"

Seeing that the fellow was in earnest, Jefferson did not resist. He could see his father a little later on and send a message through his mother. Turning upstairs, he found Mrs. Ryder in her room, and in a few energetic words he explained the situation to his mother. They had gone too far with this matchmaking business, he said. He was trying to make order here with his personal liberty, and he was going to put a stop to it. He would leave at once for Europe. Mr. Ryder had already heard of the projected trip, so the news of his sudden departure was not the shock he had anticipated it would be.

As Jefferson went downstairs some thing white on the carpet attracted his attention. He stopped and picked it up. It was a letter. It was in Bagley's handwriting and the envelope had dropped to the man to whom the secretary had given it to post. But what interested Jefferson more than anything else was that it was addressed to Miss Sylvia Roberts. Under ordinary circumstances a king's ransom would not have tempted him to open or even read a letter addressed to another, but he was convinced that his father's secretary was an adventurer, and if he were carrying on an intrigue in this house he could hardly only one means. It was his duty to unveil a rascal who was using the Ryder roof and name to further his own ends and trifle a girl who, although spoiled, noticed enough to know better, was too silly to realize the risk she ran at the hands of an unscrupulous man. Hesitating no longer, Jefferson tore open the envelope and read:

Dear Sylvia—Mr. That Is to Be—I have arranged everything. Next Wednesday, just a week from today—we will go to one of the Long Island towns and be married by a minister will marry us. Then we will go on a long tour and return when the old man has got over his disappointment. Meet me in the lady's room at the Grand Central at 6 o'clock. I will come there with a closed cab. Your devoted FITZ.

"Phew!" Jefferson whistled. A close shave this for Senator Roberts, he thought. His first impulse was to go upstairs again to his father and put the matter in her hands. She would immediately know the right way. She would make short work of Mr. Bagley. But, thought Jefferson, why should he spoil a good thing? He could afford to wait a day or two. There was no hurry. He would leave Mr. Ryder to think all was going swimmingly and then uncover the plot at the eleventh hour. He would even let this letter go to Kate. There was no difficulty in procuring another envelope and forging the handwriting, and when Bagley was just preparing to go to the rendezvous he would have the letter in his hand deserved no mercy. The scandal would be a knockout, and his father would discharge him on the spot, and that would be the last they would see of the adventurer. Besides, he could Jefferson put the letter in his pocket and left the house rejoicing.

While the foregoing incidents were happening John Rukkett Ryder senior decided in his library. The great man had come home earlier than usual, for he had two important calls to make. One was Sergeant Billison, who had to report his mission to Massapequa; the other was Shirley Gresson, the author of "The America Octopus," who had at last replied to his letter of the day before. Pending the arrival of these visitors the financier was busy with his secretary, who was trying as rapidly as possible at what business and correspondence he had left the house rejoicing.

The photograph was sitting at his desk poring over a mass of papers. Between puffs of his cigar he muttered to himself, and when he raised his eyes to the light a close observer might have noticed that they were bloodshot, a color they assumed when the man of iron was overcome by nervous strain. Occasionally every now and then he stopped reading the papers to make quick memorandums on a pad of paper. Then if the result pleased him he would emit a short, sharp chuckle of curves. He rose from his chair and walked up and down the room as he always did when thinking deeply.

"Five million," he muttered, "not a cent more or less. I wonder if I can crush them—"

The door opened. Mr. Ryder looked up quickly.

"Well, Bagley?" he said interrogatively, for he knew the Billison could "Yes, sir. But Mr. Hertz is downstairs. He begins to think we underrate the Philadelphia gas deal. He says it is a matter of life and death."

"Tell Mr. Hertz to—" he muttered the remainder drily. "Let him come up. We have finished with out new man."

Mr. Bagley went out and returned ushering, apparently, followed by a short man, rather badly dressed and apoplectic in appearance. He looked like a prosperous butcher, while, as a matter of fact, he was president of a gas company, one of the wealthiest financiers in the country, and a big man in Wall street. There was only one big man in Wall street, and that was John Ryder. But, today, Mr. Hertz was out in good humor. He was jovial and loud and his manner flustered and nervous. He was plainly worried.

"Hi, Ryder!" he began with cordial gesture, "the terms you offer are pretty stiff, but I would mean disaster to the stockholders. Our gas proposition is worth more than that amount. We will sell out for $20,000,000 cash or less."

Ryder shrugged his shoulders.

"Mr. Hertz," he replied coolly, "I am busy today and in no mood for argument. Bagley, show the door of force you out. Gresson. You have our offer. Take it or leave it. Good day, gentlemen. Will you take it?"

"Hold on!" the apoplectic man cried his visitor, exasperated.

"Very well," replied Ryder, still unruffled, "I will wait for you. If you leave you free to act. We have got the Long Island and Pennsylvania Gas company, which has charter rights to go into any of the streets of Philadelphia. We shall probably form a company, we will put $10,000,000 we capital, and we can reduce the price of gas in Philadelphia to 60 cents a thousand. Is it well you to be then?"

The face of the man became as he entered this stand and deliver speech and he was silent for a minute. Because of the resistless power of his untold millions, he felt no more compunction in mercilessly crushing this business rival than he would in trampling out the life of a worm. The little man facing him looked haggard and distressed. He knew well that this was no idle threat. He was well aware that Ryder and his associates by the sheer weight of their immense wealth they controlled could sell out or destroy any industrial corporation in the land. It was not against illegal but it was one every day, and his company was not the first victim nor the last. Desperate, he appealed humbly to the tyrannical money power:

"Don't drive us to the wall, Mr. Ryder. This forced sale will mean disaster to us all. Put yourself in our place; think what it means to scores of families where only support is the American Gas Company's stock or company."

"Pooh, Hertz," replied Ryder unmoved, "I never allow sentiment to interfere with business. You have heard my terms. I leave you to make the matter further. What it is to you? Five million or twenty-five? Decide now or this interview must end."

He took out his watch and with his other hand nonchalantly pushed the perspiration stood on his visitor's forehead. The man looked from with suppressed emotion he said hoarsely:

"You are a fiend, pitiless man, John Ryder! So be it—five million. I don't know what they'll say. I don't dare return to lose."

"Those are my terms," said Ryder coolly. "Write your letter, added, "will be ready for your signature tomorrow at this time, and I'll have a check ready for the entire amount. Good day."

Mr. Bagley entered. Ryder bowed to Hertz, who was still stunned. When the door had closed on him, Ryder went back to his desk, a smile of triumph on his face. Then he turned to Bagley.

"Let Sergeant Billison come up," he said.

A moment later the door opened, and Sergeant Billison entered, followed by the secretary, who almost immediately withdrew.

"Well, sergeant," said Mr. Ryder cordially, "what have you to tell me? I can give you only a few minutes. I expect a lady friend of yours."

The policeman looked condescendingly at the popular with his subordinates. "A lady friend of mine, sir?" echoed the man, puzzled.

"Yes—Miss Shirley Gresson, the author, I suppose, of the paragraph in the detective's embarrassment. "That is—I mean, I hope she will come in all right. She's coming here today."

"I'm glad you've found her, sir."

"It was a tough job," answered Ryder, with a grimace. "We were on the wrong track altogether. I was satisfied with the wording of the invitation. I thought I knew exactly what to expect her at 3 o'clock. Now, what about that bonnesse girl? Did you go to Massapequa?"

"Yes, sir, I have been there half a dozen times. I have the best news from there. Judge Rossmore is there now, and his daughter has left for parts unknown."

"Gone away? Where?" exclaimed the Ryder senior.

"This was what he dreaded. As long as he had Jefferson under his eye he did there was little danger of Jefferson making a fool of himself; with her disappearance he was helpless.

"I could not find out, sir. They seemed to know nothing about them. They say they're bought and stock up. The only one I could get anything out of was a colored woman called Dicette. He said it was a sad case, and they had interviews and a daughter who was in Paris"—

"Yes, yes," said Ryder impatiently, "we know all that. But where is the daughter now?"

"Well, sir, I'm coming to that. I even tried to pump the silver. Gee, what a vixen! She almost flew at me. She said she knew I was a detective."

Ryder brought his fist down with a bang on his desk, so that he had to be wished to emphasize a point.

"Sergeant, I want to know the mystery, one disappearance of that girl. You must find her, do you hear? You must find her if it takes all the detectives in the country. Had my son been seen there?"

"The person said he saw a young fellow answering his description sitting in the porch of the Rossmore cottage the evening before the girl disappeared, but she didn't know who he was and hasn't seen him since."

"That was my son, I'll wager. He knows where the girl is. Perhaps he's with her now. Maybe he's going to marry her. That must be prevented at any cost. Sergeant, find that Rossmore girl and I'll give you $1,000."

The detective's face brightened with pleasure at the prospect of so liberal reward. He rose to go.

"I'll find her, sir. I'll find her."

Mr. Ryder entered, wearing the self-con. Important air he always affected. To be continued.

Big Demonstration at Fenelon Falls

A Splendid Celebration of the Great Anniversary

The 218th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne was royally celebrated in Fenelon Falls on Sunday the 12th and Monday the 13th inst.

On Sunday evening the local lodges of Orangemen and True Blues attended the Baptist church, where an excellent and appropriate sermon was preached by Rev. A. Cooke.

On Monday a special train arrived from the north about 9.30 a. m., bringing lodges from the different points, accompanied by numbers of people who wished to celebrate the day in town. The Woodville brass band, which contributed greatly to the success of the celebration, arrived at the Falls about 9 a. m.

Headed by the band, the local Orange and True Blue Lodges met the trains and boats coming in during the early part of the day. The steamers Esturion and Kathleen each brought a goodly number from Bobcaygeon and Lindsay respectively. Quite a number drove in from the surrounding country, and all day long the town presented a bright and lively appearance.

Besides a fine arch of evergreens, many appropriate and beautiful mottoes and flags were suspended across Colborne-st., giving the necessary decoration with decidedly pleasing effect.

About 10.30 a. m., the lodges, headed by the band, marched up Colborne-st., and returning, disbanded for dinner. At 1.30 p. m. the brethren assembled on the grounds of the Light, Heat & Power Company's green to organize for the grand march. The procession was headed by Mr. T. Johnston and Mr. Wm. Beatty, mounted marshals, followed by the Woodville brass band. In a carriage following were the speakers, after which the lodges, in order of seniority took their places, with banners floating to the breeze. There were some very fine looking lodges, and taken as a whole, the turnout was highly creditable to the order, both in appearance and every other respect. The following lodges were present; Minden, Gelert, Haliburton Silver Lake, Bobcaygeon, Head Lake Cambray, Kinmount, Glenarm Burnt River, North Verulam, and others. Accompanying the Glenarm lodge the bagpipes were a decided novelty, and were a great attraction. The procession marched to Mr. E. Fitzgerald's grove by way of Colborne and Bond-sts., where speeches were delivered by the following gentlemen; Mr. J. H. Carnegie, M. P. P., Rev. Mr. Barker, of Bobcaygeon, Rev. C. S. Lord Rev. A. Cooke, and Rev. W. J. Mc Cragg, of Fenelon Falls. Col. Sam. Hughes, whose name appeared on the programme, was unavoidably absent, and Rev. W. H. A. French, who was to have been present, was called away on Monday morning to attend the funeral of a relative.

Mr. Manning, district master, of Cambray, lodge, was chairman and gave a very good address, after which Rev. C. S. Lord addressed the assemblage. He had not before had the privilege of addressing the Orange order, and felt that it was indeed a privilege. He said that the fraternal feeling was a noble sentiment. All were brothers to one another. True Protestantism and true Orangeism were to be friends to all mankind. It is our privilege to hate and our privilege to denounce, but it is institutions we hate, not men. He spoke of the school question and ventured to say that at the present rate, Quebec showing at the last census an increase of 40,000 children of school age and Ontario a decrease of 30,000 that in fifty years from now Canada would be a Roman Catholic country.

During Mr. Lord's speech an accident occurred. The platform at the back collapsed and those who were seated there got rather a severe fall, though fortunately no one was hurt. When order was restored the Rev. gentleman rose to the occasion and said that an explosion of that kind was only to be expected when all the big guns were at the back of the platform.

A selection by Woodville brass band was then rendered.

Mr. J. H. Carnegie, M. P. P., gave an excellent address, which was highly appreciated. He congratulated the brethren on the large number present and said it might be called a family gathering, owing to the presence of the numbers of ladies and children. He said in reply to Rev. Mr. Lord that as there were four clergymen on the platform and only one politician, that was probably the cause of the explosion.

Referring to the Orange order, he said it had already existed for nearly two centuries. It was first instituted to guard Prince William of Orange from assination and the nobles of the land and members of parliament were among the members of the association, as it was then called. He said that probably no other name in history had made such a lasting impression on the sands of time as that of William of Orange.

Rev. Mr. Barker, of Bobcaygeon, said he, as an Orangeman, believed in liberty of conscience. Every man had a perfect right to believe what his conscience taught him and to be either a Protestant or a Roman Catholic, if he believes them to be the true religion; but he was opposed to political power in religion. The true faith is bound to stand and for it he would choose defence and not defiance.

Another selection by the Woodville band was very much appreciated.

Rev. Mr. Cragg believed that Orangeism is connected essentially with Protestantism. He urged his hearers to stand for all that makes for the best and highest life of citizenship. This country of ours is just in the making. Very soon it will be beyond our making. In the history of other lands we have a chance to avoid making the mistakes that others have made.

Rev. A. Cooke, of the Baptist church, gave an interesting address. He had spoken to the Orangemen as a body on Sunday evening. He was a Protestant but not an Orangeman; but said that the church to which he belonged had been persecuted by almost every body of religious men. He believed that though the census returns showed the figures referred to that a change is taking place. The change is taking place not in the church, but in the people. With truth, education and freedom Protestantism must increase. When the light of education breaks on any country error is doomed to destruction and defeat.

The Twelfth at Peterboro

Lindsay District Joins in Monster Demonstration in that City

The twelfth was celebrated with great eclat at the city of Peterboro there being fully six or seven thousand Orangemen in line, while the streets were filled to overflowing. It was probably the greatest demonstration ever seen in this part of the country.

At an early hour the Lindsay members were astir and the fife and drum of the country lodges filled the air to various lively strains. The local lodges met at seven o'clock, and by eight, all the business of the lodge having been transacted, the district lined up and, headed by the Sylvester band, started for the station, marshalled by the district master, W. Bro. William Warren. The order of the march of the Lindsay district throughout the day was;

Marshal—W. Bro. Wm. Warren, District Master.

Sylvester Band.

Hackett Loyal True Blues, No. 38, Wm. Bell, W. Master.

L. O. L. No. 557, Lindsay, Geo. Jordan, W. Master.

L. O. L. Valentia, Wm. Stokes W. Master.

Lindsay Prentice Boys, James Hepburn, W. Master.

The district returned about half-past six and presented an excellent appearance as they marched from the station to the lodge room, the martial step to the enlivening strains of the party tunes giving zest to the occasion.

Twelfth of July in Lindsay

L.O.L. 557, True Blues and Prentice Boys Attend Divine Service at Baptist Church

Last Sunday being the Twelfth of July and the 218th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne in Ireland when the Prince of Orange vanquished the army of James II, L. O. L. No. 557, the True Blues and Prentice Boys, attended divine service at the Baptist church.

Marshalled by the District Master, Bro. William Warren, the procession which was one highly creditable to the members and to the order emerged from the lodge room in the Adams block, at 10.45 and proceeded in the centre of the street for the place of worship, where they entirely filled the centre seats.

Rev. G. R. Welch, the pastor of the church, extended to the visitors a most cordial welcome to church and said he purposed preaching a sermon which would be applicable to the principles of the order—loyalty to the altar and to the throne, or civil and religious liberty to all men. He directed their attention to the fifth chapter of Galatians at the first verse.

The speaker said it was peculiarly appropriate that the members of the Orange order should worship in the Baptist church, since the principles for which each stood were similar, viz., civil and religious liberty. These were cardinal principles in the Baptist church as they were in the Orange order. Centuries before the Orange order had been formed and had secured it the Baptists had fought for it and struggled for it, and had shed their blood for it. It had been said, indeed, that the only system of religion that could contend successfully against Romanism was that of the Baptist church. This had been written by some of our greatest authors. He did not say this for the purpose of magnifying in their eyes the Baptist church, but simply to show that it was in full sympathy with the principles of Orangeism and fighting the same battle.

It was their intention that morning to celebrate the attainment of civil and religious liberty. It was the right of every man to be free. Our sympathy goes out to unhappy Russia at this time and our earnest hope is that they may soon attain the right of liberty that we have been enjoying for so many years. It was an injustice whenever a church came to say to us that we have no right to exercise freedom of thought and of religious action. We have only to look to-day at Spain, South America, and our own province of Quebec to see instances of it.

He counselled the members to keep the organization aloof from partyism of any kind in order that it may be better fitted to carry on the work which it had set itself to do. Rome was a constant enemy. It never slept, but in all succeeding ages it kept on working out the same insidious policies. Jesuitism is the same to-day as it ever was, and continuous efforts were being put forth to subvert the Protestant faith. He was not among those who believed that Orangeism had outlived its usefulness. There was much for it to do, and hoped God would bless them in it and enable them to live their lives in accordance with its principles.

On their return to the lodge room, very hearty votes of thanks were passed to the Rev. Mr. Welch for his able discourse, and to the trustees of the church, after which short addresses were delivered by several of the brethren.

WEDDING BELLS

LOW—WOOD

A quiet wedding of much interest to numerous friends of the contracting parties in Lindsay and Uxbridge was celebrated here on Tuesday morning, when Mr. James Low, manager of the Victoria Loan & Savings Co., was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Ethel May, second daughter of Dr. J. W. Wood. The wedding took place at the residence of the bride's father on Bond-st., and was performed by the Rev. Hedley V. Mounteer of Cannington, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the family.

Immediately after the wedding the happy couple left on the C. P. R. train for a trip through Manitoba and the Northwestern provinces.

The bride was dressed in her going-away costume of champagne colored raw silk and brown walking hat, carrying a shower bouquet of white roses, the gift of the groom.

A number of beautiful and valuable wedding presents were received from different parts of the country.

Paid Eleven Cents for a Lucifer

How a Man Was Induced to Contribute to Salvation Army

An amusing incident took place in connection with the Salvation Army open air service at Peterboro Thursday night which caused a ripple of laughter to travel through the ranks of the Army members as well as the spectators. A large crowd had gathered around when the collection was being taken up, one of the lady collectors found that she had $1.01 while the other had but 35 cents. An appeal was made to the crowd and the second collection succeeded in bringing her total up to $1.35, whereupon the first asked the spectators to bring her amount to the same total. Finally she needed but 11 cents and a man who had been hunting through the crowd for a match, offered to give the amount if the lady would give him a light for his cigar. She was non-plussed for a moment, but a gentleman, one of a trio of American visitors to the city, came to her rescue and offered the match on condition that the light seeker would hand over the 11 cents to the Army. He was provided with a match and proved himself to be a man of his word by transferring the necessary amount to the collector.

—A well known citizen in the person of Mr. Pat White, was removed to the Ross Hospital on Thursday threatened with typhoid fever. At first it was thought he would be seriously ill, but when brought to town and examined by the doctors, the fever was found to be in its first stage, and as a safeguard against anything serious resulting from it, he was at once transferred to the hospital.

KING OPENS GAMES

Brilliant Gathering Marks Beginning of Olympic Contests.

HOW THE CANADIANS FARED

Athletes From All Over the World March Past Royal Box—Rainy Weather Almost Causes Alteration of Program — Makeshift Shelters Are Erected — Tait of Toronto Wins His Heat Easily.

London, July 14.—When the City of London awoke yesterday morning it seemed as though the English climate, which was so kind to the sports held earlier in the year, was trying to show the 2,000 athletes assembled here for the Olympic games how disagreeable it could be. The past fortnight of unsettled weather, which has been a terror to the visitors who have been trying to get in the best form for the great physical exertions to make during the next two weeks, was followed yesterday morning by a downpour of rain which threatened to postpone the opening of the Stadium at Shepherd's Bush. Temporary shelters, however, were quickly erected to minimize the effect of the storm, and the inauguration of the Olympic games was carried out according to program.

Shortly after 3 p.m. the royal box commenced to fill up, the early arrivals including the Crown Prince and the Crown Princess of Sweden and their children, the Crown Prince and the Crown Princess of Greece, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, and the Duke and Duchess of Argyle. Soon afterwards the playing of the National Anthem by a band of the Grenadier Guards announced the arrival of King Edward, Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria, with their suites, who had been driven in state from Buckingham Palace.

Anglo-Saxons Last In Procession.

As the King entered the royal box a bugler gave a signal, the gates leading to the competitors' quarters flew open, and the athletes marched out under the banners of their respective nations. The procession was formed in apple pie order, Australia leading, with the exception that the English-speaking races came last. This latter section was led by the United States team, the British colonies being directly behind the Americans, and at the end the United Kingdom as hosts.

As the procession came into the Stadium each country received applause, that for America and the colonies being particularly enthusiastic, as the audience which braved the elements to witness the opening of the great games included large contingents from across the seas.

As the day advanced the downpour gave way to a drizzle, which, however, soon passed over, and as the time approached for the opening the sun came out occasionally, and with the assistance of a light breeze, brightened up the Stadium decorations.

Cheered the King.

The athletes, including the single representative from Turkey, having taken up positions facing the royal box, the Americans in the centre, flanked by the Canadians and the Englishmen, Lord Desborough marched up with members of the executive committee and said:

"Will Your Majesty graciously declare the Olympic games opened?"

In reply the King said:

"I declare the Olympic games of London open."

At the completion of this ceremony cheering broke out from all parts of the Stadium. After the demonstration had died down the athletes gave three cheers for His Majesty and then marched past the royal box.

The men made a splendid appearance, though unfortunately the weather prevented all of the competitors from coming out in the athletic costumes.

At the last moment a change was made in the order of events. The first and second heats of the 1,500 metres (1,639.5 yards) run were placed first, and both J. D. Lightbody of the Chicago Athletic Association and J. P. Sullivan of the Irish-American Athletic Club were drawn in the first, and Melvin W. Sheppard of the Irish-American Athletic Club and J. P. Halstead of the New York A. C., in the second heats respectively, and in fact there will be two Americans in most of the eight heats of this event, to be run.

Montreal, July 14.—Dr. Jas. Bell of Montreal, formerly of Ottawa, rushing to the bedside of a sick child in order to save her life, made a record run between Montreal and Ottawa.

As there was no train within several hours, the doctor hired a special and within 15 minutes was pulling out of the C.P.R. station in a car attached to one of the company's best locomotives and with one of their best engineers at the throttle.

BEATEN BY A TRAMP

Mount Forest Woman Is Brutally Assaulted and Clubbed.

HIRED MAN IS ALSO BEATEN

Mrs. Henry Harper Goes to the Stable and Finds Man Who Knocks Her Down and Chases Her With a Club—Her Condition Is Serious—Hired Man Also Clubbed—Culprit's "Pal" Arrested.

Mount Forest, July 14.—Yesterday morning about 8 o'clock Mrs. Henry Harper, living on a farm two miles from here, hearing a noise in the stables close by the house, went out to investigate, and on entering the stable was assaulted and most brutally beaten over the head and body by an unknown tramp, who apparently had been sleeping in the stable.

Mrs. Harper turned and ran towards the house, closely followed by the tramp, who dealt her several blows with a club he picked up and knocked her down three times.

Mrs. Harper's screaming drew the attention of her daughter, who was in the field, but as soon as the tramp saw her coming he quickly took to the woods. Mrs. Harper's daughter notified the hired man, who was also working in the field, and the hired man at once followed the tramp into the woods and found him hid in a pile of brush.

A desperate fight followed, the tramp giving the hired man a fearful beating and then going away.

Search parties were immediately sent out by the farmers round about, and a tramp was caught. He is a man who has been looking for work in the vicinity during the past few days. The police are holding him because he is thought to have been with the man who made the assault.

Mrs. Harper is in a serious condition.

No More Opium.

Ottawa, July 14.—The bill prohibiting the importation, manufacture and sale of opium in Canada for other than medicinal purposes was given a third reading without discussion.

Six Persons Injured.

Louisville, Ky., July 14.—Six persons, five of them well-known society people of Louisville, were seriously injured in an automobile accident early yesterday at Smithville.

The party started across a bridge over Salt river, not knowing that a portion of the structure was recently blown away by a storm. The automobile dashed 25 feet into the river, turning completely over.

In some miraculous manner one end of the car rested on an obstruction, thus preventing the party from being drowned.

The Gates Ajar Broke His Nose

Dick Holman Sustains Serious Injury at Stony Lake

Stony Lake, July 20.—In assisting the lockmaster at Young Point on Saturday evening to lock through Mr. A. L. Davis' launch, the "Nancy" Mr. "Dick" Holman was badly injured, in the fact by the sudden fling back of the lever that opens and closes the valves of the gate. Mr. Holman is engineer on the "Nancy" which was on a voyage up the lake.

His face was severely cut by the force of the iron lever, his nose being broken as well as the rest of his face being disfigured. The launch turned on her journey and hurried the injured man back to Lakefield where he was attended to by Dr. Brown. The wounds dressed he again came back to the lake and it is understood is getting along well merely suffering slight pains and bearing the inconvenience of having his face in bandages.

Funny Accident No Broken Bones

How Two Bikers Tried to Pass on the Same Track and Failed

A peculiar accident took place Monday afternoon on the Lindsay-st. bridge. Mr. Jesse Perrin was coming over the bridge on his wheel from the east ward and Mr. Jos. McConnell was coming down the big hill on his machine, and both tried to pass a rig on the same side. The space was too narrow, however, to allow this and the result was that a collision occurred. Both gentlemen were thrown off and sent sprawling in the dust. They took the tumble good naturedly and brushed the dirt off with a laugh.

Interesting Features of Tercentenary Stamp

Scenes Depicted on the New Issue and Phrases Employed

There are some interesting features in connection with the Tercentenary issue of Canadian stamps which may not be generally known. For instance one of them—the fifteen cent stamp—depicts Champlain's departure for the West. It is entitled "Partement pour l'Ouest," and the use of the now obsolete French word "partement" is significant. The scene has been designed from Champlain's own words. In his account of the third voyage he says; "With our canoes laden with provisions, our arms, and some merchandise to be given as presents for the Indians, I started on Monday, May 28th, from the Ile of Sainte Helaine, accompanied by four Frenchmen and one Indian. A salute was given in my honor from some small pieces of artillery."

The same note of old French is also to be found in the inscription on the five cent stamp, entitled l'Habitation de Quebecq." This is Champlain's old house, the first house built by Frenchmen in Canada, and the cut has been made from his own drawing in his own book. All the portraits and scenes depicted on these stamps were personally chosen by the Postmaster-General, the Hon. Rudolphe Lemieux, who has received congratulations from all quarters on the artistic taste displayed.

Steamboat Traffic Is Not Good

On the Otonabee River this Year—Business Not Up to the Mark

The Peterboro Review says;—It is stated that steamboat traffic on the Otonabee has not up to the present time been equal to that for the same period last year. This statement is made by one who is in a position to know whereof he speaks. Just what is the cause of the slight slump is not clear and there is a probability that the traffic will pick up sufficiently during the remainder of the season to make the year as good as last year, but this of course, remains to be seen.

While the steamboat traffic is less the number of small craft on the river is larger this year than ever before. This is especially true of gasoline launches, which are very numerous this season.

Hired a Horse to Elope with

A Northumberland Man Who Forgot to Return the Animal

The Cobourg Sentinel-Star says; "Before Judge Ketchum on Wednesday Frank Hickerson, of Wooller, was acquitted on a charge of the theft of a horse and rig. It appears that Hickerson had engaged the horse and rig to go and vote. This happened some time ago. But he had other business in view besides voting and after performing that duty he eloped with a married woman, taking along her two children, and also neglected to return the horse and rig, hence the action for theft. The woman in this interesting case has returned to her husband.

Prize for Name of New Steamer

The Northern Navigation Grand Trunk route announce the launching of a new ship this year, and have offered a prize for a name. She will run between Port Arthur, Sarnia, Fort William and Duluth. It is intended that this steamer will be the largest and finest steamer in the Lake Superior trade and her interior decoration will be the most elaborate and complete.

The following are the conditions to be observed in this contest;—

"Name to consist of one word of not more than ten letters."

"It must end in the line's characteristic termination of 'Ic'."

"It is desired that the name selected have some bearing on the history or geography of the territory she will serve."

"Contestants must give their name and address clearly in sending in their suggestions."

"The decision will be made by an impartial committee appointed for the purpose from whom the names of contestants will be withheld."

The contest will be closed on July 31st and the decision announced by August 10th and a prize to the successful competitor will be given of two round trip tickets including meals and berth from Collingwood or Sarnia to Duluth, available any time during this season, or for a trip next year on the new steamer itself.

Had Hard Luck in Peterboro

Two Girls Lost Horse through Death and had Unpleasant Experience

On Sunday morning five young ladies of this town stole quietly out of town about half past five bound for Peterboro. They jogged along at a good pace for a while and then noticed that their steed was becoming tired. About half past twelve they arrived at the electric city but their horse was very ill. A doctor was called but the horse was passed recovery and he soon died. The girls were now up against it, but they had their horse buried and then looked around for another to bring them home.

They managed to secure another horse and yesterday afternoon after bidding good-bye to their friends they started for home. They arrived at a local livery stable about seven o'clock p. m.

Ready for the Dollar

Marjorie, aged nine had not been having very satisfactory results from school. Her father finally said, "Marjorie, for the first hundred you get I'll give you a dollar." Time went on and the reward could not be claimed. One day the child was taken violently ill. Her mother sent for the doctor. When he had gone, Marjorie said, "Mama am I very ill?"

"No, dear; your temperature is a little over a hundred, but the doctor thinks you will be all right in a day or so."

Smiles broke through Marjorie's tears.

"Now, mama I can have my dollar. Papa said he would give it to me I could get a hundred in anything." — The August Delineator.

The Big Ball Game at Manilla

Wherein Manilla Showed Valentia how it Should be Done

The Mariposa league has certainly given baseball a big boost in that township, for everybody from "the cradle to the tomb" plays and talks baseball.

The climax was reached however, on Saturday 18th, at Manilla, when Manilla and Valentia nines met in the second and last of the league finals. The Manilla "Sweet Caporals" had won the first game of the finals at Valentia the previous Saturday, and "Suggi's Sluggers" came prepared to win out if possible, but the fates were agin 'em.

It was a fast and clean game from start to finish, and no one once disputed the decisions of umpire Dick Butler, of Lindsay, whose work was beyond criticism. And when after an hour and ten minutes keen play the contest was ended Manilla stood winners of the silver ware and champions of Mariposa, by the close score of 5-2. The five hundred spectators were satisfied that they had witnessed the game of their lives and a number who had travelled nearly twenty miles to see the game were well repaid for their trouble.

Score by innings;

Valentia	000010010	— 2
Manilla	01000013x	— 5

The Valentia boys are a good bunch both on the field and off.

The Manilla young ladies entertained both teams, the officials of the league, and the visitors from Valentia to tea which was served on D. McPhail's lawn.

Although the game was timed to start at 3.30, it was away after 4 p.m. when the umpire arrived. They say he consulted the Watchman-Warder's map to locate Manilla and thus got a concession too far north and had to retrace his steps.

The crowd was excited, the players were excited and the rooting was heard two miles away, but it was all good natured rivalry, not wrangling. The players and the band all showed themselves to be good sportsmen.

The medical men and the clergy of the township were all there and all seemed happy.

Lindsayites at Fenelon Falls

A Pleasant Party of Fifty Make an Enjoyable Trip

(Special to The Post.)

A merry party of Lindsayites to the number of about fifty, arrived at the hotel Kawartha on Wednesday evening per steamer Kathleen. They spent several hours at that popular summer hotel, tripping the light fantastic till about midnight, when they left for home. They brought with them their own music, Mrs. Jackson presiding at the piano. This enjoyable function, which was singularly well managed, passed off very pleasantly, all appearing to enjoy the dance very much. In this connection Mr. Arthur Simpson deserves a large measure of credit. In conclusion it may be said that the hotel considers it a pleasure to handle this sort of business.

Mr. J. H. Lytle, of Lindsay, was at the Falls on Wednesday.

Miss Leta Train, of Kinmount, spent a few days with her friends, Miss Maggie Wilson, last week, returning to her home on Tuesday of this week.

Mrs. R. J. Moore and children were in town on Wednesday, on their way to Coboconk.

Mr. Jack Austin, of the Central Business College, is at home for the summer vacation.

Master B. Hamilton came home on Thursday from Lakefield, where he has been attending school.

Arrivals at the Hotel Kawartha for the past week were; R. Northcote, E. Northcote, Toronto; L. E. Sylvester, Lindsay; R. E. Mason and wife, Toronto; C. H. Moore, Cobalt, C. B. C. Bell, E. P. Tenders were received for the completion of the open part of the Dunn drain and the contract was let to Mr. David Harcus at $5.00 (per rod.

Mr. Graham and Mr. Hardy were present in regard to the Hardy drain, and Mr. Washington was appointed inspector to see that the work is completed at once.

The Reeve and Clerk were authorized to execute a lease for a gravel pit with Mr. John McKay, being a part of the north half of lot No. 16 in the 13th concession of the township of Mariposa, one quarter of an acre for $125.

Mr. David Tate was appointed pound keeper in the village of Oakwood, instead of Mr. George Coad, who did not care to act.

The Reeve was authorized to purchase a steel beam bridge from the Hamilton Bridge Co., to be placed over the creek at lot 11, con. 6.

A grant of $25 was given to assist in building cement walks at Cresswell.

The clerk was instructed to notify James Russel to see that all obstructions were removed from the Hancock drain.

The Reeve was authorized to meet those persons interested in the expenses of the Brooks drain.

A large number of accounts were ordered to be paid, including some $800 for stone crushing, $300 for grading and repairs, about $300 for gravelling and repairing bridges, some $250 for drainage purposes, including $179 for the Dunn drain, $163 for gravel including $125 to Mr. John A. McKay, for a gravel pit at lot 16, con. 13, after which the Council adjourned till the second Monday in August.

Therefore, it will be to the interest of the contestants to get their votes n at once. This will add interest to the contest and cause more energy and enthusiasm to be put forth by the contestants, n wll no doubt produce many surprises. All will have an equal opportunity in this feature of the Contest, the principal advantage will be to those who get the greatest number of votes in before 9 o'clock on Wednesday evening. July 29th. LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JULY 24th.

LINDSAY FROM A BUSINESS POINT OF VIEW

The Post has several times of late had occasion to refer to the various excellences of Lindsay as a town. We have referred to our splendid railway facilities, our beautiful water stretches, and well trained band, and, as the auctioneers say, other things too numerous to mention. There is one point, however, which cannot be dwelt upon too strongly, and that is our unequalled mercantile establishments, and the great advantages which our citizens and residents of the surrounding country enjoy.

A wide knowledge of not only this country, but of the republic to the south of us, enables us to make comparisons which are far from unfavorable to Lindsay. We have larger dry goods stores, groceries, clothing stores, jewelry establishments, shoe shops and other lines of trade than can be seen in any other town of its size, and purchasers are afforded a wider choice of goods in consequence of this than can be obtained elsewhere than in the larger cities. Even in these large centres of population no better selections are obtainable, for a moment's reflection will assure anyone that though city shops may be large they are so by reason of the fact that they include many different branches of trade under one roof, and not because they have larger stocks of any one line of goods.

It can readily be seen, therefore, that a Lindsay merchant buys just as largely each in his line as does the city dealer, and he is therefore enabled to go into the same markets and can buy just as cheaply as others. Not only can he do so, but it is a well known fact that he does. Indeed, representatives of Lindsay trade annually go to the European markets and buy their goods personally where they can obtain them direct from manufacturers and where they are enabled to make better selections of styles and values than are done by the merchants of other towns.

The direct effect of this, of course, is that the people of Victoria county are afforded an opportunity to purchase their commodities, taking the quality of goods into consideration, just as cheaply and in many cases cheaper than they could get them in the cities.

Our merchants are alert, up-to-date and business-like and it is not to be wondered at that, for its population, Lindsay is everywhere looked upon as one of the business towns in the province of Ontario.

THE LATE OBSTRUCTION

Three months ago the Opposition in the House of Commons gloried in obstructing the business of the country. To-day they try to deny that they were ever guilty of such a wicked thing. But it is in the altered behavior of to-day that we have the best proof of their intention in the earlier months of the season.

The session can be divided into three easily distinguishable periods. The first is the obstruction and slander period, from November 28 to May 31, when the Opposition was lavish with insinuations of graft and corruption, followed by dramatic assertions that there should be no supplies until grievances were redressed," backed up with spectacular all-night sittings. The second was the provincial election period, from June 1 to June 10, during which affairs came to a crisis and the Opposition began to realize that, in keeping public servants without pay and contractors without work, they were likely to become very unpopular. The third is the business period from June 11 to the present. The second was a transition period, during which the Opposition was undergoing the change of heart. The true comparison is, therefore, between the period up to May 31 and that after June 10.

In the former period $15,000,000 of the main estimates were voted and passed, $7,000000 voted but not passed. In the latter $31,000,000 of the main estimates were passed and $26,000,000 voted but not passed. In the former period of five months the motion to go into supply was obstructed three times by Liberals, who had reports to make or important projects to discuss, and thirty-five times by Conservatives; and on only four occasions did the House go into committee of supply forthwith. In the latter period of four weeks the House went into supply forthwith nine times, and on only three occasions was a motion to go into supply obstructed or delayed.

From November 28 to May 31 the House of Commons passed only one measure of first class importance, namely, the French treaty. Since June 10 the House has passed three bills of first class importance, namely the Civil Service, the Railway and the Bank bills.

The House of oCmmons has done at least three times as much work in the last four weeks as it did in the first five months of the session.

The Opposition kept the House two weeks over the vote of $900,000 for ocean and river service; and they harassed the Minister of Public works over estimates of less than double that amount, for about six weeks. They began the session with an organized campaign to bring discredit on the Liberal ministry. The first move was to demand free access to the various departments of government, so that they might overhaul the records of public business. Failing in this, they next claimed the right to have brought before the House, to become part of its record, the records of the department. The government met the demand willingly by offering to produce before the House or any of its committees, any records, or documents which any member of the Opposition might state he had some good reason for wishing to see. On these terms several hundred files were brought down and examined in the House and before the Public Accounts Committee. Meantime, they were piling up charges of fraud, and corruption, which the papers, as they were brought down, and the investigations as they were proceeded with, failed to justify. Mr. Foster drew special attention to the expenses of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries to the Colonial Conference. The expenses for this trip to England had not been voted when Sir Wilfrid Laurier and he went away; and Mr. Brodeur, as he was going to Europe to see about an ice-breaker, took his expenses out of the icebreaker vote, returning the money when he received his Colonial Conference appropriation. Mr. Foster said Mr. Brodeur had "stolen" the money from the ice-breaker vote, and the House was kept sitting continuously from Thursday to Saturday night. Then it was shown that Mr. Foster, when a minister had taken travelling expenses from a vote for commercial agencies, and as travelling expenses was not the purpose of the vote, the Liberals of that day had asked for an explanation. Mr. Foster replied that he knew travelling expenses were not the purpose of the appropriation; but it did not matter, as the country had to pay anyway. On this being brought to his attention, Mr. Foster withdrew the word "stolen" and the farce came to an end. Opposition to the ocean and river vote was withdrawn, and after two months of needless delay it finally passed.

Councillor Spence reported on the A. C. Graham trouble. He drew a plan of the ground which showed that the water collects off lot 16 and 17 Eldon, Con. 11, part of which crosses the road into A. C. Graham's property in Fenelon and part remaining on lots 16 and 17. All this property is very flat with very little fall any way. Spence thought that it would not benefit Graham any to put a culvert in at the end of the Fenelon Road as the water would still lie in the flat on both sides of the road, and he recommended that the Council take no action.

Moved by Mr. McQuarrie, seconded by Mr. Robinson that this council accept the report of Coun. Spence on the A. C. Graham complaint and take no action in the matter, Carried.

Communications were read as follows from the following:

After discussing the matter of the closing up of the ditch opposite the premises of Joseph R. Councillor Courtney reported that he had arranged to lease a gravel pit from Margaret and Mary Lucas for a term of fifty years, the consideration being fifty dollars.

Moved by Councillor William Herlihey, seconded by Councillor Robt. Wilson, that the reeve and treasurer be authorized to borrow from the Bank of Toronto, or other monetary institution, such sums of money, from time to time as may be required to meet the current expenditure of this municipality, at the rate of six per cent. per annum, the whole outstanding amount, however, at any time, not to exceed the sum of two thousand dollars, and that the clerk do now prepare the necessary by-law for this purpose.—Carried.

OPS COUNCIL

The members of the Ops council met on Saturday, July 18th, in the afternoon, and formed themselves into a Court of Revision, with Wm. H. Wilson in the chair.

There were only two appeals against assessment, namely, Israel Goodhand owner of part of lot 1, con. 1—57 acres. His land was assessed $2,100 but he contended that he had no road and was obliged to spend a lot of his time in winter shoveling snow.

After duly considering the matter the court reduced his assessment $100.

Mr. James Long, owner of lot 24, and North half of lot 23, in the 3rd concession, was assessed $7,500 which he considered too high in comparison with his neighbor's assessment.

After comparing the assessment of his vicinity, with Mr. Long's assessment was, on motion, confirmed.

Pine Grove cheese factory being now in operation was assessed $100.

Fifty-six names, mostly of the Manhood franchise class, were next added to the roll.

Several transfers in assessment of property recently sold were then made by the court, after which it closed, on motion of Messrs. Hawkins and Coulter.

ORDINARY TOWNSHIP BUSINESS

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Mr. Wilson moved, seconded by Mr. O'Loughlin, that the assessment roll as now revised be confirmed, and that the assessor be paid the balance of his salary, $22.00—Carried.

Mr. Jas. Peel, lawyer, said that he and his neighbors were building 450 feet of three foot cement walk near his place, and as they were tax payers of Ops and no other being made from the council he thought the council should aid them to the extent of $50.

Moved by Mr. Hawkins, seconded by Mr. Hopkins, that the matter be left in the hands on Commissioner O'Lough'in. Carried.

John Coughlin, John Copeland, and Foster Thompson of Mariposa, addressed the council on the bad condition of the 4th quarter line across the 1st concession and said several rigs had been broken there already and that it was impossible to draw a load over it. Being on the direct road from Mariposa to Lindsay, it should be put in better condition as serious accidents to horses or vehicles were likely to occur at any time on it.

Commissioner O'Loughlin said all his appropriation had been expended and unless the council made an additional grant he could do nothing. After duly considering the matter it was decided to expend $25 at present to fill the ruts with small stone and fill the most dangerous places and make additional expenditure on it next year.

Mr. Geo. Smith, township engineer was present and laid before the council a map or plan of the Stoney Creek drainage system which embraces a large portion of South-east Ops.

Moved by Mr. Wilson, seconded by Mr. Hawkins, that the following accounts now passed be paid;

Miss M. R. Baker, typewriting and drain, $5.00; Geo. Majahay, serving papers, H. drain, $2.00; John Lynch balance on bridge and tile, $5.96; Wm. H. Wilson, refund Robt. McGinnis for gravel, $4.70; J. H. Wilson, for 98 loads gravel, $9.80; Ralph Edgerson, refund for gravel $.150; Jas. Houghton, for gravel, $2.10; Hugh Patton, for gravel, $4.50; John Brown, refund statute labor tax $2.00.

Meeting closed at 6.30 p.m.

Mrs. Sanderson, has as all her friends know been gradually failing in health for the past two years. But she was able to walk up to see her daughter, Mrs. A. E. The funeral took place to Lake View cemetery, on Saturday afternoon, July 18th. The service was conducted at her daughter's home and at the cemetery, by Rev. H. H. Turner.

She leaves four daughters and five sons, to mourn her loss, Mrs. O'Neill, of Lamar, Colorado; Mrs. Humason, New York city; Mrs. McKinley, of Sault Ste. Marie; Mrs. Smith and Mr. Hugh Sanderson, of Kirkfield, Mr. Thos. Sanderson, of Pellston, Mich.; Wm. Sanderson, Anaway, Mich.; Mr. James Sanderson and Mr. Robt. Sanderson, of British Columbia.

Mrs. Sanderson was a woman who was loved for her kindness and acts of charity, and will be greatly missed by all her old friends, as she was one of the oldest residents of Kirkfield. She was born in County Derry, Ireland, and died at the age of seventy-five.

Among those who attended the funeral from a distance were, Mrs. O'Neill Mrs. Humason, Mr. Thos. Sanderson Miss Lilah Sanderson, of Colorado a granddaughter, Mr. Wilson Smith of Peterboro, a grandson, Mrs. Leask and Mrs. Ganten, of Greenbank, cousins of the deceased.

Peterboro Lady Fell Into Well

Mrs. Wm. Thompson Drops through Thin Covering and has an Exciting Experience

Mrs. Wm. Thompson, of Peterboro had an experience last Saturday which she will not soon forget. She had taken some butter from a woman at the door and had gone out to the shed to put it in the refrigerator. On the way back to the kitchen happening to see a bunch of shavings in the corner of the shed she reached for them, intending to use them in lighting the fire. It appears that at the point where the shavings were lying there was an abandoned well which had been partly filled in when the house was built. The workmen however, thinking that it would take to much earth to completely fill the well—which is about 30 feet deep—had laid three logs lengthwise across the hole at about six feet from the top, and after covering these with brush had filled in the remaining space with earth thus making a seemingly sound piece of ground.

When Mrs. Thompson reached for the shavings, however, the ground gave way and she dropped out of sight. Her feet went down in between two of the logs and for some time there was great danger of her dropping the entire thirty feet. If she had done so she would have lost her life as the sides of the well were caving inwards and would soon have smothered her. Luckily the two logs were close enough together to catch her about the waist and prevent her from going further. As she felt the earth giving way she screamed several times. Her cries were heard by Miss Steele, a trained nurse who is staying at the house and who happened to be passing through the kitchen at the time and she hastened to her assistance. Realizing at once that there was no time to be lost in rescuing Mrs. Thompson from her perilous position she rushed to the street and brought two men who were passing at the time into the house.

The two men grasped Mrs. Thompson's arms and tried to pull her out. The earth from the sides of the well had by this time however, settled closely around her armpits and they were unable to do so. Finally a rope was procured which on being fastened around Mrs. Thompson's waist, enabled them to rescue her from the dangerous position.

When seen Monday Mrs. Thompson was in a very nervous condition, her terrible experience having completely upset her. Besides she is severely bruised about the lower parts of the body and has a severe cut in the side of her head.

While very painful her injuries are not considered serious and Mrs Thompson expects to be fully recovered in a few days.

Joseph Molieff Was Drowned

Lakefield Tragedy Resulting from Upsetting of Canoe

By the capsizing of the canoe from which they were trawling, Joseph Molieff, of Lakefield was drowned, and his companion, Harry Dodge, of the same village, almost lost his life in the Otonabee River between dams 1 and 2 about 8 o'clock Sunday evening. The two men, who were great chums, left Lakefield after supper, as was their custom, and paddled some distance down the river when a lunge was hooked and pulled up close to the side of the boat. Both leaned to the side of the canoe to see the fish and the sudden movement capsized the frail craft, leaving the two men struggling in the water.

Dodge was able to swim a little, while Molieff knew nothing whatever about the art. When the canoe upset, Dodge shouted to his companion to hang on to the boat, but Molieff although he grabbed hold of the canoe, was too badly frightened to do anything to help himself. He attempted to seize Dodge several times and the latter did all he could to save him, but the unfortunate young man let go his hold and sank.

The upset of the canoe was witnessed by a number of Peterborough people who were driving past the scene. Among them was Isaac N. Watson, who was driving a party to Lakefield. When the canoe upset he lost no time in going to the rescue. Stripping off his clothes the plucky young man plunged into the river and swam out to where Dodge was clinging to the capsized canoe. Molieff had disappeared in the meantime, but Watson succeeded in catching hold of the canoe and swam to the shore, dragging the boat after him.

A party of Peterborough men who were driving past at the time hurried down to Dam No. 2 where they procured a punt and hastened back again but Dodge was out of danger then.

Watson dressed himself hurriedly and drove the survivor of the accident into Lakefield and gave the alarm. A large number of people hastened to the scene and men were soon at work with boats and grappling irons searching for the body, which, however, had not been found yesterday morning.

The young man who was drowned was 23 years of age, unmarried, and came from Trenton. It was the second season in which he had worked for the Cavendish Lumber Company, and he was a general favorite in the village.

The news of the accident cast a gloom over the community, the young man having been popular with all who knew him.

The Work is Going Rapidly on

Mr. Carew's Mill is Rapidly Nearing Completion

The work of reconstructing Mr. Carew's saw mill is going on apace and has already assumed an appearance almost of completion.

Mr. D. Gage, who is erecting the new mill and who drew the plans for it, has already built eighty-four such structures and may very reasonably be deemed an expert in this class of work, and it is understood that this will be one of the best in the province when completed, having some 300 braces in it.

Though stopped in their work for to-day on account of the rain, good time is being made on the whole, and Mr. Gage expects to have the machinery installed and everything connected with it running within six weeks.

Mr. Gage is sixty-eight years of age, and has never used a pair of spectacles in his life, but reads The Post every evening with a clear eye and with the greatest interest.

THE TORTURES WOMEN SUFFER

Can be Relieved by Keeping the Blood Supply Rich with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

A woman needs a blood building medicine regularly just because she is a woman. From maturity to middle life, the health and happiness of every woman depends upon her blood, its richness, and its regularity. If her blood supply is poor and watery she is weak and languid, pale and nervous. If her blood supply is irregular she suffers from headaches backaches sideaches and other unspeakable distress which only women know. Some women have grown to expect this suffering at regular intervals, and to bear it in hopeless silence. But women would escape much of this misery if they took a box or two of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to help them over the critical period. These pills actually make new blood. They help a woman just when nature makes the greatest demand upon her blood supply. They have done this for thousands of women throughout Canada, why not for you?

Mrs. Jos. Kinney, Gilbert's Cove, N. S., says;—"For ten years I suffered from nervousness and those troubles which make the lives of so many women one of almost constant misery. At times I would be confined to my bed for weeks, I spent sleepless nights and seemed to lose all courage. I tried several doctors but they failed to give me any relief. The last doctor I consulted told me frankly that he could not undertake my case unless I would undergo an examination. It was then I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. After taking six boxes I was much improved in health, but I continued to take the pills for a couple of months more when I felt like a new woman, and was enjoying such health as I had not experienced for ten years before. I had no return of this trouble since, but I have used the pills once since that time for the after effects of an attack of la grippe and the result was all I hoped for. These are plain facts from my own experience and I have always felt that I cannot too strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to the many women who suffer as I did."

You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Good Man Goes to Peterboro

Mr. Cornish has been Appointed on the Staff of the Normal School

The friends of Mr. Geo. A. Cornish will be glad to learn of his appointment to the Peterboro Normal school.

Mr. Cornish for the last six years has been science master in Lindsay Collegiate Institute, and will be greatly missed from the staff of that school. He has always been regarded as a friend of the scholars and among the students there will be a want that will be hard to fill.

Mr. Cornish has always been an energetic church worker and since coming to Lindsay has been an elder in St. Andrew's Church and also superintendent of the Sunday school in that church.

Mr. Cornish will receive a salary of $1,800 a year with an annual increase of $100 until $2000 is reached. He graduated from the University of Toronto in 1900 with first class honors, having won during his course three science scholarships as well as prizes in botany, mineralogy, and geology. For the next two years he pursued post-graduate work in biology at the University of Toronto and spent three summers in research work at the Canadian marine biological station, and has published two scientific monographs on the marine animals of Eastern Canada.

After teaching one year in Niagara Falls Collegiate, he came to Lindsay, where he has been for over five years. During this time he has been offered superior positions in the Collegiate Institutes at London and Toronto as well as several other cities and has refused them. He was appointed this spring as lecturer in the University of Toronto summer school and has been delegated by the Minister of Education to revise the course in science for high schools and to write a manual of instruction in science to be distributed by the Education Department for the use of teachers in high and public schools.

He also holds the position of secretary treasurer of the Victoria County Educational Association and president of the science section of the Ontario Educational Association. He goes to Peterboro Normal School and work begins about September 15th.

The other teachers of Peterboro Normal School are D. Walker, B. A., principal, S. J. Keys, and H. G. Parks.

The people of Lindsay extend their heartiest congratulations to Mr. Cornish and are glad to see that high abilities have been recognized by the department. The Post extends its heartiest felicitations and wishes for Mr. Cornish the greatest measure of success in his new field of labor.

If Peterboro must have that Normal school we can but give them of our best.

THE IMPORTED THOROUGHBRED STALLION

"SALZBURG"

the Imported Stallion From Austria,

of the celebrated Pingan breed, which is somewhat similar to the Belgium breed, but considered by all good horsemen in the country where he was bred, to be an improvement on that famous breed. Will stand for mares in Lindsay, during the season of 1908.

As the season is well advanced and the horse has been a long time on the voyage to Canada—six weeks—he will serve only a limited number of mares. The price this year will be very cheap as he is new in this district. To insure $12. He can be seen at any time in my barns, 8 Melbourne-st, south ward. He weighed on his arrival at Montreal 1,570. "Salzburg" is a handsome bay, with black points, stands 16 1-2 hands high; very muscular, heavy, hard flat bone, with clean bone, not hairy legged, the best of feet, and bone. He is a straight mover, with good action, and in no way resembles the Clydesdale horse. He has a very handsome head and neck, full bright eyes, and very intelligent countenance. He has the very best of disposition, perfectly kind and free from all vicious habits, absolutely sound and in perfect health. "Salzburg" is the only horse of this breed in Ontario to-day. There is no doubt he will prove a very beneficial sire for the farmers of this district.

This horse has come a long distance and has cost me a lot of money. I invite the farmers of this section to call and see him. If they approve of him, I will be pleased with any business they may see fit to give me.

This horse was imported by Mr. Boswell, of Quebec city, who is a thorough horseman, not a dealer. He is a much travelled and very wealthy man, and while in Australia bought this horse, believing the Austrian breeds to be one of the best breeds of horses in the world.

Sylvester Exhibits at Winnipeg Fair

Newspaper Comments on the Products of a Lindsay Industry

In its review of the exhibits at the Winnipeg Fair, the Winnipeg Free Press says:—"The Sylvester Manufacturing Company, Limited, of Lindsay, Ontario, are exhibiting an entirely new departure in the field of threshing outfits. It is what the company terms an automobile thresher, and the name seems very aptly applied. Under the machine is placed a 40 horse power four cylinder opposed motor, which combines the duties of moving the machine from place to place and works the separator at the same time. This allows the use of the machine in stock threshing, as starting down the field the thresher picks up the wheat and threshes out, delivers to bags or to wagon box, which may be attached to machine and loaded in transit, a fresh wagon taking its place when the first is loaded, and so on, until the threshing is complete. The Company claim, and from actual observation of the machine at work, there seems to be no reason to doubt their claim, that a saving of over 50 per cent. is made by the use of this system as compared with the old method of steam threshing with its cumbersome attachments from engine to separator, necessitating a great deal of lost time in moving the engine or waiting for teams to pick up the stooks and bring them to the thresher. When not in use for threshing purposes, the separator can be detached from the engine in a very short time, and it can then be used for ploughing. When in use in this manner, the engine will pull an eight gang plough and perform the work in extremely clean and handy shape. There is one strong point in favor of the Sylvester thresher, this being the fact that absolute separation of the wheat from the straw is obtained, there being absolutely no waste. That the machine is gaining commendation from the western farmer is evidenced by the fact that several orders have been placed for the Sylvester automobile thresher, although the fair is only three days old. The exhibit is placed on the west side of the grounds at the end of the implement building, where the thresher can be seen in operation. The Company also exhibits a 20 horse power portable engine for general purposes, and a combined pumping engine which will deliver a stream of 135 gallons of water per minute, and raise it to a height of 100 feet.

MARRIAGES.

McCUAIG—HARSTONE.

At three o'clock this afternoon the marriage took place of Gwendolin Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Harstone, to Mr. John Francis McQuaig, of Toronto.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. James Wallace, M. A., B. D. in the presence of a few of the bride's oldest friends. To the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Emma Beal, the bride entered the spacious drawing room leaning on the arm of her father. She was preceded by her bridesmaid, Miss Emily O'Leary daughter of his Honor Judge O'Leary of Port Arthur.

The bride's gown was an exquisite creation of heavy duchesse silk, made empire style, trimmed elaborately with rose point lace. A bridal veil and wreath of orange blossoms rested on her pretty coiffure. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses, and wore the groom's gift of handsome pearls. The bridesmaid wore a very smart and becoming gown of pale pink liberty silk trimmed with handsome lace and velvet buckles.

After the ceremony a dainty dejeuner was served. The bride received a number of costly presents, which gave evidence of the high esteem in which she is held by her friends.

Mr. and Mrs. McQuaig left on the C. P. R. train for the west. On their return from their honeymoon they will take up their residence in Toronto.

—Oscar Armstrong was tried before Magistrate Jackson this morning on a charge of fighting on the train from Peterboro on Monday. After hearing some evidence the case was adjourned till Saturday.

Oil and Gas at Kinmount

Rich Strike is Reported—A Company has been Formed to Develop it

Kinmount, July 18 — There has been a considerable amount of talk about mines in this part of the country, a considerable amount of prospecting being done, but the mines have not been very profitable as yet. However, there is something in the air at present which is causing some little talk among those who are interested in the matter. Experts have been about here a short time ago and have found good indications of petroleum and gas. A company has been formed under the name of Lindsay Gas and Coal Oil Co'y and an agent has been sent to lease the land the oil field is on. There are quite a number of lots that the field runs across. Starting from the river about three miles from Kinmount it runs through Mr. Jas. Osbourne's lot and west through Watson Geo., Hodgson, J. Boynton B. Chalmers D., Swanston Mrs. McCormack Jas., Kellar Sam., Swanton John, Morrison Alex., Morrison J. T. McWilliam W. H. The field will not be large like the Pennsylvania oil fields, but there will be over two thousand acres in all. The company leases the land for five years and commences operations inside eighteen months. They will bore for oil and gas.

Y.M.C.A. Boys' Summer Camp

Having a Fine Time and Have Good Appetites

Y. M. C. A. Boys' Camp, Clear Lake, July 15. — The boys of the Y. M. C. A. left Peterborough on a beautiful little white house called the Water Lily about 8.40 a. m. We seemed to be a long time getting started, but soon got to the lift lock, where I saw the man push levers and turn cranks and do several other stunts, and then we went rapidly up to the top of the lock, where we got a jim dandy view of the city. I got awfully tired going through so many locks. I wished they were all lift locks. We got over the lift lock so much quicker. The men who run the boat must get awfully tired of it, but I suppose it has to be done. At last we reached Lakefield and there was a little excitement there. While we were getting some boats for the camp one of the boys went to the hotel to get a lunch for himself, and the boat nearly left without him. The rest of the sail was fine and we reached camp with a good appetite and after unloading our numerous parcels, struck off for the dining tent. It is a good large tent with separate sides to it, and completely covers the tables. We had an awful time finding the butter but at last it managed to get to us, and we ate till we were filled. Then we went for a row on the lake in a skiff. I think I will soon be an expert rower if my appetite keeps up the way it is now. I certainly am having a time and was sorry the day was over so soon. I went for a swim after the row. The beach is fine and I am swimming like a fish this year. The evening was lovely. I tried to stay up all night, but I guess I must have slept for a little while, for all at once the sun was shining into the tent, and I knew it was to-morrow.

Severed Artery at the Point

Mrs. McIntyre was Hanging Lamp when Shade Broke

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Arch. McIntyre, met with a very serious accident which would have resulted fatally if help had not been close at hand.

As Mrs. McIntyre was adjusting the hanging lamp in her home at Sturgeon Point, the shade broke and fell on her wrist, severing an artery. Upon seeing that the wound was bleeding profusely she went to the nearest neighbor, who quickly twisted a handkerchief around her wrist with a stick and stopped the flow of blood.

The trip to Lindsay was then made, where the wound could be properly dressed. The Post is pleased to hear that Mrs. McIntyre is rapidly recovering.

Put More In

One morning just before starting to school little Bobbie, aged six years, was watching his mama put up his noon lunch. Suddenly he said; "Mama I wish you'd let Katie put up my lunch instead of doin' it yourself; Won't you?"

"I know."

"Then why——"

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves — re-establish them as needed, with

THE LION AND THE MOUSE.

By CHARLES KLEIN.

A Story of American Life Novelized From the Play by ARTHUR HORNBLOW.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY.

when he had to announce a visitor of consequence. But before he could open his mouth Mr. Ryder said:

"Bagley, when did you see my son Jefferson last?"

"Today, sir. He wanted to see you to say goodby. He said he would be back."

Ryder gave a sigh of relief and addressing the detective said:

"It's not so bad as I thought." Then turning again to his secretary he asked:

"Well, Bagley, what is it?"

"There's a lady downstairs, sir—Miss Shirley Green."

The financier half sprang from his seat.

"Oh, yes. Show her up at once. Goodby, sergeant, goodby. Find that Rossmore woman and the $1,000 is yours."

The detective went out, and a few moments later Mr. Bagley reappeared ushering in Shirley.

The mouse was in the den of the lion.

CHAPTER XII.

MR. RYDER remained at his desk and did not even look up when his visitor entered. He pretended to be busily preoccupied with his papers, which was a favorite pose of his when receiving strangers. This frigid reception invariably served its purpose, for it led visitors not to expect more than they got, which usually was little enough. For several minutes Shirley stood still, not knowing whether to advance or to take a seat. She gave a little conventional cough, and Ryder looked up. What he saw so astonished him that he at once took from his mouth the cigar he was smoking and rose from his seat. He had expected a gaunt old maid with spectacles, and there was a stylish, good looking young woman, who could not possibly be over twenty-five. There was surely some mistake. This slip of a girl could not have written "The American Octopus." He advanced to greet Shirley.

"You wish to see me, madam?" he asked courteously. There were times when even John Burkett Ryder could be polite.

"Yes," replied Shirley, her voice trembling a little in spite of her efforts to keep cool. "I am here by appointment. Three o'clock, Mrs. Ryder's note said. I am Miss Green."

"You—Miss Green?" echoed the financier dubiously.

"Yes, I am Miss Green—Shirley Green, author of 'The American Octopus.' You asked me to call. Here I am."

For the first time in his life John Ryder was nonplused. He coughed and stammered and looked round for a place where he could throw his cigar. Shirley, who enjoyed his embarrassment, put him at his ease.

"Oh, please go on smoking," she said. "I don't mind it in the least."

Ryder threw the cigar into a receptacle and looked closely at his visitor.

"So you are Shirley Green, eh?"

"That is my nom de plume—yes," replied the girl nervously. She was already wishing herself back at Massapequa. The financier eyed her for a moment in silence as if trying to gauge the strength of the personality of this audacious young woman, who had dared to criticise his business methods in public print; then, waving her to a seat near his desk, he said:

"Won't you sit down?"

"Thank you," murmured Shirley. She sat down, and he took his seat at the other side of the desk, which brought them face to face. Again inspecting the girl with a close scrutiny that made her cheeks burn, Ryder said:

"I rather expected"— He stopped for a moment as if uncertain what to say; then he added, "You're younger than I thought you were, Miss Green; much younger."

"Time will remedy that," smiled Shirley. Then, mischievously, she added: "I rather expected to see Mrs. Ryder."

There was the faintest suspicion of a smile playing around the corners of the plutocrat's mouth as he picked up a book lying on his desk and replied:

"Yes, she wrote you, but I—wanted to see you about this."

Shirley's pulse throbbed faster, but she tried hard to appear unconcerned as she answered:

"Oh, my book! Have you read it?"

"I have," replied Ryder slowly, and, fixing her with a stare that was beginning to make her uncomfortable, he went on: "No doubt your time is valuable, so I'll come right to the point. I want to ask you, Miss Green, where you got the character of your central figure—the Octopus, as you call him—John Broderick?"

"From imagination, of course," answered Shirley.

Ryder opened the book, and Shirley noticed that there were several passages marked. He turned the leaves over in silence for a minute or two, and then he said:

"You've sketched a pretty big man here."

"Yes," assented Shirley; "he has big possibilities, but I think he makes very small use of them."

Ryder appeared not to notice her commentary, and, still reading the book, he continued:

"On page 22 you call him 'the world's greatest individualized potentiality, a giant combination of materiality, mentality and money—the greatest exemplar of individual human will in existence today.' And you make indomitable will and energy the keystone of his marvelous success. Am I right?" He looked at her questioningly.

"Quite right," answered Shirley.

Ryder proceeded:

"On page 26 you say 'the machinery of his money making mind typifies the laws of perpetual unrest. It must go on relentlessly, resistlessly, ruthlessly making money, making money, and continuing to make money. It cannot stop until the machinery crumbles.'"

Laying the book down and turning sharply on Shirley, he asked her bluntly:

"Do you mean to say that I couldn't stop tomorrow if I wanted to?"

She affected to not understand him.

"You?" she inquired in a tone of surprise.

"Well, it's a natural question," stammered Ryder, with a nervous little laugh. "Every man sees himself in the hero of a novel just as every woman sees herself in the heroine. We are all heroes and heroines in our own eyes. But tell me what's your private opinion of this man. You drew the character. What do you think of him as a type—how would you classify him?"

"As the greatest criminal the world has yet produced," replied Shirley without a moment's hesitation.

The financier looked at the girl in unfeigned astonishment.

"Criminal?" he echoed.

"Yes, criminal," repeated Shirley decisively. "He is avarice, egotism and ambition incarnate. He loves money because he loves power, and he loves power more than his fellow man."

Ryder laughed uneasily. Decidedly this girl had opinions of her own which she was not backward to express.

"Isn't that rather strong?" he asked.

"I don't think so," replied Shirley. Then quickly she asked: "But what does it matter? No such man exists."

"No, of course not," said Ryder, and he relapsed into silence.

Yet while he said nothing the plutocrat was watching his visitor closely from under his thick eyebrows. She seemed supremely unconscious of his scrutiny. Her aristocratic, thoughtful face gave no sign that any ulterior motive had actuated her evidently very hostile attitude against him. That he was in her mind when she drew the character of John Broderick there was no doubt possible. No matter how she might evade the identification, he was convinced he was the hero of her book. Why had she attacked him so bitterly?

At first it occurred to him that blackmail might be her object. She might be going to ask for money as the price of future silence. Yet it needed but a glance at her refined and modest demeanor to dispel that idea as absurd. Then he remembered, too, that it was not she who had sought this interview, but himself. No, she was no blackmailer. More probably she was a dreamer—one of those meddling sociologists who, under pretense of bettering the conditions of the working classes, stir up discontent and bitterness of feeling. As such she might prove more to be feared than a mere blackmailer whom he could buy off with money. He knew he was not popular, but he was no worse than the other captains of industry. It was a cutthroat game at best. Competition was the soul of commercial life, and if he had outwitted his competitors and made himself richer than all of them he was not a criminal for that. But all these attacks in newspapers and books did not do him any good. One day the people might take these demagogic writings seriously, and then there would be the devil to pay. He took up the book again and ran over the pages. This certainly was no ordinary girl. She knew more and had a more direct way of saying things than any woman he had ever met. And as he watched her furtively across the desk he wondered how he could use her—how instead of being his enemy he could make her his friend. If he did not, she would go away and write more such books, and literature of this kind might become a real peril to his interests. Money could do anything. It could secure the services of this woman and prevent her doing further mischief. But how could he employ her? Suddenly an inspiration came to him. For some years he had been collecting material for a history of the Empire Trading company. She could write it. It would practically be his own biography. Would she undertake it?

Embarrassed by the long silence, Shirley finally broke in by saying:

"But you didn't ask me to call merely to find out what I thought of my own work."

"No," replied Ryder slowly, "I want you to do some work for me."

He opened a drawer at the lefthand side of his desk and took out several sheets of foolscap and a number of letters. Shirley's heart beat faster as she caught sight of the letters. Were her father's among them? She wondered what kind of work John Burkett Ryder had for her to do and if she would do it whatever it was. Some literary work probably, compiling or something of that kind. If it was well paid, why should she not accept? There would be nothing humiliating in it; it would not tie her hands in any way. She was a professional writer in the market to be employed by whoever could pay the price. Besides, such work might give her better opportunities to secure the letters of which she was in search. Gathering in one pile all the papers he had removed from the drawer, Mr. Ryder said:

"I want you to put my biography together from this material. But first," he added, taking up "The American Octopus," "I want to know where you got the details of this man's life."

"Oh, for the most part—imagination, newspapers, magazines," replied Shirley carelessly. "You know the American millionaire is a very overworked topic just now—and naturally I've read"—

"Yes, I understand," he said, "but I refer to what you haven't read—what you couldn't have read. For example, here." He turned to a page marked in the book and read aloud: "As an evidence of his petty vanity, when a youth he had a beautiful Indian girl tattooed just above the forearm." Ryder leaned eagerly forward as he asked her searchingly, "Now who told you that I had my arm tattooed when I was a boy?"

"Have you?" laughed Shirley nervously. "What a curious coincidence!"

"Let me read you another coincidence," said Ryder meaningly. He turned to another part of the book and read, "the same eternal long black cigar always between his lips."

"General Grant smoked, too," interrupted Shirley. "All men who think deeply along material lines seem to smoke."

"Well, we'll let that go. But how about this?" He turned back a few pages and read: "John Broderick had loved when a young man a girl who lived in Vermont, but circumstances separated them." He stopped and stared at Shirley a moment, and then he said: "I loved a girl when I was a lad and she came from Vermont, and circumstances separated us. That isn't coincidence, for presently you make John Broderick marry a young woman who had money. I married a girl with money."

"Lots of men marry for money," remarked Shirley.

"I said with money, not for money," retorted Ryder. Then, turning to the book, he said: "Now, this is what I can't understand, for no one could have told you this but I myself. Listen." He read aloud: "'With all his physical bravery and personal courage, John Broderick was intensely afraid of death. It was on his mind constantly.' Who told you that?" he demanded somewhat roughly. "I swear I've never mentioned it to a living soul."

"Most men who amass money are afraid of death," replied Shirley with outward composure, "for death is about the only thing that can separate them from their money."

Ryder laughed, but it was a hollow, mocking laugh, neither sincere nor hearty. It was a laugh such as the devil may have given when driven out of heaven.

"You're quite a character!" He laughed again, and Shirley, catching the infection, laughed too.

"It's me and it isn't me," went on Ryder, flourishing the book. "This fellow Broderick is all right; he's successful and he's great, but I don't like his finish."

"It's logical," ventured Shirley.

"It's cruel," insisted Ryder.

"So is the man who reverses the divine law and hates his neighbor instead of loving him," retorted Shirley.

She spoke more boldly, beginning to feel more sure of her ground, and it amused her to fence in this way with the man of millions. So far, she thought, he had not got the best of her. She was fast becoming used to him, and her first feeling of intimidation was passing away.

"Um!" grunted Ryder. "You're a curious girl. Upon my word you interest me!" He took the mass of papers lying at his elbow and pushed them over to her. "Here," he said, "I want you to make as clever a book out of this chaos as you did out of your own imagination."

Shirley turned the papers over carelessly.

"So you think your life is a good example to follow?" she asked, with a tinge of irony.

"Isn't it?" he demanded.

The girl looked him square in the face.

"Suppose," she said, "we all wanted to follow it; suppose we all wanted to be the richest, the most powerful personage in the world?"

"Well, what then?" he demanded.

"I think it would postpone the era of the brotherhood of man indefinitely, don't you?"

"I never thought of it from that point of view," admitted the billionaire. "Really," he added, "you're an extraordinary girl. Why, you can't be more than twenty or so."

"I'm twenty-four or so," smiled Shirley.

Ryder's face expanded in a broad smile. He admired this girl's pluck and ready wit. He grew more amiable and tried to gain her confidence. In a coaxing tone he said:

"Come, where did you get those details? Take me into your confidence."

"I have taken you into my confidence," laughed Shirley, pointing at her book. "It cost you $1.50." Turning over the papers he had put before her, she said presently, "I don't know about this."

"You don't think my life would make good reading?" he asked, with some asperity.

"It might," she replied slowly, as if unwilling to commit herself as to its commercial or literary value. Then she said frankly: "To tell you the honest truth, I don't consider mere genius in money making is sufficient provocation for rushing into print. You see, unless you come to a bad end, it would have no moral."

Ignoring the not very flattering insinuation contained in this last speech, the plutocrat continued to urge her:

"You can name your own price if you will do the work," he said. "Two, three or even five thousand dollars. It's only a few months' work."

"Five thousand dollars?" echoed Shirley. "That's a lot of money." Smiling, she added: "It appeals to my commercial sense. But I'm afraid the subject does not arouse my enthusiasm from an artistic standpoint."

Ryder seemed amused at the idea of any one hesitating to make $5,000. He knew that writers do not run across such opportunities every day.

"Upon my word," he said, "I don't know why I'm so anxious to get you to do the work. I suppose it's because you don't want to. You remind me of my son. Ah, he's a problem!"

Shirley started involuntarily when Ryder mentioned his son. But he did not notice it.

"Why, is he wild?" she asked, as if only mildly interested.

"Oh, no; I wish he were," said Ryder.

"Fallen in love with the wrong woman, I suppose," she said.

"Something of the sort. How did you guess?" asked Ryder, surprised.

Shirley coughed to meet her embarrassment and replied indifferently:

"So many boys do that. Besides," she added, with a mischievous twinkle in her eyes, "I can hardly imagine that any woman would be the right one unless you selected her yourself!"

Ryder made no answer. He folded his arms and gazed at her. Who was this woman who knew him so well, who could read his inmost thoughts, who never made a mistake? After a silence he said:

"Do you know you say the strangest things?"

"Truth is strange," replied Shirley carelessly. "I don't suppose you hear it very often."

"Not in that form," admitted Ryder.

Shirley had taken on to her lap some of the letters he had passed her and was perusing them one after another.

"All these letters from Washington consulting you on politics and finance—they won't interest the world."

"My secretary picked them out," explained Ryder. "Your artistic sense will tell you what to use."

"Does your son still love this girl? I mean the one you object to," inquired Shirley as she went on sorting the papers.

"Oh, no, he does not care for her any more," answered Ryder hastily.

"Yes, he does. He still loves her," said Shirley positively.

"How do you know?" asked Ryder, amazed.

"From the way you say he doesn't," retorted Shirley.

Ryder gave his caller a look in which admiration was mingled with astonishment.

"You are right again," he said. "The idiot does love the girl."

"Bless his heart!" said Shirley to herself. Aloud she said:

"I hope they'll both outwit you."

Ryder laughed in spite of himself. This young woman certainly interested him more than any other he had ever known.

"I don't think I ever met any one in my life quite like you," he said.

"What's the objection to the girl?" demanded Shirley.

"Every objection. I don't want her in my family."

"Anything against her character?"

To better conceal the keen interest she took in the personal turn the conversation had taken, Shirley pretended to be more busy than ever with the papers.

"Yes—that is, no—not that I know of," replied Ryder. "But because a woman has a good character, that doesn't necessarily make her a desirable match, does it?"

"It's a point in her favor, isn't it?"

"Yes, but"— He hesitated as if uncertain what to say.

"You know men well, don't you, Mr. Ryder?"

"I've met enough to know them pretty well," he replied.

"Why don't you study women for a change?" she asked. "That would enable you to understand a great many things that I don't think are quite clear to you now."

Ryder laughed good humoredly. It was decidedly a novel sensation to have some one lecturing him.

"I'm studying you," he said, "but I don't seem to make much headway. A woman like you whose mind isn't spoiled by the amusement habit has great possibilities—great possibilities. Do you know you're the first woman I ever took into my confidence—I mean at sight?" Again he fixed her with that keen glance which in his business life had taught him how to read men. He continued: "I'm acting on sentiment—something I rarely do, but I can't help it. I like you, upon my soul I do, and I'm going to introduce you to my wife—my son"—

He took the telephone from his desk as if he were going to use it.

"What a commander in chief you would have made—how natural it is for you to command!" exclaimed Shirley in a burst of admiration that was half real, half mocking. "I suppose you always tell people what they are to do and how they are to do it. You are a born general. You know I've often thought that Napoleon and Caesar and Alexander must have been great domestic leaders as well as imperial rulers. I'm sure of it now."

Ryder listened to her in amazement. He was not quite sure if she were making fun of him or not.

"Well, of all"— he began; then interrupting himself he said amiably, "Won't you do me the honor to meet my family?"

Shirley smiled sweetly and bowed.

"Thank you, Mr. Ryder, I will."

She rose from her seat and leaned over the manuscripts to conceal the satisfaction this promise of an introduction to the family circle gave her. She was quick to see that it meant more visits to the house and other and perhaps better opportunities to find the objects of her search. Ryder lifted the receiver of his telephone and talked to his secretary in another room, while Shirley, who was still standing, continued examining the papers and letters.

"Is that you, Bagley? What's that? General Dodge? Get rid of him. I can't see him today. Tell him to come tomorrow. What's that? My son wants to see me? Tell him to come to the phone."

At that instant Shirley gave a little cry, which in vain she tried to suppress. Ryder looked up.

"What's the matter?" he demanded, startled.

"Nothing, nothing!" she replied in a hoarse whisper. "I pricked myself with a pin. Don't mind me."

She had just come across her father's missing letters, which had got mixed up, evidently without Ryder's knowledge, in the mass of papers he had handed her. Prepared as she was to find the letters somewhere in the house, she never dreamed that fate would put them so easily and so quickly into her hands; the suddenness of their appearance and the sight of her father's familiar signature affected her almost like a shock. Now she had them, she must not let them go again; yet how could she keep them unobserved? Could she conceal them? Would he miss them? She tried to slip them in her bosom while Ryder was busy at the phone, but he suddenly glanced in her direction and caught her eye. She still held the letters in her hand, which shook from nervousness, but he noticed nothing and went on speaking through the phone:

"Hello, Jefferson, boy! You want to see me. Can you wait till I'm through? I've got a lady here. Going away? Nonsense! Determined, eh? Well, I can't keep you here if you've made up your mind. You want to say goodby. Come up in about five minutes, and I'll introduce you to a very interesting person."

He laughed and hung up the receiver. Shirley was all unstrung, trying to overcome the emotion which her discovery had caused her, and in a strangely altered voice, the result of the nervous strain she was under, she said:

"You want me to come here?"

She looked up from the letters she was reading across to Ryder, who was standing watching her on the other side of the desk. He caught her glance and, leaning over to take some manuscript, he said:

"Yes, I don't want these papers to get"—

His eye suddenly rested on the letters she was holding. He stopped short, and reaching forward he tried to snatch them from her.

"What have you got there?" he exclaimed.

He took the letters, and she made no resistance. It would be folly to force

Making Good.

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good;" and Doctor Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity, are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards.

A good, honest, square-deal medicine of known composition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may possibly make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for.

Don't buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine it is unequaled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy—one to three a dose. Much imitated but never equaled.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

Even the Beavers Work for Laurier

Active Little Dam Builders Justify Their Place on Canada's Shield

A colony of beavers have built a $2,000 dam on Mud Lake on the Trent, thus saving the government the expense. It is 700 feet long and eight feet deep, the beavers having consented to increase the depth from seven to eight feet at the special request of the Federal authorities.

Last fall the Government dammed Gull River to conserve the water in Mud Lake. The water in the lake then began to flow north, instead of south, and it was seen that a new dam at the northern outlet would have to be built this spring. But during the winter the beavers, alarmed by the unaccustomed flow, took it into their heads to dam up the northern outlet themselves, and this they did to the depth of seven feet. When the surveyors went up in the spring, they found a perfect structure, without a single leak, and substantial enough to last for years. By raising the southern dam, however the water was again forced to flow north, over the beavers' dam. At once the little animals came out in full force and added another foot to their structure.

This deal with the beavers will stand the fullest investigation in the Public Accounts, and Mud Lake is now a perfect reservoir, in case of a scarcity of water in the canal.

Going Up With a Rush Is Carew's New Mill

Machinery has Arrived and will soon be Installed

The men employed on Mr. Carew's new mill are confident that the mill will be in a condition to saw in two or three weeks. They are working as hard as possible at the job and have all the big timbers in their places. Most of the heavy work of the job is done and it will not be long until the mill is all closed in ready for the machinery. The most of the machinery is here already and is waiting to be unloaded. When completed the mill will be one of the largest and most up-to-date saw mills in the country.

Customs Regulations Regarding Live Stock

New Rules in Force Respecting Their Free Admission into Canada

On July 1st there came into effect new regulations regarding the customs entry of animals imported into Canada for the movement of stock. Heretofore all certificates of registration which were apparently genuine were accepted by customs officers for the purpose of free entry. Under the new regulations either a Canadian certificate of registration or an import certificates as the case may be must be presented.

Canadian certificates of registration must be presented at the port of entry for the following classes and breeds;

Cattle — Shorthorn, Ayrshire, Hereford, French Canadian, Galloway Aberdeen-Angus, Red Polled, Jersey Guernsey and Holstein.

Horses—Clydesdale, Hackney, Shire Percheron, Thoroughbred, Belgian and French Canadian.

Ponies — Shetland, Welsh, New Forest, Polo and Riding, Exmoor Connemara and Hackney.

Swine—Yorkshire, Berkshire, Tamworth, Chester White, Poland China Duroc Jersey, Essex and Victoria.

Sheep — Shropshire, Lincoln, Oxford Down, Dorset, South Down Hampshire and Leicester.

The Canadian records for all above mentioned breeds with the exception of that for Holstein cattle are conducted under the Canadian National Records, Ottawa. The Holstein records is located at St. George, Ont. In making application for the registration of an imported animal the foreign certificate of registration in addition to the usual application must be forwarded.

There are from time to time animal imported into Canada of breeds for which there are no Canadian records, but which are recorded in books of record of one of the following recognized foreign associations;

Horses — Suffolk Horse Society, (Great Britain); Cleveland Bay Horse Society of Great Britain and Ireland; Yorkshire Coach Horse Society of Great Britain and Ireland; American Morgan Register Association; American Saddle Horse Breeders' Association; American Trotting Horse Register Association; Commission des Agriculteurs de France (French Draft); Commission des Stud Book des Chevaux de Demi-Sang (French Coach); Landwirthschaftlichen Hauptverein fur Ostfriesland (German Coach); Zuchtvarband des Sudlichen Zuchtgebietses (German Coach); Verband dur Zucher des Oldesburger eleganien Schweren Kutsteininchen Merschem (Oldenberg.)

Cattle — Highland Cattle Society of Scotland; Kerry and Dexter Herd Book (Dublin, Ireland); Sussex Herd Book Society (Great Britain); Polled Durham Breeders' Association (United States); National Polled Hereford Breeders' Association (United States.)

Swine — Large Black Pig Society, (Great Britain.)

Sheep — Suffolk Sheep Society, (Great Britain); Kent and Romney Marsh Sheep Breeders' Association, (Great Britain); Cheviot Sheep Society (Great Britain); Wensleydale Longwool Sheep Breeders' Association (Great Britain); Black Face Sheep Breeders' Association (Great Britain.)

Goats—British Goat Society.

Asses — Societe Centrale d'Agriculture des Deux Sevres (France) Stud Books of Jacks and Jennets of Spain.

To secure free custom entry for an animal so recorded it is necessary to forward to the Canadian National Records, Ottawa, the foreign certificate of registration. The accountant of the Canadian National Records will return to the importer the foreign certificate to which will be attached an import certificate which will be authority to the custom officer to admit the animal duty free. A nominal charge will be made by the National Record for this service.

If future information is desired such will be supplied on application to the "accountant," National Live Stock Records, Ottawa.

An International Musical Treat

A prominent attraction in connection with the usual spectacle will be an International Military Tattoo in which upwards of three hundred musicians will take part, including a number from the United States and also from Great Britain.

MONTCALM AND WOLFE

High on the glory roll of fame.
With like effulgence glow,
Two names that set the soul aflame,
The soul of friend and foe.

Montcalm and Wolfe ! Bayards in all,
Chaste, courteous, just and bold
Their blameless, valiant lives recall
The chivalry of old.

Honor they prized more—aye, far more,
Than place, self—nay, than life—
Generous foes, no hate they bore,
E'en in the heat of strife.

"A foeman worthy of his steel,"
Each recognized in each,
And vied they each with righteous zeal,
Their rival goals to reach.

Both for the cause they deemed was right,
Fearlessly fought and bled,
The Plains of Abraham's fateful fight
Mourning both 'mongst its dead.

Then let Montcalm and Wolfe to-day
Our whole allegiance own—
Types of two gallant nations they,
Few types more worthy known.

Let Anglo-French and native-born
With one accord acclaim,
Heroes whose worth and works adorn
The hallow'd fame of fame A

Quebec Programme

The Canadian Pacific Railway has issued a very handsome program of the Tercentenary celebration which takes place at Quebec between the 19th and 31st of July. The information is very full and complete as well as interesting. Copies may be had from Mr. T. C. Matchett, at his office on Kent-st.

Windsor, Ont., has a record of 672 marriages for six months, and the Hamilton Spectator rises to remark that there should be no trouble in keeping the pulpits supplied in that section of Ontario.

Operations to Begin on Filtering Plant

Bridge Meets the Water Commissioners and Talks Things Over

A meeting of the water commissioners was held on Friday in Secretary Ray's office to meet Mr. Bridge, who has offered to install the new ozone filtration plant in Lindsay.

There were present Messrs. Flavelle, Brady Sinclair and Begg as water commissioners, Mr. Sparling from the board of trade, Superintendent Hammond and Attorney Peel.

Mr. Flavelle asked what was the result of the Toronto deputation to Philadelphia.

Mr. Bridge said that he was left with the impression that they were well pleased with it and was surprised when he found they had adopted another system.

Dr. Sheard was very much against his plant and treated him very rudely.

Mr. Flavelle — We have practically decided to test your plant on your own offer. We are doing this on two conditions; First, we want time to test it; second, we want some assurance that it will not cost too much to run it.

Mr. Bridge — How long do you want?

Mr. Flavelle — Well, we will not we ought to get six months.

Mr. Bridge — Oh, no.

Mr. Flavelle — Well, we wil l not take less than three months at the lowest. We are the first to try it, and I am sure if everything turns out all right you will have no difficulty in Toronto.

Mr. Bridge said that if anything went wrong there was an alarm that notifies the man. The cost will be about seven horse power for a million gallons. He added that he is in communication with Lynn and Niagara Falls.

Mr. Reesor said an alarm will be an easy thing. If the current stops the one in charge will know. The cost of supplying the current will be $245.

Mr. Bridge said he would need a building about twenty feet square, and ten feet high, to cost about $500.

Mr. Peel — What kind of a floor?

Mr. Bridge—Cement preferred. The town only supplies the bare building. Cost will be about seven or eight horse power for a million gallons. The guaranteed quantity will be one million gallons.

Mr. Flavelle — I want something to prove that this will be practicable.

Replying to a question, Mr. Bridge said he would be able to start in nine weeks.

It was finally agreed to allow him to begin operations as soon as possible.

Manual for the Baggagemasters

Instructions to the Men Who Handle Your Belongings

The General Baggage Department of the Grand Trunk Railway System has just issued a summary of the rules and regulations governing baggage traffic for the guidance of baggagemaster, station and train baggagemen on the entire sysetm, and this pocket manual pertaining to their duties is designed to provide not alone for the usual conduct of the business, but action desired in cases of all kinds of contingencies and perplexities which may assail the employees of the baggage department.

The manual cosists of 64 pages, and an examination of the book indicates the very important part the baggage department of a great railway system plays in the conduct of the passenger traffic, the assurance that passengers may feel that their personal belongings which accompany them in the baggage car are being carefully watched, and that the liability for the loss either temporary or permanent is arriving at the disappearing point by the foresight and care exercised in directing the operation of this important branch of the service.

There is a distinct effort made in this book to have ever present in the mind of the employee of the baggage department that his first duty is to the public, and to illustrate this, on the first page of the book appears such clauses as the following;

"The relations and responsibilities of common carriers to the travelling public are such as require from the carrier the most constant and watchful care of property of the traveller.

"As station and train baggagemasters you are entrusted with the safe-keeping and proper transportation of effects which are valuable to the owners. Nothing can be more annoying to travellers than the loss of, abuse of or delay to their baggage.

"You must try to give satisfaction to the public and establish a reputation for courtesy and civility to everyone. You are expected to be polite at all times, to answer civilly all questions addressed to you, and if unable to give any necessary information, endeavor when practicable to obtain it, if pertaining to baggage car traffic, if not, the passenger should be directed to the proper office. Endeavor to make the Grand Trunk railway system popular; its business is dependent upon the good will of the people."

It is expected that in this manner the employees of the baggage department will appreciate that in serving the public intelligently and well, they are serving their employers equally, as without this spirit to co-operate, neither the public nor those in charge of the different departments of a great railway system are reasonably satisfied.

Dog Days Are Here and Thirsty Dogs Die

A Little Forethought Would Save Many Scares and Poor Dogs' Lives

Dog days ar here now — the thirsty days, so to speak. The first on the list occurred when a north ward dog got a trifle light in his upper story and made a dash for the fleshy part of the leg of a well-known gentleman residing in the north part of the town. The upshot of that dog's career was that he was taken charge of by Mr. A. L. Minthorne and buried the same afternoon. Of course, a drink of water was what the poor animal was thirsting for and which might have been and in many other cases could be prevented by the setting down of a dish of water within easy access of the dog.

Labor Saving in Dairying

Cow Testing Under Dominion Department of Agriculture

One of the recent regular monthly tests in the Innerkip, Ont. cow testing association showed that 160 cows gave an average yield of 833 lbs. milk, testing 3.4 thus containing 34.6 lbs. fat. One excellent herd's average is from 10 cows each giving 1390 lbs. milk, 3.3 test. The highest yield in the herd was 1850 lbs. milk for the month. In all but one of the 12 herds recorded are single cows giving 1000 lbs. milk or more.

Another district averaged only 664 lbs. milk per cow, while in a third district the average was 562 lbs. Some herds were as low as 412 lbs. milk, 13 1-2 lbs. fat as an average of 9 cows. This is less than one third of the yield of the herd noted above at Innerkip. Three times the labor, nearly three times the feed, three times the stable room for no more profit. As I have frequently remarked before, this cow testing work is the best labor saving proposition yet placed before the farmers of Canada. Better cows mean less work and more income. Find out the poor cows by this individual testing, get rid of them then give that feed saved to the better cows and watch the bank balance grow.

Roofing Right Costs No Less—But It Is Far Cheaper

SOME shingle roofs keep out the worst of the weather if you patch them up every summer. They ought to last at least ten years, if they're well cared for.

Some metal shingles are made of pretty good IRON. They make passably good roofs for maybe fifteen years—IF you paint them every year—two coats.

BUT—these "Oshawa" Special Galvanized STEEL Shingles of mine are GUARANTEED to make a REALLY good roof for twenty-five years (and that means a NEW roof for nothing if they take a single drop in all that time). AND—

You needn't ever paint an "Oshawa"-shingled roof, or bother galvanizing the 28-gauge sheet steel, the four-way-lock, makes point needless. Treat these "Oshawa" shingles cost about the same at the go-in as good cedar shingles or as ordinary metal shingles. (You notice nobody calls these shingles STEEL—metal is a handler word).

But my shingles are not only guaranteed for 25 years—in writing, with a new-roof-for-nothing penalty and $250,000 back of my say-so—they are also guaranteed to be rain-proof, snow-proof, fire-proof and lightning-proof.

As a matter of old fact, they are good for a century. How are you going to make weather-proof steel rust or rot?

Wouldn't it really pay you to send a postcard for a free book that tells the whole story in plain words? My shingles cover thousands of the finest farm buildings and public buildings all over Canada. Though the same 25-years guarantee goes with every roof, we've never been called on yet to make it good! Read the book, won't you?

We will send postpaid and free samples of Pedlar Art Steel Ceilings and Siding Walls, of which we make more than 2,000 designs.

Water Commissioners Discuss Extensions

Business Transacted at a Meeting Held this Morning

A meeting of the Water Commissioners was held in the Waterworks office, there being present the Mayor, Crah, Mr. J. D. Flavelle, Mayor Hogg Superintendent Hammond and Mr. D. Sinclair.

Several applications for water service pipes read and granted, the expenses lately incurred were also discussed and on motion of Mayor Beall, seconded by Mr. Sinclair, the secretary was instructed to pay them.

Mrs. Weldon, Bond-st., wished to have her house supplied with water, but as the pipe, which is only a half inch one, is now overloaded, the commissioners were doubtful whether to have a new six-inch main put in along Bond from Cambridge to Victoria-street or to connect by an extra hundred feet of half-inch pipe with the large church main. While the cost of the former pipe at the rate of a

Bad Bank Bills in Circulation

Many ave Been Worked Off on Toronto Store Keepers

Counterfeit ten-dollar bills of the Standard Bank of Canada have been very freely circulated the past few days in Toronto, and already about a dozen of them have found their way to the detective's office there. The bills have been turned into the stores on Queen-st. west, where they were given in payment for small purchases by a young man who is busy passing them on unsuspecting citizens. While the police say they are very poor imitations of the genuine bill, no storekeeper has yet been found who has detected the bills and refused to take them. The counterfeit bills are all prints, are dated May 1, 1901, and are numbered either 180823, 21345 or 31024. An effort is being made by Detective Moffatt to trace some of the bad money into the hands of the counterfeiters, who are believed to be making the notes somewhere in the vicinity of the city. The Standard Bank officials are also co-operating with the police in the attempts made to stop the circulation of the bad money and to arrest the counterfeiters.

Purser Deyell Narrowly Escapes

Result of a Collision on Shore with an Innocent Rubberneck

Wednesday evening as the Esturion landed at Sturgeon Point Purser Deyell narrowly escaped falling between the steamer and the wharf, and getting a wetting as well as being injured by the huge hull.

Just as Jack went to leap ashore with the gang plank, a sturdy young man of Point fame, who was not looking about him, got in the way, preventing him from getting a firm footing. The purser's foot slipped, but as he fell he managed to grasp the fender and save himself from going beneath the waves.

Kindly Commendations by Our Old Readers

An Old Reader for Forty-seven Years has Always Found it Interesting

Below will be found a letter which is but one of many of a similar character which are being received every week by The Post. On our list are many subscribers not only in the vicinity of Lindsay, but in all parts of the United States and various distant points in Canada who have been reading this paper for from forty to fifty years and all of them have but the kindest words to say of it.

This is the clearest proof of what fifty years of clean journalism will do for a paper. At no time has The Post pandered to the lower elements in the community, but it has ever striven for the higher and better things in life. It is a source of great satisfaction, therefore, when we receive such words of commendation from our readers.

Mr. Andrew Walker of Seattle, Wash., in remitting the amount of his subscription says;

Dear Old Post, — I subscribed for your paper about the 15th of June, 1861, and have been reading your weekly ever since, always seeing something that I feel an interest in. However, after forty-seven years have passed away and many of my old friends have gone as well...... wishing you as much success in continuing to serve the public as you have all along done, I bid you an affectionate good-by."

Wife Ready

Little Dorothy could not have paid her father a higher compliment, or better expressed her love for him than when she said; "Papa, I would like to tell you something if you won't tell mama."

"Why don't you want mama to know it, daughter?"

"Well, you tell her things I say, and she laughs at them, and I don't want her to know this."

"Let papa hear what you have to say, anyhow."

"Well, I have often thought that if mama died I would like to marry you." — The August Delineator.

It is Now Prevalent Throughout the Country

Reports come from various parts of the province to the effect that scarlet fever is prevalent among horses.

Speaking to Dr. Broad regarding the matter a Post reporter was informed that the local doctors had had a few cases of something similar, but only an odd case once in a while. He said he would call the disease influenza or distemper. "This is our easy season," said the doctor. "When the farmers are busy we are slack of work." When asked if the heat brought on this distemper, Dr. Broad said it had a good deal to do with it. A farmer should take good care of his horses in the summer and not work them too hard. Some farmers work their horses to death and then do not feed them half enough. It was no wonder they had distemper.

Black Bear Shot Near Gull River

Nelson Windover Makes a Killing on the 3rd of July

A large black bear was shot by Nelson Windover near Gull Lake last Friday. Bruin was an unusually big fellow and if he had been fat would have weighed at least 400 pounds. Mr. Windover was somewhat surprised to see two black bears on the rocks near his home and securing his rifle he gave pursuit. The bears made off when they saw a man approaching and one of them escaped into the woods. Mr. Windover however, overtook the other one and brought it down with his rifle.

It is not often even in the north country that bears approach so near to the habitation of man.

Struck Senseless by Lightning

Mrs. Hepburn and Her Son Affected by the Fluid

Sunday afternoon while Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hepburn were sitting in front of their home during the progress of the thunderstorm, a ball of fire seemed to burst in the centre of the street. Immediately Mrs. Hepburn was knocked over senseless as was also her son, both having been struck by the electric bolt.

Fortunately they were not seriously injured and recovered consciousness in a few moments not much the worse for their experience, the sensation remaining being a feeling similar to the pricking of needles.

Strange to say, Mr. Hepburn, who was sitting beside his wife and boy was not affected in the slightest degree.

It was surely a very narrow escape.

—Some people look upon tea as a mere drink. It all depends upon the tea. "Salada" Tea is a delicious and refreshing beverage. Sold only in sealed lead packets.—55.

He was the Parents

Little Bertram had always longed for a live pet, but as he lived in an apartment building he had to be satisfied with toy animals.

Later his parents moved to the country and Bertram became the happy possessor of a kitten. He hugged it close and remarked, "At last, I am the parents of a living creature."—The August Delineator.

EMERGENCY DANGER

When a Harsh Catarrhal Cold Fastens on the Breathing Organs a Life is Threatened

There are times when a Hyomei outfit is worth a life and having it at hand will save a life, no saferprecaution can be suggested than calling at Jury & Gregory's drug store and getting a supply for use in following cases.

When a child shows the first sign of croup a breath of Hyomei through the inhaler will check the trouble permanently.

When through catching cold you seem to be choking up, difficulty to breathe, pain or soreness over the lungs and other symptoms of pneumonia, the instant relief from Hyomei air is marvellous.

It penetrates quickly to the inner recesses of the bronchial tubes and lungs where no liquid or moist medicine can reach.

When an asthmatic condition presents unusual wheezing and oppressed breathing, Hyomei will bring rest. Complete outfit $1.00.

—The ladies' golf team from Lindsay journeyed to Peterboro on Tuesday to play a friendly return game with the ladies of the electric city. The defeat was forgotten, however, when they all sat down to a sumptuous repast in their honor. They enjoyed their visit very much.

A mistake always seems so stupid —when someone else has made it.

Double Ballot Values

EXTENDED FOR ONE WEEK

THE POST has learned that some of the candidates for the Great Free Trip to Quebec did not learn of the Double Ballot Values offered during the past two weeks soon enough to get into the swing in good earnest, and it has therefore been decided to extend the Double Values for a further period of one week to enable all to get a fair chance to avail themselves of the opportunity. After that, ballots will positively resume their normal value with the exception of those for new subscriptions, an announcement concerning which will be made in a few days.

In the contest we have endeavored to be more than fair with the candidates if such a thing were possible, and it is hoped all will show their appreciation of this further great opportunity.

Remember the date for the closing of the Double Values will positively be August 5th.

The contest finally closes on August 15th. Then the fun will begin.

Hopeful Conditions Exist in the West

Mr. Boxall Found a Feeling of Confidence in His Tour of the West

Mr. and Mrs. James Boxall returned home last Tuesday from their trip to the west. While in the west Mr. Boxall visited many towns and cities and says the feeling of confidence in a good crop is general, and while business is at present dull there, the business men look for very much better conditions when the crop is harvested.

In speaking of the Sons of England, in whose interest he visited the west, he said the society was making wonderful strides, and had shown an increase of over 20 per cent. during the past year, and the enthusiasm among its members was very encouraging. The advancement and business prosperity of Winnipeg was such as to cause him much surprise, and all the towns he visited were going ahead by leaps and bounds.

Removing Dangerous Ridge of Rocks

Propellers of Vessels have been Injured ---Action Became Necessary

The government staff have commenced work just above the locks at Fenelon Falls to deepen the channel by blasting out a ridge of rock which has been giving a great deal of trouble to the deeper draught vessels plying on the canal. It has also damaged the propellors of the boats.

The channell will be made safer at several points where shallow spots have been giving trouble.

Nail in Foot at Carew's Mill

George Carew Suffers a Severe Injury while Unloading Machinery

Last Tuesday, while Mr. George Carew was employed in unloading the new machinery for Mr. John Carew's mill he had the misfortune to step on a large spike which was lying on the ground.

The nail went right through his boot and penetrated far into his foot. After a painful operation the nail was drawn out and the injured man was taken to Dr. McAlpine's to have his foot dressed. His wound will be a very sore one for a long while.

It is now Sir James Pliny Whitney. The Prince must be green at the job.

The Democrats of the United States are soliciting subscriptions to enable them to pay the expenses of their campaign, and some newspapers in the South are asking for dollar contributions to aid them. If the Democratic party had within its ranks a sufficient number of young ladies equally as proficient in securing dollar subscriptions for the party as The Post girls are in securing ballots and subscription votes, the financial problem would soon solve itself for the nominee. Hundreds and thousands are pouring in daily until one would think every reader had appointed himself or herself a committee to clip and collect coupons and subscriptions to turn over to the candidates. Watch how the standings will go ahead for the next two weeks, and then, to enjoy it, get in with your ballots and help some one of the fair candidates.

An Illuminated Boat Parade

Suggestion for the Committee in Charge of Sturgeon Point Regatta

We take the following paragraph from the Port Hope Guide, and offer it as a suggestion to the Sturgeon Point regatta committee; "Thursday evening next there will be an illuminated boat parade. The boats will leave at eight o'clock sharp and no doubt will look fine in their elaborate decorations. A number of boats from Cobourg will take part and the band will lead the parade. Only decorated boats will be allowed on the lake."

Hot Weather Drives 'Em Out

Old Sol's Labors Result in Increase to Tourist Traffic

The hot weather which the people of this district are enjoying just now is again bringing up the tourist trade on the Kawartha Lakes. To-day both the Esturion and the Kathleen took large crowds up the river to enjoy a day's outing. The captain of the Esturion also reports that trade is also picking up on the lower lakes.

Smiling

When the weather suits you not,
Try smiling.
When you're coffee isn't hot,
Try smiling.
When your neighbors don't do right,
Or your relatives all fight,
Sure its hard but then you might
Try smiling.

Doesn't change the things, of course
Just smiling.
But it cannot make them worse—
Just smiling.
And it seems to help your case,
Brightens up a gloomy place;
Then it sort of rests your face—
Just smiling.

SHE WAS GLAD

Many years ago, when boundary lines between different states were being arranged, the final settlement of a line carried a house that had always stood in one state, about a rod over into another. In the house lived a good, old woman. She used to live in South Carolina, but was thus suddenly made a resident of North Carolina When she heard of the change she said, "Now I am clean glad on't. It's a good thing I've got into another State, I always heard South Carolina was a desperate unhealthy place to live in."

They've All Gone a Huckleberrying

Ald. Dobson Chaperons a Happy Crowd to the Berry Bush

Ald. Dobson and Messrs. Thomas Baldwin, T. Hadder and W. Richardson left Thursday for the rocks of the northland to pick huckleberries. They were a were a jolly looking crowd as they left town in a wagon behind Mr. Dobson's prancing hackneys and they expected to get their share of the fruit.

Flooring Papa

Five year old Tommy was being put through a test in numbers, before the admiring family, one day at dinner. Finally, papa asked him the question that had proved the Waterloo of so many older children in past years.

"Now, Tommy," said papa, "how many are two apples and three pears?"

"Five fruits," he exclaimed.

Eddie stood out in front of his home, a large, handsome building, when another little boy came along, and after looking admiringly at the house a few minutes, asked. "How much rent do you pay for that house?" "Why," was the reply, "we don't pay any rent."

"Huh, I know better—they wouldn't let you live in that big fine house for nuthin!" was the confident rejoinder, of the small boy, never dreaming that a family could own a house.

The double ballot opportunity has been a splendid success, many thousands of votes having been received every day during its continuance, until the total votes recorded to date now amount to the aggregate to something like the stupendous figure of NINE HUNDRED THOUSAND.

This goes to show what an active interest the majority of the candidates are taking in this Great Free Trip Contest and how loyally heir friends are helping them out. In fact, it is safe to say that in a few days the figures will have passed the MILLION mark.

We are pretty near the home stretch now and a little more work and all will be over but the fun.

Let us have a great rally during the next two weeks and then the finest and most enjoyable trip that can possibly be arranged in this country of beautiful historic scenery.

Canned Goods will be Cheaper

War on Between Combine and Independent Canners

There is to be a merry war between the independent canners and the canning concerns that are affiliated with the big combination that controls the majority of the old established canneries. The prices of peas have been announced, which are about 27 1-2 per cent. lower than the rates of last year.

The independent canneries have fixed their prices at 65 cents, 75c, and 85 cents per dozen for their goods which they claim are the best on the market. To capture the trade the canners' combination, which represents invested capital of something over $2,080,000, have made three grades and the lowest one of these is fixed at the prices made by the independent canners.

Ordinarily the Ontario canners have two grades of canned peas. The superior goods sell for 80 cents, 90 cents and $1 per dozen cans, while the second grades are quoted at 75 cents, 85 cents and 95 cents. The third grade is said to be really the second to meet the cut prices of the independent men.

The canners of the big combination say goods this year will be sold at less than cost of production.

Some Population Figures

In 1866 the population of the United Kingdom was 30,000 000 and that of France 38,000 000. In 1886 the figures for France remained unchanged but those of the United Kingdom had grown to 36,000 000. In 1906 France had 39,000 000 people but the United Kingdom had 42,000-000. In considering the significance mind that the emigration from France is small, while from the United Kingdom it is large. Last year there were more deaths then births in France. difference was only 20000 but the astonishing thing is that there should have been any excess of deaths. The decline in the birth rate is steady. The number of births in 1901 was 857,274 and it has it has fallen off every year, last year the figures having been 773,069. This means that unless some remedy is found, the French race will die out, for as the people grow older the relative number of deaths will necessarily increase.

BABY'S GREAT DANGER DURING HOT WEATHER

More little lives are lost during the hot weather than at any other time of the year, diarrhoea, dysentry, cholera infantum and stomach troubles come without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid. During the hot weather months Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in every home where there are small children. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles. Or if the trouble comes unawares the prompt use of this medicine will bring the child through safely. Mrs. J. Renard, New Glasgow, Que., says; "One of my children had a severe attack of diarrhoea, which Baby's Own Tablets promptly cured. I know of no medicine so good for stomach and bowel troubles." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Our Cement Gang Lay Eight Hundred and Fifty Feet per Day

One of The Post's reporters on his daily rounds got into conversation with the foreman of the cement gang who are employed laying the walks in Lindsay. He learned the the men built about eight hundred and fifty feet of walk in a day on an average and have it marked and rolled at that.

There are six men working on the job under the direct'on of Mr. Thos Begg. They are Messrs. W. Conlan, J. Miles, G. Ingle E. Carr on the board, Mr. Fred Baldwin as finisher and Mr. R Reed as helper.

The men would like to meet with the same number of men who can beat this record, which as yet they have failed to do.

A Reminiscence of the Point

How Our Worthy Postmaster Saved Himself and His Wife

The accident which occurred Friday to Mr. and Mrs. Fisher recalls to mind one which happened three or four years ago, and which was not at the time reported.

Mr. Henry Gladman, our esteemed postmaster, who has always been a successful and enthusiastic fisherman, accompanied by Mrs. Gladman, were out trawling opposite their summer home and when fully a quarter of a mile from shore the canoe was upset in some unaccountable way and they were both precipitated into the water, and would have drowned had not Mr. Gladman's good sense came to his assistance. He directed Mrs. Gladman to hold on at one end of the canoe while he got astride of the other, and with a paddle in his hand succeeded in reaching the shore without assistance.

While considerably over the three score and several more Mr. Gladman can handle a boat as well as most of men half his age.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a tea-spoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Old Boys and Girls on Civic Holiday

Will Run an Excursion and have a Big Time

Civic holiday will be held this year on August 10th. As yet the local authorities have arranged no program, but it is likely that a good list will be gathered together before the day arrives. The Lindsay Old Boys and Girls will run an excursion to town on that day from Toronto, and will likely bring a brass band with them. They will also bring a baseball team with them and will arrange a game with one of the local teams.

They will have full control over the sports of the day, and will have the fair grounds for that purpose. The local management will soon have to get busy, and make preparations to extend to the visitors the heartiest welcome possible.

A New Industry Canning a Cow

A Great Opening for a Poor Animal's Foot—Can was Opened and Milk Obtained

A curious mishap befell Mr. J. Brokenshire's cow Thursday afternoon. While feeding in the pasture it happened to put its foot down on a tin can which was lying in the field and could not draw it out again. It tried several times to shake it off but it was stuck fast and there to stay. All day the poor animal limped around the field and with every step the tin became tighter. When the owner came at milking time, he noticed the tin on the cow's foot at once and set to work to get it off. After securing the animal he got a pair of shears and cut the tin large enough to get the cow's foot out. When the operation had been performed the cow walked away glad to be free from its load, after which it yielded up its milk in gratitude to its deliverer.

A Great Musical Aggregation

Lindsay's Second Band Scores a Distinguished Success

There were some citizens of the town who did not believe that Lindsay had two bands, but the fact was proved them on Friday when the Coldstream Guards Band played on the park in place of the regular band, which is in Quebec. About half-past seven the crowds began to gather at the park, but it was not until after eight o'clock that the notes of "How Dry I Am," intermingled with "Highland Laddie" floated over the balmy air and told the anxious crowd that the procession was coming.

At the corner of William and Kent-sts. the band halted and gave the crowd an old time selection, which was well received. They then marched in stately order to the park, where the performance was begun. The musicians were dressed in all kinds of attire and presented a picture like the reuben band did when they followed a wagon trail into town.

THE NEW FEATURE

IN THE

Great Free Trip Contest

From July 15th to July 29th, Inclusive

All Ballots Count Double Value

BUT ONLY FOR FOURTEEN DAYS

The Post is bound to make its trip to Quebec Contest one of the most memorable events in the history of newspapers in Lindsay. We are already assured of its success, but we must have it the greatest success or we will not be satisfied.

To-day we commence a new feature in our great Contest—the Double Value Vote Contest, which will mean we will allow double value for all subscriptions sent us until 9 p.m. on Wednesday night, 29th inst, when the value of votes will be reduced to their original value. Therefore, it will be to the interest of the contestants to get their votes n at once. This will add interest to the contest and cause more energy and enthusiasm to be put forth by the contestants, n wll no doubt produce many surprises. All will have an equal opportunity in this feature of the Contest, the principal advantage will be to those who get the greatest number of votes in before 9 o'clock on Wednesday evening, July 29th. Good hard work is what will accomplish the desired end, and that is a commodity which any one can produce. The reward is worth any amount of hard work, as this is going to be a memorable trip.

RULES OF THE CONTEST:

The four candidates who receive the highest number of votes in the Town of Lindsay, which is District No. 1, will be the winners in that district. In each of the other districts, which are described elsewhere, the two ladies receiving the highest number of votes will be the winners.

Following are the general rules which are to govern the contest. As soon as you have read them, do not lose any time in getting your nomination blank filled in properly, so as to be ready to obtain from your friends the first ballot, which appears in this issue.

AGE.—Any woman over eighteen years of age and under fifty on July 1st, 1908, may become a candidate by being properly nominated.

NOMINATING.—Each candidate must be nominated on the properly filled out nominating blank which is printed in The Daily and Weekly Post, or copies of nominating blanks may be obtained at this office. THE BALLOTS.—Ballots cast for persons not properly nominated will be destroyed. See that your candidate is properly nominated and listed before you cast your ballots for her.

Thus—a subscriber paying one year arrears and another in advance is entitled to a ballot for two years and so on, according to the table printed on this page.

Ballots will be dated and numbered with an expiration date, they will not be counted unless received at The Post before twelve o'clock p.m., on date of expiration. Ballots sent by mail must be sent to the Free Trip Editor, The Post, Lindsay, Ont, and postage must be prepaid.

WILSON & WILSON,
Lindsay, Ontario

Throughout the evening the trained band of players kept the crowd in fits of laughter and the concert was altogether too short to suit most of them. The clog dancing by Mr. Fred Roberts and Mr. Andy Walsh and the solos by the Pepper Twins, Mr. Seldon Meehan and Mr. Naylor were particularly noticeable, and kept the listeners' closest attention. Following is the programme rendered by the reub. band throughout the evening:

March ....S. I. B. A.
Selection..Mandolin and Guitar Club
Song ....Dutch selections
Pepper Twins
Selection ....Fife and Drum Band.
Euphonium Solo ....My Son Joshua
Mr. Meehan.
Selection ...Mandolin and Guitar Club
Clog dancing ....Roberts and Walsh
March ....Old Faithful
God Save the King

After the performance it was announced that the next performance would be at the east end of Kent-st. and the band marched there with measured step to the tune of "In the sweet by and bye" followed by a large crowd. When they arrived there the band entered Wonderland, leaving the crowd outside to enjoy the fresh air.

Perhaps not the least amusing feature of last night's fun was the fife and drum band which emerged from William-st. on Kent after the other band had passed along. There were two tin whistles and a snare drum and as the clear well-played notes of a twelfth of July tune floated on the air one naturally looked for a banner, but instead was a long-legged individual arrayed in an extremely diminutive pair of kilts and an extraordinary amount of shank. The other two musicians were dressed in extremely grotesque garb and the trio created a good deal of fun.

Thus ended the best band concert of the year.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY JULY 31

A REASONABLE VIEW

It may be doubted whether Sir Wilfred Laurier ever affirmed the belief that "the people of Canada are not influenced by parliamentary charges and investigations." If he thought that he must wonder why he had his hard fighting followers spend so much time on just such investigations between 1891 and 1896. What Sir Wilfrid would be quite justified in affirming is that the public being slow to move, do not take accusations made in a partisan spirit in Parliament at the estimation put upon them by those who make the charges, but make reasonable allowance for what is to be said in behalf of the persons accused. The mass of the people know how to be just. That is the great and proper reliance at once of the party attacked and the party on the defensive. If there comes up a case of wrong doing, so flagrant that there is no defence, the public can be trusted to visit the offenders with its anger. Where, on the other hand, sweeping accusations are met by specific proofs to the contrary the public cannot be stampeded into rendering a verdict essentially unjust. Whether therefore the people of Canada are affected by the making of charges in parliament depends altogether on whether the investigation of such charges shows the authorities of the time to be taking a proper interest in securing good government and in reforming abuses, or whether it has abandoned that function. Beyond, that it is very far from safe to assume that a party in power is losing ground merely because it is attacked. Hard fighting ought to be the rule in politics for only in hard fighting are the best men developed. Would it surprise Sir Wilfreds critics very much to learn that the Cabinet, just because it has come blithely through a session in which hard fighting was the established order for seven months, has a better standing before the electorate than it had in the years when everything was taken easily.

What has to be remembered about the session just ended is that, although worked up with the greatest ingenuity and pressed with the most persistent effort, the accusations made against the government all failed. For weeks at the beginning of the long session the Opposition were able to hold two members of Parliament under suspicion of having taken an unfair and improper advantage of the machinery of the Interior Department for their own profit. But they were only able to hold their advantage by refusing to call the witnesses who could say positively whether the opening of tenders was regular or irregular, and when they were called at last all the mystery vanished and the accusations came to be recognized for what they were, an attempt to damage the reputations of three or four men who have proved too strong for their opponents in the party warfare of the west. Next came the attack upon the Department of Marine, an attack which demonstrated, indeed, that there had been a good deal of looseness in the administration of that department, but which demonstrated even more conclusively that Mr. Brodeur, from the day he became the head of it, had addressed himself energetically to the work of setting it right. What the session showed was that the minister was a long way in advance of his critics, and was already prepared to adopt drastic measures towards certain of his subordinates before the Opposition had discovered what was wrong. Finally, there were the Hodgins charged was through they had been nection with the construction of the Transcontinental Railway. His charges, as he made them, were of a kind to excite distrust and suspicion, but before the investigation of his charge was through they had been specifically disproved, and so thoroughly that he voluntarily withdrew them. To assume that the electorate would take no cognizance of all these elements favorable to the administration would be to assume that the people are without the quality of discrimination or the sense of fair play. Sir Wilfrid, if he made any observation on the subject at all, doubtless had in mind that there is nothing to be feared from even a long course of such accusations, because the public can be trusted to recognize when they come to nothing. Otherwise, public service would be as impossible there as in the South African republics.

WHAT IT WILL COST

The cost of the National Transcontinental Railway and the burden that will fall upon the people in connection with it have been very much debated of late; and so much dust has been beaten up around the figures on which the one has been based, and the facts from which the other is to be deduced, that the public can have no very clear idea of what is the true state of things. The National Continental Railway proper is the 1,803 miles of rail which is being built from Moncton in New Brunswick, to Winnipeg in Manitoba. The remainder, from Winnipeg to Prince Rupert on the coast of British Columbia, is what is known as the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. It has a total length of 1,755 miles; and is being built by the company, to which the National Transcontinental is to be leased, on completion. The mountain section of the Grand Trunk Pacific is 839 miles, and it is estimated that this section alone will cost $61,520000. The cost of the 1,803 miles of Government road will be $114,393765. So that although it traverses a wilderness of rock, swamp lake and forest and is kept down to a grade of 0.4 per 100 feet against eastbound traffic and 0.6 against westbound traffic, with the sharpest curvature 6 degrees (955 feet radius), it will cost appreciably less per mile than the mountain section, which is being built under private auspices. And this of course is as it should be, because the mountain section is the more difficult to build. But the line from Moncton to Winnipeg is also very difficult to build, and when everything is taken into consideration, it is almost as costly. For, in starting out on the undertaking, the Government did so with the resolution to build a really first-class road, equal if not superior to anything there is on the North American Continent. The work is to be generally of a more permanent character than is usual at the outset of the career of a new road. There are to be no wooden bridges; they are to be of steel and concrete. First class construction is provided for everywhere and travel over the road will be easier and more comfortable than on any of the existing Canadian railways. And this of course has to be paid for. But, when the work is complete, every citizen will commend the courage the administration has shown in aiming at perfection, for not only will a new standard of comfort and speed have been set, but an example of the highest economy. The comparatively easier grades will enable the company to carry by each train double what can be carried on the rival transcontinental, and the saving in operation, with five trains each way each day will be $5,973 605 per annum. This saving will far outweigh the increased cost in building, and when to this is added the saving of expenditure in renewals and maintenance, it will be seen that the total saving each year will be sufficient to pay interest on many times the amount of the increased cost over that of an ordinary road with wooden structures, which could have been built for $60,000000. The lessening of the expense of operation and up-keep, which has been prepared for, will therefore, decrease the cost of carriage, and should render possible a considerable reduction in freight and passenger rates.

The Government will borrow most of the money needed for the construction in Europe; and the burden on the people will be the interest on $114,000000 for the first seven years after which the Grand Trunk Pacific will pay a rental equal to the public interest. This seven years interest will, it is estimated amount to $26,124676 and that represents the burden the people will have to bear; and as it will be spread over seven years, it will only be some $4000000 a year. At the end of those seven years, Canada will have 1803 miles of first-class railroad, and to cover its borrowings, it will have an equivalent asset that can be sold at any time for the price it cost to build it.

MAJOR HODGINS' MISTAKE

Major Hodgins, we now know, made a mistake. This mistake originated out of a misapprehension, which seemed to be so supported by contingent circumstances that it became deepened into conviction. But Major Hodgins would probably never have misapprehended had he not been laboring under feelings of wounded pride.

The prices of labor in the early summer of 1907 were high; and the contractors were bucking against the terms of their contracts. They complained, among other things, that the divisional engineers were not liberal enough in their classification; and some of the sub-contractors took their men off parts of the road. There were consequently many disputes; and, as Major Hodgins' district was 400 miles long, through the great stretch of country east of Winnipeg, it was difficult for him to go to the place of each dispute and settle it off-hand. He was, in fact, inclined not to go over the line as much as he might have done; and it was complained that he did everything from his office. The work was not progressing as well as it ought; and Major Hodgins was informed that an inspecting engineer would be appointed over him. The Major was piqued. Meanwhile there were disputes over classification outstanding and, as Major Hodgins was summoned to attend a meeting of the district engineers in Quebec, Commissioner Young told him to see, while he was in Quebec, how they classified excavations there, and to be guided thereby in his judgment of the disputes in his own district. Major Hodgins went to Quebec and visited the cutting known as La Tuque. And here is where the misapprehension arose. He thought he was told that what he saw was being classified as containing 80 per cent. rock; whereas, in his own opinion, there was not more than 40 per cent. This was in June, 1907, and the progress estimates show that, as a matter of fact, it was being classified at only 29 per cent. Major Hodgins went away with the impression, however, that it was being classified at 80 per cent., and, being an honest man, he was determined that such a classification should not be introduced in his own district.

Solid rock excavations was being paid, at $1.70, loose rock at 60 cents, and common excavation at 30 cents. So, it can easily be seen, that if Major Hodgins' impression had been correct, it would have involved quite $4,000,000 extra on his own section of the line; and it may be fairly computed, that on the total length from Winnipeg to Moncton there would be an increased outlay of $28,000,000, as the Major stated in his letter to the Victoria Colonist.

The circumstances which confirmed Major Hodgins in his misapprehension, was an interview with J. D. McArthur, in the Toronto World, on March 12. J. D. McArthur has a contract for 250 miles of grading east of Winnipeg. Major Hodgins had estimated this stretch of line to cost between $11,000,000 and $12,000,000; and Mr. McArthur said it would probably cost close on $16,000,000. Major Hodgins' estimate was not, however, complete; and it has since been found that it did not include the following items; Right of way, $175,000; ties, $672,798; switch ties, $27,787; tunnels, $189,750; drainage tunnels, $15,700; steel in concrete, $3,708; steel bridges, $166,000; rails, $1,336,608, angle bars $106,172, bolts $22,776 water stations, $103,500; extra work $76,500; frogs and switches, $40,500; track spikes, $58,820; one foot below grade allowance on rock cuttings for ballast under sleepers, $495,000; extra width for sidings, not estimated, $850,000; and overbreak, $1,857,080. Total, $6,192,699.

Mr. Poulin, the present district engineer, estimated the work figured upon by Major Hodgins, at within half a million of the latter's estimate; and the increase is accounted for by items, such as rails, sidings and overbreak, which were not taken into consideration in Major Hodgins' estimate.

It is not to be wondered at therefore, that Major Hodgins withdrew his charges.

So Admiral Rojestvensky is not dead after all. To live to maturity under the weight of such a name is evidence of considerable vitality. And then, when he fired upon a few fishing smacks did he not go through a storm of British ridicule and come out alive? Then again, did he not show how a man could surrender to the Japs without losing a limb or whitening a hair? Thank his ikon, he is likely to live many years yet.

The Peterboro Review, (Conservative) thinks, "The Globe's article on the Attorney General's department at Toronto is about right. Hon. Fire at Sturgeon Point Tuesday

Discovered by Men in Launch---House Saved, but Kitchen Destroyed

(Special to The Post.)

At 2.30 Tuesday the cottagers at Sturgeon Point were aroused from their usual quiet by the cry of fire raised by a number of young men passing in a gasoline launch, and the cry was taken up in good earnest by all in hearing and a rush was made for the scene of the fire, which was found to be in the kitchen of Mr. W. E. Goodwin's cottage on Third street. The alarm was the means of collecting a large crowd of men, women and children, who came armed with pails and dishes of all sorts and descriptions, and a line was formed to Needler's pump, and before many minutes the fire was under control, but not before it had almost completely destroyed the kitchen and the contents. The loss, however, will not exceed $100.

The village fire apparatus, manned by Constable Graham, was on the scene with ladders, barrels and buckets, and arrived amidst much excitement, but was too late to be of service, as the "all out" had been rung in.

The house was occupied by Mr. Alex. Ross, travellers for Messrs. Sparling & Co. Mr. Ross and Mr. Sparling had gone out fishing, leaving a fire on in the kitchen, and on their return they found the neighbors busy saving their property.

Drainage System in Ops Township

An Explanation of the Work being Undertaken by an Enterprising Council

A survey has been going on for some time, and the plans and profiles are now completed, for the most extensive drainage system ever undertaken in this part of the province of Ontario, and which the enterprising legislature of the township of Ops, find necessary for the drainage of the large area of low lying farm lands in the valley of Stoney Creek in that township. The flow of waters, from which, now that the country is all cleared coming with a rush in high flood against an obstructed outlet, back up and render unfit for cultivation, land from which, in olden times, good crops used to be harvested.

Some idea of the magnitude of the work involved may be gathered from the fact, that one cut at the outlet, of about 800 feet in length, has an average depth of nearly 8 feet and a bottom width of 12 feet and the total cost of the outlet cuttings run up to over $5,000.00.

The main trunk line begins where Stoney Creek crosses the 6th line of Ops about 6 miles south of Lindsay and runs northeasterly to Reaboro, and from there northeasterly to the 8th concession of Emily township, while a second trunk line branches off from the main line about a mile up from the outlet and running in a northerly direction it crosses the middle line of Ops near Cunningham's Corners and from thence northeasterly up to Salem school house.

Besides these lines there are many branches designed of covered 8 inch and 12 inch tile which it is found are much more satisfactory than open drains, as they are always in working order and require little or no repairs.

These all combine to make a total of 17 3-4 miles, giving a good drainage outlet to 3809 acres of land, 3246 get thorough drainage, and at a total cost of slightly over $30,000.

The work has been surveyed and designed by Messrs. Smith and Smith, engineers and land surveyors, of this town.

"Show Me" Proof

That is what Hyomei will do in all Forms of Catarrh and Troubles of the Breathing Organs

It is not a question of Hyomei having cured some one else but will it reach your own particular case. If it's cold in the head, catarrh, bronchitis, pneumonia, croup or any affection of the breathing organs Jury & Gregory say yes, and will refund the money if it fails. No other preparation for the same purpose can successfully do this, because the Hyomei system of treatment is different from anything else.

You simply breathe and inhale its medication in dry air form, which destroys the germ life that cause oppressed breathing, nasal catarrh, throat irritation and lung troubles. It brings to these suffering organs the balsam laden air they would get in the pine and eucalyptus forests. The air that stamps out bronchial troubles.

The prince of enetrtainers, Marshal P. Wilder says; Hyomei is easy to use, and swift to cure. It insures against coughs and colds. It gives you pure air and kills the germ of disease. It helps the voice.

Sturgeon Point Village Council

Further Fire Protection to be Provided and a Flag to be Secured

A meeting of the Sturgeon Point council was held on Tuesday in the rain shelter. There were present, Reeve Anderson, and Messrs Brown, Miller and Knowlson, and Clerk Hopkins.

Several communications were read.

A general discussion of matters of interest to Sturgeon Point took place and it was decided to provide further fire protection by purchasing two dozen fire pail, three of which to be placed at the intersection of each street in a conspicuous

At the request of Mr. D. Cinnamon a grant of $10 was made towards the stairs in front of his lot on condition that the stairs be open to the public.

The clerk was authorized to continue correspondence with the government authorities with a view to having them take over the wharves, and Mr. J. M. Knowlson was authorized to interview Mr. J. W. Flavelle and arrange a meeting of council to discuss the question of wharves and roads.

place, together with a barrel, which will be kept filled with water during the summer months; also two dozen fire extinguishers to be purchased for th esame purpose.

Another very wise innovation will be instituted, viz., the placing of a proper flag pole on the rain shelter, and the purchasing of a suitable flag.

The council also decided to clean up and put in shape 100 feet of the park at the spring and put up a number of seats and tables for the accommodation of visitors and picnickers. The council wish to encourage visitors to the Point and wish the public to feel that they are welcome, and propose to erect benches and conveniences for their accommodation at different parts of the Point.

Miss Calvert's Painful Injury

Caught Her Eye on a Nail and Narrowly Escaped Serious Consequences

Miss Annie Calvert, daughter of Mr. John Calvert, of Reaboro, who is putting in her holidays at Pleasant Point with some friends, met with a very painful and what might have been a serious accident Tuesday evening.

It seems a nail had been driven through a door, and as Miss Calvert was passing her face came in contact with it, the nail running into the corner of the eye, but fortunately escaping the ball by ever so little and inflicting a very painful wound. Fortunately, Dr. Vrooman was at Sturgeon Point and was able to give the wound the necessary attention, and it is hoped no very serious results will follow.

Old Boys and Girls Grand Reunion

An Excellent Programme is in Course of Arrangement for the Day

The arrangements for the re-union of Lindsay old boys and girls, which will be held here on the civic holiday, August 10th, are in a very forward state, and there is every indication of a splendid time and a large influx of former residents.

Among other events it may be said there will be two good horse races and a named or local race. There will also be two baseball matches, one of which will be between the I. C. B. U's of Toronto and a Lindsay team and the other between the old boys of Toronto and the old boys of Lindsay.

As there have already been four games between the I. C. B. U's and Lindsay, in which the former were successful, it may safely be said that this year's match will not be devoid of interest by any means.

Other arrangements are being made, and they will be announced as soon as completed.

Catarrh Now Curable

But never by Medicine swallowed, Snuffs, Sprays, or Douches

Catarrh is not a blood disease and that is why it cannot be cured by any medicine taken into the stomach. Catarrh is a germ trouble contracted from the germ-laden air you breathe inward. These germs fasten themselves in the tissue and air cells of the breathing organs, multiply by millions, cause sneezing, coughing, raising of mucous, discharge from the nose, difficulty in breathing, hoarseness, dryness and stoppage of the nose, tickling in the throat and other symptoms that can only be reached by the dry air principle of Hyomei.

It medicates the air you breathe with the curative properties of the Australian Eucalyptus Forests where catarrh is unknown.

The reason you get relief in a minute or two from Hyomei is because it destroys every catarrhal germ in the air you breathe, and its dry penetrating aroma will reach the innermost recesses of the air passages, killing million of germs a minute. Their destruction means freedom for oppressed respiratory organs. Jury & Gregory sells Hyomei under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. Price $1.00.—1.

Part of the day's pleasure is missed if you do not drink "Salada" Tea Iced. It satisfies the thirst. Everyone likes it.—63.

Story was Exaggerated

The paragraph appearing in another column, referring to a supposed case of carelessness on the part of a householder in the south ward in making a fire on his premises which endangered neighboring property, we learn was overdrawn. The facts of the case are there was no damage done, nor was there at any time property endangered. Our informants must have drawn on their imagination.

Accident at Sturgeon Point

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher Experience a Narrow Escape from Drowning

The early hour accident at Sturgeon Point which occurred to Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Fisher of this town, was kept rather quiet until Friday eve, when the facts leaked out. Shortly before six o'clock yesterday morning Mr. and Mrs. Fisher got into their canoe and went out to hook a fish for the breakfast and while out at a well known weed bed opposite Graham's landing they hooked a fine fish weighing probably ten pounds. Mrs. Fisher, who was holding the line, pulled the fish alongside the canoe and both seeing it was such a fine fish, each made an effort to secure it, but unfortunately both moved at the same time, the result being that both were thrown into the water. They at once secured hold of the canoe which was upside down and was kept high out of the water by the air inside. Mr. Fisher worked his way to the opposite side of the canoe which then kept them nicely above water. Their cries for help were heard by Mr. D. Cinnamon and his brother, who seeing their serious predicament hastened to their assistance and soon had them safely into their boat and landed, when they hastened home to change their clothes. Fortunately neither Mr. nor Mrs. Fisher lost their presence of mind during the accident, and, although several hundred feet from shore, would have held out for some considerable time before giving up, and both lit as an ordinary occurrence as they were out fishing in the afternoon none the worse for their morning experience. They both expressed their regret at losing so fine a fish.

2nd. Method showing how to release yourself from a person clutching you round the neck, and showing the second method of rescue.

3rd. Method showing how to release yourself from a person throwing both arms around yours with method of rescue when the subject has confidence.

This has been adopted by the Royal Life Saving Society of Great Britain, after many demonstrations made by Dr. Schaffer, L.L.D., of England, the discoverer of the method. This is the first time this system has been demonstrated in Canada, Mr. Sheffield having got this in advance from Mr. W. Henry, secretary of the Royal Life Saving Society and who was director of sports at Olympic games in London under Lord Desborough.

Council Passes $10,000 Bylaw

To Raise Money for the Ozone Filtration Plant

A meeting of the town council was held Monday afternoon in the council chamber to give the third reading to the $10,000 waterworks by-law. There were present Mayor Begg, Deputy Reeve Eyres, Ald. Dobson, Calvert, Rea, Jordan, Smale and McGeough, Chairman Flavelle of the water commissioners and Mr. Bridge.

Mr. Flavelle explained the agreement to the council, after which Mr. Bridge answered several questions that were asked. He said the process is a very old one. It has been used on a small scale in Europe for a number of years. The water of this town was very bad. He had seen worse down in the States, but then they are not so particular down there. This plant would cost twice as much next year to be installed.

Ald. Calvert said he thought that the town should give this system a trial. Moved by Deputy-Reeve Eyres and seconded by Ald. Jordan, that by-law No 1,150, authorizing the issuance of debentures to the extent of $10,000 to improve the waterworks system be read for the third time and sealed.

When the mayor called for a vote all the members of the council voted for the by-law.

The House of Refuge sewer question then came up.

It was moved by Ald. Rea, and seconded by Deputy Reeve Eyres, that the following committee be appointed to wait on the Ops Council in regard to paying part of the cost of changing the sewer, Mayor Begg, Deputy Reeve, Eyres, Ald. Rea, Jordan and Smale.

VISIT TO STE. ANNE

Prince and Earl Grey Make Call at Miracle Shrine.

HE CHATS WITH HABITANTS

Has Merry Time Meeting Crowd of Country People at Door of Church —Church Dignitaries Show Him the Relics—Searchlight Demonstration and Sham Torpedo Boat Fight—Levis Reception.

Quebec, July 28.—The visit of the prince to St. Anne's de Beaupre yesterday morning was perhaps the most picturesque incident of the trip, and one unique in the annals of the little miracle town.

The prince had not been expected, although the Duke of Norfolk and Lord Lovat had been out and signed the visitors' book last week. It was known during the morning that the prince would call on his way back from St. Joachim in his motor car, and the place was all decorated for the occasion.

At 3.15 a joyful peal from the Basilica announced the approach of the royal party, and at 3.30 all the bells in Beaupre broke out jubilantly as the prince dismounted at the entrance to the grounds of the shrine.

Here, in 1658, the first miracle was performed, and yesterday morning it was stated the latest wonder was added to the long record. A girl declared herself healed of an injury to one of her limbs, and the plaster cast was removed and hung on the wall of the Basilica, blood and matter still adhering to it, while she walked healed to her chair. So it is affirmed.

The prince, with Earl Grey, entered the Basilica guided by Mgr. Maturin, president of Laval University, and Fathers Lemieux and Caron, with other members of the community. By some oversight the lights were not turned on and the full magnificence of the church was not displayed, nor the beautiful effect of the aureole shown around the great statue of good St. Anne.

But the prince saw the shrine as other people see it, gorgeous as it is. He was conducted first to the wonder working statue, and then into the chancel, where the fine stained glass was pointed out.

The National Anthem was played on the organ on his entrance, and George F. Fortier, the organist, played a finale of Guilmant's as the prince passed into the chancel. Subsequently Madame Charles Beaudoin sang a hymn to St. Anne, to the tune of "Home, Sweet Home." The singularly sweet rendering of the familiar melody gained interest as Madame Beaudoin substituted for one of the lines the words "God bless our prince and throne."

The prince was conducted behind the high altar and into the sacristy, and the relics in the treasury shown him. These include the first statue of St. Anne, brought from France in 1661, a magnificent mass vestment worked in silk and gold, made and presented by Anne of Austria, mother of Louis XIV., in 1666, the several reliquaries of St. Anne, who is the patron saint of Canada, and many other precious memorials. These things having been seen, the prince signed the register, "George P.," with the date, and underneath the Governor-General wrote "Grey."

Emerging from the sacristy the prince found a merry crowd of the country people awaiting him, and he quite entered into the spirit of the scene, laughing and chatting and shaking hands with all and sundry. The motor car speedily moved off, followed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Lord Strathcona in another car. The remainder of the party were waiting at the main entrance and followed the royal car to Quebec.

In the evening the naval display in the harbor was one of the great spectacles of this spectacular celebration.

A signal from the flagship Exmouth caused the instantaneous illumination of the harbor by the combined searchlights of the fleet. These powerful and dazzling beams swept the whole scene and brought everything into prominence, from the tiniest rowboat on the river to the coping-stones of the Citadel.

A sham torpedo attack followed the searchlight demonstration, pinnacles representing torpedo boats.

A gorgeous display of fireworks concluded the spectacle.

The town of Levis gave a civic reception yesterday to Count Levis, Marquis Levis-Mirepoix and Marquis de Montcalm. Six years ago Count Levis had citizenship conferred on him.

Lieutenant-Governor Fraser, Nova Scotia, on behalf of the people of that province, presented the prince yesterday morning with a mink coat for the Princess of Wales. Premier Murray and Hon. W. S. Fielding assisted his honor. The coat is magnificently matched fur, with 24 karat gold buttons inlaid with Nova Scotia pearls and amethysts. It is valued at $8,000.

Ice Cream Kills Her.

Toronto, July 27.—It is expected that Dr. Sheard, medical health officer, will to-day commence a searching investigation into the methods employed by street ice cream vendors in preparing their wares.

As a result of ptomaine poisoning due to eating ice cream purchased from an itinerant dealer, Teresa, the 13-year-old daughter and only child of John and Rose Latchon, 7 Niagara street, died last evening.

On Tuesday last she had partaken of some of the congealed "delicacy," so greatly sought after by children, and purchased it on Portland street, and the same night she was seized with violent pains. All efforts to save her were in vain and she died last night.

Mill Hand Killed.

Buckingham, Que., July 27.—The dead body of James McGee, millwright in the James MacLaren Co. mill, Buckingham, was found near a belt where the man was working.

Peter Ball Dies.

London, July 27.—(C. A. P.)—Peter Ball, Canadian trade commissioner, died at Birmingham after an operation. He was born in Guelph in 1852.

President Fallieres Visits Czar of Russia at Reval.

RECEIVED WITH WARSHIPS

French Ruler Takes Leaf Out of King Edward's Book—Is Greeted With Naval Review Including Most of Russia's Fleet — Marseillaise Hymn Forbidden by Czar, Is Played as Compliment.

Reval, July 28.—The harbor of Reval was bathed in sunshine for the meeting between Emperor Nicholas of Russia and President Fallieres of France, which occurred yesterday afternoon.

The ceremony was similar to that of the interview King Edward and the Emperor had some time ago.

President Fallieres arrived here at 3 o'clock in the afternoon on the French battleship Verite, which was escorted by the armored cruiser Dupetet Thouars, and the gunboat Cassini, and found awaiting him the principal part of Russia's fighting fleet, including the battleships Slava and Tsarevitch, drawn up in two lines.

As the French ships swung into place, a series of salutes which covered the bay with a pall of smoke were fired, and the crews of both nations exchanged hearty and prolonged cheers. The strains of the Marseillaise, so long interdicted in Russia on account of its revolutionary connections, were heard on the quarter deck of the imperial yacht Standart and the Russian warships.

The Emperor immediately sent Admiral Dickoff, Minister of Marine, to bid President Fallieres welcome to Russia, and after a short interval, accompanied by his suite, the French President proceeded to the Standart. The Emperor later returned the President's visit on board the Verite, and spent an hour inspecting the modern French warship.

A dinner was served last night on the imperial yacht Standart.

Paris Campaigns For Decency.

Paris, July 28.—The trial of two music hall managers and seven women, recently arrested as a result of Senator Berenger's crusade against the exhibition of the nude on the Paris stage, was ended yesterday. One of the managers was sentenced to three months' imprisonment and fined $40, and two of the actresses were given fifteen days in prison and a fine of $10. The others were acquitted.

Changed His Will.

St. Thomas, July 28.—Theodore C. Dumont, a Belgian piano-tuner, was run into by a hayrake a few weeks ago while cycling, and succumbed Sunday to his injuries. Some time ago he made a will, ordering his body to be cremated or given to medical students in case of death. Last week, however, he repented and will be given a Christian burial from the Catholic Church.

Girl Drowns at Temagami.

Temagami, July 25.—A boating party of about twenty were returning here late in the evening on one of the small steamers when Miss Mary Barrett, adopted daughter of Daniel O'Connor of Temagami, was suddenly thrown back by a lurch of the boat and drowned before she could be rescued.

Provincial Prizes to be Offered

By the Agricultural Department in Standing Field Competition

A letter from the Superintendent of Agricultural societies has been received in which he says that the increased number of societies which are taking part in the standing field crop competitions this year and the excellent results that have already accrued have been so marked that the Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, has consented to extend the competition still further by arranging to have the five prize winners in each of the different agricultural societies competing enter into a provincial contest at the winter fairs at Guelph and Ottawa. Each exhibitor will be required to forward two bushels of the grain with which he taking prizes will be sold by auction crop competition this year. The amounts offered in prizes at each of the above named winter fairs will be; 1st, $35; 2nd. $30; 3rd $20; 4th, $10; 5th, $5. All societies west of Toronto will compete at Guelph and those east of Toronto at Ottawa. Each exhibitor will send his grain by express C. O. D. addressed to the Superintendent of the fair at Guelph or Ottawa, and the transportation charges will be paid by the Department of Agriculture.

The grain winning the prizes at these winter fairs will become the property of the department and will be used for experimental purposes. All grain exhibited other than that taking prizes will be sold be auction at 10 a.m. on the morning of the last day of the fair and the proceeds remitted by the department to the owners.

An affidavit must be furnished by each exhibitor at the time of making the entry certifying that all the grain exhibited by him was grown on the plot which was judged by the official sent by the federal department to judge the grain while standing in the field.

Owing to the fact that there were not a sufficient number of societies entered in other kinds of grain we are confining this competition at the winter fairs to oats.

PEACH DAINTIES

Some Delicious Recipes which will be Much Appreciated

To make a rich and delicious peach ice cream pare and stone enough peaches to make a pint of pulp when pressed through a sieve. Add to this pulp one cupful more sugar or more if the peaches need it, the juice of half a lemon, and one pint of rich cream. Freeze as any other ice-cream using three parts of cracked ice to one part of salt.

For peach sherbet, pare and stone enough peaches to make a cupful and a half of pulp; add the juice of three oranges and one lemon, and a syrup made by boiling one quart of water and one pint of sugar for twenty minutes. Let the syrup cool before adding the fruit juice. Freeze the same as the peach ice cream.

For peach shortcake prepare a good dough with three cupfuls of flour, half a cupful of lard or butter, three heaping teaspoonfuls of baking powder, half a teaspoonful of salt, a heaping teaspoonful of sugar and enough milk to make it soft and kneadable. Roll into a round and bake in a jelly cake tin. Have ready about two dozen ripe and mealow peaches pared sliced and mixed with sugar. When the shortcake is done split it and butter both sides while still hot. Lay one on the serving plate and cover with the peaches. Sift a little powdered sugar over the top layer of peaches and send to table at once with either plain or whipped cream.

King Edward and the Milk

In relating his impressions of King Edward, M. Noel Dorville, the black-and-white artist, tells how, while drawing the King's portrait at Buckingham Palace for the Entente Souvenir Album, His Majesty criticized this work with great discrimination, remarking; "We have rather artistic tastes in my family. The Queen, my mother, drew very well, and I myself wielded the pencil when a boy. Apropos, how do you fix your drawings, monsieur? I used to fix them simply with milk, and remember that during some of my first attempts I drank the milk instead of using it for the drawings."

Some Sweets Mother Used to Make

Those who are looking for new sweets might do worse than take a lesson from the dishes "mother used to make," and set forth as a novelty something that seems new because it is so old. I can vouch for the accuracy of the directions, says Christine Terhune Herrick, in the August Delineator.

Pound Cake—One pound of eggs, one pound each of flour, of butter of sugar; half teaspoonful of grated nutmeg, one tablespoonful of the best brandy. Wash the salt out of the butter, and cream it with sugar. Beat the yolks and whites of eggs separately and very light. Work the spice and brandy into the sugar and butter stir in the yolks of the eggs and when well mixed add the sifted flour alternately with the whites of the eggs. Beat them in lightly, but do not stir them after they have been added. Make the batter for pound cake as stiff as can be served. Bake in a steady oven in either brick or melon tins.

This is the genuine old fashioned pound cake and is very rich. A simpler cake may be had by only using three quarters of a pound of butter the other ingredients the same as in the recipe given.

Sweet potato pie—Parboil a pound of good sweet potatoes and when quite cold grate them. Cream half a cupful of butter with three quarters of a cupful of white sugar, stir in the beaten yolks of four eggs, a teaspoon full each of cinnamon and grated nutmeg and the juice and grated rind of lemon. Whip in the grated potato, a cupful of milk and two tablespoonfuls of brandy, and last the beaten whites of four eggs. Bake in open pastry shells or as a pudding in a deep baking dish without a crust. Eat cold.

Gooseberry tart—Pick over your goose berries "top and tail" them and put into a saucepan with enough water to prevent burning. Simmer until they break and sweeten to taste. If the gooseberries are green they will stand a great deal of sugar. Set them aside to cool, and when cool pour into pastry shells. Cover them with a thickness of puff-paste and bake well.

August Rod and Gun

In the distinctive fashion which has gained for "Rod and Gun and Motor Sports in Canada," published by W. J. Taylor, of Woodstock Ont. the character of the best interpreter of the feelings of sportsmen throughout the Dominion, the opening article of the August number deals with yachting. At a time when everybody's thoughts are upon cool waters, this fine account, finely illustrated of the Royal Cape Breton Yacht Squadron is most appropriate and will be read with sympathetic interest by many readers. The story of the first Rocky Mountain Goat bred in captivity is one appealing even to a wider circle than sportsmen and nature lovers of all kinds can be recommended to this article. "Cycling through British Columbia,' opens up a new field and the account of a young employee reaching a remote Hudson Bay Post on his wheel furnishes an interesting though not excitable account of an unusual trip. In the Glow of the Camp Fire recalls to mind pleasant evenings passed away from civilization, its cares and troubles and makes one wish for a repitition of the experience. Big Game Conditions in New Brunswick discussed by that veteran guide, Adam Moore Fishing in the Kootenay Lake, and River and an account of Prospective Work in British Columbia show how thoroughly the whole Dominion is covered and sportsmen made cognizant through the Magazine, of conditions prevailing in the different Provinces. There are other articles and stories in plenty, and any open season table should prove particularly useful to both resident and visiting sportsmen. Whatever opinions may be held about dogs in deer hunting the paper entitled A Few Words on Behalf of Our Vanishing Deer, by Mr. James Dickson, O. L. S. should be read by all. The views of such an experienced veteran, however one may differ from them, are worthy of careful consideration. The whole number is amongst the best of good issues.

Creations of Human Ingenuity

One of the many attractions at the Canadian National Exhibition, and the principal attraction in the industrial section, is the Process Building, a magnificent building in which are shown some thirty factories in operation. There are silk weaving, manufacturing braids, ribbons, neckties, cotton spinning, boot making glass cutting; weaving of scarves, nets and sashes in all colors; weaving of quilts; manufacturing of jewelry wheel making and bicycle making; gas producing, diamond cutting, wire weaving, wood carving, pattern making, dynamo construction, printing, binding and lithographing, and from a dozen to a score of other industries in full operation, the same as in the ordinary factories.

The local market was very well attended on Saturday both by buyers and sellers, and the produce was quickly taken up.

Following are the ruling prices—wild raspberries, 12c a lb; butter 22c a lb.; eggs, 10c a dozen; cream 15c a qt.; green peas, 15c a qt.; chickens, 55c a pair.

The Care of Blind Children

What Parents Should do in Caring for Their Unfortunate Offspring

The following instructions are issued by Principal Gardiner of the School for the Blind at Brantford, and will doubtless prove of interest to our readers.

How shall parents manage their blind children in their early years at home and how bring them up? If you have a blind child consider That God has given it to you to be tended with unusual love an deare. If you give it proper care, and it lives to grow up, it will be a capable and happy human being, who will fill its place in life and will bring comfort to you. But if, on the contrary, you neglect or spoil your child, it will then be a poor bit of humanity, a burden both to you and to itself. Hence, attend to the following rules;

1. Treat the blind child exactly as if it were a seeing child and try as early as possible to make it put its body and mind into action. As soon as it begins to use its hands give it toys to play with. Talk to it, sing to it, and give it toys that make a noise to attract its attention and rouse its mind.

2. Teach the child to walk at the age when seeing children learn.

SHOULD NOT BE UNOCCUPIED

3. Do not allow the child to sit long in one place alone and unoccupied, but encourage it to go about in the room, in the house, in the yard, and when older, even about the town. Teach it to know by touch all the objects around it.

4. As soon as possible teach the child to dress and undress, to wash itself, to comb its hair, to take care of its clothes, and, when at the table to use properly spoon, fork and knife. A blind child can do all these things as well as a seeing child, but you must give it practice in doing them, because it cannot learn by observation.

5. Watch carefully the child's personal appearance. It cannot see how others act, and so readily acquires habits which are disagreeable to its companions. Some of the most common mannerisms of blind children are rocking the body, twisting the head about, sticking the fingers into the eyes, distorting the face, swinging the arms, stooping and hanging the head in walking and bending over in sitting. As soon as you observe such practices in your child, you should make a vigorous attempt to break them up; for if they once become habitual, years of schooling may be unable to overcome them.

6. Permit the blind child to play as much as possible with seeing children and to romp often with them out of doors. Frequently take the child walking and direct it in some simple physical exercises. If it is obliged to sit still you should at least give it balls, pebbles, blocks, a harmonica, or such toys as appeal to touch and to hearing.

MUST CULTIVATE TOUCH

7. If you would inform your child of the world about it, you must let it touch all the objects that you can get at, and must teach it to appreciate space and distance by actual measurement; to cultivate its sense of touch let it handle familiar objects like different woods, plants and coins.

8. Allow the child to take part as early as possible in household duties. Allow it to string buttons or shell and pick over beans, peas and nuts; to clean furniture and kitchen utensils; to wash dishes; to grind the coffee; to peel the potatoes; to gather the fruit in the garden; to feed the hens, doves, dog, cat and other domestic animals. You can also occupy the child pretty well in easy handiwork, such as winding yarn, braiding the hair and in coarse knitting.

9. Speak with your child much and often; for since it cannot read the loving care which is written in your face, it has special need to hear your voice. Ask the child frequently what it hears or feels, and induce it to ask many questions as to what is going on around it.

10. Take care what you say before your child; for the blind is more attentive to all which it hears than the seeing child is, and for this reason it retains it better.

AVOID PITYING INFIRMITY

11. When in the presence of your child never indulge in expressions of pity for its blindness and allow no one else to do so. Such expressions can only discourage and depress the child. Rather seek to encourage it and to keep it engaged in happy activity, in order that it may strive cheerfully and courageously to be independent later in life and to do without external consolation and assistance.

12. Give the child occasion to exercise its memory. A good memory will later be found invaluable. Have it commit to memory such proverbs, poems, and short stories as it enjoys

12. The blind child's moral and religious nature can be developed just as soon as that of the seeing child.

14. As soon as the child is of school age (six years old) send it, if possible, to an institution for the blind. We make this possible, you must apply in good season, say six months in advance. The superintendent will then tell you what questions you will have to answer before your child can be admitted.

HINTS FOR SCHOOL TEACHER

15. If it cannot be admitted to the institution before it is seven, then send it with its seeing mates to a public school. In this case you should beg the teacher to write to the superintendent of an institution for the blind, or better, to visit such a place so that he may learn something of the way blind children are taught, and that he may get the necessary special appliances, such as books embossed for the blind and some instrument for writing.

The above advice is the result of the experience of many years. Would that every one reading it should take pains to spread the information among the people by word and deed, and would that the excellent editorial staffs of the various newspapers should take notice of it and publish it for the good of the country. If a single blind child can be saved from neglect, a terrible misfortune will be averted.

Timber Famine has been Here for Some Years, Dr. Fernow Thinks

"We have been talking for twenty-six years on this subject of a probable timber famine and some time ago I was asked where was that predicted timber famine. I said "You have been asleep; it is on us already, for when prices rise, continuously at a rapid rate there must be a famine." Not an absolute absence of material but an increase of prices makes a famine, and the prices have risen steadily you see.

"This more or less horizontal line" referring to a diagram exhibited at the meeting "indicates the prices before 1898, while this rapidly ascending curve represents the prices since that year, and from the character of the curve you can see that this rise in prices will go on, as may also be predicted from other data, I assure you. Every year you pay just eight per cent more for you wood than you did the year before. Have you no interest in that? I mean has the public in general no interest in the forestry question? It seems to me they have. Everybody must have an interest in it, because it touches his pocket

"There is another point that I wish to make, namely, that while before 1899 prices went up and down from year to year, but on the whole remained level, from the year 1899 prices of all grades of wood began an upward course. What is the reason? . . . The explanation is simple. In 1899 the data collected by the United States Census regarding supply and demand of forest products became known, which showed that in predicting this timber famine we were not so very far out of the way.

"Not supply and demand, but knowledge of supply and demand makes prices, and the trouble has been in the past the absence of knowledge as to our timber resources and this lack of knowledge still works against our work of reform. During the last few years the knowledge has increased and the result has been that prices have risen as it became known that the supply was less than was supposed."—Dr. B. E. Fernow, Dean of the Faculty of Forestry, University of Toronto, at annual meeting of Canadian Forestry Association.

Like a Potato

Sunday afternoon I overheard Mary and Bert discussing the morning's Sunday-school lesson.

Bert, who had all faith in his sister's superior knowledge eagerly inquired, "Mary, what does God look like?"

I was surprised at Mary's prompt and solemn reply,—"Bert God looks like a potato."

Upon asking the child where she had received such an impression, she replied, "Why, you said God has eyes on all sides and a potato is the only thing I know of that has eyes on all sides."—The August Delineator.

Gooseberry Fool

Stew a quart of ripe gooseberries in just enough water to cover them, and when soft rub them through a colander. Take the pulp that goes through and beat into it a tablespoonful of butter, a cupful of sugar and the yolks of four eggs, well beaten. Heap in a glass dish and put on top a meringue made by whipping the whites of the four eggs stiff with three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. — The August Delineator.

Peterboro Licked by One Nothing

A Fairly Clean Game that Arouses Much Excitement

The first game of lacrosse in the Trent Valley league to be played here took place Thursday at the agricultural grounds between Peterboro and Lindsay, resulting in a win for Lindsay by the score of one to nothing.

The game was fast and fairly clean throughout and afforded lots of excitement for the spectators. There was only a small crowd up to witness the game, and it is to be regretted that Lindsay citizens should have failed to support a good thing when they got it. Those who attended, however, went away well pleased with the exhibition of lacrosse put up. No doubt the crowds will increase as time goes on.

The game was called at 6.30 p. m. and both teams lined up ready to do or die. In the first quarter a couple of players were penalized for dirty work, but when the whistle blew to change ends nobody had scored.

The second quarter started off with a rush by the local boys and many times they came very nearly scoring, but they were unable to find the nets and so nobody scored. In this quarter some delay was caused by Dusty and Riley, two Lindsay men, being hurt. Dusty received a nasty gash in the head while checking a man, and had to have it stitched up, but held on gamely to the end.

In the third quarter the Peterborough team had a little the better of the game, but they couple not get past the Lindsay defence and failed to score.

When the teams lined up for the last quarter there was a look of determination in the faces of both teams and all the spectators knew that it would be a hard struggle. At the first Peterboro rushed matters a little, but Bas. Newton stopped everything in reach, and the ball at last journeyed to the other end of the field. The Lindsay team were now eager to score and were doing their best, but it looked as if the game would end in a tie, when Primeau sprung up and in a pretty pass from Riley shot on goal. The goal-tender fumbled the ball a while, and at last let it drop, which gave Primeau a chance to knock it in, which he did. The Lindsay crowd went wild, and as there was only three minutes to play, the game was practically won. This ended the scoring and victory rested with the Lindsay boys.

Following is the line-up;

Not Merely a Better Roof ---- but the ONE Roof that's Right

BEFORE you make up your mind that a cheap-for-price-sake roof is all that you can afford just now—

Get a good look into the roofing question as it concerns your pocket-book a year from now—or twenty-five years.

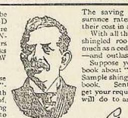
I know you can put on a roof that will cost a few dollars less than an "Oshawa"-shingled roof. Wood shingles cost about the same. Most of the tar-paper roofs cost less—if you want a roof that will melt away in a season or so.

Last year half-a-million dollars wouldn't cover the damage lightning did to Canadian barns. Not one cent of that loss would have occurred if the buildings struck—barns, mostly,—had been safeguarded by "Oshawa" Galvanized Steel Shingles.

And, besides making buildings lightning-proof and absolutely weather-proof, warmer in winter (because these shingles are wind-proof) and cooler in summer (because they keep out the sun's heat), they go a long way to make buildings fireproof.

"OSHAWA"
GALVANIZED STEEL
SHINGLES

A new roof for nothing if they leak by 1933



But this roof of mine will be a good roof for a HUNDRED years—and that's no mere trade talk. We GUARANTEE it for twenty-five years—which means that if it leaks in that time you get a NEW roof for NOTHING.

If there was nothing else that made an "Oshawa"-shingled roof better worth buying than any other roof, this one fact of their being LIGHTNING-proof ought to make you put them on your barn or residence.

The saving in reduced insurance rates alone will pay their cost in a very few years. With all this, an "Oshawa"-shingled roof costs only as much as a cedar-shingled roof, —and outlasts it ten to one.

Suppose you read the free book about "Roofing Right." Sample shingle goes with the book. Sent as soon as we get your request,—a postcard will do to ask on.

The Chief Whip and His Duties

Something About the Position Mr. Calvert Fills

Ottawa, July 25 — Amongst those not of the Ministry whose constant and consistent presence forces itself upon one's notice, as one regards the House of Commons from day to day and from month to month, may be mentioned the chief whip of the Government forces, Mr. W. S. Calvert, M. P. for West Middlesex, Ont., whose quiet demeanor and genial personality, this continued presence just behind his Leader is an assurance that all's well with the "ranks."

The nature of the position of the Chief Government Whip is scarcely at all understood outside of parliament. A vague idea exists that it is an honorary position in the party, the initial step to higher honors, frequently the immediate forerunner of advancement to Cabinet rank; a position with no emoluments attached and supposedly with little or no demand for the exercise of his tact or the restriction of his freedom.

This is quite an erroneous idea. The Chief Whip is primarily the aide-de-camp of the leader of the party himself, through which aide the leader communicates his instructions and decisions to those who support him.

Not only is the Chief Whip the medium of communication between the leader and the party, but he is also the bearer of communications and overtures between the great parties in the Commons themselves. When party feeling runs high and the tide of political battle threatens to go beyond bounds it then behooves the Chief Government Whip, together with his confrere of the Conservative party to negotiate as well as may be for the restoration of harmony. It is the duty of the whip to arrange the order and sequence of debate, for debates are not conducted in a hap-hazard manner.

As the Chief Whip it is his duty to call the party together in caucus when party politics are discussed and adopted. It is the whip's duty to keep the voting strength of the party up to the standard as far as possible. This alone entails and demands his constant presence in or about the House of Commons.

The leader expects this of the whip and, therefore the duties of the whip, though honorary, entail an extraordinary amount of personal sacrifice and devotion which, if equalled, is not excelled by any other member of the House.

Such is the preliminary life of the Chief Government Whip, and if his constituents find that during the long session of Parliament his visits to his constituency are not frequent, they will have some realization of the causes that detain him more than any other member of Parliament in the performance of a duty purely conscientious and unrewarded.

The foregoing comprise in part the official function s of Mr. Calvert. That they have been performed to the entire satisfaction of his Chief and with credit to himself there is no room for doubt, and finally his genial personality and tactful disposition have won for him the enviable esteem and respect of both our national parties.

Arrangements for the Model Schools

Text of a Circular Issued by Education Department

The following circular has been issued by the Department of Education;

From various causes it has turned out to be impracticable to organize the new system of Model schools during the present year. In particular, the number of teachers with the new Third Class (the old district) Certificate, needed for 1908 to 1909 cannot be definitely estimated at present. The Minister, has, accordingly decided to continue for 1908 the former Model schools at the following centres; For the districts, at Bracebridge, Kenora, Parry Sound, Port Arthur, Sault Ste Marie, and Minden and for the counties, at Cornwall, Durham, Lindsay Kingston, and Renfrew.

The teachers of the English-French schools of the Ottawa Valley will attend the English-French Model school in Ottawa.

For this year the above named Model schools will prepare teachers for school sections of the districts, and the counties whose financial and other conditions may prevent them from being able to secure teachers with First or Second class certificates or with Third class Certificates granted under the regulations of 1907 and preceding years.

The certificates issued by the retained Model schools will correspond to the present professional District certificates and will be valid only in such schools as the Minister may approve from time to time upon recommendation of the Public or Separate school Inspector.

As in 1907, the above named Model schools will open on the 2nd day of September, and close on the 15th day of December.

Application for admission to the Model schools shall be made on or before August 18th to the Deputy Minister of Education, who will assign the applicants to the different Model schools.

Candidates for admission will be required to submit with their application a certificate of having passed one of the following examinations;

(1) The District Certificate Examination of 1904 or any subsequent year, the Junior Teacher's examination or the Senior Teacher's examination.

(2) The examination for entrance into the Model schools.

(3) The July Examination for entrance into the Normal schools with the required certificate from an Approved school.

(4) The July examination for entrance into the Faculties of Education.

(5) The July examination for entrance into the Normal schools or Faculties of Education, or 40 per cent of the aggregate marks in either of these examinations with 25 per cent in each paper, provided that in all such cases the candidate satisfies the principal of the Model school that he is competent in the subjects of the Model school entrance which are not required of the said July Examinations.

The reorganized Normal schools take the place of the former Model schools. Candidates who under former conditions would have attended a Model school for Third class certificates with Junior Teachers' academic standing should accordingly attend a Normal school where they may qualify for Second class certificates.

The revised Syllabus of Studies and the Regulations of the Normal and Model schools may be obtained by the end of July on application to the Deputy Minister of Education.

Church Notes

ST. MARY'S.

Ven. Archdeacon Casey celebrated both masses Sunday, preaching a practical sermon at the latter service on the gospel of the day. Next Sunday the solemnity of the feast of St. Peter in Chains, the patron saint of the diocese, will be observed.

ST. ANDREW'S

Rev. James Wallace, M. A., B. D., occupied the pulpit in St. Andrew's church at both services on Sunday. In the morning he took his text from II Chronicles 30, 19. "The good Lord pardons everyone that prepareth his heart to seek the God of his fathers, though he be not cleansed according to the purification of the sanctuary."

Hezekiah had made much preparation for the home-coming of the people. He had long wished to unite the people of Israel once more, but he had found many difficulties which he had not considered. It is remarkable that he had accomplished so much. To be able to influence another a man must be enthused himself. There is no royal road to life. We find as time goes on that it is only by gradual process that anything is attained. Whatsoever a man sows that shall he also reap. No good dealt shall pass into nothing.

There were many of these people who came to Jerusalem who were not sanctified. Everybody should respect the established ordinances of the church or state. There is always a blessing left for those who neglect this however, but they must come humbly and make a confession. conduct is the whole of life. We have our work to do. If we accomplish this work there will be a great blessing for us. When we come as individuals and as congregations, come earnestly and seek the Lord, there will be a joy as great as that in the days of Hezekiah.

In the evening Mr. Wallace took his text from St. Mark 7, 36, "And he charged them that they should tell no man, but the more he charged them the more a great deal they published it."

Our Lord was on his way from the sea coast to the Lake of Galilee. Great numbers had heard of his coming and thronged the road to see him. The sick and afflicted came and he healed them. Among the number was a man who was deaf and dumb, and the Lord took pity on him and healed him.

We have a great lesson of sympathy to learn from this picture. We will have to let our light shine before others if we are to interest them. Christ did not perform this work to have his name published abroad. He did it out of sympathy. There are some who go and tell a secret because it is a secret. It is well that we should know of great deeds which have been performed in the past. We have before the country at present the deeds of the great men who planted the banner and cross in this country.

The Son of Man came into this world to seek and to save that which was lost, If we are Christians we must be missionary Christians. How much are we publishing abroad the good news of the Kingdom? By the life that we live men may see us and take knowledge of us that we have been with Christ and have learned of Him.

CAMBRIDGE-ST. METHODIST

In the sermon preached by Rev Mr Wilson Sunday, The text was Psalm 92, 12—"The righteous shall flourish like the palm tree and grow like a cedar in Lebanon." Mr. Wilson told how the palm grows up straight without any branches, the life being in the heart of the tree. Therefore fire could not destroy it. It grows in spots where little other vegetation can grow. Its roots reach down till they strike subterranean streams and there suck the water up. It is thus that real christians grow. But some Christians are like the Maple which has its life in the bark and outside wood. A fire will kill the Maple and thus some temptation or sterility kills the Christianity in some men. So Mr. Wilson urged us to be all like the palm, but to be loyal to God all over the world instead of just in our own country.

QUEEN-ST. METHODIST

The services at Queen-st. church were well attended last Sunday considering the very warm weather. The pastor, Rev. J. R. Real, occupied pulpit morning and evening. In the morning the text was taken from St. Matthew 18, 15-17. In the sermon the pastor emphasized in a very interesting manner the method introduced by Christ for settling unpleasant disputes, which might arise between professing Christians. The speakers assured his listeners that if this plan could always be adhered to there would be very little trouble in any church from this source. In the evening the subject of the sermon was Pilate's question to the Jews, "What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ." After referring to the cowardly conduct of Pilate in trying to get rid of the unpleasant responsibility, Mr. Real made a personal appeal to the members of the congregation. "What will you do with Jesus?" Different ways of dealing with Jesus were outlined, but all who listened to the earnest discourse must have felt that the only safe way in dealing with Christ is to yield oneself entirely to His control.

ST. PAUL'S.

The service at St. Paul's was conducted in the morning by Rev. A. C Collier, the rev. gentleman preaching from Matthew, 16, 13-16 on the character of Christ. Miss Mabel Weston sang very sweetly a solo entitled, "Face to Face" which was much appreciated by her audience Mr. Collier showed how Eliza and Jeremiah were vastly different characters yet Christ was taken for both by the people of that time, the reason being that he united the best of both characters in Himself. In the evening Rev. Mr. Creighton delivered an interesting sermon from Daniel 12, 13 Mr. Creighton pointed out the different degrees of the reward and punishment in the world to come, but while careful to show that salvation is by grace alone, he went on to say that we would be justly rewarded in Heaven according to our deservings.

For Those Who Cannot See

Principal Gardiner Calls Attention to a Good Institution

In making his annual appeal to the readers of Ontario newspapers for information which will enable him to locate the children and youths of both sexes who are eligible for admission as pupils of the School for the Blind at Brantford, Principal Gardiner asks The Post to call public attention to the need for some institution where the adult blind may be instructed and employed. General experience has demonstrated the inadvisability of combining a workshop for adults with a school for children under one management, yet the blind adults, who far outnumber the school age, should be no longer neglected in New York State, it has been ascertained by careful inquiry that out of 6,008 blind persons only 584, or 9.72 per cent. of the total number are under 21 years of age; 3,193, or 53.14 per cent. are over 60 years of age; while 1,375, or 22.88 per cent., are between the ages of twenty-one and fifty — in the prime of life and capable of being rendered in whole or in part self-supporting. It is probable that the percentages in Ontario are similar to those in New York. Many lose their sight by accident after passing school age, and many who have been blind from birth or childhood need help and direction in order to work profitably. In California, Connecticut, the District of Columbia, Illinois, Indiana Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin workshops or "homes" have been provided, and in Washington, Colorado and other states the matter has been taken up by Women's Clubs and other associations of philanthropic ladies, whose influence upon public opinion and the Legislatures will certainly effect the desired result.

The first necessity is to get an accurate knowledge of the facts, and to this end Mr. Gardiner will gladly receive information relating to blind residents of Ontario of all ages (names and post-office addresses.) Those under twenty-one years of age, not deficient in intellect, and free from disease and physical infirmity, who are blind, or whose sight is so defective that they are unable to read ordinary type and attend a school for the seeing without serious injury to the sight, should attend the school at Brantford, which is maintained by the Provincial government for their benefit. A letter or post card, addressed to the Principal, will receive immediate attention.

Midland League Has Fizzled Out

Port Hope Defaulted to Peterboro and Neither Cobourg nor Port Hope will Play Again

The Midland baseball league which started the season as a semi-professional baseball organization, has practically gone to the wall. Port Hope defaulted to Peterborough last Saturday, and it is understood that neither Cobourg or Port Hope will play any more this season. The Peterboroughs have won the championship and have one or two games yet with the Athletics of that city. The gate receipts have not been sufficient to pay the players' salaries. The Peterboroughs are made up entirely of Toronto players.

Building Burned Near Coboconk

Mr. Burtchael's Building Destroyed Through Carelessness

A large frame building on Mr. B. Burtchael's farm near Coboconk was burned some time this week through careless of berry pickers in making a fire close to one end of it and leaving it burning. Mr. Thos. Robson, of the Falls, was up there last week, and seeing the berry pickers' abandoned fire and the danger to the building, carried several pails of water and threw them on the fire, which he had quenched. It must have continued to smoulder, however, for upon visiting the spot again this week, he found the building in ashes. The building was put up by the late DeCew firm.

Longboat Loses Race Protested

The Indian Dropped Out After the Twentieth Mile had been Passed

(Special to The Post.)

London, July 24— The great race which expected to bring honor to to Canada and for which Longboat was so carefully groomed has been captured by an Italian.

Longboat led until half the distance had been traversed when he gradually fell away, two English runners taking the lead. Again Longboat made a spurt and for a short distance he once forged to the front only to be passed by his competitors. At the 20th mile the Indian dropped out, and with him went Canada's hope of capturing the event There were upwards of fifty starters.

The winners were;—1st, Dorondo Italy; 2nd, John P. Hayes Irish-American; 3rd, Hefferman, South Africa.

Immediately upon the announcement being made the Americans protested the race. It seems that Dorondo fell exhausted in the stadium at the finish, and the Americans claimed that he was carried along by his friends at the latter part of the race.

Birds were Anxious

Even the birds were anxious to hear from the Marathon race on Friday and one of them flew into The Post sanctum to ascertain if Longboat had won. On learning that he had not been successful it opened out its wings and flew sadly away.

Even the birds know where to get the latest and most reliable news.

Returned from Winnipeg Fair

Mr. Richard Sylvester has Got Back from Western Exhibition

Mr. Richard Sylvester, President of the Sylvester Manufacturing Co., returned on Thursday from a business trip to the west. While in Winnipeg Mr. Sylvester attended the Western Exhibition, which has just closed in that city and speaks very highly of its success, the which shows how rapidly and surely is the advancement of the west.

Mr. Sylvester's firm were exhibiting one of their automobile threshing outfits, and he was pleased to observe the eagerness the westerners displayed for the machine, which was surrounded during the exhibition with crowds of interested farmers all of whom say it is just what they have been looking for and will save them thousands of dollars in handling the crop.

In speaking of the western crop prospects Mr. Sylvester said the westerners are very confident of a good yield and the rain on Wednesday has been of incalculable value to the maturing crop.

The Filter Contract Is Approved

A meeting of the Water Commissioners was held on Friday in Secretary Ray's office. There were present Messrs. Flavelle, Begg, Sinclair and Brady, Superintendent Hammond and Attorney Stinson.

The meeting was called to go over the contract between the town and Mr. Bridge, and make any changes that were thought necessary.

Mr. Flavelle thought that it was extremely important that the filter should be large enough to contain 1000 gallons. The present filter only holds 860 gallons and the pump pumps one thousand gallons a minute.

Mr. Bridge says the filter down at the pump house is fairly alive with bacteria. He was looking at it yesterday and it was no wonder the water is bad. There are a lot of dead fish in it. Mr. Flavelle said he thought we should have our water filtered even for a fire.

A telegram was sent to the filter company at Philadelphia, to see what the extra cost would be for a filter that would contain one and a half million gallons instead of a million gallons. The contract was then read and approved.

Fishing is Fair at Sturgeon Point

Stewart Flavelle Hurts His Foot—Movements of the Movers

The fishing lately has been only fair, although a few good catches have been made. Mr. Charlie Reeves has succeeded in landing half a dozen 'lunge in the last couple of days, some going nearly ten pounds. Yesterday Arthur and Eric Stewart caught a beautiful ten pound fish and Bruce Hopkins and party came in with eleven bass and one 'lunge.

On Tuesday evening Stewart Flavelle had the misfortune to step on a rusty nail, which penetrated deeply and has caused a very sore foot.

A nail in a board at the landing place did the harm as he was stepping on shore from the launch.

Mr. Thos. Stewart and family left for Lake Simcoe this morning in their launch for a few days' holiday. The return trip will likely be made next Saturday.

A party of four young men arrived at the Point last night from Hastings in their launch, Midget. They will spend some time before returning home.

Mr. Fitzgerald first raised to 11 3-8c., and then to 11 1-2c., when his first offer was on third.

Mr. Gillespie offered 11 9-16c. and Mr. Gunn bid 11 5-8c. Mr. Gillespie bid 11 9-16c., and Mr. Fitzgerald raised it to 11 3-4c. There being no advance, Mr. Fitzgerald called the board and secured the following factories; Warminster, East Emily, Bessfort and Otonabee Union.

Mr. Gunn bid 11 3-4c. and secured Daisy D., Ormonde, Norwood Brickley Shamrock and Killarney.

Mr. Kerr offered 11 3-4c. for the balance of the board and the following sold; Lakefield, Pine Grove, Maple Leaf, Young's Point, Cavanville, Crown, Fleetwood Lang Fraserville, North Dummer and Oakdale.

On Mr. Kerr refusing to take South Burleigh, Stony Lake and Oakleaf on factory inspection, Mr. Cook protested as already detailed. The three factories mentioned did not sell.

Government Dock at Pleasant Point

A Petition has been Signed Requesting that One be Built

During the last few days a petition for a new government dock at Pleasant Point has been circulated among the farmers of this vicinity, and has been signed by all. Fifty names are required, but over sixty have already affixed their signatures before the time expires on Saturday.

Measurements were taken a few days ago for the wharf, which will be placed at the end of the main road running down to the shore. As the government dock-builders are now slack of work, it was considered that now would be the time to construct, if is one is to be built this year at all. While the present wharf is very useful, it is owned by private parties, and Pleasant Point should have one of its own.

Chicken Thieves are Rampant

Many Fowls have been Stolen in Lindsay Lately

A number of cases of chicken stealing have been reported of late by those who own heneries in this town. In most cases the thief is a wary individual, for he does not take the old hen, but picks out the nice spring chicken, which is fine and tender.

Some of our citizens have lost as many as twelve or thirteen, which means quite a sum when changed into cash. This sort of thing should be below anybody residing in this town and anyone found guilty of such an act should be punished heavily. A person who would go chicken stealing is too mean for favorable consideration.

Wine Jelly

Soak one box of gelatin in one cupful of cold water for an hour, and then add to it three cupfuls of sugar, the juice of two lemons and the grated peel of one and a good pinch of cinnamon. Let all stand together in a cool place for an hour. Turn over them a quart of boiling water, stir until the gelatin is entirely dissolved; add a pint of good sherry, strain through a flannel — do not squeeze it — and turn into a mold wet with cold water. If the gelatin does not dissolve, put it over the fire for a moment until the liquid comes to a boil. Do this, of course, before the wine goes in. — The August Delineator.

Returns from a Pleasant Journey

Mr. Matchett Returns from a Scene of Educational Revelry

Mr. T. C. Matchett returned home Wednesday from Quebec whither he went on behalf of the Canadian Pacific Railway company as escort to the Hamilton Highland regiment which was en route to the tercentenary celebration.

Mr. Matchett reports a quick safe trip and a pleasant journey. He informed a Post reporter this morning that the city of Quebec is fairly jammed with visitors and that the hotels were reaping a rich harvest every day, though rooms at private houses could be obtained at very reasonable rates. Everything in the city speaks of the medieaval period—decorations costumes, and entertainments and the whole was a sight well worth journeying that far to see.

Returned Home from Quebec

Contingent had Great Time at the Tercentenary Celebration

The 45th band and the Lindsay contingent arrived home from Quebec on Saturday afternoon, about half-past four. They left Lindsay for the ancient city at eleven o'clock on Friday, July 17th, arriving at their destination on Saturday morning. They immediately took up their residence at Savard camp, which was their headquarters during their stay. They report an excellent time and say it was one of the best outings of their lives. They generally had the afternoons to go sight-seeing, and saw nearly everything that was worth seeing.

The hardest day they had to go through was Friday, when the Prince of Wales inspected all the troops on the Plains of Abraham. They had to walk the most of the time and were pretty tired when the day was over. On Friday at six o'clock they boarded the train for home, arriving in town the following afternoon.

When all had debarked at the station, the company lined up, and headed by the band, marched with stately step to the tune of "Highland Laddie," up to the post office, where the volunteers dispersed, the band proceeding to their rooms.

Injured His Leg with a Sliver

Nestleton Man Severely Hurt while at Work at Penetanguishine

(Special to The Post.)

Mr. Honeyboyne of Nestleton, was unfortunate enough last Saturday to have his leg injured by a large sliver which penetrated his thigh, while at work at a saw mill at Penetanguishine.

His injury necessitated his return home, which he did this morning by C. P. R.

Beat His Wife Needed a Doctor

A West End Resident Got a well Deserved Pounding from His Son

Saturday evening a family brawl took place in the west end of the town which had a rather unpleasant termination for the chief participant.

A well-known citizen, who had been imbibing too freely during the day, on his arrival home started in to cruelly beat his wife. One of the sons loyally sprang to his mother's rescue, but the father, who was in such a frenzy, turned on him and placed him hors de combat. Another son took a hand in the affray and the result of the contest was that the father emerged in such a condition as to require the attention of a doctor. Were it not for the family, we should publish the names, but it is hoped this will not be necessary in the future.

Pigeon River is Navigable

Weeds and Other Accumulations have been Removed Up to Omemee

The staff of men employed by the Department of Railways and Canals in clearing Pigeon River from the village of Omemee to Pigeon Lake, is doing good work. The weeds and other accumulations which have virtually choked up the river are being removed in quick order and the channel is now practically clear enough to allow the largest craft sailing on local waters to steam up to Omemee.

The river will require little dredging, as this was attended to some years ago. The citizens of the village are extremely grateful to the Government for the good work being done at that point.

'Tis Better to Walk Than Limp

A Lad Rode on Train and Jumped—Now He Limps

On Saturday afternoon the office boy at the local G. T. R. freight sheds was sent over to the station with the bills for the 2.40 p. m. Haliburton train. As it was about time for her to pull out, he thought he would wait and have a ride back again, as the train runs right past the freight office. He jumped on the last car and the train went ahead. When she reached the freight sheds, however, she was going a pretty fast clip, but rather than go to the top of the hill he decided to make the leap. The lad made it all right, and that is about all he knows. When he picked himself up he was lying in the ditch pretty badly bruised. He managed to get up and went to work again, although he limped a good deal.

Greater Care Ought to be Exercised

Fence Burned in Back Yard—A Barn Almost Destroyed

In the back yard of a south ward resident last Monday a rather dangerous fire occurred, which, accompanied by a little wind might have proved disastrous to the surrounding buildings. As it was, a fence was destroyed.

A large pile of old brush, lying alongside the fence had been ignited and the person who started the fire evidently did not deem it necessary to take the precaution to remove the pile to a safer distance from the fence, and a nearby barn. He did not even think of keeping an eye on the blaze, and as a natural consequence the fence was ablaze within a short distance from the barn, when it was noticed by a neighbor, who immediately summoned help to extinguish the flames.

Lindsay's Growth of Business

Business is Double what it was a Few Years Ago

In conversation with Station Agent McCraw of the Grand Trunk Friday a Post reporter learned that the last two years had been the busiest in the history of the company at this town, despite the entrance of the C. P. R. three years ago.

The C. P. R. are getting their share too, he said, but it simply shows that Lindsay is booming. It is growing in every way. Business is over twice as brisk as two years ago and this certainly shows that the trade in Lindsay is going onward and upward.

Mr. Sam Henderson, who has been in the employ of the Grand Trunk railway for the last thirty-one years, has been granted a pension of $200 a year by that railway. Mr. Henderson was employed as lamp lighter and is held in high esteem by his fellow workmen. He passed his sixty-fifth birthday last Thursday.

Weak Women
To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.
The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well the issue now, she thought. Another opportunity would present itself. Ryder locked the letters up very carefully in the drawer on the lefthand side of his desk, muttering to himself rather than speaking to Shirley:

"How on earth did they get among my other papers?"

"From Judge Rosmore, were they, sir?" said Shirley coolly.

"How did you know it was Judge Rosmore?" demanded Ryder suspiciously. "I didn't know that his name had been mentioned."

"I saw his signature," she said simply. Then she added, "He's the father of the girl you don't like, isn't he?"

"Yes, he's the—"

A cloud passed over the financier's face. His eyes darkened, his jaws snapped, and he clinched his fist.

"How you must hate him!" said Shirley, who observed the change.

"Not at all," replied Ryder—"not at all. Have you absolute proof in that drawer?" she demanded.

"I repeat that even if I had I could not expose the men who have been my friends. It would cause oblique in politics as well as in society, you know."

He smiled again at her, as if he had conceived a very good humor that morning sharp as a razor.

"Oh, it's politics! That's what the papers said. And you believe him implicit. Well, you must have some grounds for your belief."

"Not necessarily."

"But you said that even if you had the proofs you could not produce them without compromising your friends, meaning that your friends are interested in having this man put off the bench".

He stopped and looked at her interrogatively. "Oh, I think you're having a joke at my expense," she went on, "just to see how far you can lead me.

A dreamy Judge Rosmore deserves all he gets. Well, I'm sorry for his daughter." She rose and walked to the other side of the room, as if to conceal her embarrassment.

Ryder watched her curiously.

"My dear young lady, how you rate this matter to heart!"

"Dreadfully, I confess," laughed Shirley and averting her face to conceal the fact that her eyes were filled with tears. "It's my artistic temperament, I suppose. It's always getting me into trouble. I can't resist sympathy for the sympathies, this story of hopeless love between a young girl and the son of the father of the girl bounded by corrupt politics and by unscrupulous financiers. It was too much for me. Ah, ah, I forgot where I was!"

She hastily resumed a chair, sick and faint from nervousness, her whole body trembling. At that moment there was a knock at the library door, and Jefferson Ryder appeared. Not seeing Shirley, Jefferson's face was seen to be advanced to greet his father.

"I'm so glad you came in time to see this," he said. "I just wanted to say—"

"Miss Green," said Ryder senior, addressing Shirley and ignoring whatever his son was saying. Jefferson stopped, as say, "this is my son Jefferson. Jeff, this is Miss Green."

Jefferson advanced in the direction indicated and stood as if rooted to the floor. He was so surprised that he was struck dumb. Finally, recovering himself, he exclaimed:

"Shirley!"

"Yes, Shirley Green, the author," explained Ryder senior, not noticing the note of familiar recognition in his exclamation.

Shirley advanced and, bobbing out her hand to Jefferson, said demurely:

"I am very pleased to meet you, Mr. Ryder." Then quickly in an undertone she added: "Be careful. Don't betray me."

Jefferson was so astounded that he did not see the extraordinary wink. He could do was to stand and stare first at her and then at his father.

"Why don't you shake hands with her?" said Ryder senior. "She won't bite you." Then he added: "This girl is going to do some literary work for me, so we will spend a good deal of her. It's too bad you're going away." He chuckled at his own pleasantry.

"Father," blurted out Jefferson, "I came to say that I've changed my mind. You did not want me to go, and I feel I ought to do something to please you."

"Good boy," said Ryder, pleased. "Now you're talking common sense. I'm turned Jeffery, and I am getting ready to make her departure: "Well, Miss Green, we must be going. We can be settled. You undertake the work at the price I named and finish it as soon as you can. Of course you will have to commit me a good deal as you go along, so I think it would be better for you to come and stay here while the work is progressing. Mrs. Ryder can give you a suit of rooms to yourself, where you will be undisturbed, and you will have the very material close at hand. What do you say?"

Shirley rose and stood for a moment. She looked first at Ryder and then at his son, and from them her glance went to the little photo on the left hand side of the desk. Then she said quietly:

"As you think best, Mr. Ryder. I am quite willing to do the work here."

Ryder senior consulted her on the top of the landing and watched her as she passed down the grand staircase, ushered by the gorgeously uniformed flunkies, to the front door and the street.

CHAPTER XIII.

SHIRLEY entered upon her new duties in the Ryder household two days later. She had returned to her rooms the evening of her meeting with the financier in a state bordering upon hysteria. Her day's events had been so extraordinary that it seemed to her they could not be real and that she must be in a dream. The car ride to Seventy-fourth street, the interview in the library, the discovery of her father's letters, the offer to write the biography and, what to her was still more important, the invitation to go and live in the Ryder home—all these incidents were so remarkable and unusual that it was only with difficulty that the girl convinced herself that they were not figments of a disordered brain.

But it was all true enough. The next morning's mail brought a letter from Mrs. Ryder, who wrote to the effect that Mr. Ryder would like the work to begin at once and adding that a suit of rooms would be ready for her the following afternoon. Shirley did not hesitate. Everything was to be gained by making the Ryder residence her headquarters, her father's very life depending upon the successful outcome of her present mission, and this unique opportunity practically insured success. She immediately wrote to Mamie, begging her to meet her at noon, saying that she was extending her visit beyond the time originally planned. The other letter was to Stoll. She told him all about the interview with Ryder, informed him of the discovery of the letters and after explaining the nature of the work offered to her said that her address for the next few weeks would be in care of John Wickett Ryder. All was going better than she had dared to hope. Everything seemed to favor their plan. Her first step, of course, while in the Ryder house would be to secure possession of her father's letters, and these she would dispatch at once to Mainsprings, so they could be laid before the senate without delay.

Her letter setting accounts with her landlady and packing up her few belongings, Shirley spent the time in transferring herself to the more luxurious quarters provided for her in the $10,000,000 mansion uptown.

At the Ryder house she was received, coldly at first, with every mark of consideration. The housekeeper conducted her to her rooms and left her when she arrived and escorted her to the suit of rooms, comprising a small sitting room and library, a bedroom simply but daintily furnished in pink and white, with a private bathroom which had been specially prepared for her convenience and comfort, and here presently she was joined by Mrs. Ryder.

"Dear me," exclaimed the financier's wife, staring curiously at Shirley, "what a young girl you are to have made such a stir with a book! How did you do it? I'm sure I couldn't, for my life, and I can do so write a letter, and half the time that's not legible."

"Oh, it wasn't so hard!" laughed Shirley. "It was the subject that appealed rather forcibly to a special kind of mine. The trusts and their misdeeds are the favorite topics of the hour. The whole country is talking about them, so the book came at the right time, that's all."

Although "The American Octopus" was a direct attack on her own husband, Mrs. Ryder secretly admired this young woman who had dared to speak a few home truths. It was a courage which, alas, she had always lacked herself. There was a certain satisfaction in knowing there were women in the world who not entirely cowed by the tyrant man.

"I have always wanted a daughter," she said to Mr. Ryder, because confidential, while Shirley removed her gloves and hat on herself at home. "Girls of your age are so companionable." Then abruptly she asked, "Do your parents live in New York?"

Shirley's face freshed, and she stooped over her trunk to hide her embarrassment.

"—not at present," she answered evasively. "My mother and father are in the country."

She was afraid that more questions of a personal nature would follow, but

"What a young girl you are to have made such a stir!"

apparently Mrs. Ryder was not in an inquisitive mood, for she asked nothing further about her family.

"I have a son, but I don't see much of him. He's not much meet my Jefferson. He is such a nice boy."

Shirley tried to look unconcerned as she replied:

"I met him yesterday. Mr. Ryder introduced him to me."

"Poor lad! He has his troubles, too," said Mrs. Ryder. "He's in love with a girl, but his father wants him to marry some one else. They're quarreling about it all the time."

"Parents shouldn't interfere in matters of the heart," said Shirley decisively. "What is more serious than the choosing of a life companion, and who are better entitled to make a free selection than they who are going to spend the rest of their days together? Of course it is a father's duty to give his son the benefit of his riper experience, but to insist on a marriage based only on business interests is little less than a crime. There are sacrifices, illions more important if the union is to be a happy or a lasting one. The chief thing is that the man should feel real affection for the woman he marries. Two people who are to live together as man and wife must be compatible in tastes and temper. You cannot mix oil and water. It is these selfish marriages which keep our divorce courts busy. Money alone won't buy happiness in marriage."

"No," sighed Mrs. Ryder. "No one knows that better than I."

The financier's wife was already most favorably impressed with her guest, and she chatted on as if she had known Shirley for years. It was rarely that she had an opportunity to whom she express such common sense views, and she was glad to have the girl see this surprised she was that she was the author of a much discussed book. Finally, thinking that Shirley might prefer to be alone, she rose to go, but, after hard persuasion, consented to lunch and to ring for anything she might wish. A maid had been assigned to look exclusively after her wants, and she could have her meals in her room if she preferred or have them with the family, as she liked. But Shirley, not caring to encounter the Ryder family, preferred to have her meals in her room.

Left to herself, Shirley settled down to the work of her mission. Mr. Ryder had sent to her room all the material for her biography, and she was soon completely absorbed in the task of sorting and classifying the data she had culled from records, compiling data, etc., trying the foundations for the important work she was to write. She knew what they would call it, and she smiled at the thought of the sensation the book would create in her mind—"The History of Ryder Mansion, Fifth Avenue, and the hardly infringe on Victor Hugo. Perhaps the best title was the simple—"The Ryder Mansion, Limited, Trading Company." Every one would understand that title, and, as Mr. John Burkett Ryder's remarkable career would be fully elucidated in the present time. She worked feverishly all that evening getting the material in order, and, at ten o'clock, she refreshed her early at her desk. No one disturbed her, and she was engrossed on until noon, Mrs. Ryder only once putting her head in the door to wish her a pleasant night.

After luncheon Shirley decided that the weather was too inclement to remain indoors. Her health must not be jeopardized, and she went to the conservatory of the Colosseum, so she put on her hat and left the house to go for a walk. The rain had ceased, but the latter being confined so long indoors, and she was entirely ignorant of the most and step than she had since her return home. Turning down Fifth avenue, she entered Stoll's on the Twenty-third street, following the pathway until she came to the young man's driveway opposite the Casino. The park was almost deserted at that hour, and there was a delicious freshness in the air and a sweet scent of new mown hay from the freshly cut grass. The place was empty bench, well shaded by an overspreading tree, and sat down, grate the fragrant air. Without you my work, my life, means nothing."

Shirley shook her head and averted her eyes.

"Don't let us speak of that, Jeff," she pleaded earnestly. "I feel that I ought not belong to myself while my father was in peril."

"That I must speak of it," he interrupted. "Shirley, you do yourself an injustice in your anxiety. I am not indifferent to me—I feel that. Then why raise this barrier between us?"

A soft light stole into the girl's eyes. Ah, it was good to feel there was some one to whom she was everything in the world!

"Don't ask me to betray my trust, Jeff," she faltered. "You know I am not indifferent to you—far from it. But I—"

He came closer until his face nearly touched hers.

"I love you—I want you," he murmured fervently. "Give me the right to claim you before all the world as my future wife!"

Every note of his rich, manly voice, vibrating with impetuous passion, sounded in Shirley's ear like a spell charm. She closed her eyes. A strange feeling of languor was stealing over her; a mysterious thrill passed through her whole body. The eternal, inevitable sex instinct was dominant. For the first time a woman whose life had been singularly free from such influence, neither her mind nor her emotions and resolves her cooler judgment had made. The sensuous charm of the place—the distant splash of the water.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heartburn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, "blues," dizzy spells, variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, a rapid liver with indigestion and constipation. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most valuable medicinal principle known to medical science for correcting these distressing conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener. The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum. A full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at its formula will show that it contains no alcohol, or habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of the following native American forest plants, viz., Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black root, Queen's root, Blue root, Bloodroot, and Mandrake root.

The Boy Who Didn't Pass

A sad faced little fellow, sits alone in deep disgrace;
There's a lump arising in his throat,
and tears stream down his face;
He wandered from his playmates, for he doesn't want to hear
Their shouts of merry laughter since the world has lost its cheer;
He has sipped the cup of sorrow, he has drained the bitter glass,
And his heart is fairly breaking; he's
the boy who didn't pass.

Grand Trunk Flyer Leaves at 7.55

Many Belated Passengers Miss it Under Misapprehension

The number of people who have missed the G. T. R. flyer which leaves Lindsay at 7.55 in place of 8.05 as formerly, is remarkable, as almost every morning recently has some belated passenger has put in an appearance after the train has gone hence. Five minutes to eight o'clock she goes rain or shine and don't make any mistake or you will be left.

"Bang it Again"

The family were gathered in the library admiring a splendid thunderstorm, when the mother bethought herself of Dorothy, alone in the nursery. Fearing lest her little daughter should be awakened (and feel afraid, she slipped away to reassure her. Pausing at the door, however, in a vivid flash of lightning which illuminated the whole room, she saw her youngest olive branch sitting straight up in bed.

Her big, brown eyes were glowing with excitement, and she clapped her chubby hands, while in a shrill voice she shouted encouragingly, "Bang it again, God! Bang it again!"

He was Poor Once

The little hero of the following incident did not belong to me. In fact, from his appearance, I think he belonged to no one in particular. I am equally sure of the fact that his loneliness had no terrors for him. He was a ragged little urchin selling papers on a busy downtown corner. A stylishly gowned woman among the hurrying throng dropped her pocketbook. Quick as a flash the boy seized it and hurried after her. Touching his cap, he handed her the heavy purse.

She thanked him very graciously and handed him a nickel. In a tone equally gracious he responded; "Aw keep your nickel; I was poor once myself."

What Makes Grandma Cross

My mamma's gone away to-day,
And grandma's cross;
My mamma told me to be good.
I've tried to help just all I could,
And haven't done a thing that should Make grandma cross.

I cleared away the breakfast things
Quick as a fly.
Thr gravy spilled a littlemite,
Although I hugged the patter tight,
But if I was an awful sight,
I didn't cry.

I went up stairs to make the beds
And dust around.
I filled the bath tub to the brim,
So Jacky Tar could learn to swim—
And then I jumped in after him
Before he drowned.

I really thought the parlor should
Be dusted too;
An angel fell down on his face,
And hit a Royal Worcester vase,
I put the pieces back in place
With Stickum's glue.

I've been as good as good can be—
But grandma's cross.
I've swept, I've ironed all my clothes
I've washed the windows with the hose.
What in the world do you suppose
Makes grandma cross?

The statement of the Dominion Bank for the six months ending June 30 shows, after the customary deductions, earnings for this period of $523,384. This indicates that in spite of business relaxation the profits of the bank have been more than maintained. The statement shows an increase in the reserve fund to $4,972,333, while the paid-up capital is now $3,975,757. During the year the bank received $139,870 premium on new stock and the balance of profit and loss now carried forward is $323,800. A striking feature of the statement is the liquid condition of the assets. The bank holds practically a cash reserve of $10,000,000, of which over $5,000,000 is in specie and Government notes. Assets immediately available equal $16,000,000. The increase in deposits, which has been such a favorable feature of recent bank statements, is especially prominent in the six months' exhibit of the Dominion Bank, which reflects an increase of $70,000 since the beginning of the year. Deposits not bearing interest now amount to $4,303,945, while savings deposits are $30,606,000.

COMMUNICATIONS

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our correspondents.

(To the Editor of The Post)

Dear Sir,—Allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words in regard to ozone filtration and other methods that have been talked of for the last twenty years. Would it not be better to advocate the cutting down the dam at Lindsay and redeem fifty thousand acres of land now flooded in Cartwright, Mauvers, Ops and Mariposa, and other townships near Port Perry? This land at the lowest value, say four dollars per acre would bring two hundred thousand dollars. Pay Mr. Flavelle a fair value for his mill site, and dredge the river from Lindsay to Port Perry and make it more navigable for small boats than it is at present. As I have a fair knowledge of those waters being over them at different seasons at low water, I know there is a lot of fine land, the former timber being very large oak and elm.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your space, I remain, yours truly,

JOHN DUKE.

Eat What You Want

But Find the way to Digest What You Do Eat

The first thing to do in case of indigestion or stomach weakness is to strengthen the muscular walls of the stomach and intestines so that they will care for the food that is eaten. In no other way can this be done as well as by taking a Mi-o-na tablet before each meal. This restores strength to the stomach, muscles, and stimulates the pouring out of gastric juices, then the food digests readily and you begin to get the full benefit from what you eat.

Use Mi-o-na whenever you have sick headache, heartburn bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue spots before the eyes, sleeplessness and the many other symptoms that are the direct result of indigestion.

Jury & Gregory gives with every 50 cent box of Mi-o-na a guarantee to refund the money unless the remedy cures.
